Legislation.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The house was again promised this morning that the anti-pass bill would be before it on an early date. It will come out of the railroad committee in some form Wednesday morning, when the house may do its will with the measure. It was to have been out this morning, but owing to a confusion as to the time for the committee meeting Saturday afternoon, part of the members appeared at one hour and part at another, so there was no quorum at either time. The subcommittee having the bill in charge will meet this afternoon and the railroad committee will meet tomorrow afternoon. The senate bill, which is before the committee, is effective at once, and

POISONED BY WALL PAPER

Third Wife of Farmer
Killed From the Same Cause.

Chicago, April 8.—A dispatch to the Tribune from Evansville, Ind., says: Mrs. Zachariah Watson, the third wife of a farmer in Posey county, Ind., died a few days ago and yesterday it was discovered that her death was due to the wall paper on the walls and ceiling of the parlor that she cleaned two days before taken ill. Physicians believed she had been poisoned, but were unable to ascertain the cause, until the wall paper was examined and found to be impregnated with cyanide of potassium. Watson's first two wives died in the same way, their deaths occurring one and two years ago.

KISSING GIRL IN TROUBLE.

Miss Trumbull's Mania Lands Her in a Reform School.

Des Moines, April 8.—Miss Hilda Trumbull, aged 17, has been sent to the reform school at Mitchellville because she insists on kissing young men. She was arrested because she walked up to a young man who was waiting for a streetcar and snatched him on the mouth. He was dumbfounded and a policeman placed her under arrest. In juvenile court it developed that Miss Trumbull has a mania for osculatory excesses with young men whom she never saw before. Just before she left the streetcar at the girls' industrial school she snatched a kiss on one young man who was standing in the vestibule.

THE FATE OF MRS. MYERS

Must Now be Decided by Governor Folk of Missouri.

Supreme Court Appeal Dropped From Lack of Funds.

Kansas City, Mo., April 8.—The final action in the cases of Mrs. Aggie Myers and Frank Hottman, under sentence of death for the unusually cold-blooded murder here on May 11, 1904, of the woman's husband, Clarence Myers, a pressman, will be taken today by Governor Folk at Jefferson City.

The brutality of the murder, the calm demeanor of Mrs. Myers from the time of her arrest, nearly three years ago, and the strenuous efforts, through petitions and appeals, to save the woman from the gallows, has made the case one of the most noted in Missouri criminal history. Hottman was caught in Walla Walla, Wash. He confessed. He made no defense in his trial for murder, and was convicted, Jan. 14, 1905.

A Strong Factor for Re-

New York, April 8.—The chief executive officers of a dozen important iron and steel working corporations not affiliated with the United States Steel corporation say that the decision of that corporation to build a $6,000,000 plant of blast furnaces and steel mills at Duluth is much more important in the effect that it will have in building up vast industries on the shores of Lake Superior than is admitted by the projectors.

The undertaking means that a number of the Eastern plants of the corporation will be merely kept up to the highest standard of efficiency without expenditures for new furnaces and

FALLING WALLS CRUSH FIREMEN

One Killed and Several Badly Hurt in $1,500,000 Fire in New York.

New York, April 8.—Fire early today destroyed the combined car barn and power plant of the New York City Railway company One Hundred and Forty-seventh street and Seventh avenue. The loss will reach $1,500,000. More than 300 cars were burned, and the plant, except for the electrical department, was destroyed.

One fireman, Capt. J. Ryan, was killed under a falling wall, and half a dozen firemen and others were more or less seriously injured. The injured are: Frederick J. Leopold, assistant engine foreman; William Symes, fireman; Anthony Moran, car inspector; Thomas Francis, spectator; James Cannon, laborer; Mrs. Mary Lawson, overcome by smoke. None of the injured are in a dangerous condition.

The fire started in the big repair room where a large number of cars were stored, and spread through the whole building with great rapidity. Capt. Ryan's engine with his crew and the crews of two other engines were working in an alley outside the building when an explosion in the paint room on the fourth floor ripped off the west wall, sending tons of brick down on the firemen, carrying down the fire escapes on the rear of a row of flat houses and burying half a dozen firemen in the ruins.

A hundred men with picks and shovels at once set to work to dig their comrades out of the ruin while scores of others turned their attention to the flat houses to which the fire had spread. Capt. Ryan was the first man taken from the heap of debris by the rescuers. He was horribly crushed, but still alive when taken out and laid on the ground in the driving rain. There a priest knelt by his side and administered the last sacraments of the church a moment before Ryan died. One by one the other firemen were dug out and hurried away to hospitals. In the meantime the fire in the car barn had practically burned itself out and the flat houses in the rear had been damaged to the extent of $25,000. Three hundred open or summer cars, valued at $5,000 each, which had been stored in the barn, were destroyed.

BIG BATTLESHIP GOES ON ROCKS

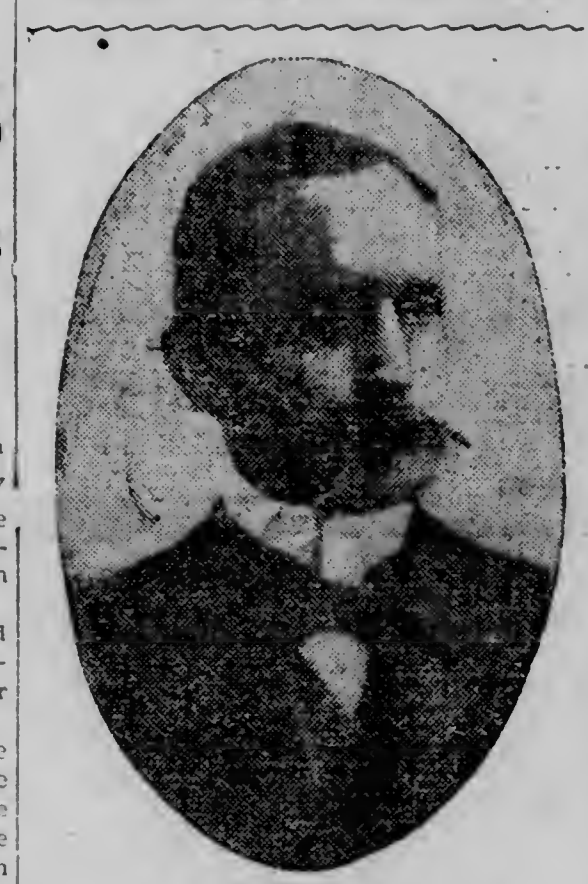

The Trafalgar Strikes
Bottom But is Later Pulled Off.

Devonport, Enn., April 8.—The British battleship Trafalgar, went ashore today on the rocks off Devil's Point behind the naval victualling yard at East Stonehouse, while proceeding to Plymouth Sound from Devonport.

As the tide fell the Trafalgar remained fast on the rocks in an extremely dangerous position. It was believed that her stern had been badly damaged.

Six tugs succeeded in refloating the Trafalgar an hour after she went on the rocks. The warship was taken into the harbor, where she will be docked. There was a considerable quantity of water in her forward compartment.

The Trafalgar is a second-class battleship of about 12,000 tons, completed in 1890 and carrying four 13.5-inch guns, six 6-inch guns, eight 6-pounders and a number of smaller rapid fire guns. Her crew consists of 572 officers and men.

GROSS FRAUD IN INSURANCE VOTE

at Recent Election.

New York, April 8.—The International Policyholders committee issued a statement, pointing out alleged violations of the present insurance code by the companies in the recent inefficiency of the department of insurance in conducting the supervision of the election. The statement says in part:

"The international committee has maintained for months in both the Mutual and New York Life canvasses a force of watchers and translators, and every effort has been made to protect the interests of policyholders who have voted against the old management, but the rulings of the inspector hearing the names of policyholders have been so uniformly against us, being fully satisfied that it is impossible, under the present conditions, to secure a fair count of the votes as cast, we withdrew our watchers."

"From the beginning the companies, with the assistance of the department of insurance, have aided and nullified in every possible way the law as enacted. The companies filed lists of policyholders at Albany which contained thousands of incorrect names with false and misleading addresses, while they gave to agents and canvassers, not alone the correct names and addresses, but the policy numbers of the insured."

The statement then sets forth in detail the various forms of irregularity charged and declares that affidavits show it was practiced on a wholesale scale, but these affidavits, the statement asserts, were refused consideration. Illustration is given of a family which was recorded as casting five votes, the statement adding:

"Numerous instances developed where agents had sent in proxies and ballots bearing the names of policyholders who had been dead for years, while many ballots were cast bearing names of former policyholders who had allowed their policies to lapse."

"The officers of these companies and the department of insurance are responsible for this condition of affairs."

Jury Will Now be Confined Until Verdict is Reached.

New York, April 8.—A verdict in the Thaw case may be reached by Wednesday night.

When the trial was resumed today, Justice Fitzgerald overruled District Attorney Jerome's formal protest against the confirmation of the report of the commission in lunacy, which declared Thaw sane. The justice signed the report, and ordered that the trial proceed.

Dr. Hamilton was called as the last witness, but the district attorney objected to his testifying at this stage of the case. The objection was sustained, and then both the defense and the people announced that they rested. Mr. Delmas will begin his summing up address at 2 p. m., the jury having been excused until that hour to get their personal affairs in shape. Beginning this afternoon, the jurors will be confined until the end of the trial.

Mr. Delmas said he might conclude his speech tonight. If he does so, Mr. Jerome will speak tomorrow. If Mr. Delmas should not finish until tomorrow, however, the district attorney will not begin his address until Wednesday morning. Justice

PUERTO CORTES IS CAPTURED

Nicaraguan Army Takes
One of Principal Honduran Ports.

Mobile, Ala., April 8.—Puerto Cortes, one of the principal ports of Honduras, is now in the hands of the Nicaraguan army, according to advices received here today. The Nicaraguan army and navy is active and is reported to be moving on Celba, the other port of Honduras.

This information was contained in a message received this morning by the Thacker Steamship company over the telephone from New Orleans, and stating that a cablegram had just been received from Puerto Barrios to that effect.

The Honduras railroad and the cable have been in the control of the Nicaraguan army since the capture of Tegucigalpa, the capital, and news from the seat of hostilities for the past two weeks has been obtained by mail from Tegucigalpa from Puerto Barrios, Guatemala. All cable messages are carried from Puerto Cortes by boat to Puerto Barrios and require about seven hours by sailboat.

Edmonton, Alta., April 8.—Lying on his back in a small shack on the corner of Kinistino avenue and Elizabeth street, George Wood, a carpenter of this city, was found dead, about 8 o'clock last Friday morning, by three friends.

The matter was at once reported to the police, and the coroner, Dr. Braithwaite, was notified, as the circumstances connected with the affair were very peculiar. He, at once ordered an inquest, and a jury was impaneled and viewed the remains in the shack. An attempt was made to hear evidence, but the chief witnesses were still under the influence of liquor, so the coroner adjourned the case.

The shack is a small building, about 12 by 20 feet, situated on the Madison, Wis., April 8.—Political information from Milwaukee has reached the capital to the effect that District Attorney Frank E. McGovern will be La Follette's next gubernatorial candidate. It is also understood that La Follette is in the senatorial field now for the advertising there is in it and will throw his votes to Stephenson and be senatorial candidate for the long term two years hence. Davidson, if not chosen senator, will be a candidate for governor again.

ASK PRESIDENT TO WITHDRAW

Labor Unions Offended

Haywood.

New York, April 8.—An attack was made on President Roosevelt at the meeting of the Central Federated union by Albert Abrahams of the Press Feeders' union on account of his letter to Representative Sherman, in which the president is quoted as saying that Mr. Harriman was as undesirable a citizen as Harvey or Debs. Abrahams is a Socialist and a member of the Moyer-Haywood conference, composed of labor unionists collecting money for the defense fund. A resolution was carried directing the secretary to write to President Roosevelt asking him to withdraw his remarks in reference to Mr. Haywood.

Remdji, Minn., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—James "Shorty" Wesley, convicted on the charge of having killed N. O. Dahl, is standing pat reluctantly to confess any knowledge of or connection with the Dahl murders. Wesley, up to the time of his conviction and afterwards, was cheerful and conversed freely with those in the jail with whom he came in contact. His attitude during this past three days has changed materially. He is cranky and about every other word he utters is an oath. He talks but little and is keeping up a good front, but it is believed he will eventually break down and tell of his connection with the tragedies which occurred near Quilting.

FRUIT MAN IN TROUBLE

J. H. Grande, of Independent Fruit Company, Accused of Forgery.

He Thinks Local Produce Men Are Persecuting Him.

J. H. Grande, who established the "Independent Fruit Company" here last week is having more than his share of trouble. He has been black-listed by the commission and grocery firms of the city, sued in the district court, and now to cap it all he is locked up in the police station charged with a forgery, claimed to have been committed in California some time ago.

Mr. Grande has also had papers served on the Thomas Thompson Fruit company for a damage suit, in which Mr. Grande would have $5,000 from the said T. Thompson Co. for putting him on the blacklist of the commission firms, a list which is used to notify members of the produce exchange of customers whose credit is somewhat dubious. He says that he did not deserve this, and is suing for damages accruing from it.

A representative of E. F. Stacey & Sons, produce men of Minneapolis served papers on Grande this morning while in jail, in a suit to recover $2,234.37, for a carload of fruit which they shipped him some time ago, and have received no pay for as yet.

In the telegram from the California sheriff, who wants Grande for forgery, the accused man claims to see evidence of an attempt to run him out of town by the local produce men and grocers. He is of the opinion that they notified the police of his whereabouts simply that they might get rid of him. As to the forgery, Grande admits having endorsed another man's name on the back of a draft for $700, but says that the man left the draft with him for his use, and that he simply forgot to endorse it, and the signature was not affixed with intent to deceive, nor was there anything fraudulent in connection with the transaction. As only the briefest of telegrams has been received so far by the police, they are not in a position to know anything of the details of the forgery.

"I do not know whether the grocers' association officially had anything to do with notifying the authorities about Grande's arrest or not," said a prominent member of the association this morning. "I do know, however, that we did not want our members investing their money in that company of his, as he was trying to get them to do, as we believed it a fake."

Grande's attorney, W. S. Whitton, made an attempt in municipal court this morning to secure Grande's release on bail, but the judge stated that it was beyond the power of the lower court to fix the bail. Mr. Whitton claimed that Grande's arrest was irregular because it was made simply on the strength of a telegram from the California authorities and no warrant has been sworn out. Chief Troyer expects to swear out a fugitive warrant for the man as soon as sufficient information is received to make this possible.

The California authorities are evidently rather anxious to secure the man and give a very complete description of him in the telegram.

ROCK FALLS FROM POINT

Boulder About Size of Man's Body Falls in Crevasse.

The expected has at last happened, and a rock, about the size of a man's body has fallen from the "point of rocks." The dreams of the croakers were not realized, however, as the rock fell harmlessly down a crevasse and did not hit any one, crash through a street car or even block the tracks after landing.

The city engineering department went over the dangerous spots last week and reported one or two rocks as being rather shaky, but none of them in dangerous positions. The rock that fell was one of them. The engineers are planning to get together with the street foreman for the district and see that the other shaky rocks are put in shape again in the near future. The board of public works, through its street foremen, made an inspection of the point about two weeks ago, but has taken no action.

THE ISLE OF PINES

Is Not American Territory, Says Supreme Court.

Washington, April 8.—That the Isle of Pines is not American territory was officially and judicially declared today by the supreme court of the United States. The decision was rendered in the famous case of Edward J. Peary vs. Nevada N. Stranahan, collector of the port at New York, and the opinion of the court was announced by Chief Justice Fuller, who said that up to the Paris treaty the Isle of Pines had been considered as an integral part of Cuba and that it could not be held to be covered by article 2 of that treaty which included only islands in the vicinity of Porto Rico.

The case originated in connection with the importation of a few boxes of cigars by Peary in September, 1903, but its hearing by the court was from time to time postponed in the hope that the status of the island might be definitely fixed by legislation or diplomacy. The cigars were made in the Isle of Pines of tobacco grown there and when they arrived Peary refused to pay duty, on the ground that they were of domestic origin. The collector thereupon seized them and Peary appealed to the United States circuit court, where he secured no relief, as that court sustained a demurrer filed by the government and dismissed the case. He promptly brought the case to the supreme court by which today the decree of the lower court was affirmed.

ON THE TRAIL OF CARD SHARPS

Police Are Chasing Up Green Cloth Sessions Vigorously.

The police are pursuing the lovers of the game of the green cloth with considerable vigor and the delightful little social games which have been in progress at various times around town are being broken up one after another with strict impartiality. Both the West end and West Duluth added their quota to the list Saturday night, and both raids resulted in substantial benefits to the municipal court fund this morning.

In West Duluth card sharps paid a total of $5 for the pleasures of the game, and in the West end, on Garfield avenue, six men were brought down to the station and put up $50 bail for their appearance this morning, which the judge declared forfeited when none of them showed up. The game took place in a saloon at 62 Garfield avenue. The proprietor has not been arrested as yet. This makes three raids within the last month, and the Howard-Mission case is threatening some more startling disclosures along these lines.

The Garfield avenue players were listed on the police blotter as follows: William Smith, Edward Burg, Charles Johnson, James Taylor, Peter Moran and Peter Armstrong.

NOT A SHOT WAS FIRED

Mobile, Ala., April 8.—Advises received here today from Commander William F. Fullam of the United States gunboat Marietta via steamer Columbia, just arrived, says that Ceiba was taken on the evening of April 3 by the Nicaraguan army and is now in command of Commander-in-Chief Estrada and Gen. Manuel Letta, the latter a brother of Policarpo Bonilla.

Ceiba was taken without a shot being fired. After taking Ceiba the Nicaraguan forces left for Puerto Cortez on board the gunboat Omecapete, a gasoline launch and a small gunboat. They were preceded by Cortez by the Marietta to protect American interests. It has been agreed between Commander Fullam of the Marietta and Commander-in-Chief Estrada in charge of the Honduran forces at Puerto Cortez, surrendered, although it was said by passengers arriving here on the steamer Colombia from Ceiba that Gen. Estrada had refused to surrender and would fight to the last ditch.

In a message to the master of the Colombia, Commander Fullam of the Marietta says that the Nicaraguan forces had promised not to bombard the steamer, and that he believed there would be no resistance. He said that the Nicaraguans claimed that a new regime would be established on the Honduras coast immediately, and that both sides to the controversy understand that it is for their interest to let foreigners alone.

CLAIMS HE IS INSANE

Mrs. Herman Carlson Asks Examination of Her Husband.

She is Recovering From Bullet Wound Inflicted by Carlson.

Herman Carlson, the local contractor, residing at 427 Seventh avenue east, who shot his wife through the left lung a week ago, is to be examined as to his sanity in the probate court at 7:15 o'clock this evening.

The necessary information to procure an order of the court for an examination into Carlson's mental condition was furnished by his wife, Mrs. Josephine Carlson, who, though seriously wounded, is on the road to recovery.

According to the reports of the shooting it was wholly unprovoked, and was a complete surprise, Carlson, walking into the kitchen and opening fire at his wife with a revolver as she was at her customary household duties. She fled, ran upstairs to the rooms of another family and telephoned for the police, Carlson being taken into custody without any resistance.

In her affidavit to the probate court, Mrs. Carlson says her husband is 60 years old and was born in Sweden. She claims that he has been using intoxicating liquors to excess for several years.

Mrs. Carlson, in describing her husband's symptoms, says: "He appears exceedingly nervous. For the past four years he has complained of his head, saying it is not right, and that it bothered him. He frequently awakened at night and imagined he heard music and other strange noises, both when he had been drinking and when he was sober. He tells me that a good wife I have been to him, and immediately after he threatens to kill me. He is mild and gentle at times and violent at others."

Carlson's examination in the municipal court has been set for a week from next Saturday, but in case he is found to be insane, it is likely that the court will direct his removal to the state asylum at Fergus Falls before that date.

BANQUET WILL BE ON LARGE SCALE

The banquet is given to celebrate the anniversary of the birth of Thomas Jefferson. The Jefferson club has provided for a large attendance from all parts of the state as well as some of the neighboring states. The banquet will be held at the Jefferson club, which is located on the corner of the city of Minneapolis.

POWDER EXPLOSION KILLS THREE MEN.

New Castle, Pa., April 8.—Three men were instantly killed today at Hillsville by the explosion of a ton of powder at the plant of the Burton Powder company. The accident occurred in the corning department, a small building twenty-four feet square. A spark is supposed to have dropped in the powder.

TRY THIS AT HOME.

Mix the following by shaking well in a bottle, and take in teaspoonful doses after meals and at bedtime:

Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. A local druggist advises that these simple Vegetable Ingredients can be obtained at nominal cost from any good prescription pharmacy.

This mixture is said to cleanse and strengthen the clogged and inactive kidneys, overcoming Backache, Bladder weakness and even the worst forms of Rheumatism, which, as everyone knows, is produced by excessive uric acid and other poisonous waste matter which the kidneys fail to sift and strain from the blood. Every man or woman here who feels that the kidneys are not strong or acting in a healthy manner, should mix this prescription at home and give it a trial.

CHANGES HIS PLEA

Tony Pezzulo Pleads Guilty After Trial is Begun.

Hibbing Barber is Accused of Hold-Up Game.

After the state had partially completed its evidence in the trial of the case against Tony Pezzulo of Aurora, changed with having assaulted Dan Pollack with an ice pick, Pezzulo changed his mind and also his plea of not guilty, and pleaded guilty to the charge of assault in the third degree. The jury was discharged and Pezzulo was remanded to jail to await sentence.

The case of the state against George Holly, a barber of Hibbing, was called this morning in Judge Engen's room. Holly is charged with petty larceny, his case having been appealed from the municipal court in that village. Victor Bloomquist, the complaining witness, alleges that he went into Holly's shop Jan. 4, last, and ordered some work done. He claims that Holly performed some work that was not ordered and that he, Bloomquist, was overcharged $2.35. On his complaint, a warrant was issued for Holly, charging petty larceny of the amount of the alleged overcharge.

Holly is defended by Martin Hughes of Hibbing.

The jury had been selected by noon, and this afternoon the state is introducing its evidence. The trial is likely to be a short one.

A TREATY HAS BEEN DRAFTED

Between United States and Great Britain on Water Question.

Washington, April 8.—It was officially admitted today that a treaty had been drafted between the United States and Great Britain providing for the appointment of a joint commission which will consider all of the complex questions connected with the water boundaries between Canada and the United States. This will include such questions as the disposition of the waters of the Great Lakes; the regulation of the use of water at Niagara Falls for power purposes; the navigation of the St. John's river between Maine and New Brunswick; the use of the waters of Milk river on the Northwest border, and the whole general subject of fisheries regulations not only for the Great Lakes, but for the Atlantic and Pacific seaboard.

This treaty will require the approval of the United States senate to become effective, but it is possible that an arrangement in the nature of a modus vivendi will be reached between Secretary Root and Ambassador Bryce in the near future.

GRAIN MEN INTERESTED

In Outcome of Hearing in Progress in Minneapolis.

Testimony Bears Out Claims They Have Formerly Made.

Duluth grain men are following with no little interest the progress of the case now being heard before Federal Court Commissioner in Minneapolis, in which the chamber of commerce of Minneapolis is seeking to protect its quotations from the Superior Board of trade, which it claims is little more than a "bucket shop and clearing house."

The Duluth grain men have been more or less familiar with the facts in the case for many months, and have claimed that the Superior Board of trade was used principally for the purpose of allowing bucket shops to gain possession of the prices of the large board of trades throughout the country, which they could not do in any other way. The claim is made that fictitious sales were made by straw buyers on the Superior board, who were in the employ of the bucket shops. These sales, it is claimed, were made at the same figures as the real sales on the Minneapolis floor, the prices of which were obtained over a private wire. The prices were then posted as the "Superior Board of Trade" quotations, although they were in reality those of the Minneapolis chamber of commerce. The testimony of A. W. Harris, a former operator, which was given Saturday afternoon, was read with no little interest. The Duluth board is almost as much interested in the outcome as the Minneapolis chamber of commerce. The quotations of the Duluth board are the property of the board. They are also made from actual sales on the floor of the exchange, and the board has the right to protect its prices, under a decision from the courts.

An Excellent Address.

To the Editor of The Herald: Kindly permit me a word on the address of Dr. Hall, given to the men at the Lyceum Sunday afternoon. It was a fitting close to a most remarkable series of addresses by remarkable men, and stamps our local Y. M. C. A. secretary as a master in his line of work. As a father, I have often been troubled concerning the need of giving certain hints to our children, both sons and daughters, as to the proper use of their bodies, but never could say anything direct for want of accurate knowledge of the organs and functions on the one hand, and from want of the right words to express the truth on the other. So their mother and I did our best, by saying living, sound moral training, and reasonable religious instruction, trusting to nature's instinctive help, to prepare our children to meet the temptations and the tasks life must needs bring to them. I have often regretted these essential methods; but we know that, had we had the instruction that was given to the great audience of men yesterday, or had we had the little book, just in its second edition, that the doctor has published at the request of students and men to whom he has given these lectures, we had been greatly helped to give our little ones

Information concerning nature's ways with them who live wisely, and punishment to them who abuse her laws. The moral virtue of such addresses to the moral life of a city is not measurable by any money standard. And I write these comments in hope that the business men behind this series of educational lectures may be encouraged to continue their benefactions to the city in this way; and to advise the parents and educators of the city to purchase the book, now on sale at the Y. M. C. A., for use in their families and schools, the profits on which will help the building fund of the Y. M. C. A. A FATHER.

He was 62 years old at the time of his death and leaves a wife and eight children, seven boys and one girl. The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon at 1:30 o'clock from Durkan & Crawford's undertaking rooms and interment will be at the cemetery.

ASKS DAMAGES OF LUMBER FIRMS

appropriated.

Suit was begun in the fifth division of the circuit court of the United States for the district of Minnesota, yesterday, by Charles F. Ruggles against Frederick W. Bonness and M. M. Hove, copartners as F. W. Bonness & Co., and the Nichols-Chisholm Lumber company, formerly the Commonwealth Lumber company. The plaintiff asks damages in the sum of $10,000 from each of the defendant companies.

The complaint states that Ruggles is a resident and citizen of Wisconsin and the defendants are residents and citizens of Minnesota. Ruggles alleges that between Jan. 1, 1902, and July 1, 1904, and to the best of his information there was cut from the northwest quarter of section 22, town 141, range 33, in Hubbard county, Minnesota, saw logs and timber to the value of about $10,000. He alleges that the timber was taken by the defendant companies and appropriated to their own use without the knowledge or consent of the plaintiff. He asks judgment of $10,000 against each of the defendants, with interest from July 1, 1903.

Chain Breach of Contract.
Albert H. Hawdon and William Rock have sued Charles S. Murray for $405, which they allege is due them for damage done to a diamond drill, also for the rental of the drill. It is claimed that Mr. Murray rented the drill May 1, 1906, and used it 152 days; that he did not take proper care of the equipment or return it to the owners, as agreed. The owners claim that they had to go after the drill and that expense was incurred by the trip.

Basorich Is Better.
The physician who has been attending Dan Basorich, the Austrian charged with the murder of Brikjaca, says that the prisoner's health is much improved. For a while the jail officials feared that Basorich was going to die before his case came to trial, as he seemed very despondent and scarcely ate or slept. He is said to have been suffering from an attack of melancholia, but has been aroused to some extent. The worry and the confinement are said to be responsible for his condition.

Allegations Denied.
An answer was filed in the United States district court yesterday by the Northern Pacific Railway company to the complaint in the case of Thomas Kelly vs. the Northern Pacific Railway company, begun in Crow Wing county. The case will be tried in the Crow Wing county court to the United States court here.

INTERRED IN CANADA.

Burial of Dr. A. F. Ritchie Occurs at Sherbrooke.

The interment of Dr. Arthur F. Ritchie, formerly of Duluth, who died at Mt. Clemens, Mich., a few days ago, occurred at Sherbrooke, Quebec, Can., April 4.

Referring to the death of Dr. Ritchie, a Montreal, Can., paper says:

"Friends in Montreal will regret to learn of the death of Dr. A. F. Ritchie, which occurred at Mt. Clemens, near Detroit, on the last of last week, at a time of health and hoping to benefit from treatment at Mt. Clemens, he went there three weeks ago from his home in Duluth, accompanied by his wife. All efforts proved unavailing and he sank gradually, heart failure being the immediate cause of death."

The late Dr. Ritchie was born in 1854, and was the eldest son of the late T. W. Ritchie, Q. C., and a brother of W. F. Ritchie, K. C., and Dr. D. Ritchie of this city. He graduated from McGill university with high honors in arts in 1873, and in medicine in 1874, when only 22 years of age. After post-graduate courses in the London and continental hospitals, he returned to this country. For the last twenty-eight years he has been a resident of Duluth, where he had a successful practice and was highly esteemed by his patient and a large circle of friends.

Dr. Ritchie is survived by a widow, who was Miss Jennings of Strathroy, but left no family. The interment took place on the 4th inst., at St. Peter's cemetery in Sherbrooke, Quebec.

DID NOT BLOW SNUFF.

Harry N. Elv, whose name appeared in the story in the morning paper concerning the snuff blowers who were taken to the police station from the Temple roller rink last evening, has demonstrated to the satisfaction of Mr. Shea, the proprietor of the rink and the police authorities, that he was not engaged in the snuff blowing on the rink last evening. Mr. Elv was sitting about four seats away from the snuff blower and some way Mr. Shea gained the impression that he was mixed up in the affair. He accompanied Elv this morning and bore him out in his statements that he was not connected with the affair in any way, and that his being mixed up in it by mistake was most unfortunate.

Walker's Copper letter in Saturday's Boston Commercial said:

"Copper is dull and the market is beginning to show signs of weakness. It is so little buying that it is almost impossible to give accurate quotations. Notwithstanding the fact that the producing and selling interests have no name to offer, and are refusing to name a lower price, it is known that copper can be bought for 25 cents, if, therefore, quote lake and electrolytic 24½ to 25 cents per pound."

"The extreme decline in copper warrants in London cannot be disregarded. Formerly, the price of a warrant for 100 pounds of copper was going to continue around 25 to 26 cents per pound, but it would be impossible to sell for 10¢ down to anything like the present prices. It would be bought by American miners and sold to electrolytic and sold at a big profit."

"It must be remembered that there is a metal shortage in New York. The metal market is a veritable howl, and handles 100,000,000 or more pounds of copper annually which buys from producers at the 'average price' of each month. This agency is compelled by its contracts to buy, and it therefore stands to reason that it will not take a chance of losing 5 cents per pound on 5,000,000 pounds of copper which it must buy monthly at the 'average quotations' for the month. A shrinkage of 5 cents per pound would mean a loss of $5,000."

"This agency undoubtedly has sold substantially all of the copper it will have to buy on its contracts during this month and next, and also a part of its takings for June. It is reasonable to suppose, therefore, that some time between now and July 15 it will find a market at some price for whatever surplus it may have on hand and in prospect."

"The coming five or six weeks will be sure to witness sharp fluctuations in the metal market, the result of which will probably be a decline in the price to about 20 cents per pound. At that level of prices all the copper produced in the country undoubtedly can be sold. It is by no means improbable that the producers will find it impossible to fully supply the demand at 20 cents, and, after it reaches that level, there may be an advance in prices. Certain it is that we have been witnessing copper famine prices, and it is almost a certainty that the acute stage of the famine is past. Consumers will do well to refrain from extreme bearishness in the metal market. As soon as the supply comes they should supply their wants. There is no surplus of copper in the world. There may prove to be less than enough to go around even at 22 cents. There is no prospect that the price will go below 20 cents for a year or two to come. Electrical progress promises to be more rapid during the coming five years than in the past decade."

Beautiful Costumes at Gidding's.

The Gidding store these early spring days is a veritable bower of beauty. Every express brings new and beautiful creations from the firm's New York office, many of which have been imported direct from Paris. It is admitted that the suits and costumes this season are the most stunning that have appeared for years, and in no establishment in America is to be found a more comprehensive showing than at the Gidding Style Store.

ACQUIRING NEW RIGHTS

C. C. Cokefair Working on a New Water Power Plan.

May Supply the Twin Cities With Electric Power.

According to reports from Minneapolis, C. C. Cokefair of the Great Northern Power company is said to be at the head of a new company which has as its purpose the development of water power in Starnes, Wright and Sherburne counties. Included in the plans is the furnishing of electric light and power to St. Paul and Minneapolis.

Proceedings already have been begun in the courts of these three counties for the condemnation of tracts of property on the Mississippi river that are wanted for the water power rights that are wanted.

Water powers at Clearwater, Osago and Monticello are now under the control of the company.

A. S. White of New York is associated with Mr. Cokefair in this undertaking, but except for the water power at Osago the plans now under way are entirely independent of the rights acquired by the Minnesota Power & Trolley company, and subsequently purchased by a company in which these men are interested. Besides the property at Osago, which Mr. Cokefair and his associates acquired in the purchase of the Minnesota Power & Trolley company, they have also bought extensive flowage rights at Clearwater, Monticello, and the legal proceedings now pending are for the purpose of giving them full control of the water power at these points.

According to a Minneapolis report, the Cokefair company, having secured the desired water power rights, is now completing plans for the distribution of its electrical energy in Minneapolis, and at present the rights are being closely linked with those of the subway company headed by J. S. Port. Should the franchise which it seeks, the Cokefair company would thus have opened to it a means of earning its electricity throughout the business portion of the city without the necessity of securing a franchise of its own to use the streets for its wires.

Mr. Cokefair is not in the city at present.

MURDER AT EDMONTON.

land just off Elizabeth street. It is owned by Dick Hood, a well-known character around the city, and has been occupied by Harry Thaw, Wood, Hood and John Peacock. Inside of the shack are two beds, a stove and all the usual furniture of a house. When found by the coroner, Wood was lying on his back, with his feet drawn up in a strained position. From his appearance the doctor thought he might have been dead for about ten hours. There was a pool of blood on the floor, and a wound on the back of his head; a small ax was lying under one bed and another stood behind the door. From the appearance of the clothes the body may have been dragged across the floor. The three men, who evidently knew most about the affair, were too drunk to give evidence.

In order to find out if he knew anything of the affair, Dr. Grunthwaite questioned the first witness, John Peacock, before administering the oath to him. Peacock said he spent Thursday night in the Jasper house. He always slept at the shack before, but he went down Thursday night and found the body of Wood on the floor, so he went to the Jasper house. The man who was on condition to give evidence, and was taken down to the police cells to sober up.

John Pepper had been locked up from the first, and he was now brought up to give evidence. He was very little better than Peacock. He was on the Queen's hotel Thursday night, he said, with Peacock when Dick Hood came in. Hood had a slight mark on his cheek and Peacock spoke of the fact. Hood said he had a row with George Wood and the witness Peacock asked him what he hit Wood with. He explained that he asked this question because Hood had once hit him. As soon as Pepper asked this, Hood went out in a hurry, leaving the key of the shack with Peacock. When Wood did not show up at his usual time Friday morning, Pepper suggested to Peacock and a friend named Parks that they should go out and see what was wrong. They went down to the shack and found the dead body of Wood and at once communicated with the police.

George Wood, the unfortunate man, has lived in this city for the past nine years, coming here from Elvick, Minn. He was a good-hearted fellow, whose chief fault was a fondness for liquor. He did small contracting work as a carpenter, but he had not been working for the past few weeks. He was married in the states, but his wife is dead. He has a child living somewhere in the states.

Dick Hood is a well known character, both here and in Calgary. He has been a pool player and horse jockey in the past, and has made a few trips up North with prospecting parties.

A post mortem examination of the body is being conducted by Drs. Barrow and Furquharson, and everything points to death having been caused by a fracture of the skull caused by a blow. There is a rumor that there was an eye witness to the tragedy and that Hood struck Wood on the head with the words, "You beat me this afternoon, and now I'll fix you."

Later, Albert Jones stated to the police that he saw Hood strike the fatal blow at Wood. Hood hit him in the back of the head with a bottle. They were all drunk.

BUILDING OF THE STEEL PLANT

millis. Gary and Duluth will be developed as the great producing districts, Gary being within a few miles of the center of the population of the country will be pushed forward to gigantic proportions. The manufacture of semi-finished and finished materials, while Duluth will become the great plant for making heavy steel products. So soon as these plants are at work, the day of selling basic and Bessemer pig iron by merchant furnaces to the steel corporation will end.

The president of one of the country's largest machinery making plants states that he has information that the building of the great plant at Duluth will be a potent factor in bringing forward a strong movement for a treaty reciprocity with Canada under which our mills will be able to increase largely their output from Canadian grain and where Canadian lumber will be a larger factor in domestic markets, while Canada will make such laws as will stimulate the growth of the sale of certain American manufactures in the Dominion.

BOTH PROSECUTION AND DEFENSE REST

Fitzgerald is expected to charge the jury the same day Mr. Jerome closes. With the trial finished save for the summing up, the belief that the jury will disagree is growing among those who have followed the case since its beginning. The trial has been the most costly ever held in New York and Justice Fitzgerald will not allow the jury to be discharged until it is certain that there is no chance of their agreeing. A disagreement would mean that Thaw would be obliged to remain in the Tombs until his regular turn came again, probably until late in the fall.

New York, April 8.—When the Thaw trial opened this morning it was believed that it had at last entered upon its final week. Eleven weeks already had been consumed in the trial, making it the longest in the history of New York's criminal courts.

Harry Thaw's family were early in court and took the seats they have occupied on occasions when they have been allowed in the courtroom. Evelyn Nesbit Thaw wore the familiar blue suit and the black sailor hat which several days ago replaced the blue one trimmed with violets which she wore during the early days of the trial. Next to her sat Mrs. William Thaw, the countess of Yarmouth, and Edward Thaw, in the front row of the seats were Mr. and Mrs. George L. Carnegie and Josiah Thaw.

Justice Fitzgerald was a few minutes late in taking the bench. When he did so and before the jury had been brought into the courtroom, District Attorney Jerome arose and said he would formally ask that the report of the commission on lunacy which declared Thaw sane be not confirmed. He had no argument to offer, Justice Fitzgerald reached for the commission's report which lay on his desk and signed his name across it.

The trial will proceed, he ordered. The jury then filed into the box and Harry Thaw was called to the bar.

Mr. Delmas of counsel for the defense asked the clerk to call Dr. Allan McLane Hamilton, the alienist who was on the stand when the trial was interrupted more than two weeks ago. Mr. Delmas wanted to know from Dr. Hamilton the opinion that Thaw was insane when he shot and killed Stanford White. As soon as Dr. Hamilton was seated in the witness chair, District Attorney Jerome objected. He said Dr. Hamilton should have been called as a witness by the defense in its direct case. To call him in surrebutal, he declared, meant the reopening of the entire case.

Justice Fitzgerald sustained the objection. After he had done so, Mr. Delmas argued that Dr. Hamilton should be allowed to testify for the reason that District Attorney Jerome had on the last day of the trial said he would withdraw his objection if Dr. Hamilton was allowed to tell everything.

Mr. Delmas accepted this offer, said Mr. Delmas, and therefore feel we have the right to proceed under the agreement.

The court, as I understand the law, said Justice Fitzgerald, has no discretion in the matter. There was no objection to rule on the question when it came up before. Had it come up at that time I would have been forced to rule as I rule now. The objection is sustained.

After a recess's consultation with the other attorneys, Mr. Delmas said: "The defense rests."

The people rest, said Mr. Jerome. Justice Fitzgerald then announced that in view of the importance of the case he thought it would be necessary to keep the jury together until the close of the trial. Mr. Jerome suggested that at the beginning of the trial, the jury should be allowed to go until 2 o'clock in order to arrange their affairs.

This Justice Fitzgerald agreed to and a recess until 2 o'clock was ordered. Justice Fitzgerald asked the attorneys to submit any requests they might have to make as to his charge to the jury. Mr. Delmas announced that he would begin his summing up address at 2 o'clock. District Attorney Jerome asked if he could be given an idea of the time the defense would require.

In a case of this character," said Mr. Delmas, "where the testimony has been so voluminous, and where there have been so many interruptions, I don't see my duty to refresh the minds of the jurors as to the testimony so far as possible. It may take two or three or four hours to do this. If my remarks are not concluded tonight, and I find it necessary to intrude into tomorrow's session, I shall agree to an adjournment until the next day to meet the district attorney's request that he be allowed a day to himself in which to make an uninterrupted address."

"The court, then, is powerless to determine how long Mr. Delmas will require," said Justice Fitzgerald who then informed the jurors that after 2 o'clock they would be kept together until the end is reached.

of the chief witnesses against her. She was convicted, June 11, 1905. Mrs. Myers has never confessed. She denounces Hotman as a liar, declaring she is innocent.

Mrs. Myers is in the county jail at Liberty, Mo., Hotman is in jail in Kansas City. He has recovered from knife wounds inflicted recently in an attempt to commit suicide.

Governor Folk has granted both of them numerous respites, and Mrs. Myers' case is now in the United States supreme court for the second time. The court, some time ago, denied her a new trial. Later her attorney sought a writ of habeas corpus in the district court, and when it was denied, took another appeal to the supreme court. They have successfully procured the writ, and her case is set for argument on April 22. For lack of funds they are unable to proceed further with the case, however, and on Saturday last urged Governor Folk to commute Mrs. Myers' sentence to life imprisonment, saying if he would do so they would let the appeal go by default. Mrs. Myers is 26 years old. Hotman is 24.

THE HOUSE PROMISED THE ANTI-PASS BILL FOR ACTION ON WEDNESDAY

this is not popular, so there may be an amendment on that point, which will necessitate sending the bill back to the senate. The matter came up this morning on a motion by Representative Hicks of Minneapolis to call the bill out of the committee, if no report was received by Wednesday morning.

Chairman Spooner of the committee assured the house that the bill would be brought out in some shape or form, without any action by the house, and Mr. Hicks withdrew his motion.

Representative T. Brady of St. Paul had his bill taxing life insurance companies 6 per cent upon their gross earnings taken away from the insurance committee and referred to the tax committee. Representative Tighe opposed this, but it passed.

Representative Tighe moved that all bills on general orders be made special orders, which would allow them to be voted upon, with the restriction that each member can put through one bill only.

At his request the motion was laid over. Representative Dorsey gave notice that he would move for the appointment of a steering committee consisting of one from each congressional district and ten at large to facilitate business by picking out the bills that can be advanced under suspension of the rules.

The house passed under suspension of the rules the bill to amend the act of March 3, 1905, relating to the detention of minors for juvenile offenders. Represented by Senator Thorpe, the bill to have similar action taken on a companion bill by him, providing for the detention of minors for juvenile offenders. Representative Jefferson objected, and with an objection it would have required eighty votes.

THE IRON MINES GETTING BUSY

And Several Trainloads Will Soon be Loaded Daily.

Two Harbors, Minn., April 8.—(Special to The Herald).—The ore business received a good impetus today when, at 7 a. m., all the mining shafts of the Steel Corporation mines, started loading their daily output into cars. With some of the Pickands-Mather company mines and also of the Republic Iron and Steel company loading and other independent mines starting today, several trainloads were put on here today and within a couple of days more, when the ore begins to come in, many more cars will be put on and the regular daily output of the company will be a short way to a maximum.

Three of the new ore locomotives for the Duluth & Iron Range have arrived from the Baldwin Locomotive works. They will be set up at once and put in shape for the ore hauling. None of the new steel ore cars have arrived, but the date of delivery is near at hand and the first consignment is expected most any day.

The outside construction of the new machine shop addition has been completed and the interior work is now being hurried as rapidly as possible.

With the arrival of needed timber the work of rebuilding ore dock No. 5 is being rushed as rapidly as possible. The top timber work of the ore pocket is about three-fourths constructed and the decking of the top about one-third finished. The work of lining of the pockets will be hurried and the dock should be ready for use in about a month.

The block telephone stations between Highland and Waldo will be opened for the season in another week or ten days. The new time card which takes effect on the Duluth Iron range today makes the southbound evening passenger due here at 6:40 p. m., or 10 minutes later than the previous card, arriving at Duluth 6:46 p. m., or five minutes later. All other trains run on the same time as the old schedule.

WILL BUILD NEW LOOP

Street Railway Company Will Remove "Y" at Eighth Avenue.

Improvement Will Result in Great Saving of Time.

Preparatory to the construction of its new line on Twenty-fourth avenue east, from Superior to Fourth street, the Duluth street railway will begin within the next sixty days to replace the "Y" at Eighth avenue west and Superior street, with a big loop on which all the East end, Lakeside, Hunter's Park and East and West Fourth street cars will be turned back.

The improvement will be one of the large ones contemplated by the company this season, and will cost several thousand dollars.

The material has been ordered, and the work of taking out the "Y" and of constructing the loop will begin as soon as the steel arrives.

The "Y" was built a few years ago, following the removal of a large portion of the rock wall at Eighth avenue west, some of which was used in the cribwork of the Duluth piers. At that time it was desired by the street railway company to put in a loop, but the engineering difficulties were not surmounted. The material has been for some time working out a plan for a loop, and one has been submitted to the board of public works that has met with approval.

The loop will begin with the west-bound track, circle about on a 44-foot radius, in the space formerly occupied by the rock wall and terminate in the eastbound track.

Under the present "Y" system, the cars back from the westbound track, under a curve to a spur track, and then run out to the eastbound track, requiring the car to take about three switches. Very frequently the cars, in backing to the spur track in the knife, the switch and cause annoying delays.

With the loop system in operation, the cars will make the turn by taking only one switch, and without stopping.

Under its time schedule arrangement the company now allows cars that turn back at Eighth avenue west seven minutes to run down from Third avenue west, turn around and run back to the car starters stand.

Under the most favorable circumstances it is claimed that a car rarely makes the round trip in less than ten minutes.

It is believed that the round trip from Third avenue west can be made in five minutes, perhaps less time, when the loop is in use, by reason of the fact that the cars will not have to stop for any switches, or for the conductor to change the trolley.

The street railway company, as soon as it gets its Twenty-fourth avenue east line in operation, intends to turn back all the hill cars and the East end and Lakeside cars, at Eighth avenue, so that the aggregate saving in time of about five minutes to a car will be an important item as regards public convenience.

Another feature about the loop will be the provisions made on it for storing extra theater cars, and for holding disabled or extra cars which the company may wish to shunt off its main track to permit the regular cars to run by.

Baby won't suffer five minutes with cramp if you apply Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil at once. It acts like magic.

TRUANTS NOT SO PLENTIFUL

Official Reports Show Falling Off During Month of March.

Despite the fact that the weather was finer during the month of March than during the month of February, truancy was not practiced as much last month as during the previous one.

"Skipping school" is discouraged now by the educational powers that be just as much as it ever was in the past, if not much more energetically.

The report of the truancy officer for the month of March shows that ten youngsters were found to be truants during the first named month, while only two were found in February.

Thirty-five cases were investigated by the officer during February, and twenty-four, while only nine were complained of in March. Three instances of neglect of school children were found during February and none in March.

"A number of youngsters complained of as absentees in March," says the truancy officer, "but they were not truants, as they had been attending school regularly."

GARVIN WEDS BLIND GIRL

Former Governor of Rhode Island Makes Protege His Bride.

Providence, R. I., April 8.—The marriage of former Governor Lucius F. C. Garvin and Miss Sarah Emma Tomlinson, his blind protegee, took place at the Baptist church parsonage in Lonsdale.

Rev. T. C. Gleason, pastor of the church, performed the ceremony. Only the immediate families were present. There were three daughters of Dr. Garvin—the Misses Norma, Ethel and Florence—and the bride's two sisters, Miss Etta Tomlinson and Mrs. James Bonner. Mr. Bonner completed the party.

After the ceremony, Dr. and Mrs. Garvin drove to the bridegroom's home in Cumberland, where they will spend their honeymoon.

When the engagement was announced a few weeks ago, no date for the marriage was given, and the early wedding comes as a complete surprise.

PAYS HIGH TO SECURE SILENCE FOR SICK WIFE.

Los Angeles, Cal., April 8.—That his sick wife may not be disturbed by the noise of building, R. H. Moore of Long Beach is paying $25 a day to G. W. Ray, who has been putting up a house, to suspend operations.

Ray's house was partially burned down and cannot be occupied until rebuilt, but Mrs. Moore's condition is so serious that the sound of sawing and hammering distresses her, and she cannot be moved. After considerable negotiation Moore and Ray compromised. It is said Moore may have to pay the high price of silence for a month to come. This is the first case of the kind ever known in Southern California.

GREAT FIGHT HAS BEGUN

Between the President and Those Who Oppose His Policies.

Beginning of Movement to Defeat Taft for the Nomination.

FROM THE HERALD WASHINGTON BUREAU.

Washington, April 8.—(Special to The Herald).—As magnificent a game of politics as has been played in a quarter of a century, if not since the foundation of the Republican party, is now on. And, unless all signs fail, the interest will grow in intensity until the national convention meets in June, 1908.

President Roosevelt clearly loves a fight. He is at his best in the rough game which he has thrown down to his enemies, of whom he says Mr. Harriman is one, will be picked up in every state in the union by those who are either disgruntled or have been kicked out of office because of inability, or because of worse things they have done. The Harriman letter to Sidney Webster and the instant reply of President Roosevelt with voluminous correspondence, has kindled the sensation of the past week politically and cannot help but have a decided effect upon the campaign being waged in several states in behalf of favorite sons.

Edward H. Harriman may be a novice in the game of practical politics, but he is no spring chicken. His has been a life of ceaseless activity since his twenty-first year, and the property which he has amassed to say nothing of the vast railroad holdings which he has gathered together, and which he controls through agents being looked upon as one of the great forces in the commercial life of today, warrants the assertion that when his letter to Sidney Webster was printed, it was the beginning of a concerted effort upon the part of those inimical to the theories and principles of Theodore Roosevelt to bring about his undoing. If such a thing be possible his predecessors.

It was the beginning of a movement intended primarily to encompass the defeat of Mr. Roosevelt's candidacy for the presidency. William H. Taft. It was the beginning of what those engaged in the movement have achieved, an open and above board criticism of the president's position regarding the regulation of railroads, and a condemnation of his activity in the prosecution of land looters and grabbers, illegal fences of the public domain and the border of petty pilferers who he has prosecuted.

There is no more astute politician than Theodore Roosevelt. He knows the game from both its theoretical and practical side and he is no coward. He fights in the open, much like the men of olden days did with pistol and rapier. And that may account largely for the reason that he immediately accepted Mr. Harriman's statement regarding the manner in which the president of the Union had raised $200,000 in the campaign of 1904, by denouncing the statement as a malicious and deliberate calumny, and thereby the issue was joined.

President Roosevelt believes that the Harriman letter, which was a crowd of trust magnates, the head and front of which is in Pennsylvania, but having "Ohio" in the title, and Illinois; that its purpose is not only to control the next national convention and to fix upon one man, but also to reform legislation by congress next winter. President Roosevelt looks upon Mr. Harriman as the head devil in the movement to discredit his policies. Since the Webster letter appeared, the president has received a number of letters from the White House that while he does not choose often to give names in his characterizations, he has taken a peculiar satisfaction lately in linking the names of Edward H. Harriman, John D. Rockefeller and John G. Thompson.

Those who have known of the heroic missionary and relief work of Rev. and Mrs. R. M. Cole, Miss Nellie Cole and the Misses Charlotte and Mary Ely, will need no urging to lend a helping hand. Mr. Cole, a partial invalid from a fall received last year while on a tour to succor refugees in the Moush region, has bravely remained at his post, waiting for reinforcements before leaving for America.

The Misses Ely, graduates of Mount Holyoke, have built up a Mount Holyoke in Bitlis amid the mountains of Kurdistan, often touring in the winter on snow sleds among the villages where their pupils are working as teachers, Bible readers and pastors' wives.

With their buildings and industries destroyed, what shall these missionaries do with the pupils and orphans whom they have sheltered and trained? How shall they aid

It has not been a great many years since a political situation such as that created in Ohio by the rival ambitions of Secretary Taft and Senator Foraker for the presidential nomination would result in a wholesale decapitation of federal officials in the state. The heads of postmasters, collectors of internal revenue, United States marshals, and attorneys and all their subordinates would be brought to Washington and presented to the occupant of the White House. If, say, the days no farther back than those of Grant could be recalled. It goes without saying, of course, that a great many, if not the majority, of the chief federal officials in Ohio, owe their positions to Senators Foraker and Dick. Naturally these influential persons will be inclined to co-operate with Senator Foraker in the open fight he has declared against Secretary Taft, the president's choice for the nomination next year. When confronted by the fact that they had caused to suspect of disloyalty. That was before the country had been educated to the civil service system which now prevails. Under the present dispensation every state federal official below the grade of chief is protected by the civil service law, and is forbidden to participate in politics, although, of course, he has the privilege to vote. People and Missionaries of Bitlis, Turkey, in Distress.

New York, April 8.—An earthquake has left homeless the people and missionaries of Bitlis, Turkey. The poor people had not recovered from the massacre, and now, oppressed by the feeling famine through prices four times higher than usual, they are encamped in the snow. Twenty-five feet of snow which will melt before summer, gives a chilly welcome to the poor.

Immediate assistance is urgently requested by cable from Mr. W. W. Peet of Constantinople, treasurer of the American mission.

Those who have known of the heroic missionary and relief work of Rev. and Mrs. R. M. Cole, Miss Nellie Cole and the Misses Charlotte and Mary Ely, will need no urging to lend a helping hand. THIRTEEN CLUB PLANS TO SHOCK OCCULTISM.

Washington, April 8.—The Thirteen club of New York has issued an address to the members of the occultists in Washington, Saturday, April 13. It will be an occasion to shock the superstitious. Every tradition of occultism will be flouted whenever occasion offers.

The tradition of the occultists will consist of thirteen clubs, will pull out of the shadows and will start at 12:15. If it is possible to secure a locomotive with a 13 in the number, it will be done, but as the trip is to be a flying one, the run from New York to Washington will be made in the shortest possible time.

The members of the organization will be at the National hotel, following a reception by the president at the White House. The members will walk under a ladder in entering the hall, and the black cat, which is the mascot of the club, will be carried in front of the train, and there will be among the decorations tree frogs in gilded cages in place of candles.

The president of the club will inaugurate the dinner by breaking a looking glass, and all the other guests will be given a chance to take a nap at 1:30. If anybody else has any pet superstition they want defied, all they have to do is to break a looking glass, and possibly the members will do something to break the superstition.

"Phantom's Deadly Work." Had so seriously affected her right lung," writes Mrs. Fannie Connor, of Ruritania, I. O. O. And restorer of weak, sore lungs. When all other remedies utterly failed, you may still win in the battle against lung and throat troubles with New Discovery, the real cure. Guaranteed by all druggists. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

IS CRAZED BY "CURSE" OF A FORTUNE TELLER.

New York, April 8.—A strange case of a woman who had been driven crazy as the result of an imaginary curse put upon her by a fortune-teller, was brought to the attention of the physicians at Bellevue hospital by the Rev. F. A. Licht of No. 224 East Fourteenth street, pastor of the First German Baptist church.

The clergyman said Miss Moler came to this country some months ago and had been an attendant at his church. For several days past she had been complaining that a fortune-teller, whom she did not name, had obtained complete mastery over her. The seeress, she declared, had acquired the power of recording every thought that passed through her mind, and she had put a curse on her, telling her she would never be able to get on her feet again. Through a quarrel, Miss Moler told the pastor, she was able to remove her imaginary curse by trying his own power of suggestion on her, so as to remove from her mind all thought of the seeress. His wife, however, became frightened, and he thought it best to take her to Bellevue. She was put in the psychopathic ward, at No. 820 Second avenue. Mrs. Duns, the landlady, said Miss Moler had landed there only four weeks, and has said nothing of any trouble.

STEVENS GETS A GREAT SEND-OFF

Retiring Chief Engineer of Canal is Very Popular.

Colon, April 8.—John F. Stevens, former chief engineer of the Panama canal, was given a splendid send-off Saturday night previous to his departure yesterday for the United States. The reception was held on the pier at Colon, W. G. Herd, general manager of the Panama railroad, acted as chairman.

Mr. Stevens, in a speech, modestly gave credit to the canal commission, and to the chief engineer, the credit for the organization of the work. This Mr. Stevens declared was so advanced that it was possible to carry on the work both in the winter and in the summer. He said the canal would be opened in January, 1915. He did not say the position, and was leaving it of his own volition.

Mr. Stevens asked his loyal friends not to take their complaints to Washington, but to make them to Maj. Goethals, the new chairman of the canal commission, for whom he solicited the same loyalty he had been given.

Just before sailing at noon, Mr. Stevens was presented with a two-volume testimonial, signed by American and other employees of the canal expressing their loyalty to him. The employees also subscribed for three gifts intended to be handed down by Mr. Stevens to his three sons.

"MOLLYCODDLE" DINNER.

Harvard Freshman Make Record for Correct Conduct.

Boston, Mass., April 8.—Gathering at a regular "mollycoddle" dinner at the American house, the freshman class of Harvard to the number of about 400 conducted themselves in a real lady-like manner, and established a precedent in the annals of the college for their quietness, decorum and proper conduct.

This was in shining contrast to one year ago, when the lads from across the Atlantic did about $20 worth of damage. This year when they consulted with Manager Jones regarding the dinner that tonight they would have to be nothing doing. The lads posted $500 to guarantee against a "rough house," and they made good, and Sunday school classes were regular cut-ups compared to the lily whites from Harvard. No even a pledge was broken, and the dishes went back all right. Though they broke bread, they threw none.

But after the dinner, Reuben S. Holmes and George L. Matthews got a couple of red lanterns, and as they dashed up Tremont street they would run out and flag them. Then an officer spotted them. The fine was $10 apiece in court, but when they went into their jeans there was only $14 all told. The judge let it go at that.

DROPPED DEAD WHEN TOLD OF HIS ELECTION.

Under the law, the present mayor, L. P. Davis, will hold office during the coming year unless he resigns. An effort is being made to have him retain the office.

How to Fool a Lazy Liver with Artificial Exercise

EVERY serious Sickness has a small beginning.

And, in nine cases out of ten, that beginning is made in the Bowels.

Constipation is the beginning of most diseases. It paves the way for all others.

Lack of exercise, hasty eating, improper food, are its first causes.

Laziness, and postponement, permit it to grow into Chronic Constipation, which means life-long Discomfort.

It isn't necessary to be sick-a-bed, you know, in order to be mighty uncomfortable.

Even a slight indigestion affects the nerves, dulls the mind, and obscures the merry sunshine of Life.

The time to adjust the Bowels is the very minute you suspect they need adjustment.

—If your tongue is slightly coated,
—If your breath is under suspicion,
—If your head feels a trifle heavy or dull,
—If digestion seems even a little slow,
—If Heartburn, Belching, Colic or Restlessness begin to show themselves,
—That's the time to eat a Cascarel.

It acts as pleasantly as it tastes. It is as congenial to your Bowels as it is to your Palate.

It stimulates the muscular lining of the Bowels and intestines, so that they mechanically extract nourishment from the food and drive out the waste.

The only way to have Cascarels ready to use precisely when you need them is to carry them constantly in your pocket, as you do a Watch or a Lead pencil.

The ten cent box of Cascarels is made thin, flat, round-edged, and small, for this precise purpose.

Be very careful to get the genuine, made only by the Sterling Remedy Company and never sold in bulk. Every tablet stamped "C.C.C." All druggists.

DELMAS MAKES THRILLING PLEA FOR THE LIFE OF HARRY K. THAW

TREATING STILL GOES

Anti-Treating Measure is Killed in the House.

Adams Rescues His Local Option Bill From Defeat.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The house refused to consider the anti-treating bill this morning, and sustained a report of the temperance committee recommending it for indefinite postponement by a vote of 48 to 43. The matter came up on a minority report from the committee, recommending to pass. Chairman Webster of the committee moved that the majority report, killing the bill, be adopted and a roll call was asked for on the motion. There was a brief debate, during which most of the arguments were made against the practice of treating and in favor of the bill. Representative Milo Young of Iroquois supported the bill because he knew of many a farmer going home in his wagon box, when if it had not been for the treating custom he would have gone home in his seat. The bill was in the interests of the wives and children who suffer when the treating habit takes the money of those upon whom they depend. The bill, which was by Representative Thomas H. Horton of North Branch, made it unlawful to give or receive a treat, and required saloonkeepers to keep posted in their establishments conspicuous signs to the effect that treating is unlawful.

Elmer Adams succeeded in rescuing from a hostile committee report his bill extending local option in liquor matters to cities of less than 10,000. The committee on towns and counties recommended it for indefinite postponement. Mr. Adams had the report overturned and the bill put on the calendar by a vote of 57 to 27.

ASKS PARDON FOR GUST MAKI

Attorney Baldwin Appears Before Board in His Behalf.

St. Paul, April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Attorney Baldwin of Duluth, appeared before the state pardon board yesterday and asked for the pardon of Gust Maki, sentenced from St. Louis county, Jan. 28, 1906, to state prison for one year for assault in the second degree. The prosecuting attorney had recommended clemency. Senator Fugh was his neighbor and asked for his release. The circumstance that led to his conviction, it was said, was that he had been a saloonkeeper in the bad district, known as the Brewery, in Duluth. Alderman McEwen of Duluth also appeared and asked for his release. No action was taken.

HOME RULE CHARTERS

House Favors Bill to Make Them Easier to Adopt.

Schaller Bill on Railroad Commodity Rates Has Been Redrafted.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The house in committee of the whole yesterday afternoon recommended for passage a bill the object of which is to make it easier to adopt home-rule charters, and to amend them once they have been adopted.

Minnesota has been trying for years to adopt a home-rule charter, but the provision that it must receive four-sevenths of the total vote cast at the election has always stood in the way. The bill referred to, which is by Representative F. B. Wright of Minneapolis, provides that charters may be adopted by a four-sevenths vote of those "voting on the proposition," which is very much different from a four-sevenths vote of those voting at the election.

At the same time, both St. Paul and Duluth, as well as minor cities having home-rule charters, have been trying to amend them, and as the constitution requires a three-fifths vote of those voting at the election this has been difficult. A considerable proportion of the voters at

A BLIZZARD IN MICHIGAN

Upper Peninsula Has Worst Spring Storm Since 1883.

Houghton, Mich., April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The storm now raging over the Copper country is the worst for this time of the year since 1883. Snow has been falling heavily since early Sunday morning, turning to a blizzard and steadily growing worse. Railroads to Calumet are tied up, and a fifty mile wind is piling up snow on the tracks. Over eighteen inches of snow is now on the level here, and two feet at Calumet, with no let up in sight. The street car line, local and to Calumet is blocked, and the telephone company, not over the trouble from last week's storm, is experiencing more disaster to poles and wires.

RACE TRACK GAMBLING

Subject of Message to Special Session of Missouri Legislature.

Jefferson City, Mo., April 9.—The general assembly convened in extraordinary session at noon today. Among the matters recommended to come before the special session is the passage of an emergency clause to immediately enforce the statute passed by the regular session to prohibit race track gambling. Following the reading of Governor Folk's message, setting forth the object of the call for the special session, both houses adjourned until tomorrow. Governor Folk said: "The forty-fourth general assembly."

New York, April 9.—Not since the day when Evelyn Thaw gave to the world her story of her life has the courtroom, where the final scenes in the Thaw trial are now being enacted, been so crowded as it was today. The attraction was Delphine M. Delmas, the San Francisco lawyer, who today continued his sum- today. The attraction was Delphine began his final plea yesterday after- noon, and after speaking two and a half hours his voice became so husky as to necessitate an adjournment. He was in good voice again when the proceedings were resumed to- day, and at the outset promised to be even more effective than he was yester- day.

Despite the inclement weather—a snowstorm without—the courtroom was besieged fully an hour before the time fixed for the opening, a large percentage of would-be spec- tators being women. With much difficulty the police succeeded in

W. A. Seaver
Circulation Auditor
New York and Chicago
Duluth, Minn.,

The Advertiser's Blue Book of Certified and Guaranteed Circulations

The Blue Book lists and guarantees publications only after a complete and thorough examination and audit has proved that the publisher has made accurate statements of circulation, and the rating which this examination insures for provides a Guarantee to any advertiser making this certification a specific part of his contract and a refund of 95 per cent of the face of such contract if these figures can be shown to be inaccurate.

The above is the circulation guarantee fac-simile of the well known Circulation Actuary, A. A. Seaver of New York city, who represents about thirty of the largest foreign advertisers throughout the United States—shrewd business men, who insist on knowing what circulation they are getting for the millions they spend annually for newspaper advertising. Mr. Seaver makes no charge to the newspaper for his examination and sends a copy of his report to each of the clients who employ him to obtain this information.

Mr. Seaver comes without notice and when given permission to examine a newspaper's circulation, takes complete possession of this department and demands that it be entirely in his charge until he has finished his examination. He has just spent the past week in Duluth, making a most thorough investigation of The Evening Herald's circulation. Every pound of white print paper bought by The Herald, during the past year; its cash income for all its papers; its post and express office receipts for the weight of its papers sent to out of town subscribers, were given the most rigid and searching investigation; every paper returned from out of town newsdealers, or left over papers, at times, from day to day, were deducted, leaving the magnificent paid circulation of 22,467. Mr. Seaver travels all over this country in the interests of his clients and is well qualified to judge of the merits of a newspaper and its hold upon its patrons; he unhesitatingly pronounces The Evening Herald one of the best papers to be found anywhere, and says that no city twice the size of Duluth in the United States can claim its equal.

The Herald delivers the goods both to its advertisers and its readers, hence its success and its popularity. The circulation guarantee reproduced above must be very gratifying to the hundreds of local patrons of The Herald's advertising columns, as nearly one half of its splendid circulation is within the city of Duluth, ensuring practically a copy of The Herald in every home in the city.

The Herald's press room capacity is now being materially increased at a large expense, an additional type-setting machine has been ordered, and in its news department, plans have been perfected for still further improvements. Keep your eye on The Herald; it has always led in the past; in the future it will continue to be the representative newspaper of the Greater Duluth.

The Herald's circulation has been secured entirely on its merits as an up-to-date newspaper—it has never bought a subscriber with cheap premiums, such as pickle forks, cook books, wall maps, fountain pens, etc.

FREE SHORTHAND COURSE.

We have recently adopted Charter Shorthand and in order to demonstrate this marvelous system of rapid writing to the citizens of Duluth and vicinity, we have decided to give one week's course, absolutely free, to all who may apply.

Prof. L. C. Spencer of New Orleans, one of the authors of the system, is here with us, and will have charge of the class.

After one week's instruction students will be able to write and read at moderate speed any commercial matter.

The system consists of the alphabet, fifty-two word-signs and ten simple rules.

Court reporters, professional stenographers and teachers of Shorthand are respectfully invited and urged to attend for personal investigation of the marvelous results claimed.

Next Monday evening at 8 o'clock, April 15th, we expect to give a public demonstration, consisting of a lecture on shorthand by Prof. Spencer, a demonstration of the system and writing and reading by students, after one week's study.

The classes are absolutely free. Everybody welcome. At the end of the week you will be under no obligation to continue.

Classes will be formed this morning at 9 o'clock and this evening at 7 o'clock, and tomorrow at the same hours.

GRANDE IS RELEASED

Wire From California Authorities Says "Let Him Go."

Lumberjack Hurls Opponent Bodily Through Plate Glass Window.

In accordance with a telegram from the sheriff of San Joaquin county, Cal., Chief Troyer this afternoon took J. H. Grande, the fruit dealer, who was said to be wanted in California for forgery and embezzlement before the court and asked for his dismissal. The telegram requesting his release was received shortly before noon today, and gave no details, saying that an explanatory letter would follow. "I rather think," said Chief Troyer, "that the California authorities were balked in getting their extradition papers at Sacramento and have decided to give up Grande for the present. I can see no other reason why they should want him back enough."

A letter was received yesterday from the California officials telling of Grande's career there and, according to the letter, was very interesting. According to the letter, Grande skipped when he saw the game was up, leaving his wife and family of three children without knowledge of his whereabouts. Mrs. Grande soon left for Los Angeles, says the sheriff, followed by one of his deputies. While there he wired to his wife, according to the letter, to go to Madison, Wis., and meet him there, but he threw the authorities off his track by doubling back and visiting Sacramento. He doubled on his trail so cleverly, says the letter, that they lost all track of him, and only by accident did they discover where he was located.

The only action which the local grocers' association took on the matter was a letter of inquiry to the grocers' association of Los Angeles, which replied with a red hot letter, saying that Grande was not to be trusted. He was immediately blacklisted here on this account, and he says, in an effort to drive him out of town.

Walter S. Whitton, attorney for the fruit dealer, last evening commenced habeas corpus proceedings in the district court for Grande's release, and the case has been dismissed.

Emil Bjork, a husky-looking woodsman, got into a row on St. Croix avenue last evening, with three other men, and proved himself the best of the crowd. During the course of the fracas Anderson picked up one of the opponents and hurled him bodily through a plate glass window in an adjoining building, fortunately without serious injury to anything but the window.

The owner of the building complained to the police, and Bjork was given a $20 fine in municipal court this morning.

Gust Anderson, a Finlander without even the most elementary knowledge of the English tongue, was arraigned before Judge Cutting this morning for drunkenness. The judge knows just three words of Finnish, which usually suffice, and when translated they are the old familiar question, "Were you drunk?"

The judge hurled the question at the prisoner in the most judicial and impressive tone, expecting the usual "Finnish" answer, which was not at all impressed with his own guilt, and burst into a flood of eloquent Finnish explanation that would have done credit to a member of the bar.

The judge floundered helplessly for a moment, but finally made the man understand that he was to sit down, and an interpreter was called.

FOUR NEW DIRECTORS

Will be Added to the Boat Club Executive Board.

Four additional directors and three honorary vice presidents of the Duluth Boat club will be elected at the meeting to be held this evening in the Spaulding hotel.

There will be no banquet connected with the meeting, as stated by the morning paper. It will be merely a business gathering for the purpose of electing officers and of allowing the members to hear reports of the condition of the club. The largest possible attendance of the members is desired. The present officers of the club are as follows: President, Julius H. Barnes; vice presidents, A. W. Frick and Capt. Alexander McDougall; secretary, W. L. McLennan; treasurer, I. S. Moore; captain, J. D. Mahoney. B. M. Peyton, W. S. Telford and George Spencer are also members of the board of directors.

It is very probable that the present officers will be re-elected for another year.

That the credit for the present prosperous condition of the club is due to President Barnes is generally recognized by the boat club members.

It was his plan to build the O-at-ka branch last year, and his plan to increase the size of the building, adding the cafe. It was also owing to his efforts that the new branch at Spirit Lake was undertaken. The members and the directors all did their share, but it was Mr. Barnes who bore the brunt of the work of providing the money for these improvements and getting them under way.

Just three words of Finnish, which usually suffice, and when translated they are the old familiar question, "Were you drunk?"

NOTICE!

You are further notified that the Annual Meeting of the Commercial Club will be held in the Club rooms at 8 o'clock the same evening.

A SOCIAL LEADER OF KANSAS CITY

Attributes Her Excellent Health to Peruna.

MRS. W. H. SIMMONS.

MRS. W. H. SIMMONS, 1119 E. 8th St., Kansas City, Mo., member of the National Annuity Association, writes:

"My health was excellent until about a year ago, when I had a complete collapse from overeating socially, not getting the proper rest, and too many late suppers. My stomach was in a dreadful condition, and my nerves all unstrung."

"I was advised by a friend to try Peruna, and eventually I bought a bottle. I took it and then another, and kept using it for three months."

"At the end of that time my health was restored, my nerves no longer troubled me, and I felt myself once more able to assume my social position. I certainly feel that Peruna is deserving of praise."

"There are many reasons why society women break down, why their nervous systems fail, why they have systemic or pelvic catarrh. Indeed, they are especially liable to these ailments. No wonder they require the protection of Peruna. It is their shield and safeguard."

RAILROADS

CHANGE TO BE SLIGHT

Time of Coast Trains
Will be Lengthened
One Hour.

New Nine-Hour Law Means Fewer Tele-

Chicago, April 9.—Western railroad officials have practically decided upon the new schedules for passenger trains between Chicago and the Pacific coast and intermediate points.

If the time as now agreed upon is put into effect the schedule of the fastest train from Chicago to Los Angeles will be lengthened from seventy-one hours and five minutes to seventy-two hours; to San Francisco from sixty-nine and one-half hours to seventy-two; from Chicago to Denver from twenty-seven and one-half hours to thirty-two; from Chicago to the Missouri river from thirteen hours and twenty-five minutes to fourteen hours and thirty minutes.

It is said the changes will make little practical difference, except that trains will be less late at terminals. The main increases are between Chicago and Denver, where the time has been maintained fairly well. It has not been determined when the new schedules will go into effect, but if there is no further disagreement they probably will be effective May 1.

FEWER OFFICES.

Northwestern Closing Scores of Offices in Iowa.

Council Bluffs, Iowa, April 9.—In preparation for the nine-hour law, the Chicago & Northwestern railroad is closing scores of its smaller offices throughout Iowa. Twenty offices on the Galena division alone have been discontinued within one week, and many others will be closed this spring.

The railroads are unable to secure telegraph operators sufficient to man the offices now that this class of men can work nine hours. The operators are being moved to the larger offices, where it is necessary to have three men instead of two, as formerly. In this way expenses are kept down, and the service is not hampered. The larger offices handle the work formerly distributed among the many smaller ones.

MEN NOT LIABLE.

Gifford Claims Employees Are Not Responsible for Company's Acts.

Minneapolis, April 9.—On the theory that F. C. Gifford, E. A. Ober and H. M. Pearce were not liable for the acts of the company, Judge Thomas Willson, counsel for the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha railroad charged by the government with rebating to the Spencer Grain company, pleaded before Judge Morris today that he instructed the jury to return a verdict of not guilty in the case of these men.

He argued that the indictment does not state any cause of action against these men and that the evidence would not justify a verdict of guilty.

Judge Willson spent most of his time quoting authorities on the meaning of the words "wilfully and unlawfully." James Deyuan of the Carter, Sumner & Co. was on the stand today and said that F. C. Gifford had refused to allow him the elevation charge of one-half cent a bushel on Duluth shipments.

Judge Willson claimed that this shipment was only intended for Duluth. Judge Morris held that Buffalo was the logical destination.

This would tend to show that the Omaha road had been using discrimination in its shipments.

COMMUTATION TICKETS.

Roads to Abolish Them in Indiana, Ohio, and Pennsylvania.

Chicago, April 9.—Commutation or suburban passenger rates in Indiana, Ohio and Pennsylvania may be abolished in the near future. This is the principal subject to be considered at the meeting tomorrow of the Central Passenger Association, comprising all the railroads in the territory bounded on the east by Buffalo and Pittsburgh and on the west by Chicago and St. Louis. The reasons given by the railroads for abolishing the cheap rates now made monthly and twenty mile tickets to points within about thirty miles of Cincinnati, Cleveland, Pittsburgh, Buffalo, Indianapolis and other cities is that they are obliged to make 2 cents a mile the minimum as well as the maximum rate in Ohio, Indiana and Pennsylvania in order to avoid a loss they cannot afford in passenger revenue.

Conductors Want Cash.

The fact that Great Northern card tickets are good on the Northern Pacific between Duluth and Superior, and that Northern Pacific card tickets are good on the Great Northern, has resulted in complaints against some of the conductors. It is claimed they refuse to take tickets not of their own cash, and insist upon the payment of the tickets with the formal receipt of the cash, without the receipt in return. A specific instance of this was noted Saturday night, when a passenger boarding the Northern Pacific 7:30 train for Superior was given a Great Northern ticket. The ticket was cashed by the conductor, and the passenger was compelled to pay cash fare. The customary receipt was not given.

Visit the Range.

A party of Great Northern officials, consisting of President L. W. Hill, Vice President F. H. McGuigan, General Manager E. E. Ward and Chief Engineer A. H. Hoagland, started on a tour of the ranges this morning. As the tour last night announced would be the case, the party did not visit Duluth at all, and remained in Superior for only a short time. The special train carrying them reached Superior from St. Paul at 2 o'clock this morning, and left almost immediately for the range. The men will stop at Duluth and Superior on their return.

Double Track to Docks.

The work of laying tracks for double-tracking the Great Northern between Saunders, Wis., and the Alouette over the range will begin as soon as the frost leaves the ground. Saunders is a station two or three miles south of Superior.

Geneva, April 9.—Marie Passnauer, the Tyrolean giantess, has just passed through this section en route to London. She is 27 years of age eight feet in height; is nearly 150 inches around the chest; and her legs require three times the ordinary material.

According to the reports here a fifty-horse power motor has been arranged for the express purpose of conveying her from the Victoria station to lodgings near the London hippodrome, where she is to appear in the future.

Her great grandfather was a giant, but her brothers and sisters are all of normal height and weight. She is practically a vegetarian and like most of the Tyrolese very devout.

The Best Made Better.

The enlarged edition of Webster's International Dictionary, recently issued, brings Webster again abreast of the growth of the language and again confirms it in its position as the one great standard authority. A book has passed since the International was first published and the years have been full of changes and growth in life and knowledge and achievement; changes that have been reflected in the language and that must now be registered in the dictionary.

Twenty-five thousand new words and phrases have been added to the dictionary. The International includes the new words that have come into literary use, the old words that have changed their meanings, the obsolete words that have been revived.

The same ideas and principles, so thoroughly approved by experience, which were followed in the body of the book, governed the work of the supplement. There has been the same survey and scrutiny of a great mass of words, the same careful selection of such as merit a place of permanence, and the same studious and thorough explanation of meanings in the forms most easily understood.

Last evening Mr. Mills spoke to a large audience the first of a series of evening talks on "Can Modern Man Practice the Sermon on the Mount?"

M. Bradley residence on West Third street, and the receptions tomorrow afternoon and evening are in the nature of a house warming.

In the afternoon the older people of the congregation and their friends will be received. It is planned to make the reception for the pastor and his wife and members of the congregation invited to be present. In the evening from 8 o'clock the reception will be continued, and during the hours the members of the church or organizations will be received.

MATINEE MUSICAL.

Regular Program is Followed By Business Meeting.

The regular meeting of the Matinee musical took place yesterday afternoon at Steinhay hall, and a program of French music arranged by Miss Wylie and Miss Poe presented. Grace Saylor Broderick appeared in Ch. V. Alkan numbers "Military March, Op. 37, No. 1," that was splendidly played and in a most interesting study by the same composer, "The Wind, Op. 15," which displayed a brilliant and finished technique. Mrs. Broderick was enthusiastically received by the members of the society and responded to two encores. The program was opened with two songs by Mrs. John Ball "Obstinat," by H. de Pountenilles and "Elegie" by Jules Massenet and she was heard with pleasure. "Even Bravest Hearts" from "Faust" was sung by Roy Fritz, and a trio by Mandi was played by Mrs. Carl Sheldon, violin, Mr. Willard, cello, and Miss Poe, piano. A guest of the society, Mrs. R. M. Atwater of Helena, Mont., was heard in a group of songs that were delightfully presented. Miss Poe and Miss Wylie were the accompanists.

Following the program a short meeting of the active members took place and the nominations for officers were heard. What Retail Markets Offer.

Lettuce, 6 cents a bunch.
Spinach, 50 cents a peck.

Green peas, 12½ cents a qt.
Green onions, 3 bunches for 10 cents.
Green beans, 10 cents a qt.
Green strawberries, 19 cents a pt. box.

The time of year when one wishes more than any other time to be a horse out at pasture is in the spring. To have no harness on, not even a constraining halter, and then to browse through the fields on the tender green luscious blades of grass that spring up in perfect response to the needs of humanity, seems to be joy incarnate. One cannot thus go afield, so the next nearest thing is to buy lettuce with the constraining price of 6 cents a bunch, and then to put a little oil and less vinegar and a bit of salt and suit right in. There are also green onions to supply the spring cravings and green peas, but the constraint about the peas is greater than these other things. They cost 12½ cents a qt. But if one could raise the price, they would be worth it.

BIJOU HAS GOOD BILL.

Well Balanced Program Offered to Patrons of Vaudeville House.

The Bijou offers an unusually well balanced bill of vaudeville this week. It is probable as high class a program as has been given at the popular place of amusement this season.

James and Sadie Leonard and Dick Anderson furnish the headline act, a clever skit entitled "Mile Manhattan." The act is original and funny, and it has been making a decided hit with the Bijou audiences. The act has been featured on the big vaudeville circuits. There are three single acts this week, and all of them good. They are given by Olga Lorraine, Tom Olsen, and Dorothy Dayne. Miss Dayne is a charming little society act which includes a monologue and some character changes. Mc-Cune and Grant comedy and add a dash of acrobatics to the bill and incidentally pull off some very funny and very difficult feats.

Isadore Silver has a new illustrated song, "Little One, Good Bye" and the moving pictures this week concern the strange antics of "The Teedy Bears."

GEORGE M. COHAN COMEDY.

Anything emanating nowadays from the prolific and sometimes caustic pen of George M. Cohan, playwright, actor, producer, financier and last, but not least, editor of the "Spotlight," frankly demands and receives recognition. He is only twenty-eight years of age, and yet one of the most talked about characters in all the United States; successful because his work deserves it; popular because he makes himself so. Worth a round half million because he has earned it by his own efforts. Such are the characteristics of the author of "Forty-five Minutes From Broadway," which will be presented in this city at the Lyceum theater, Saturday, April 13, under the managerial direction of Klaw &

Belanger, the foremost theatrical firm in the world.

THE RUFFLESQUERS.

A large audience enjoyed the performance of the Pay Fester company at the Metropolitan this afternoon. There will be another matinee Thursday, for ladies as well as gentlemen. This week seems to have caught on with "Met" patrons in fine shape. There are many catchy songs and pretty girls. Louise Dure has a song in the afterpiece with which she has a chorus at every performance. It is entitled "Oh, Mr. Brown."

BAD FIRE AT NAVY YARD

One of the Large Buildings at League Island Destroyed.

Philadelphia, April 9.—One of the large buildings in the League Island navy yard, containing a saw mill, joiner shop and pattern shop, was almost entirely destroyed by fire early today. Officers at the yard estimated the loss between $70,000 and $100,000. The fire was discovered by a watchman who turned in an alarm. The navy yard fire company responded promptly but the flames had gained headway that all the machines and sailors stationed at the yard were called upon. Assistance was also asked of the Philadelphia fire department. Despite the efforts of the fire fighters the structure was soon enveloped in flames and the interior of the building was completely destroyed. Many patterns for the equipment of vessels of the navy were burned and they will be difficult to replace.

Much of the furniture intended for the battleship Kansas which was to have been placed in commission within a few days, was burned, and it is thought that the loss of the furniture will delay the ceremony.

"WILLIE" SELLS TO BE PAROLED

Has Been in Prison Twenty Years for Wholesale Murder.

Topeka, Kan., April 9.—Governor Hoch has, it is stated, authoritatively decided to parole "Willie" Sells, who has served nearly twenty years in the Kansas penitentiary for the murder of his father, mother, brother and sister.

The murders were committed on March 7, 1888. J. W. Sells, a farmer and school teacher, lived with his family near Erie, Kan.; the wife, a son 19 years old, a daughter of 15, and a son 15 years old, all four having been cut and slashed in a horrible manner. Willie Sells maintained his innocence and declared the murders were committed by a man who attacked the mother of the family while she slept. He had, he declared, awakened while the man was finishing his work and had chased him as he fled from the house. In defending Sells, his attorney argued that it would have been a physical impossibility for him to have committed the crime as he was sickly and developed no more than a boy of 13 years.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Kreiter have issued invitations for an evening bridge reception for Thursday evening of this week at their home, 224 Fifth avenue east. The affair is in honor of the silver wedding anniversary of the hosts.

The Morning Art History class will meet tomorrow at 10 o'clock at the club room of the library. The evening class will be postponed one week because of the lecture tomorrow evening by Benjamin Fay Mills.

WEST END FEARS WERE GROUNDLESS

B. J. Johnson Worried Over His Store for Nothing.

Investigation has shown that O. B. Johnson's alarm over the idea of his hardware store lapsing over on the lot where the new West end police station is to be built was needless.

The Johnson establishment stands on Superior street right next to the police station site and it was thought for a time that the building would have to be whittled down in order to give the city all the room it was entitled to for the lot.

Mr. Johnson himself was the one to give this initial publicity. He confessed to a score of friends that his building had bulged and that it was occupying at least three inches of soil which was bought by the city for jail purposes.

The city engineer heard about the matter and determined to probe it. He looked the ground over carefully and took some measurements. At the conclusion of the task, he announced that the hardware store was not encroaching on city property and that Mr. Johnson would not have to shave off a side of his store.

REGRETTED HIS DEPARTURE

Parishioners of Rev. C. Coyle Presented Him With Memorial.

On leaving his former charge, the Collingwood Avenue Presbyterian Church of Toledo, Rev. Campbell Coyle, who has accepted a call to the First Presbyterian church here, was presented with the following memorial from his old parishioners:

"As commissioners representing the congregation of the Collingwood Avenue Presbyterian church, we stand before the presbytery today in a twofold attitude. Personally, we regret and protest against the request of Dr. Campbell Coyle, our beloved pastor, that you discontinue the relations between us as pastor and people; officially we are bound to join with him by reason of the action of the congregation, at a meeting Sunday, March 3 last, an action taken with deep regret and only at Dr. Coyle's earnest desire.

"We do not feel a great privilege to have labored with him so long, and to have this opportunity of paying our tribute of praise to his character as a man, a teacher, and as a minister of the gospel.

"Dr. Coyle was installed pastor in September, 1896, when, with a membership of 260, we worshipped in the Tabernacle on Prescott street. Under his earnest and faithful preaching we soon outgrew our first church home, and were successfully led by him for nearly four years through the wilderness of Collingwood hall up to the chapel where we worshipped four years longer, and finally into our promised land, this beautiful home church, where now worship Almighty God. There have been added to the church during his ministry about 200 by letter and 30 upon confession of their faith in Jesus Christ. Our present membership is about 300. This has been a great work, and, in large measure, his work; and, to our knowledge, there has been no greater accomplishment in the annals of the synod of Ohio in the same period of time. It has been done without fine music of either organ or choir; without sensational advertising in either the pulpit or press; and during most of the time, without any of those things that go to make church service comfortable and pleasant. The great success of the work was very largely due to his faithful and forceful preaching of the gospel.

"He is pre-eminently a teacher, having searched the Scriptures from his youth. He believes that the great need of the world today is a better knowledge of the Bible, that men may be brought into right relations to God through Jesus Christ. The prayer meetings have been teaching lessons, and the most helpful services of his pastorate, with an attendance larger than that of any other church in the city. He has been a great worker, and, in large measure, his work; and, to our knowledge, there has been no greater accomplishment in the annals of the synod of Ohio in the same period of time. It has been done without fine music of either organ or choir; without sensational advertising in either the pulpit or press; and during most of the time, without any of those things that go to make church service comfortable and pleasant. Starch Indigestion

The starchy foods so much used nowadays—white bread, pastry, potatoes, hot biscuit, etc., often cause "starch indigestion" and a long line of troubles because the digestive organs are unable to handle the excess of this kind of food-material.

It remains in the stomach, partially ferments, causing gas and sour eructations, besides preventing the body from absorbing the full amount of food necessary. Such persons often feel hungry a short time after eating.

In making Grape-Nuts, a food expert combined whole wheat and barley in the same way the human organs act on food—with heat, moisture and time—the diastase in the barley, during the process of manufacture, changing the starch into a form of soluble sugar, thus making it easy of digestion.

In this way he devised a means of assisting weak digestive organs to handle natural food with ease and not only build up brain and nerves, but strengthen the digestive organs at the same time.

If you have any kind of indigestion or nervous dyspepsia, you'll find a marked change in your condition by a ten days' use of

NO TRUST IN LUMBER

E. T. Buxton Says No Combination of Manufacturers Can Exist.

Prices Have Advanced No More Than in Other Lines.

In reply to an editorial which appeared in yesterday's issue of the morning paper, E. T. Buxton, manager of the Red Cliff Lumber company, today gave out a statement regarding the alleged "lumber trust."

"In the first place," said Mr. Buxton, "there is no 'lumber trust' and there are no 25,000 manufacturers of lumber in the United States, and all are honest and law-abiding."

"I don't like to see such statements regarding an industry which has done so much for the country. It is one of the largest industries, and pays out in wages hundreds of thousands of dollars every month to its employees."

"The lumber industry is one of the oldest and most important in the country, and it is one of the most honest and law-abiding."

"Lumber manufacturers are also among the biggest taxpayers in the city, and they are more than willing to pay their share of the taxes."

"A big farm is provided for in a bill by Representative Hollister of Mower county, which the house advanced to the senate yesterday afternoon. The bill empowers the state board of control to purchase a site and establish a farm for the treatment of insane, and the money is to come from a tax of 2 percent upon all liquor license fees."

The house put in a lot of time yesterday afternoon fighting over a pair of paint bills, both of which were intended, according to the titles to prevent deception in the sale of paint. Representative Sawyer and Representative Rodenburg each had a bill introduced for the purpose. When the Sawyer bill came up in committee, the Rodenburg bill was taken up and the committee reported it back to the house.

The committee on commerce and retail trade reported the Rodenburg bill and recommended it to the house. The bill was then passed by the house and sent to the senate.

a general election fall, through ignorance or indifference, to vote at all upon such matters, yet their failure to vote counted just as heavily against the pending proposition, thus electing the charter.

The action was not without opposition. Several of the Minneapolis members opposed it strongly. Representative Replogle of Allen of that city. He proposed an amendment to the bill providing that a majority might adopt a charter without a referendum, but that the charter already adopted, providing that it was a majority vote, should remain in effect.

Good Roads Measure.

The senate advanced to the calendar yesterday afternoon a bill which provides much toward good roads if it goes through, but that at the same time removes the state highway commission, upon the success of which most of the state's system of good roads depends.

The bill, which is by Senator Canfield, carries an appropriation of $200,000 for good roads, and in its original form it provided that the money was to be spent by the state highway commission. The senate cut the bill so that the legislature will distribute the money upon the basis of population to the counties, and it applied to all of the counties.

Judge Hicks of Minneapolis prepared an amendment to the bill, and at the request of the senate it was adopted. The amendment to exempt Ramsey and St. Louis counties also. This amendment was adopted, but an amendment by Representative Friedman of Stevens county, providing that it should not apply to counties of less than 25,000 population, was rejected. The theory of the bill is that where cities and villages allow saloons to exist, they produce crime for the rest of the county.

Cuticura Soap Kills Dandruff

"I was troubled with dandruff on my head ever since I was twelve years old. I had beautiful hair up to that time. The dandruff destroyed my hair, and I cried everything I could hear of. I had no doctor, but I went into a drug store where I was well acquainted and asked the drugist if he knew of anything that would be good for me. He said: 'Of course I do. Just use Cuticura Soap.' I got it, and it did my hair good the first time I used it. My sister-in-law couldn't keep the dandruff off the top of her baby's head, and the hair wouldn't grow. I was there, had told her about it, and gave her the Cuticura Soap. She used it, and the hair grew again, the child's head was covered with hair and not a sign of dandruff. My sister said I was the Cuticura Soap. The child is not past three years old and has a lower head of hair than I have."—J. W. Shingle, Columbus, Kan., Oct. 25, 1906.

DON'T EXPERIMENT.

You Will Make No Mistake If You Follow This Duluth Citizen's Advice.

Never neglect your kidneys. If you have pain in the back, urinary disorders, dizziness and nervousness, it's time to act and no time to experiment. These are all symptoms of kidney trouble, and you should seek a remedy which is known to cure the kidneys.

Doan's Kidney Pills is the remedy to use. No need to experiment. It has cured many stubborn cases in Duluth. Follow the advice of a Duluth citizen and be cured yourself.

J. E. Watts, bricklayer, living at 918 Tenth avenue, west, Duluth, Minn., says: "I have no reason to change the name of Doan's Kidney Pills which I expressed in a testimonial given in 1898. At that time it cured me of backache and kidney trouble. I was unable to stoop and the pain was so severe just over the kidneys and through the joints. Plasters and other remedies I used brought no radical benefit. Doan's Kidney Pills recommended to me so strongly that I decided to try them. I soon found that they were just the remedy for my case. In a few days the pain left me, and the cure has been permanent."

The county has to pay the expense, so it ought to get a share of the license fees.

A big farm is provided for in a bill by Representative Hollister of Mower county, which the house advanced to the senate yesterday afternoon. The bill empowers the state board of control to purchase a site and establish a farm for the treatment of insane, and the money is to come from a tax of 2 percent upon all liquor license fees.

The house put in a lot of time yesterday afternoon fighting over a pair of paint bills, both of which were intended, according to the titles to prevent deception in the sale of paint. Representative Sawyer and Representative Rodenburg each had a bill introduced for the purpose. When the Sawyer bill came up in committee, the Rodenburg bill was taken up and the committee reported it back to the house.

The committee on commerce and retail trade reported the Rodenburg bill and recommended it to the house. The bill was then passed by the house and sent to the senate.

The committee on commerce and retail trade also reported the Sawyer bill and recommended it to the house. The bill was then passed by the house and sent to the senate.

I also tried all the patent remedies that I heard of, besides using all the advice by old women and quacks, and found no relief whatever until I commenced using the Cuticura Soap. LARGEST CIRCULATION IN DULUTH

TO SUBSCRIBERS:
 It is important when desiring the address of your paper changed to give both old and new addresses.

RECIPROCITY TO THE FRONT.

With the opening of the great plant of the United States Steel corporation in Duluth, not only will this city be in position to supply the entire Northwest, even to the Pacific coast, with steel products on the most advantageous terms but it will assuredly seek to bring Manitoba and other Western Canada provinces into its trade territory. And that it will succeed is not to be doubted, despite Canadian home competition.

Further than this, there is no doubt that the steel plant will be followed in short order by all kinds of machinery works, especially those that supply the farmers with their aids to planting, cultivating and harvesting. These, also, will seek to extend their fields of trade throughout the Canadian Northwest and they, too, will make that vast territory tributary to Duluth sooner or later.

The natural outcome of this reaching out of these great new industries into Canada will be a stronger demand than ever before for such a reciprocity treaty with that country, as James J. Hill has advocated for years, or for an even broader one. This will bring to this section the wheat of Canada as well as the lumber and will permit Duluth's coming manufacturing interests to dominate the vast portion of the Dominion west of Duluth's meridian.

The coming of the Canadian wheat to the Minnesota mills will not lower the price of the grain of the state and the Dakotas, while it will add greatly to the output of the mills. The advent of Canadian lumber will also be of great benefit to all American consumers. The opening of the territory, now cut off in large part by tariff barriers, will be of incalculable counter-advantage to Duluth and will assist immeasurably in its upbuilding.

The real marvelous benefits of the steel plant to the entire Northwest of the whole of America are just beginning to be seen. It will demand a marked change in the relations with Canada. It would be well for the statesmen of Minnesota and the Dakotas as well as of Canada to study the reciprocity question more closely than ever before. It is one that will certainly press for earnest advocacy as soon as Duluth's steel plant and other assured manufactures shall be in operation.

MODERN JACOBS AND KNIGHTS.

The Biblical story of the service of Jacob of seven years each for Leah and Rachel has been improved upon and made thoroughly up-to-date and the tales of knight-hood days, when gallants proved their chivalry and won their lady-loves by deeds of daring in joust or adventure, have been modernized by Farmer Kindred of North Dakota, without, however, robbing the faithful service or the devoirs of all of the ancient romance.

Unlike the father of Jacob's two loves, the North Dakota husbandman did not exact seven years' service from the suitors for his daughters nor did he, like the medieval parent, call for feats of arms. The performance of one season's goodly work was made all sufficient and, at the end of this comparatively brief period of servitude and knightly devoir combined, not only was one of the daughters the prize awarded, but, accompanying her, and possibly making her still more welcome, was the pledge of $1,000 in cash to go with each "fair maidens."

The modern Jacobs and knights combined were not dismayed by the terms imposed by the father as the cost of the hands of the daughters. One came from out of the East and an agricultural college education had he. In three months, he had constructed an irrigation ditch and a stone-enclosed fish pond well stocked and had piped water from an artesian well all through the house. In the midst of his work, he found time to woo the youngest of the girls. The up-to-date knightly tasks were so well done and the service so well approved of that the three months sufficed for the winning of the "maiden fair." Another came later, installed an electric light plant and performed other deeds and he, too, has won his lovely prize. Two girls yet remain but there is now no fear that they will not find their willing Jacobs and knights.

Who can doubt, with such evidences before him, the truth of the Biblical story or who can say that the days of chivalry and knight errantry have passed never to return? Nay, verily, the olden spirit remains as mighty as ever, the only difference is that the days of service are shortened and the knightly devoirs revamped to conform to modern conditions.

INTERVENTION IMPERATIVE.

The intervention of Commander Fullam of the United States gunboat Marietta in the Central American apology for a war gives that little conflict the only semblance of interest that it can possibly possess to the people of this country or to the world at large. Even then, it will attract only momentary attention merely because the notice of the commander discloses the policy of this country in regard to these fiery little republics and their comic opera wars.

The notice to the belligerents, that they must not bombard any of the towns on the sea coast because thereby they would inflict far more damage on the natives, will receive the approval of all nations. These small republics are utterly irresponsible and, if they were permitted to do as they please in these frequent outbreaks, they would ruin the business of Americans and Europeans who have been attracted by the climate and other advantages of the region and have made large investments there.

Of course, the action of Commander Fullam is such as technically to violate the neutrality that is supposed to exist in time of war and would be vigorously resented by any of the larger nations of the world. But some such action has been found by past experience to be imperatively necessary in dealing with these Central Americans and all of the powers will gladly wink at the technical violation of international law while the republics themselves can only "grin and bear it."

It is almost a pity that these little republics cannot either learn self-control or be put under strong restraint. They are wonderfully fertile regions and would be immensely rich if they could be allowed to progress peacefully for a few years. They will not, however, progress until there shall be a radical change in the people themselves.

THE HERALD'S BIRTHDAY.

Twenty-four years ago today The Herald entered on its life of useful service to the good people of Duluth—a service that has been unwaveringly and unselfishly devoted to the best interests and the upbuilding of its home and of all Northern Minnesota. How well it has succeeded, anyone can see at a glance by looking over the city and its splendid present and glorious assured future.

When the life of The Herald began, Duluth was a village of a few hundred inhabitants on what was then the outskirts of Northern civilization. Both town and paper had hard struggles at first, but both surmounted the many difficulties in their way.

Today both are prosperous—the one with the largest circulation of any paper in Northern Minnesota, with the full confidence of the people and with a power that is ever devoted to the good of the city; the other, a great city of 75,000 population, second in port commerce only to New York and destined in a few years with its great steel plant and other assured industries to be the manufacturing metropolis of the imperial domain of the Northwest.

The Herald gives to the public today on the first page a clear statement of its present prosperity. This shows a daily circulation of 22,467, nearly half of which is in the city itself—a convincing proof of the estimation in which it is held. Its equipment, its two great presses, everything about it shows wonderful contrast with its earlier days. It is a metropolitan journal in a metropolis and it will continue in the future as it has ever done in the past to progress as the city progresses—to keep just a little ahead, if anything, of the advancement of Duluth.

INSURANCE SALARIES.

Former President Grover Cleveland's defense of the colossal salaries paid to the presidents of the great life insurance companies of the East—several of them double that given to the chief magistrate of the United States—may be legally and technically correct but he will find it a matter of utter impossibility to convince any one that it is morally right.

It may be true that, in the eyes of the law—which, by the way, are not always of the brightest and are sometimes suspected of being affected with myopia—the insurance corporations are individuals and therefore under the protection of the fourteenth amendment to the Federal Constitution, but to say that it is just and right and according to the Constitution for these giant concerns to pay princely salaries to their head officers at the expense of the tens of thousands of people who have entrusted their money to them is going beyond plain reason.

If, as Mr. Cleveland contends, legislatures of states, whose citizens are contributing great sums of money annually to these companies hoping to secure protection for their families, have no right or power under present laws to require that reasonable limits shall be set on salaries, the sooner congress shall take steps to carry out the suggestions of President Roosevelt the better it will be for all concerned.

Especially urgent, if the states have no corrective power, does the necessity for action by congress become, in view of the charges by the International Policyholders' committee of gross irregularities by these very insurance officials whom Mr. Cleveland undertakes to defend. Certainly, if they had felt that they were doing right and were earning their enormous salaries fairly, they would not have resorted to such desperate measures to retain their holds on the companies and thwart the will of the policyholders.

Mr. Cleveland does not strengthen his case by pleading that the insurance presidents have received less than one-twentieth of one per cent of the premium receipts. Nor is it any excuse that the companies are solvent and well able to pay the salaries. On the same principle, because the total receipts of the United States government aggregate about $1,000,000,000 a year, the president of the country should be paid $500,000 a year. Would even ex-President Cleveland attempt to ask this?

Morally, the insurance magnates are entitled only to fair salaries and the surplus should go to the benefit of the policyholders. And even a "whitewash" or "certificate of good character" from their complainant state officers will not avail to prevent justice to the policyholders some day.

THE PASSING SHOW.

Verndale has revived the curfew because of the loafing of boys on the streets. Something of the sort would be an excellent idea for Duluth.

The business situation all over the country could not well be better. Railroad pessimists and "panicky rich men" will have to "guess again."

Arbitration achieved an even greater triumph in the Western railroads' conflict than it did in the coal strike, for it settled the railroad trouble without a tieup of even one day.

One hundred thousand people are said to be using the "simplified spelling" in America and Great Britain. And one hundred million are being puzzled by the queer looking words.

New Jersey is surely entitled to the leather medal for freak proposed legislation. A solon, who probably could not raise a beard if he would, proposes to impose a tax on whiskers.

Capt. Peary will give Walter Wellman a year's start this time in the slow race for the North pole. One of the other of the two ought to bring it back to America if it can be jarred loose.

If Roosevelt shall not have anything more dangerous than the alleged Harriman-Morgan-Rockefeller-trusts political combine to meet in the next year, he will be in the greatest of good luck.

"Train wreckers" is the latest excuse of the Pennsylvania road for accidents. It is, however, much to be feared that this is only a convenient method of covering up the bad work of the employees.

Andrew Carnegie has given away $600,000 more all in one lump to his beloved Pittsburgh institute. Thus he puts himself considerably nearer his ambition to die poor and he also goes farther ahead of John D. Rockefeller in cash donations.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

"London has not yet fully learned to appreciate Yankee tenacity and hustle," said E. E. Hackenstine of New York, at the Spaulding, "but whatever reproaches there may be it is rapidly being broken down by the definite results attained by Americans. It was not many years ago that the English were inclined to resent American invasion of their industry, but now they welcome our up-to-date machinery and modern methods. There is still a great deal to be done, however, before American competition in London can have a fair show."

THE WEATHER.

An April cold-snap severe enough to put a glaze of frost on the windows of down-town stores and make pedestrians hurry along with outer wraps closely buttoned was what the people of Duluth received from the weather clerk this morning. A biting wind directly from the Arctic region or vicinity added to the discomfort and prevented the sun from rising in an unclouded sky from getting in its usual genial work, except to a limited degree. This almost unseasonable apology for a cold wave extends all over the Northwest but is not likely to last over today. Indeed, the promise is that it will pass by this evening. Last night's lowest temperature was 36 degrees, and yesterday's highest was 36 degrees. The weather man says that it will be partly cloudy tonight with not much change of temperature until tomorrow when it will be slightly warmer.

The sun set at 6:40 o'clock this afternoon and will rise at 5:25 o'clock tomorrow morning. Today has a gain of two minutes of sunlight both morning and afternoon.

A year ago today, the ground was covered with snow and it was snowed by snow added to the unpleasantness. The temperature was mild, however, and there was no freezing and no mud on the streets.

The eastern storm has moved its center from Lake Huron to the Virginia coast, causing a continuance of snow or rain in most sections east of the Mississippi river. High winds from the north have advanced from the Rocky mountains to Manitoba and Eastern Texas have caused somewhat colder weather in the Red River valley. Minnesota, Lake Superior region and the southern states. The barometer is falling and the temperature is rising throughout the far West due to disturbances central over British Columbia and Arizona. The westerly movement of the Manitoba high pressure in connection with the falling pressure in the West, favors mostly fair weather in this locality tonight and Wednesday, and the wind will doubtless become easterly again during the night.

Philadelphia Press: "Did I understand you say," asked Mr. C. H. Macdonald, St. Paul, "that you had no vacation tax?" "I may be," answered the eminent official, "but it would be the greatest of mistakes for me to admit it."

Louisville Courier-Journal: "Yes, sir," declared Hamlet Felt, "I have finally secured a plan which suits me exactly."

Washington Star: "You must admit that you are a little out of the way," said Mr. Felt, "but I will take it."

Baltimore News: "Theatrical managers are very inconsistent kinds of men," declared Mr. Felt, "they growl if their houses are dark and grumble if they are light."

Yonkers Statesman: "Yeast—in Italy it is reckoned on the twenty-four-hour system, 2 o'clock in the afternoon there is designated as 10 o'clock. Midday is 12 o'clock."

Pointed Paragraphs. Chicago News: Many an effective sermon is wordless. Instruction is sometimes synonymous with destruction. Handshaking friends are naturally of a grasping nature. Some married men are not home long enough to get home sick. Some married men are not home long enough to get home sick. Some married men are not home long enough to get home sick.

Reflections of a Bachelor. New York Press: Anyway, husbands are useful so as not to have any scandal about the babies. A woman doesn't worry a man half as much if she is six as if she is four. A man who likes to kiss his wife's relatives would be very successful on the street. A girl practices smiling to show her teeth before a looking glass the way a man does dumbbells in a gymnasium.

"Arctics" Disappearing. New York Sun: What was known to as the "Arctic" device has practically gone out of use in New York. Boston clings to it, although the winters there are hardly more severe than here. Ten years ago the wearing of this heavy coat was a thing of the past. But now, after ten years, it is still being worn. But dealers now say that New Yorkers prefer light covering for the feet. Water is the chief thing against which the de-

MARINE AMERICA'S FIRST TRIP

Will Probably Open Navigation to Port Arthur Sunday.

Her Old Master, Captain Hector, Will be in Charge.

Within a week or ten days Port Arthur and Isle Royale will again be connected with Duluth by the water route according to the present plans of the Booth Transportation company. The steamer America is expected to leave on her first trip to the Canadian head of the lake next Sunday, April 14. Once navigation has been opened to that point the America will make regular trips there. The steamer Bon Ami of the Booth line has already made one trip up the north shore but she only goes as far as Chicago Bay and the first through trip of the America will be a welcome event to people of Grand Marais and Port Arthur. During the winter Grand Marais has no communication with the outside world except by a stage line and the spring opening up is awaited with interest.

While Port Arthur has all connections to outside points a traveler going from Duluth to that city in the winter must go around by Winnipeg which more than doubles the distance. The water route is a much shorter and more comfortable one for travelers during the season of open navigation and the passenger traffic on the Booth boats amounts to quite an item. The America will be captained on her first trip by Jacob Hector, who has had charge of the same boat for several years. At present the steamer is in Grignon's ship yard at Ninth avenue west being fitted out. The first trip to Port Arthur of the steamer Easton will probably be made about April 21 with the Moore following about May 1. The boats will stop for freight and passengers at all of the points along the coast.

It is expected that the Isle Royale fishing season will commence after the first trip of the America to Port Arthur and a number of fishermen will probably leave on the steamer Sunday. They will go in quest of Lake Superior trout and whitefish.

The officials of the Booth company are not yet sure that the America will be able to get in at Port Arthur on account of the ice conditions but who will probably leave on the steamer Sunday and risk it. Reports from Port Arthur indicate that the ice is weakening slowly but that a little warm weather will soon hush it.

Will Mark New Shoal.

About the middle of this week the government will establish a horizontally striped third class buoy to mark the southern end of the newly discovered shoal off Sherwood point in Green Bay, Lake Michigan. The shoal was undiscovered until November of last year, since which time it has been charted and will now be marked. Green Island light-house bears north 3/4 west and is distant ten miles while Sherwood Point light-house bears southeast 3/4 east and is distant 1 1/2 miles from the shoal.

MAY UNLOAD AT DETOUR.
Ice in Sault is Still Heavy and Blocks Boats.

Dispatches from Detour yesterday indicated that the two steamers Rogers and Weston, which started up the lakes with coal for Duluth a week ago and have been compelled to await better ice conditions in the Sault, may discharge their cargoes at Detour at the Pickands, Mather & Co. dock at that place. There are no prospects that the Sault passage will be open for another week and the boats may discharge their cargoes at Detour rather than be delayed further.

112 WEST SUPERIOR STREET.

Four big vessels have lain at Bar Point all day. At 10 o'clock tonight they were passing Bois Blanc Island, and coming into Detroit river.

NOT BEFORE APRIL 15

Is It Expected Navigation Will Open at the Soo.

Sault Ste. Marie, April 8.—From present appearances Lake Superior navigation will not open before April 15. The ice above St. Mary's river is well broken up, but with a strong northwest wind, it would be blown into Whitefish bay and passage and so give some trouble. There has not been much ice drifting over the rapids. In Hay lake and Mud lake a great deal of slush covers the ice which is from eight to ten inches thick. At Detour open water extends only to Pipe Island. The weather has been cold and snowing, becoming a little milder yesterday with a southeast wind. The locks will be ready for operation Saturday. Superintendent Huben has been pushing the work and it seems likely that he will be in time for the first boat.

NO CHANGE NOTED.

Ice Conditions Are the Same and the Opening No Nearer.

The ice conditions on the lakes have changed little since yesterday, and the opening of interlake navigation is still several days off. The reports from the Sault indicate that the passage there is as badly blocked as ever, and the two steamers, Rogers and Weston, may discharge their cargoes at Detour, where they have been laying up for the past week.

In the Duluth harbor the ice is gradually loosening up, and the channel in the bay is nearly all free of ice. In the slips, however, the ice is still too heavy to move the boats, and no attempt has been made to do so.

Quantities of the ice just outside Minnesota Point were blown out into the lake yesterday afternoon, but the field is still a quarter of a mile across, and the steamer Bon Ami of the Booth line has not yet ventured out, as the ice is jammed together too solidly to risk making the passage.

Tugmen to Work Twelve Hours.

Cleveland, April 8.—Licensed tugmen in dredging work will labor twelve hours this season. Union delegates and dredge operators reached an agreement on that point yesterday and a settlement for all tugmen may be made tomorrow. Operators will then meet with dredge workers.

Stuck in the Ice.

Cleveland, April 8.—The steamer Francis Robbins, which was the first of the coal fleet to sail from Buffalo, is reported stuck in the ice at the lower end of Lake Erie. The steamer Mary Elphicke which left after the Robbins passed Detroit yesterday afternoon.

EXAMINATION OF

POINT OF ROCKS

The members of the board of public works, a number of the members of the city council, and City Engineer McGivray spent this morning doing mountain climbing stunts, crawling over the much discussed and supposedly tottering "Point of Rocks" at Thirteenth avenue west, looking for weak spots and picking out dangerous boulders along its surface.

The departments find themselves up against a rather delicate proposition in considering the advisability of the removal of rocks from the point for several reasons. A number of the rocks which are regarded as shaky, are really key stones for great masses of rock above and behind them, and, while there is no immediate danger of their falling, their removal would remove one of the sources of support of the big masses resting upon them, and, while leaving the point in a much safer condition apparently, there would really be more danger of serious accident with the overhanging rocks out of their position than if left in.

On the other hand, the removal of the big masses of rock, keyed up by these boulders, would cost an immense amount of money, more than could well be spared at this time, and the general result of the investigation will probably be to let well enough alone.

Some of the worst boulders, as far as appearances go, are, according to the engineering department, wedged so powerfully between neighboring rocks that they could not be dislodged with a charge of dynamite.

BLOOD GETS SOUR.

At this time of year, says a well-known authority, the kidneys become weak, clogged and inactive, failing to filter out the poisons and acids, which sour the blood, causing not only facial and bodily eruptions, but the worst forms of Rheumatism, Nervous and Stomach troubles, Backache and painful, annoying urinary afflictions.

It is worth anyone's time now to get from some good prescription pharmacy the following ingredients: Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Mix by shaking well in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after your meals and at bedtime.

This simple home-made mixture will force the kidneys to normal, healthy action, so the will filter and strain all uric acid and poisonous waste matter from the urine, at the same time restoring the "rui blood count"—that is, $5 per red blood corpuscle—which is absolutely indispensable to perfect health.

IMPORTANT CONFERENCE

Will be That on Combinations and Trusts on May 28.

New York April 9.—In the opinion of Ralph M. Easley, secretary of the National Civic federation, the National conference on combinations and trusts to be held in Chicago May 28 to 31, will be one of the most important and far-reaching in its results ever held under the auspices of the federation. He says that at least 500 representative Americans are expected to participate in the deliberations. The executive council of the federation has already invited the president and the governors of the various states to appoint delegates.

The subjects which will be discussed fall under three heads, Mr. Easley says, the character of governmental power over corporations engaged in interstate commerce; how corporations should be constructed; the just and practicable limits of restriction and regulation by federal and state governments in transportation, production, distribution and labor.

President Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia university is chairman of the committee which sent out the invitations. Others on the committee are: Bishop Ford, Richard Watson Gilder, Samuel Gompers, John Mitchell, Dr. Albert Shaw, Archbishop Ireland, Seth Low, Augustus Hand, Carroll D. Wright, Dr. Lyman Abbott, Herman Ridder, Clarence H. Mackay, Isaac N. Seligman, M. E. Ingalls, Sorenson Pratt, Benjamin Ide Wheeler, John G. Milburn, Charles G. Dawes, E. F. Rieupey, F. S. Groscup, Ellison A. Smythe, Franklin Macveagh and Prof. F. W. Taussig of Harvard.

New York, April 9.—Dr. Sion Flexner, head of the Rockefeller institute, declines to discuss the discovery of a serum for the cure of spinal meningitis, which it was reported he was to use in an effort to stamp out an epidemic of the disease said to exist in a small village near Louisville, Dr. Flexner admitted that he had made some discoveries relating to the treatment of spinal meningitis, but would say no more than that there was "something new" in his method of treatment. As to the new serum, Dr. Flexner said that he could not be certain of its efficiency, as it had never been tried on a human being.

WIRES ARE NUISANCE

Council Wants Understanding With Electric Companies on Conduit.

Commerce Street Work Stopped—Cook Hearing Postponed.

The city council has commenced a campaign to get the unsightly poles and wires of the various electrical companies under ground as far as possible and, according to a number of the aldermen, the move will be pushed as far as possible. An ineffective attempt was made several weeks ago to get a report from the electric companies in regard to their plans for placing wires underground during the coming season, and last evening Alderman Moore introduced a resolution requesting the city engineer to submit a detailed report of what wires have already been placed underground, and what of them are still above ground, within the district prohibited by the ordinance.

Yesterday afternoon a committee from the various companies met with the board of public works and a number of the aldermen and discussed the topic generally, considering plans for the work and being quite generally agreed as to the advisability of the conduit system over the overhead wires. No definite decision was reached, however, as one of the prominent electric companies was not represented at the meeting and the other companies did not want to handicap themselves by agreeing to undertake obligations not required of the competing company.

"We want to arrange to get a little of the conduit work done each year, until ultimately all the wires in the main portion and principal residence portions of the city are underground," said Alderman Moore, discussing the subject last evening. "I think we can arrange this very easily and it will be an immense benefit to our city. Some of the companies are badly behind all the ordinance all the wires are to be removed from Michigan street. We have two plans in mind for getting the wires off East Superior street, either laying the wires in conduits in the alleys or under the Superior street sidewalks."

The board of public works was discussed by the council last evening to discontinue the work on Commerce street, which has just been begun by Contractor Hugh Steele, pending the decision of the court upon an injunction brought in the district court to prevent the assessments being levied by the board.

The Commerce street question is a direct result of the railroad assessment question, and brings up a new phase of the evil of exempting the railroad companies from assessments. In the case of Commerce street, the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha railroad wanted the street under its own use, and a vote was taken, notwithstanding the exemption from assessment to pay its share of the work as determined by the board of public works. The board, under this condition, decided that the railroad was a legal signer, and with that question settled, the city engineer, F. W. Steele, signed the petition and proceeded with the work.

The rest of the property owners, headed by the Dickerman investment company, have now issued an injunction against the assessment, on the ground that the petition was not legal, in that the charter states that petitioners must represent one-fourth of the "assessment property" along the line of the improvement.

In consideration of the fact that the case against Moses B. Cook is still pending before Judge Cant, the hearing which was set for last evening, at which Mr. Cook was to show cause why his license should not be revoked was put over one week by the court.

The police department was authorized by the council to purchase one horse, and to spend not over $400 on repairs on the old patrol wagon, for use at the West Duluth station. Alderman Filatrault pointed out that with the steel plant in near prospect, the police would have their hands full of the bustling western end of the city, and the patrol wagon was fast becoming a necessity. A motion was passed without opposition.

After some discussion H. W. Chestnut was granted a license to run a pavilion adjacent to Lincoln Park, in the West end. There was considerable objection to the granting of a permit last year by the residents in the immediate vicinity, but it was pointed out that since Mr. Chestnut had been in charge there had been no kicks registered, and the license was granted on a vote of nine to five.

CROOKSTON NOT IN ANY DANGER

Of Damage by Floods—Seeding Operations Are Delayed.

Crookston, Minn., April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The high water at Fargo and Grand Forks caused apprehension on the part of many that Crookston and other cities and towns on the Red Lake river would suffer by a similar inconvenience, but with the snow practically all gone and the river at this point but a few inches higher than ordinary, all possibilities of high water have vanished as far as the snow is concerned.

It would take a rise of eighteen feet in the Red Lake river from its present stage to cause an overflow of water into the flats in this city.

Owing to the fact that the weather of the past week has been cool, the seeding operations will not commence generally as early as was expected two weeks ago. While it has not been cold, it has not been warm enough to open the main ditches to carry the water off. The lateral ditches on the fields have been open for several days,

ROOT TO LEAVE THE CABINET

Reported to be Out of Harmony With Roosevelt Policies.

New York, April 8.—One of the flood of rumors following the excitement of the past week because of the sensational charges made at the White House concerning a widespread conspiracy against the president, is that Elihu Root is to leave the cabinet. The reason given for his reported retirement is that he is out of harmony with the administration, and that this has been growing more evident as the political picture of the president has developed. The story goes that Secretary Root strongly urged the president not to answer the charges, but to ignore them. He is also said to have been greatly surprised at the action of the president in giving out the remarkable story of the rich men's conspiracy against him and his policies.

There is also some basis in the rumor of Root's retirement in the fact that the president has come out so strongly in favor of Secretary Taft for the next Republican nomination. For a time looked as if Mr. Roosevelt wanted Root as his successor, and it is believed encouraged the secretary of state in this idea. If Root has any presidential aspirations he could more consistently foster them out of the cabinet than as a member of the president's official family in the present state of affairs.

When Mr. Root consented to return to Washington, it was known that he did so very reluctantly and at the sacrifice of large business opportunities. Mrs. Root is also known to have no particular fondness for Washington, and especially for the social life here. She has refused to extend to some of the cabinet women that measure of cordiality that would naturally be supposed to exist among the wives of officials occupying the same rank.

Secretary Root's relations with many of the largest New York financial interests was that of attorney and client, and anyone who knows the nature of the president's policy in regard to the trusts, and the president's attitude toward such an extremist as the New York publisher, still there is a wide distance between them on many of the policies now being urged by Roosevelt.

While this rumor of Root's retirement cannot be traced to any authentic source, it is nevertheless being disseminated here and in Washington and being seriously discussed in official circles.

Illegal Union Cuts Out

Based on his decision on the fact that Mary Erickson, who died at Eveleth five years ago, was living illegally with Frank Erickson up to the time of her death, Probate Judge Middlecott has decided that the claim of Frank Erickson against the estate of the deceased.

By reason of the facts connected with the death of the deceased, the case has attracted considerable interest among the Eveleth people who knew the Ericksons. The court records show that Mary Erickson died Sept. 25, 1902, that Nell Middlecott was appointed administrator of her estate July 11, 1902, and that Frank Erickson's claim against the estate amounted to nearly $2,000, was heard Jan. 22 last. W. G. Bonham appearing for Erickson and for the administrator, and the heirs at law.

Erickson's claim was for material furnished and labor performed on a house in Eveleth, also for money claimed to have been paid out by him. The administrator and heirs at law opposed the claim.

Judge Middlecott finds that Frank Erickson, the claimant, is 41 years of age, that he came to the United States in 1882 and worked as a common laborer in the Lacs county, Minn., until May, 1902. The court finds that Mary Erickson, the deceased, began living with Frank Erickson in May, 1896, and that they so continued to live with each other as man and wife until Mary Erickson's death. At that time they had four children living, namely: Gust Anderson, in Sweden, where they had four children living; Erickson, in the United States; Anna, in Sweden; and Ferdinand, in Sweden.

According to the findings, the Ericksons moved to Eveleth and held themselves out to the world as man and wife. Erickson, the claimant, was the father of the children, and Mary Erickson was the mother.

It is also found that in 1899 Mary Erickson died, and that she was the mother of the children. The court finds that Mary Erickson, the deceased, was the mother of the children, and that she was the mother of the children.

SEYMOUR TALKS ON LIFE OF NERO

Life of the Notorious Roman Emperor is Vividly Described.

Charles W. Seymour lectured at the high school last night on "Nero." In his address he dealt entertainingly with the character of this man, whose name has been the symbol of crime and debauchery for so many centuries. He characterized Nero as "a sort of bastard Caesar who followed the great one with crooked footsteps."

Mr. Seymour described the great change which had taken place in Rome since the time of Caesar. Rome was no longer governed by her people; she had passed under the one-man power. The senate carried out not the will of the people, but that of the emperor's master. He told of the customs of the Roman people and pictured vividly a Roman funeral.

Mr. Seymour described the processes by which Nero secured the throne and told of the influence with Seneca, the great philosopher, exerted over him. Nero, he said, had had blood in him. His ancestors were men of strong passions and inordinate ambitions. It needed a strong character to overcome these drawbacks and Nero was not a man of strong character.

Mr. Seymour characterized Nero as a born coward and a man who had no real sense of duty. He was a man who was vainly ambitious. He had an insatiable hunger for fame and power. It was on account of this that he condescended to play in the theaters before the Roman people and make a fool of himself in such various ways.

The description of the great fire in Rome was given by Mr. Seymour in a vivid manner and also the downfall of Nero when his friends deserted him, and Nero himself finally mustered up sufficient courage to take his own life, all the while bewailing the fact that the world must lose so great an artist as himself.

It has been announced that there will be 200 guests in all, but this number includes visitors with the trustees of the institute and their wives.

The chairman is selecting the fifty. He will make fifty friends, but probably he will make hundreds of enemies among the anxious ones waiting for the word of invitation to the banquet.

Unless it Leads You to Do Something Effective.

New York, April 9.—William T. Stead, the English editor, in an address before the New York conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, pleaded for the assistance of American Methodists in the movement for the international peace which is being considered at the next Hague conference.

"Are you American churchmen—members of the church of Jesus Christ—in America willing to take action to secure the enactment of this law as an international statute," he asked, "and say that there shall be a moment's pause before the dogs of war are unleashed?"

"Amen, amen," came in a chorus from all over the church.

"You speak to me of a damn for an amen, unless it leads you to do something to put into effect your prayers," the speaker responded.

He declared that in his visits to various parts of the world he has found no one who thought the Christian church was a force in the world today. Said he:

"You speak to the great men of Europe and ask their opinion of its power and they shrug their shoulders and say that the Christian church has been allowed to go to the devil. Is the church of Christ going to do anything to help in the great work of the nations—the secular uplift of the world? You Methodists are at least the strong church in this American country. If you should decide to put your forces to work to the task that is before us we might have great results from this meeting."

As the speaker sat down there were loud cries of "Yes," from all over the assembly.

A committee of three to draft suitable resolutions was appointed by Bishop Berry.

PEZZULO IS FINED.
Court Assesses Him $35 for Assaulting Polk.

Tony Pezzulo was fined $35 in the district court yesterday afternoon on his plea of guilty to assault in the third degree. He paid his fine and was released from custody.

The previous good character of Pezzulo, who is in the saloon business at Aurora, is said to be a reason for his lenient disposal of his case.

The indictment against Pezzulo charged him with assault in the second degree. It was alleged that he assaulted Frank Polk, a well-known saloon keeper, and made a serious wound in the latter's cheek. After the trial was started Pezzulo asked to change his plea of not guilty to one of guilty to assault in the third degree.

PROFITS COPPER

What $100 Did

Five years ago $100 bought 40 shares of Calumet & Arizona Copper Stock at $2.50 a share. Today those 40 shares are worth about $7,000 and pay an income of $800 per year. Many other copper mines have made comparatively small, but early investors, independently rich.

In 1885 Wolverine sold at 75 cents a share—now sells at $55.00
In 1895 Wolverine sold at 75 cents a share—now sells at $161.00
In 1900 Michigan sold at $3 a share—now sells at $16.60
In 1903 United Copper sold at $4 a share—now sells at $60.00
In 1904 Rhode Island sold at 50 cents a share—now sells at 7.50
In 1905 North Butte sold at $15 a share—now sells at $25.50

Copper is in greater demand and worth more per pound now than ever before. Therefore, stock in a good copper mine that is being energetically developed will multiply in value many times within a very short period. Good stock must have able, honest men behind it; also abundance of ore within easy reach, and a power plant to insure quick and economical development.

The Copper Belt Mines Company whose property is editorially described in Leslie's Weekly of March 14th, possesses all these very essential features.

STOCK GOES TO 50 CENTS APRIL 16, 1907
The Treasury Stock of The Copper Belt Mines Company is now selling at 35 cents a share. It will be 50 cents on or before April 16th. We hesitate to predict how high it will go when we strike the secondary enrichment zone at permanent water level.

The Copper Belt Mines Company controls 800 acres of the best recently discovered copper lands in the United States, located 12 miles south of Lusk, Wyoming, a town on the C. & N. W. railroad, on the same great mineral belt as the Homestake, Sunrise, Ferris-Hagerty, Boone-Hambler and many other exceptionally rich properties.

Over 1,700 feet of development work has been done. Four well defined contact veins, one over a mile in length, show on the property. Until recently mining was done by hand labor. A power plant has now been installed and work is going on day and night with power drills and power hoist. The Lucky Henry mine is already over 300 feet deep in good ore all the way. The assays show from $20 to $250 value in copper per ton, and from $3 to $12 in gold, with some silver. The machinery and labor has all been paid for and the Company has a good cash balance on hand; but the property is a big one and will require additional capital to fully develop and put it on a producing and dividend paying basis. When this occurs the dividends should pay enormous returns on the present low price of shares. Prices are rapidly advancing as development proceeds.

The Company is capitalized at $2,000,000, with no preferred stock or bond issue. Treasury Stock 500,000 shares. Par value of Shares $1.00, fully paid and non-assessable.

The men in charge of the property are President and Consulting Engineer, Edwin Hall, a tried, competent, honest mining engineer, with 25 years of experience; and Secretary, Dr. Geo. E. S. Osborn, of Lincoln, Neb., Professor of Economic Geology, University of Nebraska, vice president, E. S. Averill, Chicago, for years General Superintendent of the United States Express Company; Secretary and Treasurer, Arthur A. Taylor, of Chicago, formerly owner and manager of the Homestake mine; and Assistant Treasurer, H. C. Snyder, the leading merchant of Lusk, Wyoming, also Mayor of Lusk and Cashier of the Bank of Lusk.

Not one of these men would be connected with nor put his own money in anything but a sound business proposition, and their character and standing are a guarantee to the able and honest management of the company and its mines.

Only a Few Days Left to Buy at Present Price
There is still a small block of Treasury Stock left at 35 cents a share cash, or 40 cents if paid one-fifth cash, balance in four equal monthly payments. On April 16th the price of this stock will be 50 cents per share. The price will rise after that date. After April 16th will be promptly returned.

Mail your subscription on or before April 16th for further information. The property, the men in charge, or, better still, visit the mines; but whatever you do, do it before the price advances to 75 cents, $1.00 or more per share. Work is progressing rapidly. See the following telegrams from Mr. Hall show:

St. Paul, April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The house put in time enough this morning, quibbling over the method of procedure on the anti-pass bill to have passed it three times, and then the only result was a little more delay, and the defeat of the senate bill, which could have been passed without involving any delay at all, and which would have been effective at once. Last night when the committee substitute came in, the senate bill and a house bill by Judge Hicks were indefinitely postponed. This morning Representative Rockne moved that the postponement of these bills be reconsidered, and Representative Hicks pointed out that the committee could

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—A move that is expected to take the wind out of the sails of the railroads, if that is not stretching a figure too far, was started last night in the house. Since the railroads will not offer compromise, compromise is to be forced upon them.

A bill was introduced last night by L. C. Spooner for the railroad committee, at the request of Governor John A. Johnson since the time for introducing bills has gone by, which puts upon the statute books a new set of commodity rates.

The order of the railroad commission made some time ago reduced the commodity rates on an average 11 1/2 cents. When compromise was being talked, the railroads first offered to accept a compromise rate reduction of about 13 1/2 per cent, accompanied by a 2 1/2 cent passenger rate.

Since then the 2-cent bill has gone into the statute books, and the theory on which the present bill is based is that reduction will make it impossible for Evansville Ind., April 10.—Thrown into a state of nervous prostration by reading an account published in an evening paper of her supposed death, Mrs. Louise Duley, aged 40 years, expired Sunday night.

Through an error the death of a woman of the same name was represented as having occurred in Mrs. Duley's home, and Saturday evening, as she read the story she fell from her chair to the floor. A physician was called, but was unable to learn the reason of Mrs. Duley's collapse.

She became rational the next day, and after talking a few minutes began to cry: "I am dead. I am dead. I saw it in the paper," and died in hysterics.

JEROME ASKS THAW JURY TO COME OUT OF ROMANTIC FIELDS AND JUDGE SANELY

A Human Life Cannot be Considered in Romance.

ATTORNEY JEROME.

New York, April 10.—All previous crowds were insignificant compared to the mob which stormed the courtroom doors this morning in an effort to hear District Attorney Jerome sum up the state's case against Harry K. Thaw, slayer of Stanford White. Although court was not convened until 11:30 o'clock, fully two hours before that time the advance guard of spectators began to arrive, and took up positions of vantage in the corridors leading to the courtroom, so as to be among the first to be admitted when the doors were opened. The police, however, anticipating just such a move on the part of the out-

Sympathy Should Not be Taken Into Consideration.

In the courtroom when Mr. Jerome rose to address the jury was one of intense interest, expectancy and suppressed excitement.

In the corridors the scenes were more stirring. Scores of disappointed men and women made an onslaught on the police force in the last effort to pass the portals, only to be dragged back from the entrance. Men with imagined influence pleaded with the officers, cajoled, begged and threatened, but all in vain.

About five minutes before the session was begun, members of the Thaw family began to arrive. The first to enter the courtroom was Joseph Thaw. He was accompanied by his sister, the countess of Yarmouth. Mrs. Carnegie

OWEN FOURNIER SAYS HIS BROTHER CONFESSED TO KILLING THE DAHLS

Sensational Testimony Introduced by State in Murder Trial of Paul Fournier at Bemidji.

Bemidji, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The courtroom was crowded at the opening of the Fournier murder trial this morning. The sensational and damaging testimony introduced by the state yesterday had prepared the public for more startling features. The defense announced it would attempt to impeach the testimony of Fournier's brother who said the defendant acknowledged killing the Dahls. The defense also claims to have several surprises in store. It is expected the state will finish its case today, and probably the defense will finish tomorrow and the case go to the jury some time tomorrow evening. Fournier remains firm and composed damaging testimony introduced by the state.

One of the features of the trial yesterday was the introduction of testimony showing that the looking glass in Miss Dahl's cabin was turned toward the wall when the house was first visited after the Dahls disappeared, the object of the state being to connect Fournier with this, as it is claimed he is possessed of a tradition that a looking glass placed in a room where any tragedy occurs will correctly reproduce every move of the principals. Eugene Caldwell, who played so prominent a part last week in the trial of Wesley, was again on the stand for the state. He swore as to hearing a scream and shot on the evening of April 7, 1904 (when it is claimed Dahls were killed) and also as to having visited Fournier's cabin the next day. Witness was not allowed to repeat conversation said to have been had between himself and one William Krueger relative to killing of the Dahls.

In the afternoon the state began closing in on its thread of circumstantial evidence, and also introduced statements alleged to have been made by Fournier that he would kill old man Dahl, and also the sworn statement of his brother, Owen Fournier, and the latter's wife, that Paul had killed the Dahls and had five more up in the woods around Quiring whom he would kill. An effort was made by the

JUDGE ROOSEVELT: "I THINK HE IS SUFFERING FROM BRAIN STORM."

PHIL McCREARY, GIVEN UP FOR DEAD BY FRIENDS, RETURNS TO HIS HOME

MRS. IDA VON CLAUSSEN,
Who Hates the President, Minister Graves and Several Other Dignitaries.

News Tribune Solicitor, Thought to be Drowned, Comes Back.

Fell While Leaving Boat and Struck Head on Stone.

Climbed Into Box Car and Awoke in Strange Hospital.

After being mourned as dead for eight months by his young wife and other relatives and friends, Phil McCreary, an advertising solicitor for the Duluth News-Tribune, thought to have met his death by drowning in Spirit lake last August, arrived in Duluth from Seattle, Wash., this morning and is now at the home of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Minnie Stenson, 82 West Second street.

Mr. McCreary's experience is one of the most peculiar which has ever befallen a Duluth citizen, and for several months he claims to have wandered around, not knowing where he was or what he was doing.

The excitement caused by his supposed drowning last August is well remembered. The boat, from which he had been fishing, with his hat and overcoat in it and the line caught in the gunwale, the pole dragging in the water, was found adrift in Spirit lake. As Mr. McCreary did not put in an appearance, the only conclusion, which could be drawn, was that he had drowned. The lake was thoroughly dragged for several days, but the body not being found, the search was given up and his relatives and friends resigned themselves to the inevitable.

Great was the joy of his family and friends this morning, when he ap-

STRUCK ON HEAD WITH AX HANDLE

Frank Frawley Dies From Injuries Received in Drunken Row.

Grand Rapids, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—What has every indication of being murder has been unearthed here through the death, at the Benedicline Sisters' hospital, last Saturday, of a man supposed to be Frank Frawley, who received injuries at Big Fork last Tuesday and was brought to the hospital here.

Not much has been revealed by the county officers relative to the circumstances surrounding the death of Frawley, but it is known that he was struck on the head with an ax handle or some other blunt instrument.

James Maher and John Irvin are being held in the county jail awaiting the outcome of the investigation which is being conducted. It is known that Frawley's death was the direct result of a drunken row, in which the dead man, Maher and Irvin participated.

DEPRESSES THE MARKET

Strike at Bisbee and Other Camps Has Bad Effect.

Copper stocks went off today on reports of strike troubles at Bisbee and other camps and on predictions of lower prices for copper metal from Boston.

This afternoon Walter W. Carr received the following message from Bisbee: "The strike began at 7 o'clock this morning and 50 per cent of the miners went out. More will follow. All of the mines are badly crippled."

The listed shares opened about unchanged and went off afterwards. The unlisted shares had a depressed tone from the outset.

North Butte opened at 91.75, advanced to 92.25, declined to 90 and closed at 90.25 bid and 90.50 asked. Anaconda opened at 90.75, advanced to 91.25, declined to 90.25, and closed at 90.25 bid and 90.50 asked. Anaconda opened at 90.25, advanced to 90.75, declined to 89.75, and closed at 89.75 bid and 90.00 asked. Calumet & Arizona opened at 104, declined to 103, rallied to 103.50 and closed at 103.50 bid and 103.75 asked.

Green-Canaan sold at 17, declined to 16.37 1/2 and closed at 16.37 1/2 bid and 16.62 1/2 asked. Canadian Central closed at 25.50 asked.

Superior & Pittsburg sold at 18.50, advanced to 18.75, declined to 18.12 1/2 and closed at 18.12 1/2 bid and 18.50 asked. Globe Consolidated sold at 12, advanced to 12.50 and closed at 12.50 bid and 13.00 asked.

Warren sold at 22.25 and closed at 22.25 bid and 22.50 asked. Keweenaw at 39.75 and closed at 39.75 bid and 40.00 asked. Copper Queen of Idaho at 11.50 and closed at 11.75 bid and 12.00 asked. National sold at 70 cents and closed 65 cents bid and 70 cents asked.

Don-Arizona was inactive and closed at 9.50 bid and 10.00 asked. Hancock at 2.75 bid and 3.00 asked. Carman at 44 bid and 44.50 asked. Calumet & Sonora at 22 asked. Calumet & Montana at 11 bid and 11.25 asked. Clifton at 53.75 bid and 54.00 asked. Black Mountain sold at 66.25 and closed at 66.25 bid and 66.50 asked.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Globe Consolidated Copper company is being held this afternoon at the company's general offices in the Lonsdale building. The election of directors and other business is being disposed of.

In their latest letter from Boston, Hayden, Stone & Co. say of the copper metal:

"During the month of February the imports of copper into this country were within a million or two pounds of the amount of exports. The decline in the export of copper from this country during the past two years has been something phenomenal—quite as much so as the rapid increase in the exports of a few years back."

"It is a question as to just how much the high price of the metal has to do with this cessation of net exports. For one thing, it is remarkable that in this time of supposed business activity in Europe, the consumers of copper over there have been able to get along without any supplies from this country. It is quite as remarkable that in the known great activity in this country our own consumers have been able to take care of practically the entire output of the mines of this country and the two adjacent countries."

These figures have tremendous significance as to what may happen in the copper market when our own home trade begins once more to expand. It does seem as though this decline of net exports of copper must be creating a void abroad into which great deal of our surplus product will find a way if the price of copper ever declines moderately."

NEW CAR PLANT FOR SUPERIOR

A plant for the manufacture of cars in Superior is projected by the Great Northern, according to President Louis W. Hill, who is making an inspection of terminals at the Head of the Lakes today. He also stated that the Great Northern will put in large yards on the Superior bay front, and that several private parties are contemplating the construction of docks along the bay front for various purposes.

The Great Northern has extensive yards and terminals in Superior already, and it has been expected all along that further extensive improvements would be made there this year. The capacity of the present terminals has been heavily taxed during the last year or two, and an increase in their size has become a necessity. Probably the new plans will call for the construction of several miles of new track.

Bitten by a Spider. Through blood poisoning caused by a spider bite, John Washington of Rosqueville, Tex., would have lost his leg, which became a mass of running sores, had he not been persuaded to try Buckner's Aranea Salve. He writes: "The first application relieved, and four boxes healed all the sores. I feel every sore."

JURY WILL FIX REALTY VALUE

A jury in Judge Dill's room in the district court is hearing today the testimony of a number of the local real estate experts in the matter of the condemnation proceedings instituted by the Wisconsin Central Railway company. Following the returns made by the appraisers, some of the property owners and the railway company appeared from the findings of the commission. One of these cases, the only one to be tried this term, is now being heard.

The property owner involved is George Freeman, who owns a tract on the lower side of Michigan street, between Thirteenth and Fourteenth avenues west, with a frontage of 55 feet on Michigan street and 100 feet deep. Mr. Freeman thinks that the appraisers did not give him enough for the property, and the railway company thinks they gave him too much. The jury is to decide what amount shall constitute a fair equivalent for the realty.

MARINE NEWS

THEY WILL RUN BEHIND TUGS BEGIN ON THE ICE

Trip of Rogers and Weston Will Not be Profitable.

Owners Will be Out Several Hundreds of Dollars.

The first trip of the steamers Rogers and Weston this season will be an expensive one to the owners, according to the belief of local vesselmen who predict that owing to the long wait at the Sault, the expenses of operating the two boats on the first trip will amount to a sum considerably above that which the company will receive for transporting the two cargoes of coal to Duluth.

In order to be among the first boats to get started for Lake Superior the Rogers and Weston have been compelled to wait at Detroit for six days already and they must wait several days longer in all probability unless they discharge their cargoes and return to the lower lakes for Duluth on April 1, passed. Detroit on last Wednesday and have been held at Detroit since that time.

It was estimated by Duluth marine men yesterday that the daily expenses of the steamers must amount to over $20 each besides the insurance, and crews have been on each for nearly twelve days, so that if they are tied up at the Sault until the 15th the expenses will amount to nearly $300.

The rate on coal to Duluth from the Lake Erie ports is about 40 cents a ton, so that the expense of the trip for each boat will be about $500. If the trip is successful the owners will be out several hundred dollars on the first trip.

WINS FIRST ROUND.

Court Decides Legal Point in Favor of Boat Company.

The first round in an ancient battle between the Western Transit company and the Great Northern Railroad company has been decided in favor of the boat company. The Western Transit company has been successful in getting down the drawspan of the interstate bridge between Superior and Duluth last summer and which was afterwards located by the railroad company, owner of the bridge.

When the case came up for hearing before the United States district court at Madison, Wis., the railroad company's attorney argued that an admiralty court has jurisdiction to try a case of a vessel colliding with a bridge. The court held in favor of the railroad company has appeared to the United States supreme court.

The steamer was loaded for $10,000. H. E. Spencer of the United States Western Transit company and C. E. Kramer of Chicago, the Great Northern company.

Cargoes Are Scarce.

Cleveland, April 10.—The scarcity of cargoes for Lake Superior ports has caused a number of ships to come down light to load coal. The steamer Earlings is due here from Milwaukee. Coal tonnage continues in good demand.

New Insurance Company.

Cleveland, April 10.—The advance in insurance rates has caused the formation of a new insurance company with a capital and surplus of $250,000 to enter the field for lake business. The conditions of the policy of the new company, aside from rates, are the same as those of the American companies and the English combine. A local fleet was covered by the new firm yesterday and several vesselmen have agreed to do business at the cut.

To Get More Strength from Your Food.

WHEN the bowels are filled with undigested food, it may be a great deal worse off than if we were half starved.

Because food that stays too long in the bowels decays there, just as it if it stayed too long in the open air.

Well, when food decays in the bowels, through delayed and overdue action, what happens?

The millions of little Suction Pumps that line the bowels and intestines then draw poison from the decayed food, instead of the nourishment they were intended to draw.

This poison gets into the blood and, in time, spreads all over the body, unless the Cause of Constipation is promptly removed.

That cause of Constipation is Weak, or Lazy Bowel Muscles.

When your Bowel-Muscles grow flabby they need Exercise to strengthen them, not "Physic" to pamper them.

There's only one kind of Artificial Exercise for the Bowel-Muscles. Its name is "CASCARETS," and its price is Ten Cents a box.

So, if you want the same natural action that a six mile walk in the country would give you, (without the weariness) take one Cascaret at a time, with intervals between, till you reach the exact condition you desire.

One Cascaret at a time will properly cleanse a foul Breath, or Coated Tongue.

Don't fail to carry the Vest Pocket Cascaret Box with you constantly.

All Druggists sell them—over ten million boxes a year.

M'MANUS SENT TO PENITENTIARY

Forger's Mother Makes Plea to Court for Leniency.

James McManus, who was convicted a few weeks ago on an indictment charging forgery in the second degree, was sentenced by Judge Ensign yesterday afternoon, to a term of two years at hard labor in the state penitentiary.

In passing sentence the court referred to a letter which he had from the mother of the young man, in which she made a strong plea for leniency, claiming that her boy was a "good" son until he fell in with bad company.

The court talked very earnestly to McManus, and urged him, when he shall have served his time, to return to his mother and endeavor to lead a better life.

McManus was accused of passing a forged check for $175, in a saloon at Eveleveth. He claimed that he was given the check by a man named Martindale, who also alleged to have said that it was all right.

TESTIMONY IS SENSATIONAL

Dealings on the Superior Board of Trade Are Farcical.

Minneapolis, April 10.—Sensational testimony given by A. S. Hicks, a former broker at the Superior board of trade, together with the evidence of A. W. Harris given Saturday, indicates that the local chamber of commerce in its action against the board has unearthed a big bucketshop scandal affecting the Twin Cities, Cincinnati, St. Louis, Omaha, Kansas City and other Western cities.

The action of the chamber is brought to prevent the use of its quotations by the superior board, the Wisconsin Grain & Stock company and the Superior clearing house, all of which concerns are made defendants to the suit. The chamber alleged that these companies are all affiliated and funded are connected with the Edwards-Wood company, against whom it obtained an injunction some months ago.

A. S. Hicks testified that he was hired by the Edwards-Wood company at its office in St. Paul and sent to Superior with instructions "to trade and make a market." That while there he bought and sold many hundred thousand bushels of wheat without orders from Wood or any one else for his sales or purchases.

And further, that his transactions were all with two men whom he knew to be in Edwards-Wood employ. The substance of his lengthy testimony was that the dealing on the Superior board was farcical.

A similar action against the Superior board has been brought by the Chicago board of trade and the testimony of nearly 10 witnesses has been taken in that suit. The case is being continued in the federal court.

DRUNKENNESS CURED

It will be gratifying to all lovers of temperance and a happy home to know that a simple and a scientific cure for the whiskey and beer habit has been discovered.

Ortine never fails to cure drunkenness if it is used in accordance with the simple directions in the package, and the discoverer has so much confidence in the treatment that we are authorized to sell it with an absolute guarantee, to effect a cure or the money will be refunded.

It is in two forms: No. 1 to be given secretly, and No. 2, for those who wish to be cured, at each, Mothers and sisters have told us of husbands and brothers who since they were given Ortine, in many cases without their knowledge, have lost all desire for drink, and we are glad to recommend the remedy, in all cases, filled. The Ortine Co., Washington, D. C., or F. W. Kugler & Co., 108 West Superior St., Duluth.

MUST PACK SUPPLIES

Roads to Farming Settlements Are Impassable to Teams.

Farmers Have to Carry Provisions on Their Backs.

Otto Zebott of Hermantown called at the office of The Herald last evening and told a tale of woe in behalf of the farmers in his district. He said the roads between Duluth and Hermantown and other locations in the vicinity are simply impassable for vehicles of any kind and the farmers are driven to the dire straits of being compelled to walk to the city for their provisions. When a farmer is out of supplies, he takes a sack under his arm and wades through several miles of mud and mire to Duluth. Securing his provisions, he puts them in the sack and with the pack on his back repeats the weary trudge through the mud to his own domicile.

"Conditions up in that district have seldom been so bad in the spring," said Mr. Zebott. "We cannot use our wagons on the roads at all and walking through several miles of mud to come to Duluth is no pleasant experience. The Hermantown road is absolutely impassable to teams. Several of the farmers have tried to drive their horses through the mud, only to become stalled and be forced to turn back after freezing themselves."

The farmers have opened the Maple Grove road to the city limits, but there the passable condition ends and the city authorities have refused to do anything to remedy the conditions.

Board of Pardon Refuses to Interfere in His Case.

The state board of pardons has refused to grant a pardon to James J. Shelterey of this city, who has been sentenced to a 20-months' term in the state penitentiary for larceny.

Shelterey was sentenced March 20 since that date awaiting the action of the board of pardons. He has been refused a new trial by the district court, and the ruling of the court has been confirmed by the supreme court. The board of pardons was Shelterey's last resort, and now that it has refused to interfere he must go to Stillwater and serve his term of imprisonment.

Shelterey was proprietor of a saloon on West Superior street, near the incline railway. He was convicted of having taken $30 from a drunken man in his place of business a year ago last February.

WILLOUGHBY WANTED

Warrants Out for an Alleged Prince of Land Swindlers.

Des Moines, Iowa, April 10.—Warrants were sworn out here yesterday for Dillon C. C. Willoughby, a land agent, who has been operating in several Western cities. He said he was the representative of the Natural Valley Land company, and in this county he sold $50,000 worth of government land to which he had no rights or title.

Among his victims was James W. Jones, chief of police, and officials who thought they saw a chance to get rich quickly.

ACQUITTED ON ONE CHARGE

Second Case Still Hanging Over Hamilton, a Soo Brakeman.

Thief River Falls, Minn., April 10.—R. B. Hamilton, the Soo brakeman who was indicted for criminal assault upon the person of Bertha Christanson two weeks ago, was acquitted after ten hours' discussion by the jury. He was bound over to the full term on the second charge, that of indecent assault, which was fixed at $2,000 and was furnished.

Indictments against Minnie Smith and Fred Hannibal and Myrtle Monroe and Tom Butler, for running resorts, were returned by the grand jury. All concerned pleaded guilty and were fined $200 each and costs, with notices that the next offense would result in the maximum punishment. Other cases which occupied the attention of the court were:

Erbraham & Slinger, verdict for $31.50 for plaintiff.

Ed Ambol vs. St. Hilare & Crookston Lumber company, damage suit on account of sawage rights; verdict for plaintiff for $519.16.

The first annual class play of the local high school was presented before a 100 house.

OBJECT TO TAXES.

Two Corporations File Answer in Tax Proceedings.

Admitting, in its answer to the suit brought to enforce the collection of the personal property taxes for 1906, that its valuation of $2,850, as fixed by the city assessor, was not high enough, the Fred Miller Brewing company has complained of the raise in valuation of $10,000 by the county board of equalization, and signifies its willingness to pay taxes on a valuation of $5,424.04.

The Cluquet Lumber company objects to a personal property tax of $27.13, with penalty, and claims that its business is all transacted at Cluquet, and that it pays its taxes in Carlton county.

TWO MEN POISONED FOR PURPOSE OF ROBBERY.

Fort Scott, Kan., April 10.—Joseph McKulecky, aged 65, and Josef Salava, aged 35 years, both of whom lived near Burlington, Kan., where they owned farms, were poisoned by a stranger here Monday night, evidently for the purpose of robbery. Both men died a few minutes after they had been found in a dark side street.

McKulecky was Salava's father-in-law. They had recently sold their farms and were on the way to Springfield, Mo., to look for a new location. They were met here by a stranger who engaged them in conversation and offered them whiskey, which they drank. They were taken violently ill and fell ill in the street. The stranger fled.

The presentation was by M. alm, stage manager for the actor for several years. With tears in his eyes Willard accepted the token and then solemnly pledged the health of the company in the contents of the cup and it was passed from lip to lip by the others. WARM DISPUTE OVER DIVISION OF ROAD FUNDS

Range Commissioners Claim They Are Not Getting Fair Show.

Say the City Members Fixed Matters to Suit Themselves.

Second district, Commissioner Fischer.....	$14,500
Fourth district, Commissioner McMahon.....	14,500
Fifth district, Commissioner Kauppi.....	16,500
Sixth district, Commissioner McMahon.....	14,500
Seventh district, Commissioner Ryan.....	14,500
City of Duluth.....	5,000
Miller Trunk road.....	5,000
Painting of bridges.....	600
Total.....	$85,100

The foregoing division of the St. Louis county road funds was made among the commissioner districts at the meeting of the county board yesterday afternoon, after a protracted and somewhat stormy session.

The total amount of the road levy is $95,000, but allowance is generally made for a certain percentage that will probably not be collected and the board usually figures on holding a little in reserve to meet any emergency that might arise.

The resolution making the road appropriations for the year was introduced by Commissioner John Sundeen of this city. Its presentation was the signal for immediate and vigorous discussion in which Commissioners Ryan, McMahon and Fischer took part.

Mr. Ryan's district as for Mr. Kauppi's. The remarks at times grew heated, especially when Commissioner Ryan asserted that Commissioner Kauppi had made institutions that will probably not be collected and the board usually figures on holding a little in reserve to meet any emergency that might arise.

Chairman Patterson claimed that former Commissioner Ryan had appropriated $35,000 last year, but that only $5,055.32 was spent for the reason that the remainder was taken to use on roads in some of the other districts. He claimed that there is still about $1,000 to $1,500 worth of road work to pay for in Mr. Fischer's district.

Commissioner Ryan declared that the range districts have been sending representatives to the state legislature to fight against the proposed tax amendment as detrimental to the interests of St. Louis county, but that the resolution was introduced by Commissioner Sundeen would, if passed, be as detrimental to the range districts as the tax amendment. He said:

"The district which I represent pays $50,000 in taxes to St. Louis county, yet you propose to give us back only $14,500 for roads, while Commissioner Kauppi's district, which pays less than one-eighth of the taxes is to get back $16,500. Is that justice? If the distribution were anywhere near equal, we should not kick. You take $50,000 from the district that needs the money most for roads and distribute the largest share of the road money over the district which already has the most roads in the county. It is a good deal of a farce for this board to propose, under the circumstances, giving my district back only $14,500."

Commissioner McMahon maintained that a fair division would be to give Mr. Ryan's district as much as Mr. Kauppi's district.

Commissioner Kauppi thought that was not fair. He argued that until the last six or seven years the lower part of the county paid the most taxes.

Commissioner Ryan said he would not dispute Mr. Kauppi's statement, but he wanted the commissioners to remember that ever since the range roads have been opened up the lower end of the county has been getting the benefit of the taxes from the upper end.

He declared that the range townships who have their own appropriation for road purposes cannot spend the money on county roads.

Commissioner McMahon said he could not understand why Commissioner Kauppi should get the lion's share of the road funds when Kauppi had but forty-eight townships in his district, while Ryan has fifty-eight and McMahon fifty townships in his district.

Commissioner Kauppi answered this by declaring that it up to the board to spend the money where it is most needed for roads.

The county has been building roads in Kauppi's district for the past twenty years," argued Commissioner Ryan, "but up to within four years ago only $200 was spent on roads in my district. At the present time the main farming district of the county is confined to the Pike River, the Sturgeon River and the Fork River valleys. That is the very country you have been neglecting. If you fellows from Duluth don't find the farmers as thick as the people along Superior street, you say we haven't any farmers. The city of Duluth get ten times as much benefit from the ranges as it does from the little farming community within a radius of ten miles of Duluth."

More for Miller Road. Commissioner McMahon then expressed dissatisfaction over the $5,000 appropriation for the Miller Trunk road which, he said, was not enough to cover the repair work needed. He offered an amendment that Commissioner Ryan's district be given $7,000, and that the Miller Trunk road appropriation be increased to $7,000. The amendment was lost.

Commissioner McMahon then offered an amendment that Commissioner Ryan's district be given $15,000, that $7,000 be appropriated for the Miller Trunk road, $5,000 for the city of Duluth, $600 for painting bridges, and that all the rest of the road districts be given $14,500 each.

Commissioner Kauppi and Patterson maintained that this arrangement would exceed the available amount of money in the levy.

Amendment Is Lost. The amendment came to a vote, however, and was lost. Commissioners Patterson, Fischer, Sundeen and Kauppi voting against it.

When the result of the vote was announced Commissioner Ryan declared that the range commissioners expected just that sort of treatment. He declared that the only thing that is taken into consideration on the division of the road funds is whether the money is going to be spent in the vicinity of Duluth while the people who pay the largest portion of the taxes are left to get along the best way they can. He commented sarcastically on the grateful feeling the range districts have for the "fair and honorable treatment" accorded them by the commissioners from Duluth.

WANTS WEEK TO CLEAN UP

Dr. Murray Thinks Mayor Should Extend Time for Cleaning.

Very Few Cases of Contagious Diseases Now in City.

According to Dr. Murray of the health department, Duluth is dirtier this spring than it has been for years. The heavy and frequent falls of snow during the past winter have covered up refuse so fast that there has been practically no garbage removal in the city, and absolutely none in the outlying residence portions. As a result the melting of the charitable covering of the beautiful has revealed a condition of unsanitary filth throughout the city.

"I am going to ask the mayor to appoint a week for cleaning up this year," said Dr. Murray. "Whenever he has appointed one day in the past it has rained pitchfork all day and the effect has been practically nil. If he appoints a whole week there will be no excuses for citizens not having their place cleaned up by Saturday night and I want the help of every man, woman and child in the city during that week. Duluth is disgracefully dirty now, but if everyone will get together on the cleaning up proposition we can make her as clean as any city in the United States in a week."

Dr. Murray also promises a rigid cellar inspection this spring, saying that not a cellar in the city shall escape. "I believe that mould in the cellars weaves shrouds for the chambers above," says the doctor and he set out after the mould in consequence.

At the meeting of the West Duluth Commercial club a little while ago, Dr. Murray presented a proposition to the club to have the cleaning up proposition by the citizens of the western end of the city and, in the past Dr. Murray says that if interest is any index, the West Duluth population will respond with as energetic a movement as any part of the city when it comes to cleaning up.

Contagious diseases are thoroughly under control in all parts of the city, and the prospect is for a complete freedom of them within the next two months.

The smallpox contribution from the unacquainted persons which has more or less complicated conditions here in regard to the disease during the winter, has been completely overcome. There are six cases of diphtheria in the city, but of these five are severely quarantined in the hospitals and are rapidly recovering. The department has narrowly averted off a number of very threatening epidemics of this disease during the winter, and the city has, on one or two occasions, been much closer to experiencing a serious epidemic of diphtheria than the health authorities like to admit.

It is very doubtful if another city the size of Duluth, or any larger city can show as clean a bill of health as Duluth does today in every way. A total of forty cases of diphtheria, and contagious diseases in the city is certainly a record to be proud of, especially at this season of the year.

CHURCH CAR TO TOUR THE WEST
Catholic Chapel on Wheels to Reach Remote Sections.

Chicago, April 10.—A perambulating Roman Catholic chapel, costing $20,000 has been turned over to the Roman Catholic Church Extension society by the Pullman Palace Car company. It is a gift from the company to the city of New York.

The church on wheels has all the fixtures of a private car, and, in addition, there is a decorated chapel. The chapel itself is sixty feet long, and it will seat sixty-five persons. An organ has been installed. The car will be used in visiting remote parts of the Southwest and Northwest which have no Catholic churches. The car will not leave the United States.

Senator Connor died recently, leaving an estate valued at over $2,000,000, which now will revert to their 15-year-old adopted daughter.

BROOM FACTORY BURNS.
Amsterdam, N. Y., April 9.—The plant of the Amsterdam Broom company, the largest of its kind in the country, was completely destroyed by fire early today, causing a loss of $100,000. LIVERYMAN IS FOOLED BY A NANTUCKET RAT.
Nantucket, Mass., April 10.—Robert K. Appleton, a well known liveryman of the town, was yesterday fooled by a clever gray rat that prowls about his barn on Lyons street, and is a prize fowl.

He breeds some choice specimens among the largest of the last few months has been pestered by a rat. He has frequently caught a big intelligent fellow with long whiskers, "tittin' night and morning, upon the rat's nose, while the man doing his chores.

All sorts of tempting bait were tried, but the rat would not enter the trap. Attempts to shoot him were unsuccessful.

ful, for he could apparently smell gun powder a long way off, and kept in seclusion when a gun was around. Mr. Appleton decided to try some "Rat Bait" and just before dusk laid one of the crackers high up on the rat's favorite beam. Next morning it had disappeared, but Appleton found ten of his prize birds stretched out in the rigors of death, with pieces of the poisoned biscuit scattered about.

Mr. Rat was calmly sitting on the beam, reviewing the scene, possibly chuckling to himself over the way he had turned the tables.

Mr. Appleton vows revenge for the death of his birds, but is at a loss how to capture the intelligent little pest.

ONE OF "SPOTLESS 28"
Of Pittsburgh Was Once Whipped by an Irate Husband.

Pittsburgh, Pa., April 10.—There were smiles here when it became known that Arthur Nevin, composer, author and "good citizen," would marry Mrs. Maude Nevin, recently divorced from her husband, Dr. David A. Dean of this city.

Nevin was one of the twenty-seven white men who, with one negro, composed the twenty-eight "distinguished sons of Pittsburgh," as held up by the chamber of commerce at its annual banquet.

Dr. Dean said: "So Maude and Arthur are going to be married. Well, that doesn't surprise me, and I hope they will be happy. They have been acquainted a long time. He was a frequent visitor in my home when Mrs. Dean and I were together. She frequently told me that the 'artistic temperament' of which she appealed to her, I whipped him once, and I am kind of it."

HE BET ON HARRIMAN AND LOST THE DINNER
New York, April 10.—Belief in the philanthropic spirit of E. H. Harriman cost a Brooklyn dinner, which was enjoyed by his business associates in the Brooklyn club.

Several men interested in the building of the Academy of Music suggested that it would be a fine thing to get a contribution from Mr. Harriman. William Berry offered to bet a dinner that the men would come back with a good-sized check. They didn't.

LECTURE ON CHILD LABOR

Rev. Miller Will Talk at Trades Assembly Meeting.

Union Organists Have Taken Great Interest in Question.

Rev. Kirby S. Miller of the Unitarian church will address the members of organized labor at the meeting of the trades assembly, Friday evening. His subject will be on "Child Labor," and it is expected that there will be a full attendance of delegates and other unionists to hear the address.

Several addresses and sermons have been given on the child labor question by Mr. Miller, and they have all been well received. The trades assembly and other labor organizations have taken an emphatic stand against the wrongs of child labor, and several resolutions were drawn up and sent to congress during its recent session.

The address for Friday evening was arranged for by the lecture and entertainment committee of the trades assembly, and was announced at the meeting held two weeks ago. The address will probably not be given until the other regular and special business of the meeting is concluded, but this will likely be hurried through in order to give Mr. Miller more time.

An important question which will probably come up at the meeting will be that of securing a new hall for the trades assembly and the local unions in Duluth. The present hall, known as the Labor World hall, in the Manhattan building, must be vacated on May 1, and up to the present time no suitable substitute has been found.

The committee from the trades assembly was ordered at the last meeting to furnish a definite report on the hall matter at the coming meeting, but it is said that its members have been unable to find a hall which can be rented for the sum the unions can afford to pay.

Some time ago there was talk of building a labor temple, or converting some hall into such a labor headquarters, and this may be done within a couple of years, but for the present the different unions will probably be compelled to find meeting places anywhere about the city, and they will consequently be badly scattered.

ALLEGED THAT HE MARRIED 150

Handsome Old Man as Chief Figure in Marriage Syndicate.

New York, April 10.—Philadelphia police announce that they expect to obtain from women in New York city and throughout the state evidence of a gigantic black and robbery conspiracy in history, as a result of the arrest of Westerner and Miss Teenie Marshall, or Edith Ross, his alleged daughter.

The two conducted the "Mrs. Edith Ross Society," a matrimonial bureau in Philadelphia. They advertised extensively in the following vein:

"James Marshall, widower, kind, generous and lonely, wealthy, owner of a gold mine near Cheyenne, Wyoming, and homes in Alaska and New York, seeks a congenial wife."

More than 2,000 replies were found when the postal authorities and the Philadelphia police raided the office of the "society."

It is the expressed belief of the police that Marshall and his alleged daughter are being held under bail, pending an investigation into the matter. Marshall is a bigamist. The charge against him is desertion, preferred by Mrs. Marshall. The charge against the woman is obtaining money by false pretenses.

Lungs Diseased—Appetite Gone And Could Not Sleep

"Having seen your advertisement in one of the papers I spoke to a lady friend of mine about it and she gave me a bottle of your Malt Whiskey as I was very much run down and scarcely able to go out. I had taken different medicines for my troubles but found no relief and was just about discouraged when I began taking DUFFY'S MALT WHISKEY. It helped me from the start and very quickly cured me.

"I have just been taken with neuralgia and a cough same as I was before. Will you please send me six bottles of your valuable whiskey, C. O. D. I will pay for it here and I will be a great advocate of it among my sick friends. I could have sold a lot of it when my friends and neighbors found how much good it did me. CONCERNING WOMEN

A wedding of much interest in Duluth society took place this afternoon when Miss Edith Hazen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hazen, became the bride of Calvin Seybolt Lawson of Scranton, Pa., at a simple service at the home of the bride's parents, 1113 East First street. The wedding was a very quiet one, only the immediate friends being present. The service was read at 3:30 o'clock by Rev. A. W. Ryan and there were no attendants. The bride wore her traveling costume of a cream cloth with hat to match, and Mr. Lawson and his bride left on an afternoon train for Scranton, Pa., where they will be at home.

The out of town guests at the wedding were relatives of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. John Lindsay Smith of Minneapolis, Dr. J. L. Cant and Miss Irma Hartley Cant of Brookland. The bride is well known among the younger society set and the announcement of the wedding is of much interest here.

Quiet Wedding.

A pretty wedding service took place this morning at the McKay hotel, when Miss Helen Donna McKay became the bride of Charles Jennings Allen of Fargo, N. D. The parlor where the ceremony took place was prettily decorated in palms and yellow flowers and at 10 o'clock the ceremony took place. There were no attendants except the bride and groom. The bride wore a white gown with a white veil and the service was read by Rev. T. H. Cleland. Miss McKay wore a dainty gown of white with a white veil and she carried a bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley. The little flower girl wore a pretty frock of white.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served. The decorations were of palms and yellow flowers. The bride and groom were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Allen to the afternoon train for Fargo, where they will be at home. The bride's going away gown was of brown velvet with a white hat to match.

The out of town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Finlayson of Foxboro, Wis., and Mr. and Mrs. M. McDonald and daughters of Minneapolis.

Declines Office.

The local chapters of the Daughters of the American Revolution will be interested in the following notice concerning the decision of a Minnesota woman in considering one of the national offices:

Mrs. J. E. Bell, regent of the state society of the Daughters of the American Revolution, received an official letter yesterday from Mrs. Franklin A. Rising, in which she declines to accept the nomination for the office of vice president general of the National Society of the D. A. R. Mrs. Rising gives as her reason ill health which would interfere with her duties as one of the vice presidents. The Minnesota Daughters feel greatly disappointed as they had hoped to have the state represented among the ten vice presidents general.

Personal Mention.

Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Cole and Mr.

and Mrs. Carl A. Luster have gone to French Lick Springs, Ind., for a visit.

The simplicity of life as expounded by a lecturer in the city, which makes a dish of oatmeal in the morning, a bowl of bread and milk at noon, and a poached egg on toast at night, the ideal supplying all needs of man, seems too good for any practical use. If one were catering to a family that required nothing more, that accepted that much in a spirit of gentle abstraction and lived thereupon sanely and happily, what would become of the great mass of the wives of the common people. Not only the common people, but those others who do not enjoy being called common. The vast majority of women in America devote the best part of their thought and lives to trying to decide what to have for the next meal. If this necessity was removed, one shivers at the thought of the work that the person who has a special predilection for idle hands, would get in.

Not to have to think, and not to have to prepare a heavenly salad, a combination of gelatin and fruit juices, and fruits and nuts, and not to have to whip cream and peel potatoes, and not to have to wash dishes and clean spinach, not to have to shell peas and hull strawberries, not to have to—what's the use?

REFORMATION OF DANIEL O'BEIRNE

By E. Crayton McCants.

(Copyright, 1927, by Joseph B. Bowles.)

We had gone down the river farther than was usual with us, had spent the night with a friend of my friend, and afterward had gone on again. Therefore, on account of the distance and the weariness of two days' driving, I had sent a message to my negro servant, Jordan, telling him to meet me with the horses at the lower bridge, where the river intersects what is known as the Vicks' ferry road.

It was still early when we reached the appointed spot; the wind blowing out of the south brought to our nostrils the resinous smell of the pines and a faint, sweet odor of jasmine and bay. Wash Foreman, heavily laden with a bundle from his pocket, a cornucopia pipe and proceeded to get it alight.

"Come over an' sit down an' smoke, squires," he invited. "Der nigger an' der hosses ain't got here yet, an' anyhow, a real fun 'n' allers find time for rest. Come over an' set on a foot an' let der ole wuz do his own thing."

Seeing the futility of protest, I packed up my tackle and came across the road. Overhead was the summer sky, on either hand the lush green of the timbered bottoms, in front of us the long bridge, with the yellow water mouthing and muttering against the resistant piers.

Across the stream the highway ran, a space between the overhanging trees, then it climbed a hill, upon the summit of which we could see a neat white cottage with green blinds—a cottage with roses in front of it and sunflowers in the back yard. Raising my hand, I motioned toward the house.

"O'Beirne's?" I asked, turning to Wash.

My friend withdrew his pipe and emitted a volume of smoke.

"Yes," he replied, "that that is Danny's house—Danny O'Beirne, what married Kathie Fallon here a month or so back. Looks rather nifty, don't it?"

I considered a moment. The house looked nice enough, but the last time that I remembered seeing Danny I had been his attorney in the Bellville police court, he being arraigned at the time on a charge of drunkenness. I knew Kathie Fallon too—old man Fallon was a friend of mine, and Kathie, a lass of Irish descent with gray eyes and long, dark lashes. A good enough man was O'Beirne when sober, but the combination of gray eyes and dark lashes is a fetching one, and the thought of a man coming home in his cups and of Kathie meeting him with quivering lips moved me to impatience and to a subtle discontent.

"Well," I remarked, affecting a resignation that I did not feel, "a woman will have her way, but I wonder if Kathie is fully content, now that she has chosen her?"

Wash answered nonchalantly. "Why?" he queried, "why said not the girl be pleased? Danny's fine-looking little reckless 'bout work, mebbe, but yit der kind uv man 'at a woman mos'ly likes."

"Ah, yes," I admitted, "he looks very well, and is industrious, no doubt, but you know Danny, Wash—he will get drunk, squires—not now, he won't. I gently eyed him, but he sort uv foolishness a good bit afore his weddin' day."

Now, Wash is not naturally meddling—such a disposition would interfere seriously with his attitude of respectability with his fellow citizens. He is neither is he averse to taking "a little for his stomach's sake," hence the idea of his acting as a reformer seemed a ridiculous one to me.

"You—I asked scornfully. "How did you cure Danny? Did you attempt to drink all his liquor, so that none would be left for him?"

Wash puffed diligently at his pipe and then removed it again. "So far as I know," he remarked impersonally, "thar's nothin' to it. I just sort uv 'sized up' his wuz. You know that much, squires, an' if anybody doubted hit, a look at 'n' nose 'ud be coo'ing in argument."

"But ter git back ter Danny," I queried, "der shure coo'ing an' say 'I f'lowed ter do der job when fust I started out. LOCKERS RIFLED.

Boys Gain Entrance to Duluth Curling Club Through Window.

An investigation was made yesterday by Detectives Irvine and Schutte of a burglary in the curling rink, which is said to have been committed between last Friday night and yesterday morning. All the lockers in the club were broken open, and the contents of each turned over and examined carefully, and then hurriedly jammed back into place. Until the members who rented the lockers have looked them over and checked up, no line on the amount stolen can be obtained.

The work was very clumsily done, evidently by boys, who gained an entrance by tearing away the wire netting over one of the windows and opening it.

Tired, Nervous Mothers

A nervous, irritable mother, often on the verge of hysterics, is unfit to care for children; it ruins a child's disposition and reacts upon herself. She is a source of misery to every one who comes under her influence, and unhappy and miserable herself. She cannot help it, as her condition is due to shattered nerves caused by some feminine derangement, with back-ache, headache, and all kinds of pain, and she is on the verge of nervous prostration. Proof is monumental that nothing is better to regulate a woman's health than Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Thousands and thousands of women testify to this fact.

Mrs. Nellie Makham, of 151 Morgan St., Buffalo, N.Y., writes:

"Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—I was a wreck from nervous prostration. I suffered so I did not care what became of me, and my family despaired of my recovery. Physicians failed to help me. I was urged to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I want to tell you that it has entirely cured me. I think it is the finest medicine on earth, and I am recommending it to all my friends and acquaintances."

Mrs. Geo. A. James, a life-long resident of Fredonia, N.Y., writes:

"Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—I was in a terribly run down condition and had nervous prostration caused by female trouble, in fact I had not been well since my children were born. This condition worked on my nerves, and I was irritable and miserable. I had tried many remedies without getting much help, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound brought me back to health and strength. It has also carried me safely through the Change of Life. I cannot too strongly recommend your medicine."

MRS. PINKHAM'S INVITATION TO WOMEN.

Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to communicate promptly with Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. From the symptoms given, the trouble may be located and the quickest and surest way of recovery advised. She will hold your letter in strict confidence as indicated by the fact that every private letter received by her during the last twenty years, and more, she now has in the Company's laboratory under lock and key, and no testimonial has ever been published without special written permission. Her advice is free and always helpful.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND, a woman's remedy for woman's ills, made from Native Roots and Herbs, complies with all conditions of the new Pure Food and Drugs Law, and is so guaranteed.

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS.

METROPOLITAN—Burlesque. BIJOU—Vaudeville.

"45 MINUTES FROM BROADWAY." Messrs. Klaw & Erlanger announce the engagement in this city on Saturday night, April 13, of last season's greatest success, "Forty-five Minutes From Broadway," a music play from the busy play of young George M. Cohan. It will be presented here under the direction of Klaw & Erlanger, which means that the cast will be excellent and the production all that could be desired. The play derives its odd title from the fact that Mr. Cohan has laid his scenes in the town of New Rochelle, a suburb of New York, and just three-quarters of an hour from Broadway. The story of the play deals with certain citizens of the town. During the action of the comedy these characters show what a difference the "small town" idea of life is to that of the blaze of Broadway moon and women. Corinne appears in the role of "Mary Jenkins," the most popular servant girl in New Rochelle.

MARIE HALL, COMING. Marie Hall, the famous English violinist, will be heard at the Lyceum Friday night.

TOUCH OF THE SERIOUS. At the conclusion of their farcical sketch, "Mile. Mahanastan," James and Sadie Leonard and Dick Anderson, headliners at the Bijou this week, add a dash of the serious drama in the shape of a scene from "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde." Mr. Anderson enacts the leading role and is wonderfully realistic. The bit makes a hit.

GOOD MUSICAL TURN. Alsace and Lorraine, musical artists, have a good turn at the Metropolitan, where the Fay Foster company is holding forth this week. Their selections are well chosen and they receive a generous measure of applause at every performance. The Foster company will give a matinee for ladies tomorrow afternoon.

Wilmington, Del., April 10.—No longer will the white shirtwaists and dresses of young women passengers on the Pennsylvania railroad be soiled by the unclean hands of well-meaning trainmen. An order was issued by the officials of the railroad company yesterday directing that hereafter conductors and brakemen shall refrain from being galled in alighting the fair sex to board or leave trains.

Complaints of young women whose apparel have been soiled by over-anxious trainmen led to the issuance of the order. Elderly females are also not to be assisted for the same reason, unless they request it.

MILLIONS STARVING

Russian Peasants Cannot Live Until Harvest Without Aid.

United States and Great Britain Asked for Assistance.

London, April 10.—Dr. Kennard, commissioner of the Society of Friends, who was sent to investigate the Russian famine, writing from Samara, in the heart of the famine district, under date of April 3, appeals to the United States and Great Britain to promptly send help. He says:

"There are 20,000,000 people distributed in the southeastern provinces of Russia who without aid cannot live to see another harvest. In Samara alone, the commissioner adds, thousands are dying and 750,000 are starving. Of the latter only 22,000 are getting relief. A day or two of rain would mean a deluge of one million in twenty-four hours. As a meal is only two pounds of bread and a bowl of soup, this, according to the commissioner, means dying by degrees. Even this meagre food in countless instances is divided among many mouths. There are sufficient funds on hand to last until May 1, whereas money will be needed until the end of June, when the harvest will bring relief. The commissioner specially appeals for canned milk. He says there are 200,000 children in Samara province who have no milk and are forced to eat coarse bread of acorns, powdered wood and cucumbers, resulting in thousands of deaths and much disease. In conclusion, the commissioner appeals to the Anglo-Saxons for $2,500,000 to save twenty millions of human beings who are dying lingering deaths from starvation."

FIND OUT

The Kind of Food That Will Keep You Well.

The true way to find out what is best to eat and drink and then cultivate a taste for those things instead of poisoning ourselves with improper, indigestible food, etc. A conservative Mass. woman writes: "I have used Grape-Nuts 5 years for the young and the aged. In sickness and in health; at first following directions carefully, later in a variety of ways as my taste and judgment suggested."

"But its most special, personal benefit has been a substitute for meat, and served dry with cream when rheumatic troubles made it important for me to give up the 'coffee habit.' Served in this way with the addition of a cup of hot water and a little fruit it has been used at my morning meal for six months, during which time my health has much improved, nerves have grown steeper, and a gradual decrease in my excessive weight adds greatly to my comfort." serition. Here is the story:

"A few days before the day on which the accident befell me, I and several others had been to Spirit Lake on a fishing trip. I was on my vacation and the day on which I disappeared I determined to go to the lake again. My wife could not accompany me and, as I had only a few days more of my vacation, I decided to make the trip alone. I borrowed the boat from a friend and met with fairly good success in fishing. "I drew into shore some time in the afternoon, with the intention of returning home. As I stepped from the boat to the shore, I slipped and fell, striking my head on a stone, with such force as to render me unconscious. I came to my senses again, with a racking pain in my head and a dizzy feeling, which was almost unbearable. The boat had drifted out, and in that condition I couldn't swim out and get it. I had one dominating desire, to get home, and I began to walk, with the intention of reaching the car line or track. As I walked along the shore of the lake, with that terrible pain in my head almost crazing me, I began to feel faint and dizzy and I thought I must drop in my tracks. I went down to the shore of the lake to bathe my head, and as I leaned over, I almost pitched into the water. I bathed my head, as best I could, and began to feel better. "I continued my walk toward the city, and I came to the railroad track. There was a engine attaching to a string of cars standing there and then I thought I saw a means of reaching home. I climbed into the engine and, as I did, I felt a great deal of relief. I was going to Duluth, and I thought he said, 'Yes, I climbed into one of the box cars, and I was almost unconscious. "I must have become unconscious."

"Then comes a blank. The next time I had any realization of existence, or was at all rational, I awoke in a hospital somewhere. I do not know the town or the month. Whether it was a week or a month after the accident I cannot now say, nor did it seem to trouble me at the time. The man in the next bed spoke to me. I remember him saying, 'You had a pretty hard time of it,' or something like that. His talk didn't interest me. I didn't seem to care where I was nor how I came there. I didn't even ask him what sort of illness I had had nor anything. I just didn't care. I don't know how long I lay there, caring nothing of what might become of me, but I remember when I was discharged from the hospital, the doctor gave me a suit of clothes and some $10 or $15 in money, which he said I had with me when I was brought in. I didn't even then ask him any questions, but took the clothes and money. "Did Not Know City. "I left the hospital, but I did not ask anybody what city it was, nor do I remember the appearance of things. I knew I wanted to go home. This was before me all the time, and I wanted to reach Duluth as soon as possible. But all became blank again. I don't know whether I took a railway train or a street car, but I have a hazy recollection of traveling. Then there was another long lapse of memory. "The first time I became rational was able to think was two months ago, when I found myself in Los Vegas, N. M. I again awoke in a hospital, and they told me I had been brought in from a ranch near Los Vegas, where I had been working for about a month. "I was just then beginning to realize what had befallen me. I wondered what my family and friends thought, and was certain, of course, that they thought I had been drowned. They were first going to write to my wife that I was all right, but I reasoned, 'She is probably reconciled to my disappearance by this time, as I have been gone five months. I have no money to go to her, or to her to come to me. So I may as well let it run along now until I am in a position to go to Duluth, or send for her. It would only make matters worse to let her know that I am alive, until we can be reunited.' So I didn't communicate with her. "Returns to Ranch. "I remained in Los Vegas about a week. Things were pretty hazy, but I was able to think rationally and remember things up to the accident. At last people told me

SENT TO JAIL FOR CONTEMPT

Manager of Barber Lumber Company Refuses to Produce Books.

Boise, Idaho, April 10.—L. G. Chapman, manager of the Barber Lumber company, is in jail, committed for contempt by United States District Judge Beatty. An application was made at once to Circuit Judge Gilbert, at Portland, for a writ of habeas corpus. For some weeks a United States grand jury has been investigating the manner in which the Barber Lumber company obtained title to a large amount of timber lands owned by it on Boise river and its tributaries. Mr. Chapman was subpoenaed to bring in all books, letters, check stubs and other records of the company. On his demurring, he was ordered by the court on Saturday last to bring in all the records touching upon acquisition of title to lands. Monday he appeared before the jury with the books and papers containing such record. The question then arose whether the jury should be permitted to examine the entire contents of the books and papers, or only such features as were pointed out by Mr. Chapman as being connected with the subject of the inquiry. On the application of District Attorney Rulick, Judge Beatty ordered the jury to examine the entire contents of the books and papers, and to permit the grand

HOME PRESCRIPTION

Speediest Relief Known to Science for Coughs, Colds and Consumption

This home prescription has been familiar to druggists for years. Its wonderful effectiveness on coughs, colds and all affections of the bronchial tubes and pulmonary organs spread its fame from city to city with rapidly increasing popularity.

Inquiry into the origin of this prescription developed the fact that it emanated from a prominent Philadelphia physician who gained fame amongst his profession for the development of a truly soluble preparation from the active principle of the pine tree, which although known to contain wonderful curative powers on the mucous membrane yet was not generally used by doctors on account of its insolubility. This new form of pine is known to doctors and druggists as the Concentrated oil of pine and it forms the chief ingredient in the famous Home Prescription, which is here given to the public and is as follows:

Concentrated oil of pine, half ounce; pure whiskey, (spirits frumment) eight ounces, glycerine 2 ounces. Mix and shake thoroughly and take a tablespoonful every four hours. This will frequently cure a cold inside of twenty-four hours. These ingredients can be secured at any good drug store, and can be easily mixed at home in a one-ounce bottle. The concentrated oil of pine comes put up for dispensing in half-ounce vials sealed in an airtight package which retains all the original ozone. It should be borne in mind, however, that there are patent medicines put up by so-called chemical companies to imitate the wonderful pine oil. These can be avoided by making sure to get the "Concentrated" oil of pine. It is also said to be very effective in curing lumbago and uric acid rheumatism. For this purpose it is taken raw, a few drops on sugar, night and morning.

ESTIMATES FOR PAVING WORK

On Sixteenth Avenue Completed by the City Engineer.

As requested, on a motion by the council at its last meeting, the city engineer has drawn up an estimate of the cost of paving Sixteenth avenue east, from London road to Sixth street, with macadam, both estimates calling for sandstone curbs.

The cost of the improvement with tar macadam as the paving material is estimated at $18,500, and with sandstone blocks, laid in sand, the cost would be in the neighborhood of $24,000.

Upon the advice of the engineer, the storm sewer which, according to the petition, was to be extended from its present terminus at Fourth street, to Sixth street, will probably be terminated at Fifth street, as the capacity of the present sewer would not be great enough to take care of the run-off of a greater territory. This would take care of the water up to Sixth street, and Engineer McGilvray recommends that the water above this avenue be in some manner drained off into Chester creek.

WEST DULUTH MADE STATE HIGHWAY

Wrenshall Road So Designated by Carlton County Board.

Will Get Benefit of County's State Highway Fund.

The Wrenshall road leading from Wrenshall up toward Duluth is now a "state highway," it having been designated as such by the county board of Carlton county at the recent meeting. This means a great deal for the Wrenshall farmers and also for the merchants of West Duluth, as the road will now get the benefit of the county's portion of the state highway fund.

For several months there has been considerable opposition to the move making the Wrenshall road a state highway, and at the board meeting there was quite a fight but the battle was finally won by the Wrenshall people. A letter to this effect was received today in West Duluth from P. B. McLean, president of the Carlton County Good Roads association, who expressed himself as being well pleased over the outcome.

In making this the state highway the county turns over its state highway fund received from the state and the road will be further improved under the direction of the state highway commission. It is expected that the road will be made one of the best in the state.

In deciding to make this a state highway the Carlton county people are following out the general plan favored by the state highway commission to build a through highway from Duluth to the Twin Cities, each county doing its share.

G. A. R. LADIES ENTERTAIN. Delightful Social at Gilley's Hall is Well Attended.

West Duluth was the scene of a delightful social reunion given yesterday afternoon by the members of Garfield Circle, Ladies of the G. A. R., No. 4, at Gilley's hall and representatives from all parts of Duluth were present. In all there were about seventy-five ladies present.

The hall, which had been contributed for the occasion by Mrs. Peter Gilley, was tastefully decorated with the national colors. The afternoon was pleasantly spent by the ladies in a social manner during which time two guessing contests were given. Mrs. Del Crosby of West Duluth won the first prize in Mother Goose guessing contest and Mrs. Minnie Stinson the second prize. In the animal contest A. E. Briggs won first prize and Mrs. Hahan the consolation.

Refreshments were served at 5 o'clock.

FAVOR BUILDING PROJECT.

Members of Duluth Chapter Will Do Their Share.

At the meeting of the Duluth Chapter No. 55, R. A. M., last evening at Masonic hall, the members decided in favor of the building project and expressed themselves as being willing to do their share toward putting up a Masonic temple at West Duluth.

The building committee reported upon the probable cost of the proposed building and suggested plans for its erection. If the temple is put up, the Duluth chapter will bear the expense jointly with the Euclid lodge, A. F. & A. M., and the question will not be fully decided until the meeting of that organization next Wednesday evening.

According to the plans suggested, the building will not be put up on a small scale, but will be a home of which the Masons may be proud for many years. It will include the lodge rooms, a large banquette hall and lounge room, and will probably be erected near the site of the present Masonic hall.

Closed Until Monday.

The West Duluth branch of the public library will not open again until next Monday, owing to the fact that the rooms at the Western State bank building are undergoing repairs. A steel ceiling is being installed and other improvements are being made.

WALKED THE WHOLE WAY

Benny Schulze, Cloquet Orphan Boy, Hikes to Duluth.

Thought Brother Worked Here, But He Cannot be Found.

Greater hardships than can usually be credited to thirteen short years of a boy's life, have been those of little Benny Schulze, orphaned and alone in the world, who wandered into the West Duluth police station last evening and asked to be given a place to sleep all night. He was given the best the station afforded and was brought up town this morning and turned over to Mrs. Pury, assistant humane agent.

Benny's story is a sad one, sadder than he seems to realize, though tears spring to the little fellow's eyes as he tells some portions of his history. He is the youngest of a family of ten children, who have lived on a little homestead, belonging to another man a little way from Cloquet. One by one during the family's residence on the homestead the members have died until finally only

Benny and a brother about 23 years of age who worked in Duluth, were left of the once large family. Three months ago, after lingering illnesses, the mother and father passed away, leaving Benny all alone. His brother John, who is supposed to be working in Duluth never corresponded with the parents, and has not been home, or so far as Benny knows, been heard from since a couple of years ago. "He was home about three months before they died, but I don't think he knows it," says Benny. After his parents' death, the little fellow had made his own living in and around Duluth. "I chopped wood for folks," he says, "and then they'd give me something to eat and sometimes a place to sleep. When I couldn't get any other place to sleep, I used to go down to the mill and sleep 'round' in the watchman's house. The mill fellows gave me things to eat out of their pails, too."

Benny got tired of this kind of life after a while and determined to hunt up his brother in Duluth. He started out early yesterday morning, and after inquiring what road led to Duluth, he bravely started on the long hike, following the railroad the whole way. Six miles down from the lumber town, he had something to eat before he started and says he asked some people for a drink in West Duluth last night and they took him in, and gave him some supper. He had no dinner and he was about half in when he applied for a place to sleep at the station.

The pathetic part of it is that no trace of John Schulze, the wandering brother, can be found in Duluth. Benny says that he knows he worked in some factory but he doesn't know which one, and that some men told him that they knew him, but that he had gone away about a month ago. If no trace of the big brother can be found, Benny will be sent to the state reformatory at Owatonna, as he has expressed a complete willingness to go there.

When asked if his parents left anything, he said that he had three broken chairs, a broken down stove, a home made table, and a home made bunk, and there was not any of it any good. The land is the brightest and most attractive applicants for charity who has been brought under the notice of the humane society for some time.

PRESIDENT DECLINES

To Become Executor of Estate Left to the Government.

Rochester, N. Y., April 10.—Morris M. McMath has returned from Washington, where he advised President Roosevelt of the provisions of the will of Capt. James H. Hooker of Irondequoit, in which $250,000 was left to the United States government. The president was named as executor, but Mr. McMath says Mr. Roosevelt refused to act in the capacity named and has ordered the United States district attorney to have this presented at the time the will is probated. It is said that the will stated that Mr. Hooker desired the government to establish a military academy at Gainesburg, Ill., and as the heirs are said to be about to contest the will, a delegation of citizens of that city are to be here when the will is probated. The government may not become a beneficiary of the estate, as the heirs are to attempt to prove that the will was made when the captain was incompetent.

MYSTERY IN DEATH.

Edward Weber of Corliss Dies Under Suspicious Circumstances.

Corliss, Wis., April 10.—Regarding the circumstances surrounding the death of Edward Weber, as suspicious, Justice Lee has asked District Attorney Thompson to make an investigation. Weber, who was 55, was employed by the Wisconsin Engine company at its works here. Last night he was found dead in bed at his home. The justice called an inquest but was unable to determine whether or not the death was from natural causes.

SPEAKS OF FELLOWSHIP

Rev. Benjamin Fay Mills
Tells of Los Angeles
Sect.

Says Membership of New Sect is Constantly Growing.

The "Los Angeles Fellowship" is the name of a sect at Los Angeles, Cal., of which Rev. Benjamin Fay Mills is the founder and present head. Mr. Mills is conducting meetings this week at Stedway hall.

Although it was formally founded not more than two years ago, it was merely the blossoming of some of Mr. Mills' ideas of life and religion, after seven years or so of constant cultivation. It was for these ideas that Mr. Mills, already an evangelist of national reputation, quit the old-line church, because he could not keep on preaching doctrines he did not quite believe himself. He studied hard for several years and then began preaching, later forming the Los Angeles Fellowship.

"Wherever I go, I usually run across somebody wearing this Little Fellowship button," said Rev. Mr. Mills today, as he called attention to the little badge of the organization which he wears on the lapel of his coat.

"Religion without superstition is one of the fundamental principles of the Fellowship," continued the head of the band. "I do not know what the total membership is or how many people are reached by it, but we are prospering there in Los Angeles and mean to have a large auditorium of our own within a comparatively short time."

"At present there is only one Fellowship and that is located in Los Angeles. I am the permanent minister and the associates are said to number about 150. Rev. Mr. Mills said that there are members of the Fellowship in all parts of the country, but the chief interest is in the thought right yet to form organizations outside of Los Angeles. If they are organized and the time is not very far distant when they will be, we want men at their head who have our outlook, who have been in the original Fellowship."

"All denominations are represented. There are Presbyterians, Methodists, Catholics, Jews and others, but we have no quarrel with anybody. People who join the Fellowship and have our outlook on life, usually sever the ties that bind them to other denominations simply because they do not hold the same views. There is no preaching in the orthodox churches."

The Fellowship began with a series of meetings in San Diego, Cal., in October, 1903. The people who composed the meetings went under the name, "The Fellowship," which now for kindred spirits formed the organization which thrives today as the Los Angeles Fellowship.

"The membership is growing all the time. Our Sunday services are well attended and great interest is taken in all branches of the work. There is a Fellowship House, where one may read, rest and talk, and there is the Fellowship Magazine, which now for a wide circulation. Ours is a modern church, the church of today, not of yesterday."

Rev. Benjamin Fay Mills, the head of this wonderfully interesting institution, is an interesting man. He is very tall, but he seems so on the platform, and when he speaks, he is given here.

He has kindly grey eyes, quite a large nose, and a mouth that is firm and pleasant. He is a man of a crank or the eccentric about his make-up. His clothes are quite like those of the ordinary man, but he has the heads of other thought sects, he wears same hats.

The question, "What is the Fellowship?" is answered every month on the title page of the Fellowship magazine, which is edited by Mr. Mills. It is given herewith:

"The Fellowship is an association for the encouragement of trustful and unselfish living."

"It regards this as a fundamental and comprehensive statement of religion without superstition, which should make all skepticism absurd. Inspiration is the insight into the truth of the unity of life and the possibility of the intelligent, practical expression of this truth. This insight reveals every being, object, atom, event and experience as a demonstration of the CLEAR-HEADED.

Head Bookkeeper Must be Reliable.

The chief book-keeper in a large business house in one of our great Western cities speaks of the harm coffee did for him:

"My wife and I drank our first cup of Postum coffee a little over two years ago, and we have used it ever since, to the entire exclusion of tea and the old kind of coffee. It happened in this way:

"About three and a half years ago I had an attack of pneumonia, which left a memento in the shape of dyspepsia, or rather, to speak more correctly, neuritis of the stomach. My 'cup of cheer' had always been coffee or tea, but I became convinced, after a time, that they aggravated my stomach trouble. I happened to mention the matter to my grocer one day and he suggested that I give Postum Food Coffee a trial.

"Next day it came, but the cook made the mistake of not boiling it sufficiently, and we did not like it much. This was, however, soon remedied, and now we like it so much that we will never change back. Postum being a food beverage instead of a drink, it was subject to nervous stomach trouble. I verily believe, for I am a well man today and have used no other remedy."

"My work as chief bookkeeper in our Co.'s branch house here is of a very confining nature. During my coffee-drinking days I was subject to nervousness and the 'blues' in addition to my sick spells. These have left me since I began using Postum Food Coffee, and I can conscientiously recommend it to those whose work confines them to long hours of mental exertion."

"There's a Reason." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Supreme Power, that is goodness, wisdom and love. It perceives all manifested life as a perfect plan fulfilling by trustworthy processes, a translated purpose.

The motive and energy of the Fellowship is found in the determination and endeavor to live in voluntary connection with the purpose of life, by the manifestation of unswerving trust toward occurrences, circumstances, other men and women and our own higher nature.

The practical ideal of the members is to apply the principles of trust and unselfishness in every individual activity and to every association—domestic, social, educational, economic, political and international.

"Our members elect themselves. The conditions of membership are a general endorsement of the principles, an application to the secretary, and such a regular subscription toward current expenses, payable weekly, monthly, quarterly or annually, as ability and interest may warrant. On the roll are the names of residents of many states, some of them borne by men and women beloved and honored throughout the world. We welcome the enrollment of non-resident members, as well as those who reside in this vicinity."

HAPPENINGS IN THE DAKOTAS

Tightest "Lid" That North Dakota Has Ever Known.

NORTH DAKOTA. Grand Forks—Agents of brewing companies have practically decided to abandon North Dakota, as far as traveling salesmen are concerned, before the new anti-salesman liquor law goes into effect on July 1. It was announced last night that the law providing that liquor can be seized and confiscated whenever found in violation of the law, has resulted in the business being completely demoralized. Three traveling salesmen for liquor houses, who make Grand Forks their headquarters, have already handed in their resignations, and several others say they will do so in the next few weeks. The lid is tighter now in North Dakota than at any time since the prohibition law was passed, and that there will be a greater drought of liquor than ever before. Some rabid resubmissionists are in favor of a strict enforcement of the law, believing it will mean high license eventually.

The police are searching for a man who declared he was Charles Munich of Tolia, and who secured about $100 on work in the Dakotas, and disappeared. Richard Butler, a saloonman of East Grand Forks, cashed four checks of a total amount of $145. The bank cashed the checks, but the first State bank telephoned Tolia to find out if the check of Charles Munich was good, and a reply came that he had a deposit of $2,500 in the bank. The man who had the checks cashed is of German size, weighs about 160 pounds, is about five feet tall, has gold filling in his front teeth, and has dark complexion. The police have a clue, it is said.

Gilford H. Merrifield has been appointed an agent for the United States Internal Revenue service. He will have charge of the government license, and entered a plea that he would make Grand Forks his headquarters. He succeeds James H. Elton.

An ice jam in the Red river, two miles below Moorhead, broke up last night, and there was great alarm in the city. The jam went up as far as the water level eight inches. Water surounds business places there, but no houses are threatened, unless there should be a further rise of several inches. At Grand Forks the water is going down steadily.

Charles McFarland, an employe of the Grand Forks Gas & Electric company, was killed yesterday by a fall from a tower of strength. His neck was broken and he died instantly. The platform was ten feet from the floor and McFarland was covering the platform. He had gone upon it to oil an engine. He was 24.

Farago.—The McKenzie county seat contest will be before the supreme court for determination. Governor Sars created the county of McKenzie by proclamation and Alexander was designated as the county seat. At the last election an issue of the campaign there was the removal of the county seat from Sars and that place claims to have received the requisite number of votes. Alexander contested but Sars won out in the district court and the case was appealed.

The action of James T. Morrison, a painter, vs. P. P. Lee, a merchant at Minot, was argued in the supreme court. Morrison attempted to purchase a horse at the store and was given gasoline. Its use resulted in an explosion which injured Morrison and he was given heavy damages in the district court from which decision Lee appealed.

After two years in the general land office at Washington, Col. C. A. Lounsberry will return to this state on special assignment to examine entries at the direction of Secretary Garfield.

Minot.—While digging a sewer ditch here, E. L. James was buried in a cave in and was dead when taken out.

Mandan.—The 11-year-old son of Frank Leungang, a farmer living at Little Heart, was badly injured while running a disc harrow. The tongue broke, throwing him under the harrow.

SOUTH DAKOTA. Sioux Falls.—After having been in here for nearly a week, the United States grand jury has made its final report and been discharged.

Although the court officials decline to discuss the matter in any way, it is stated on apparently good authority, that there were originally seven alleged land fraud cases which were to have been brought before the grand jury, but after it had refused to return an indictment in the first case, the other six cases were not presented.

This outcome of the attempt of the government to prosecute alleged land grabbers in South Dakota is said to be due largely to resentment toward some of the special agents who have secured the evidence in the cases, and who are alleged to be too anxious to make records.

The grand jury returned an additional indictment, this being in the case of Marie Dodge, charged with having mailed an obscene letter at the post office at Groton, S. D. George Larabee, when arraigned on an indictment charging him with having introduced liquor into the Cheyenne River reservation, entered a plea of guilty.

MURDERER CAUGHT.

Former Wisconsin Man Captured in Chicago—Probably Insane.

Chippewa Falls, Wis., April 10.—A message has been received here from Deputy Sheriff Smith at Freeport, Ill., that William Stanke, whose home is at Fall Creek, near here, has been arrested in Chicago on the charge of murder. Stanke was formerly an inmate of the Mendota asylum, and two years ago was released on parole. He then returned to Fall Creek, and after gathering together $400 left for Freeport. A few weeks ago Stanke and a man by the name of Fred Wenzler, both natives of Poland, left for Freeport. When Stanke was going to retire he became confused and went into Wenzler's room, and upon the appearance of Wenzler Stanke attacked him and beat him to death. Stanke then fled to Chicago and took refuge in a Clark street hotel. He often wrote to his wife at Fall Creek, and while none of the letters bore any signatures, the envelopes were marked with the Chicago station, and in this way the detectives received a clue which resulted in his arrest.

Camden, N. J., April 10.—"Papa, kiss me," said Lena Hoffman, 12 years old, leaping into the arms of her father, John Hoffman, at their home in this city Monday afternoon. Hoffman drew her to him and kissed her. Then as he held her in his arms he saw her cheeks pale and her eyes grow dim, and she fell against his breast. A moment later the child was dead. Lena had been in perfect health. The coroner said her death was due to heart disease.

MILLIONS OF MONEY IN LEAD AND ZINC

CHARLES M. SCHWAB
Says: "The big fortunes of the next twenty-five years will come from Mother Earth."

CECIL RHODES
Said: "Mining offers greater inducements than any other business in the world to make quick and great wealth."

THE GOULDS AND WHITNEYS
Say nothing but send their sons to learn mining in the Lead and Zinc camps of the Southwest.

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER
Is now investing many millions in mining stocks. Among all mining investments none stands ahead of Lead and Zinc for safety, permanency and profit.

Lead and Zinc Now Proven to Be the Most Profitable of All Mining. Millions of Dollars in Dividends Paid to Stockholders Annually. You Can Share in the Profits of 300 Lead and Zinc Mines.

SPLENDID RECORD

Lead and Zinc Mines of the Southwest Lead the World.

Have you ever considered the advantages of investing in a commercial product for which there is a constantly increasing demand—one whose price is steadily advancing year by year?

The great Lead and Zinc industry of the Southwest offers you just such an investment. The Southwest Field is the richest Lead and Zinc mining region in the United States, its annual output of Zinc being 80 per cent of the product of the entire country.

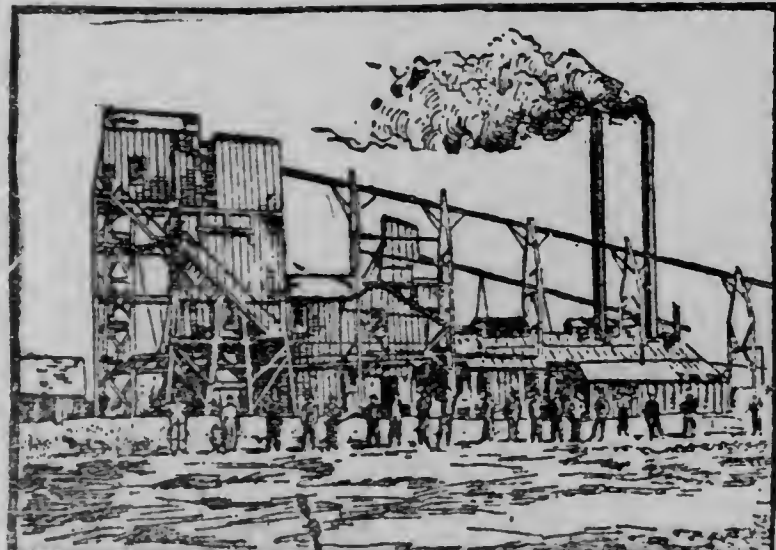

Carthage, Cartersville, Webb City, Joplin, Galena and Baxter Springs—these are some of the mining camps that are making fortunes for thousands of investors by their splendid output of Lead and Zinc.

A Lead and Zinc production valued at $14,768,024 from the Southwest Field within the short space of seven years! An average output of nearly ten millions of dollars annually, and that amount added to the world's wealth by this one industry!

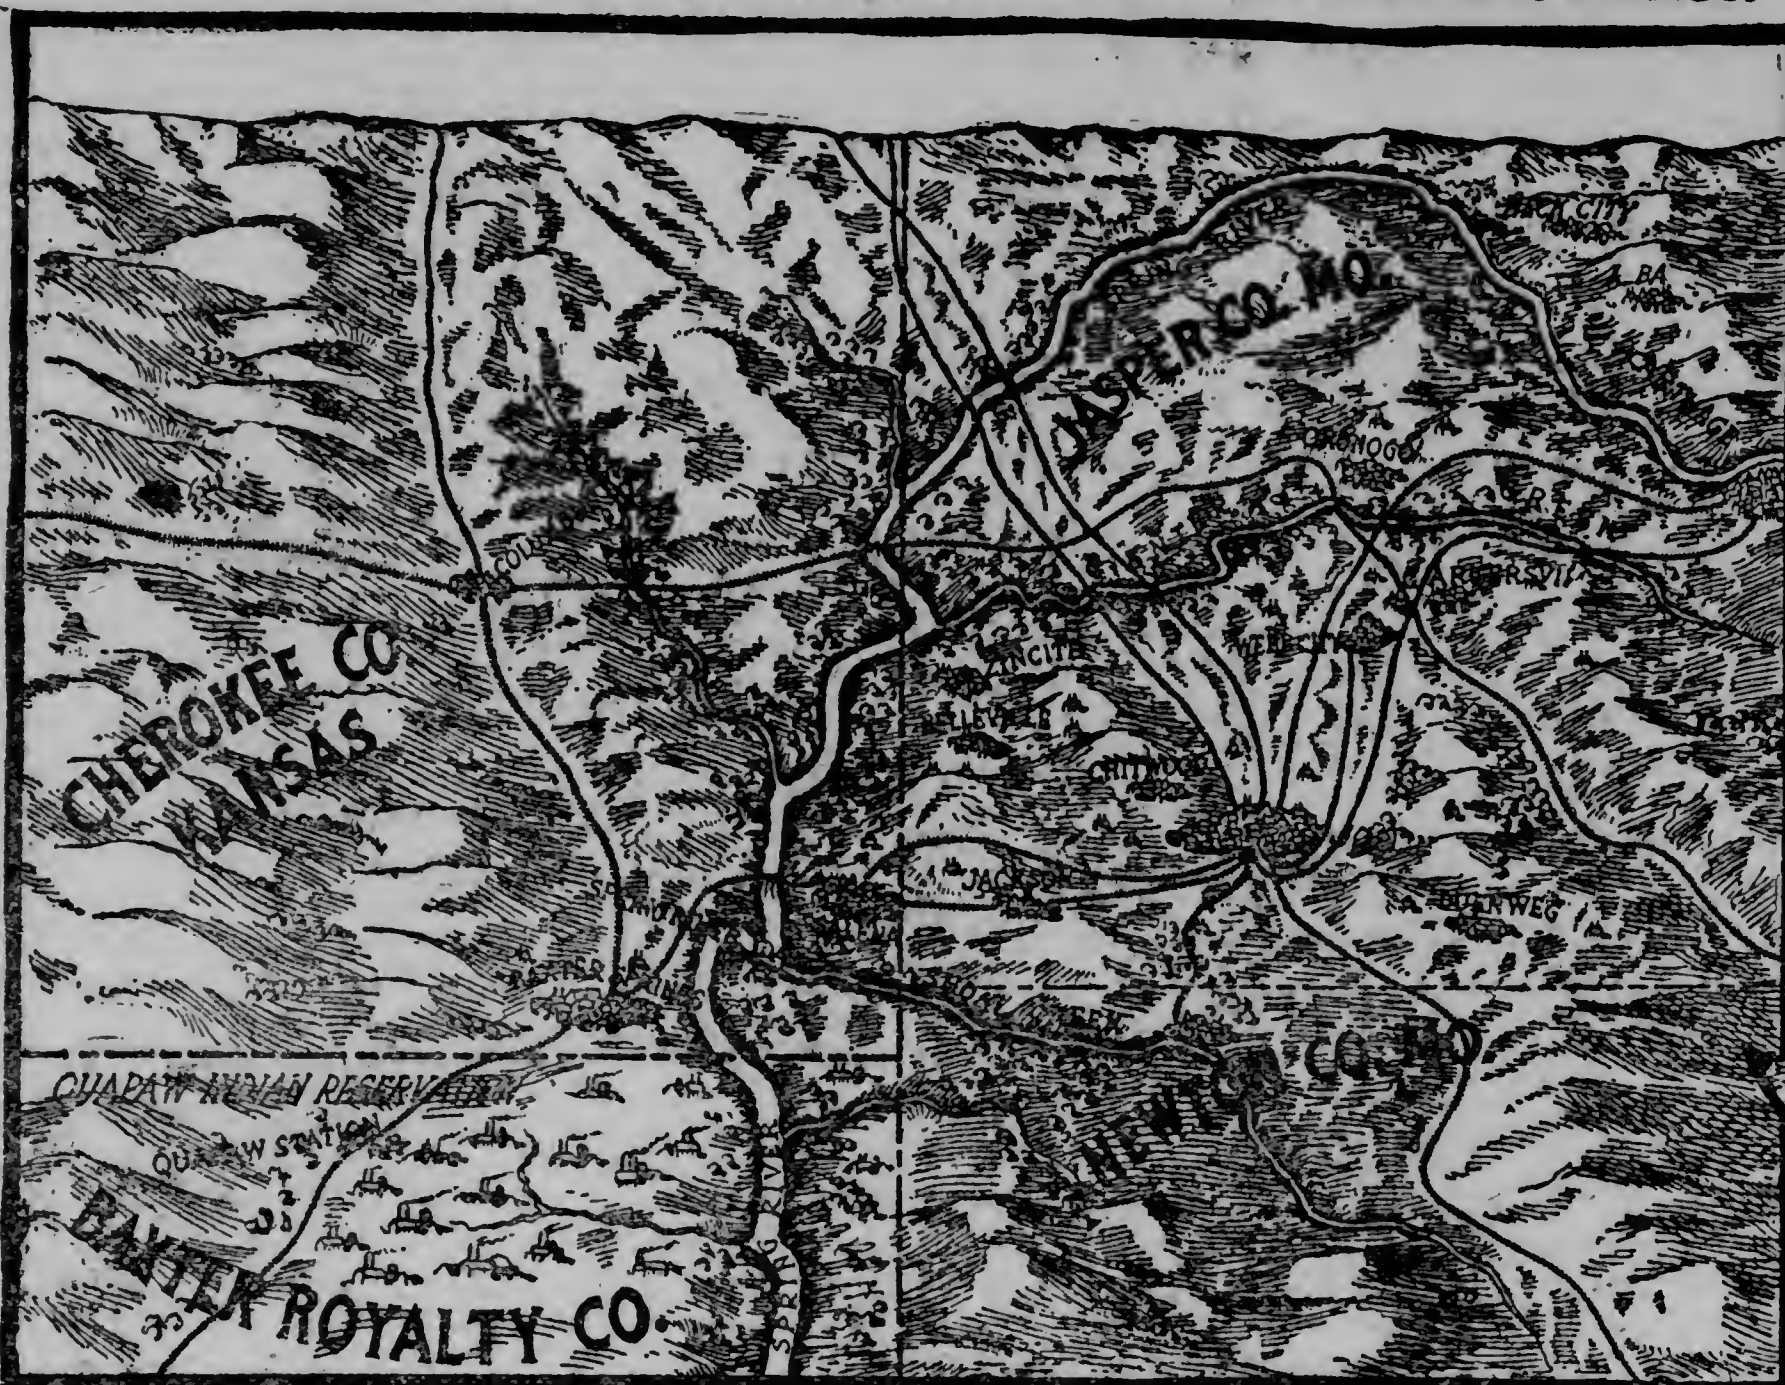

Over fifteen million dollars' worth of Lead and Zinc ore mined and sold in the Southwest Field during the year 1906 alone!

Read these figures once more and ask yourself why you are not receiving your share in the magnificent profits of the Lead and Zinc mining industries.

The Baxter Royalty Company offers you the opportunity, by its small payment plan, to secure an interest in 300 Lead and Zinc mines located in the very richest section of the Southwest Field, and dividends are guaranteed each stockholder within the present year.

OLD ABE MILL.
Modern, 200-ton mill already in operation on Baxter Royalty Co. property; supplied by two shafts working in ore bodies 27 feet thick.

THE SOUTHWEST LEAD AND ZINC FIELD.
The Territory Shown Above Has Over 700 Paying Lead and Zinc Mines and Produces 80 Per Cent of All Zinc Mined in the United States.

Vast Ore Bodies Underlying Our 3720 Acres.

We have 3,720 acres of valuable Lead and Zinc lands located just south of Baxter Springs, Kansas, in the richest part of the Southwest Field. This section is known as the Joplin district, and has recently startled the commercial world by the amazing productiveness of its Lead and Zinc mines. Drillings have been made in various parts of our property and have absolutely demonstrated an immense blanket formation of rich Lead-Zinc ore underlying our lands. This ore is found at a depth of from 20 to 100 feet, thus effecting a large saving in the operating expenses of the mine. The vast ore bodies vary from 14 to 74 feet in thickness, and are a comparatively recent discovery, yielding large profits to our treasury. The five mills now in operation, together with the new mills which will be installed at an early date, make practically certain a mileage of at least 5,000 tons daily for each shift, or a daily profit of $1,205. Counting but 300 working days in the year, we should have $361,500 per year from these mills, working single shift. These mills will operate on but a small portion of our acreage, and yet be fed with a supply of ore sufficient to keep them running at their full capacity for many years.

We have room on our unleased lands for over 300 operating companies, as an acreage of 10 acres is the usual requirement of one operating company, and we have 3,000 acres of rich lands still unleased. The daily capacity of an operating mill is rarely less than 100 tons, and is usually much greater. Each 100-ton millage means a daily profit to us of $24.10, and 300 such mills would bring us a net profit of $4,335,000 annually, counting but 300 working days in the year. This estimate is conservative, as the prices of Lead and Zinc are rapidly advancing, these enormous revenues will continue to roll into our treasury in constantly increasing volume year after year.

The ore is there, and the demands of the commercial world will compel it to be mined. We hold the lands, and not a ton of ore can be sold on our property without yielding us our share in the profits. Do you want to share these profits with us?

ENORMOUS PROFITS

Tremendous Earning Power of Lead and Zinc Mines.

The demand for Lead and Zinc is increasing rapidly in almost every branch of industrial activity. These two metals have become indispensable in many manufacturing and commercial processes. They enter largely into the making of paint, oil cloths, rubber goods, plumbers' materials and printers' type.

Zinc is required for electrical installations wherever copper is used, and is indispensable in telegraphy, telephoning and electrical transportation. These uses alone call for enormous quantities of the metal.

The United States Navy has recently investigated the advantages of Zinc as a coating for war vessels to prevent the formation of barnacles. Consider for a moment the immense quantities that will be required in the near future by the combined navies of the world when this new process is generally adopted by all the great powers.

The world's great tin mines are being rapidly exhausted, and Zinc alone of all metals will be able to partially take the place of tin. For building and decorative purposes Zinc finds new uses every year. These and other uses are causing unprecedented demand for Lead and Zinc, and the price is climbing steadily upward.

Since 1902 the average price of Lead has increased from $46.10 to $78.50 per ton; and of Zinc from $30.33 to $44.33 per ton. The present prices are much higher than any of these averages.

Yet Lead and Zinc mining is one of the least expensive kinds of mining. Whereas it requires vast sums to open up a gold or copper mine, a few thousand dollars are sufficient capital to start a Lead and Zinc mine.

You probably have acquaintances who have invested in gold or copper mines and lost money. But can you think of a single instance in Lead and Zinc mining in the Southwest? A case of failure among properly managed mines in the Southwest Lead and Zinc field is practically unheard of. The mine operators there are making money and making it easily.

I want to send you a long list of Lead and Zinc companies operating in the Southwest Field that are paying their stockholders dividends of from 24 per cent up as high as 120 per cent annually.

How are such profits possible? That question is easily answered:—

1. The ore is near the surface.
2. The ore buyers are at the bins paying cash for every ton of ore produced.
3. The climate is favorable for work the year round, the latitude being the same as that of Southern Kentucky.
4. Lead and Zinc are not controlled by a trust, and the mine owners get the full benefit of every advance in the price of ore.

Read these facts once more; and I challenge anyone to show me any other investment which combines all these elements of safety and enormous profit.

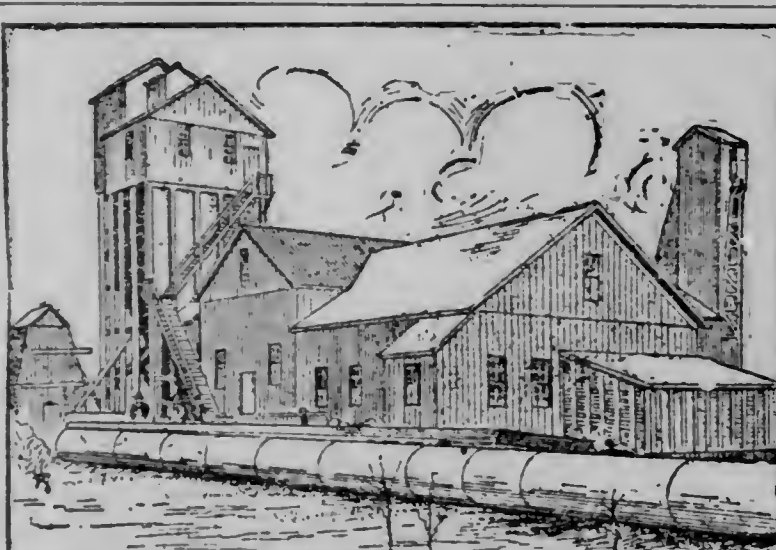

100-TON JOANNA MILL.
Already in operation on Baxter Royalty Co. property. Supplied from waste sheets of solid lead.

WHY STOCK IS ONLY 10 CENTS A SHARE—PAR VALUE $1.00. PRICE WILL ADVANCE AT AN EARLY DATE.

The plans of the Baxter Royalty Company have been laid out on a large scale. Unlike the ordinary stock company our profits will not be dependent upon the success or failure of any individual mine. The Baxter Royalty Company's earnings may be gauged to a mathematical certainty by the application of the law of averages—the principle adopted by every successful insurance company. As every mining company cannot be a success, it naturally follows that every one cannot be a failure. In the Southwest Field the vast majority of the Lead and Zinc mines are wonderfully successful, so that by the law of averages it follows that our interest in several hundred of these mines, all located on our property, is bound to yield us exceedingly large returns. We have 3,000 acres of rich ore lands still lying idle. In fact we find ourselves in precisely the same position as the farmer who has a larger acreage than he can cultivate with the capital in hand. He knows that with additional capital and assistance he could make the land yield abundant crops and enormous profits. He knows that every season that the land lies idle means a loss of those crops and those profits—for time is money. In the same way we intend by the investment of additional capital to bring our enormous acreage of mineral lands to a highly profitable stage of development at the earliest possible moment. For this reason a limited amount of treasury stock is now offered to the public at 10 cents per share. In this way the funds will be available for immediate use, and our lands will not lie idle. But this limit will not be offered for sale at any price, but we know that by immediate development of our profits will be vastly larger in the end than if we should limit our revenues to the income from the few companies now in operation. When this stock goes to par it means a profit of twelve dollars on every dollar invested now.

NEW SPRING RIVER MILL.

MOST EVER PAID FOR Forty Acres in Joplin District.
CARTHAGE, MO., Aug. 11.—(Special.)—J. C. Stewart, president of the Cartersville Mining Company, has received a check for $10,000 for a Morgan forty-acre lease owned by that company and located north of Cartersville. This is the largest cash deal ever made in this district for forty-acre lease of zinc lands on which there is but one mill. The real value of the land consists in the fact that some forty drill holes covering the tract show a short ore face of ten to fourteen feet, all above the 150-foot level. The Cartersville company has also given a sixty-day option on the fee of the property at a price about the same as the lease. The Pennsylvania company is planning to erect several large mills.—From Kansas City Daily Journal.

This 40-acre lease, where the ore face is not over 14 feet, brought $10,000. The Baxter Royalty Co.'s property comprises 3720 acres underlain with ore bodies 14 to 74 feet in thickness.

200-TON CRAMER-MORSE MILL.

Wonderfully Rapid Development of Southwest Lead and Zinc District.

The Daily Mining Record of Denver, Colorado, one of America's leading mining journals, under date of Feb. 1, 1907, published the following special dispatch from Baxter Springs, Kan., and the investor is invited to draw his own conclusions as to the future of the rich district described:—"South of this city four miles is the Baxter Springs mining camp, located in the Quappaw Indian Reservation, I. T. Three years ago there was nothing but fields and forests and today there are more than 100 shafts sunk and 25 concentrating mills with a capacity of from 100 to 300 tons daily, either in operation or in the course of construction, and contracts let for four 50-ton daily capacity mills. The ore is found in this camp in blanket formation all the way from five to forty feet in thickness, extending over many acres. The ore concentrates are all the way from 50 to 65 per cent metallic zinc."

Special Plan of Small Payments.

In order that no one may be debarred by lack of ready money from joining with us in this enterprise, subscriptions will be accepted for allotments of 100 shares, and upwards, payable 10 per cent with order and 10 per cent monthly for nine months.

Your whole reservation will receive the benefit of every advance in price, even while you are paying for it. Upon completion of your payments, a certificate will be issued for stock purchased. If unable to finish payments, you will receive upon request the amount paid for the stock now 10 cents per share, par value $1.00.

A few dollars will start you. Read the following table, then act promptly:

$1 a month buys 100 shares, par value $100. $15 a month buys 1,500 shares, par value $1,500.
$2 a month buys 200 shares, par value $200. $25 a month buys 2,500 shares, par value $2,500.
$3 a month buys 300 shares, par value $300. $50 a month buys 5,000 shares, par value $5,000.
$10 a month buys 1,000 shares, par value $1,000. $100 a month buys 10,000 shares, par value $10,000.

Stock fully paid and non-assessable. All stock shares alike. No preferred stock, no bonds.

MAKE YOUR MONEY WORK FOR YOU

You often hear it said that in these days of trusts and high prices the poor man has no chance to get ahead. This is true as long as the poor man is content to receive 3 or 4 per cent from the wealthy bankers, who take his money and put it to work earning 20, 30 or 100 per cent or more. You can put your money to work the same as the bankers and capitalists do, and Sage and Rockefeller never had a better opportunity than I am offering you today.

MY GUARANTEE TO INVESTORS

Knowing as I do the magnificent money-making opportunity now within the grasp of the Baxter Royalty Company's stockholders, I make you this guarantee:—
Send in your order and first remittance at once, subject to withdrawal within 30 days if further investigation fails to convince you as to each and every claim that I have made.

Moreover, if you or a pool of your friends contemplate buying as much as $1,000 worth of stock, send your representative to our property to make a thorough investigation, and the company will pay the entire expense of the trip.

There is a strictly high-class investment appealing to bankers, merchants, professional men, farmers, mechanics, and the investing public in general. In all my experience with investment securities I have never seen an investment that I regarded as so absolutely good.

The steady upward movement that is now being witnessed in the price of this security, combined with the fact that the stock is being rapidly taken up by substantial investors in all parts of the United States, makes altogether probable the realization of very unusual profits to every holder of Baxter Royalty.

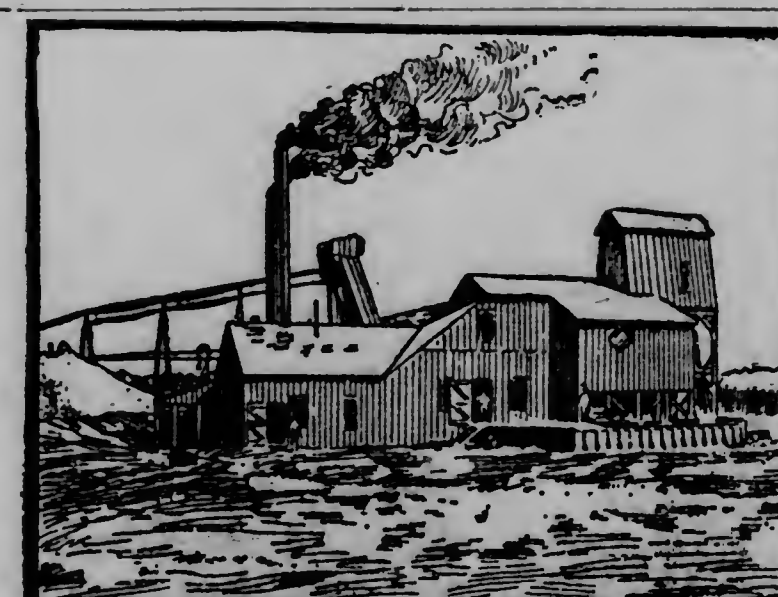

I reserve the right to return any subscription not sent in at once, as from present appearance it seems likely that the stock will be very largely over-subscribed in the near future.

Hints of Questionable Tactics on Sawyer Bill Heard.

Committee of Nine Appointed to Look Into Matter.

Senate Kills an Appropriation for Seattle Fair.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Hearing many hints and suggestions of questionable tactics in the matter of the Sawyer paint bill, which Representative Rodeburg had amended so as to leave nothing of the Sawyer bill but the title and the author's name, the house this morning decided to appoint through the committee a committee of nine to investigate the bill and everything concerning it. The bill was passed the other day after several heated rows over it, and this morning Representative McNeill of Minneapolis moved to reconsider its passage and his motion prevailed. Representative Rodeburg, the provisions of whose bill have been embodied in the measure, demanded that the galleries be cleared in order that he might tell the secret history of the measure. W. A. Nolan objected, saying that he hoped the individuals arrayed on opposing sides on this bill would settle their differences in private, without dragging the house into a scandal, and the request was not pressed. On motion of Representative Lenow, it was decided to appoint a special committee of nine to investigate the charges that have been made, or rather hints, of the committee of the Sawyer bill. The committee will have charged that the Rodeburg bill is backed by the National Lead company, while friends of the Rodeburg bill have responded with the accusation that the paint grinders are back of the Sawyer bill. BLACKMAILERS PREYED ON GROW Swindlers Mulcted the Dead Solon for Many Thousands.

New York, April 11.—Friends of the late Gadusha A. Grow have been astounded to learn that his death was hastened by a band of swindlers who levied blackmail upon him, using a woman as their willing tool. To protect his name and reputation from assaults which he feared would be taken seriously by a cynical world, he had the swindlers pay him $10,000. It is known that a woman announced herself as the wife of Mr. Grow and his friends paid her $10,000 to secure a claim upon the small estate left by him. It is said she is taking legal steps to that end, but if so, the relatives of Mr. Grow have received no official notice.

At the time of his retirement from Congress, in 1892, Mr. Grow was a moderately wealthy man for one of quiet tastes, living in his own home in the country. He had practically nothing when he died in November on March 31 last. He was being taxed on $10,000 personally outside of his household a few years ago and his investments, including non-taxable securities, are known to have exceeded $100,000.

MENOMINEE MAN HANGS HIMSELF

Bengt C. Olsen, Widower, Found Dead in His Room.

Menominee, Mich., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The dead body of Bengt Carl Olsen, a widower, aged 54 years, was found, late last night by the police in his room. The deceased apparently committed suicide three days ago. Neighbors became alarmed at not seeing the man for some time, and notified the police, who broke open the door leading into his apartment, finding the body suspended by a rope fastened to a nail driven into the door casing. No cause can be found for the act. The deceased leaves two daughters of high social standing in this city.

MAY RESULT IN A TANGLE

Commodity Rate Bill, Rushed Through House, May be Inoperative.

No Way by Which Rates Named Can be Enforced.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Did the house, when it rushed through the commodity rate bill, introduced Tuesday night, with only the briefest consideration, and without catching a sight of its provisions, start something that may see the shipping interests of the state up in a worse tangle than they have ever been in before? Did the zealousness of Attorney General Young, the railroad and warehouse commission, and the house railroad committee, in seeking to frame a bill that could be taken into the United States courts, frame one that is absolutely inoperative unless the railroads voluntarily accept its provisions? These questions are ranking in the minds of several house members, who have been taking the second thought that was not permitted by the rapidity with which the house was compelled to take action the other night. There may be something to the point these members have raised. This is that there is no way by which the rates named in the bill can be enforced unless individual shippers go into court to enforce them. Suppose a shipment of grain were offered to that end, but if so, the relatives of Mr. Grow have received no official notice.

FIFTEEN SAID TO BE MISSING

As Result of Wreck on Canadian Pacific in Ontario.

Montreal, April 11.—Nine adults and six children are missing as the result of a wreck on the Canadian Pacific railway west of Chapeau, Ont., yesterday. The following official statement was issued today by Mr. McNeill, vice president of the Canadian Pacific railway: "About twenty-two miles west of Chapeau, Ont., yesterday, the westbound transcontinental train which left Montreal on Tuesday morning was partly derailed, caused by a broken rail. Five cars ran down an embankment and caught fire, said to have been from the cooking stove. Nine adults and six children are missing.

The following are the names given: William Day, London, Eng.; Winifred and Susan Horton, Chertsey Heath, Kent; C. H. Golding, his brother and his brother's wife and two children, of Falkow, Essex, Eng.; Mrs. August Djork, Miss. R. B. Hampton and Mrs. R. Davidson and baby."

Man Who Insisted on Seeing Andrew Carnegie Arrested.

Close Watch Being Kept to Prevent Any Assassinations.

Pittsburg, April 11.—Carrying a pen knife, which was open and concealed partly in his cuff, Frederick Slagel, aged 23 years, was arrested in front of the Hotel Schenley today. Slagel was trying to gain access to the main lobby of the hotel, when seized by Policeman John Kennedy. He begged the officer to let him enter the hotel, saying that he wished to speak with Andrew Carnegie in reference to the sale of a patent device for milking cows. He was hurried to the Oakland police station. When searched he had $200 on his person. He gave his address as Los Angeles, Cal. Mr. Carnegie was not in the hotel at the time of the arrest. Slagel was locked up charged with being a suspicious person.

The arrest has caused a very close watch to be kept on every person to guard against possible assassination or injury to any of the notable guests who are today participating in the Founders Day exercises at the Carnegie Institute. Uniformed policemen and detectives by the score are hovering about all the prominent men, and the possibility of any unauthorized person reaching them is very remote. Mr. Carnegie was not informed of the arrest of the man.

IS DROWNED IN KETTLE RIVER

Henry S. Westman Loses Life by Boat Capsizing at Sandstone.

Sandstone, Minn., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Henry G. Westman, a well-known young man, 23 years of age, was drowned in Kettle river, at this place, at 10 o'clock on Tuesday. He was rowing a boat up river toward the sluice gate at the quarry dam, when his car became entangled in some wire, and in attempting to free the car capsized the boat. As soon as he fell into the water he started to swim for the swift current which would take him out of the whirling eddy and down the stream, where he could reach shore, but after reaching the current he must have been taken with chills, as he sank immediately.

Mr. Westman had a state reputation as a horticulturist, having won the bronze medal at the St. Louis exposition and a gold medal at the state fair in 1905 for his exhibits of strawberries. He was unmarried.

Notable Men From All Over the World Are Present.

Total Cost of the Enlarged Structure is $6,000,000.

Pittsburg, April 11.—Without any change in the official program the first day's proceedings in connection with the dedication of the palatial Carnegie Institute of Pittsburg, were enacted in the presence of the most distinguished audience of European and American dignitaries ever assembled in the city. The exercises today were marked by their simplicity. Two receptions were held. President Frew and Mayor Guthrie presiding. At the municipal reception, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Carnegie assisted. Following the reception the notable guests were taken on a tour of inspection through the library, museum and international art exhibition.

Pittsburg, April 11.—The first ceremonies in connection with the rededication of the magnificent Carnegie Institute of Pittsburg, which will extend over three days, began at 9:45 o'clock today when William N. Frew, president of the board of trustees, welcomed the invited guests from England, Germany, France, Belgium, Holland, South America, Canada and the United States in the founders room of the institute. The meeting was in formal attire and was for the purpose of introducing the guests. Immediately following the introduction the guests were taken to the municipal reception in the foyer. They were assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Carnegie, while President and Mrs. Frew presented the guests. At the close of the reception the museum and galleries of fine art, including the international annual exhibition of paintings were inspected. The tour of in-

CHILD CREMATED; WOMAN DROWNED

Two Sad Incidents at Town in Chisago County.

North Branch, Minn., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—News reached here yesterday of a very sad incident at Amadon, southeast of here, in which a little girl was burned to death while left alone in the house. The infant was the child of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hamble. The parents were over to the next farm at the time, fixing up a house into which they were getting ready to move. While they were there, the house caught fire in some mysterious manner and the child was burned to death before the parents were able to reach the spot. It is possible that the child set the house on fire itself by playing with matches, although the parents do not think there were any that it was able to reach. The parents of the dead child are heart broken. The body of Mrs. Albert Munson of the same place was found in Trade river Tuesday, about fifty rods from her home. She left the house in her night clothes in the middle of the night a week ago, and a constant search was kept up until the body was found. She is thought to have been temporarily insane at the time. She leaves six small children.

CRUSHED UNDER ROCK.

Mike Conley is Instantly Killed by a Falling Boulder.

Akeley, Minn., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mike Conley, aged 24 years, was instantly killed by a falling boulder while at work on the Crooked Lake spur, twenty miles west of here. Conley was working alongside a dumpcar in a cut, when part of an embankment gave way, and he was crushed to death under a giant rock. The parents of the unfortunate young man live at Grey Eagle, Mich., and his body will be shipped there for burial.

DISCOUNT RATE REDUCED.
London, April 11.—The discount rate of the Bank of England was reduced today from 5 to 4 1/2 per cent, in accordance with expectations. The plethora of money in the market and the large influx of gold into the Bank of England during the past week made the reduction a practical certainty.

DESTROYERS DAMAGED.
Dover, Eng., April 11.—The British torpedo boat destroyers Colne and Falcon put in here this morning, having been badly damaged in a collision on this port.

EXHIBITS ASKED FOR

Plan of Garden and Other Things Closely Examined.

Jurors Sleepy and Have Hard Work to Keep Awake.

New York, April 11.—The Thaw jury has come into the court room and asked for a reading of the judge's instructions regarding the testimony of the defense's witnesses. The jury again retired at 3:25 p. m. The jury asked permission to have some portions of Dehn's summing up address read to them, but Justice Fitzgerald would not permit it, saying it was not evidence. Among the exhibits called for were the letters which Harry K. Thaw wrote to Attorney Longfellow shortly after, as alleged, Evelyn Nesbit told him in Paris the story of her relations with Stanford White, and the will and codicil which Thaw executed the night of his marriage in Pittsburg, on April 4, 1906. The letters and will were introduced by the defense to show the mental state which, it is claimed, was brought upon the defendant by the story the girl related.

The jury also asked for the diagram of Madison Square Roof garden as it was the night Thaw killed White. This diagram was held up before them as the court stenographer said from the witness's recollection of the evidence given by James Clinch Smith, the brother-in-law of Stanford White, to whom Thaw talked for more than half an hour the night of the tragedy; the evidence of Meyer Cohen, the music publisher, whom Mr. Dehn had quoted in his summing up address as saying that Thaw, after he had sent Stanford White to his death, said out his arms in the shape of a cross, as a priest might do at some sacrificial ceremony; the testimony of Henry S. Plaise, of Paul Brudi, the fireman who disarmed Thaw, of Warren Paxton, the engineer of the roof garden, and other witnesses.

The action of the jury in asking for the particular exhibits and the testimony indicated led to much speculation as to what the trend of their long discussion had been. One of the widely discussed theories was that the jurors either wanted to refresh their memories as to testimony.

COMPLAINTS ON FREIGHT RATES

Kansas City, Mo., April 11.—The interstate commerce commission convened here today to hear various complaints against the railroads regarding freight rates. Among the cases to be heard are two filed by the Kansas City board of trade against the Burlington, Missouri Pacific, Santa Fe and Rock Island railroads, which are charged with imposing excessive rates on grain from points outside of Missouri to Kansas City, and also of maintaining an excessive reconignment charge of $2 per car. Among the other cases are the following:

The Producers' Pipe Line company against the Rock Island and other roads.

N. E. Wilhoit, formerly an independent oil man of Springfield, Mo., against the Missouri Pacific.

It is probable that the commission will also agree to hear the evidence in the "westbound rate case."

WOULD ASK GOVERNORS

To Meet and Discuss Plans for Uniformity of Legislation.

Madison, Wis., April 11.—Assemblyman Burke introduced in the legislature today, a joint resolution requesting the governors of the various states to call a conference at Indianapolis, in November, 1907, to discuss and formulate plans for uniformity of legislation. The resolution declares that the rights of the states are endangered by the federal government, particularly as to legislation affecting transportation and communication.

Man's Suit, $20

—and $20.00 back if you don't like it. If we make any sort of mistake bring the suit back—and we'll right the wrong. Generosity? No, indeed—just business; the right kind of business—fair-mindedness. That's what's made us the kingpins of the clothing business in Duluth.

By the way, $20.00 is the place where we can put a whole lot of value into clothes. Why? That's a long story. The suits tell it.

HUNDREDS GO BACK TO WORK

Several Departments at Lorain Running With Full Force.

Loraine, Ohio, April 11.—Between 700 and 800 returned to work at the local yards of the American Shipbuilding company today. Every joiner who was out went back and this department is running with a full force. The blacksmith department is also operating with nearly its full capacity. The carpenter shop is running nearly to its capacity.

Yesterday thirty-one strikebreakers arrived from Philadelphia. These men are all skilled riveters who brought with them their entire crews of heaters, hold-on and bolters-up. The iron shipbuilders are still out to a man. The promised relief fund has not yet come, according to members of the Shipbuilders' union.

GERMANS WOULD KEEP OUT AMERICAN MACHINES.

Berlin, April 11.—During the discussion of the budget committee of the Reichstag today of the appropriation to purchase typewriting machines for the military authorities, Dr. Siedentz, Socialist, introduced a motion providing for the exclusion of American machines, "because of the prohibitive effect of the American customs duties on German goods."

Here Paasche, National Liberal, first vice president of the Reichstag, supported the motion.

WOMAN JUMPS FROM A PORTLAND, OR. BRIDGE.

Portland, Or., April 11.—Mrs. Ignatz Lowengart, wife of a prominent merchant of this city, and daughter of Garrison Gerst, who was formerly a San Francisco capitalist, committed suicide today by jumping from the Ford street bridge, which is sixty feet high. She had long been a sufferer from nervous prostration.

FREIGHTHANDLERS MEET.

First Session of Year Held at Kalamazoo Hall.

Members of the Duluth Freight Handlers' union, No. 64, held their first meeting of the season last evening at Kalamazoo hall. The meeting was well attended and some important business was transacted. The local freight handlers will go back to work for the season of 1907 within a few days.

The local union has a membership of about 50 members and is one of the strongest organizations in Duluth at the present time. During August of last year the members of the union and the railroads had a dispute over the scale of wages and a strike resulted. The strike lasted for about two weeks and then a compromise was reached whereby the unionists secured a raise of 5 cents an hour.

James Knucky is president of the union and John Maxwell is secretary. No trouble is expected at any time this season.

AN AGED WOMAN IS CRUELLY BEATEN.

Milwaukee, Wis., April 11.—A special to the Evening Wisconsin, Chicago Falls, Wis., says: Mrs. Helen A. Jones, 75 years of age, was last night beaten to death in bed last night by an unknown assailant. There was a knock on her window, telling her to send her daughter and son-in-law to a neighbor's who was sick. This left her alone, and ten minutes later some one entered her room and mistreated her. The reason for the attack is a mystery.

He left Chicago a little over a week ago on a tour of inspection of his chain of Western establishments. PERSONAL PROPERTY

City Assessor Will Commence Work on Estimate May 1.

Opening of Navigation May Make Difference in Result.

Wednesday, May 1, City Assessor W. L. Jackson and his assistants, augmented by a corps of ten or a dozen special assistants, will commence the annual assessment of the personal property located and taxable within the city limits of Duluth. This is the year when the reality of the opening of navigation will be made manifest to the assessors. The opening of navigation will make a big difference to many of the assessable parties within the city, as the lumber and coal on the docks on May 1 is what the assessment will be based on. If navigation opens soon, and lumber shipments are brisk, the lumber companies may dodge a good share of quite a heavy assessment which is due under present conditions, as a large number of the mills have been sawing all winter and the docks are well supplied. On the other hand, the supplies of coal on the docks are getting pretty low just at present, and an opening of navigation in the near future would mean that cargoes coming in between now and the first of May would go a long way toward relieving the supply.

Since 1900 the assessed valuation of Duluth's personal property has been increasing steadily, the increase between 1905 and 1906 being the largest of the series, when a jump of almost $1,500,000 was made. There is every reason to expect almost as big an increase this year, and the assessors are counting on coming very close to the $10,000,000 mark, when they turn in their final report on the local personal property. While no regular assessment of real estate values will be made by the department this year, the addition of the valuation of improvements made during the year as gleaned from the records of the building inspectors' office, gives a fairly practical valuation upon which to base the tax levy for the year. The increase between the real estate levy of 1905 and 1906 was also about $1,500,000.

STOCKS ARE DEPRESSED

Coppers Have a Sick Tone Throughout the Session.

Both Listed and Unlisted Shares Close at Lower Prices.

The copper stock market had a session of depression today. The opening prices were somewhat off, and hardly a ray of strength gleamed through the market all day. The reports of the strike at Bisbee and other barish news seems to have effectively taken the strength away from even the very healthy coppers.

WHY THE LINE CHANGED.

Chicago Tribune.—The manager of the construction department of the Pleasant Valley electric road was greatly disturbed when the line was changed, and he said that he could not go on with the work on account of two women and a baby.

"The foreman went out with a smile on his face, and the young manager followed him to where the construction of the road was being carried on. In front of a dilapidated structure was seated a woman, and she was looking at the girl, sitting on the low step, was a weary-looking woman.

"Madam, are you aware that you are obstructing the progress of our work?" "I reckon I am, that's what Susan is there for, that's what I and the foreman are for. We propose to shut your road off to one side."

"The manager, who the line has been surveyed. You will have to move. Your place has been condemned. You will be removed from this line."

"Don't know any law," she interrupted. "The line is built on my road, even if it is backed by the president, can't you throw out my kitchen and my bedroom?"

The manager passed around the shanty, which was a small structure with a marble slab, with a few flowers growing about it. He drew near and read the words carved upon the stone.

James Stocum—Aged 17. He saved the lives of his mother and sister in 1900. Jimmie was drowned.

There was a soft knock at the front door when he appeared at the front and said to the woman: "Yes, Jimmie was drowned. It seems as if he had been drowned. He was drowned in the big dam busted up in the hills. Every one was saved, but while he was crossing the bridge it went down with him and Black Bass.

"Well, good morning," and the manager and his men moved on. The matter was laid before the directors, and the Pleasant Valley electric road takes a turn to the left and rounds in a small structure with a marble slab in the back yard under a stunted apple tree.

AN AUTHORITY ON MARRIAGE. Benjamin T. Nixon of Jeffersonville, Ind., is known as the "marrying suitor," for the very good reason that he has united in matrimony no less than 2,632 couples.

A reporter the other day asked him authority for his views on marriage. Mr. Nixon said: "When marriage is a failure, the fault nearly always lies at the husband's door. The man lets romance die. He forgets."

ADMISSIONS BY HERMANN

Show He Took Everything Possible From Position.

Washington, April 11.—Bingor Hermann's trial for conspiring with the defendant under cross examination for the third day. Mr. Hermann acknowledged his signature to vouchers for money charged the government $3 a day as his subsistence expenses on his annual vacation trip to the West while he was commissioner of the general land office. He said he combined vacation and business on this trip; would stay at his home in Rockburg two or three weeks then visit his mother and going and coming from visits to various land offices.

The defendant also admitted that while he was serving as representative in congress in the session before he became commissioner he appointed Stenographer Robertson as clerk to his committee with the understanding that Robertson would assist him in his salary with Hermann. Mr. Hermann said with this money he hired an additional clerk.

JURY CUTS DOWN FREEMAN'S AWARD

Appraisers Figured Damages at $9,375 and Jury at $5,250.

After deliberating about twenty minutes this afternoon, the jury in the appeal case of George Freeman from the appraisal of the commissioners in the Wisconsin Central Railway company's condemnation proceedings awarded him $5,250 damages. Mr. Freeman claimed that the award of $9,375 made by the commissioners was not enough and the railway company claimed that the award was too high. There are several other appeal cases still pending and there is some speculation as to what effect the verdict will have on them.

PERUNA EDITORIAL NO. 4.

The modern patent medicine business is the natural outgrowth of the old-time household remedies.

In the early history of this country, EVERY FAMILY HAD ITS HOME-MADE MEDICINES. Herb teas, bitters, laxatives and tonics, were to be found in almost every house, compounded by the housewife, sometimes assisted by the apothecary or the family doctor. Such remedies as pears, which was was aloe and quassia, dissolved in apple brandy. Sometimes a hop tonic, made of whisky, hops and bitter barks. A score or more of popular, homemade remedies were thus compounded, the formulae for which were passed along from house to house, sometimes written, sometimes verbally communicated. The patent medicine business is a natural outgrowth from this wholesome old-time custom. In the beginning, some enterprising doctor, impressed by the usefulness of one of these homemade remedies, would take it up, improve it in many ways, manufacture it on a large scale, advertise it mainly through almanacs for the home, and thus it would become used over a large area. LATTERLY, THE HOUSEHOLD REMEDY BUSINESS TOOK A MORE EXACT AND SCIENTIFIC FORM.

Peruna was originally one of these old-time remedies. It was used by the Mennonites in Pennsylvania, before it was offered to the public for sale. Dr. Hartman, THE ORIGINAL COMPOUNDER OF PERUNA, is of Mennonite origin. First, he prescribed it for his neighbors and his patients. The sale of it increased, and at last he established a manufactory and furnished it to the general drug trade.

The history of Peruna is also the history of many other well-known patent medicines to-day. Furnishing medicinal compounds direct to the people through the druggists, is simply the extension of the practice begun by the people themselves.

The patent medicine industry is A TREMENDOUS SAVING for the people. It enables the householder to purchase a useful remedy, together with directions and other medical advice, at a cost far below the average price of a doctor's visit. Like the shoe factory, the wagon factory, and the clothing factory, it lowers the price at the same time it perfects the product. The patent medicine business enables families far removed from doctors, to avail themselves of the medical advice of specialists, and to profit by their favorite prescriptions. All this is brought to the home for a small fraction of the amount it would otherwise cost the people.

NATURALLY THIS INDUSTRY HAS ITS OPPONENTS. The fact that the people can, for chronic diseases and petty acute ailments, save themselves the expense of calling a physician by purchasing a well-tried home remedy, put up under the personal direction of some experienced doctor, and that they can do this at a great deal less expense than to employ the local doctor cuts out a large slice from the income of the medical profession generally, BUT IS AN IMMENSE SAVING TO THE PEOPLE.

Thus it comes to pass that the people are almost unanimously in favor of patent medicines. On the other hand, the medical profession is quite generally opposed to the sale of them. There are doctors, however, who believe that the people are entitled to the privilege of economizing and profiting by the sale of these compounds.

This is why Dr. Hartman has compounded and sold to the people, through the drug trade, the family remedy, Peruna.

To destroy the patent medicine industry in this country is to deprive millions of homes of the privilege of using these well-tried remedies, and subject them to the expense of calling a physician for every minor ailment. Much has already been done at the instigation of the medical profession to HARASS THE PATENT MEDICINE INDUSTRY. Doubtless much more will be done from this same direction. But we believe that the people will understand and maintain their rights in this matter, and Peruna will continue as a useful and all-round household remedy.

Peruna is a household remedy of great merit, and is useful in a great many climatic ailments, such as coughs, colds, sore throat, bronchitis, and catarrhal diseases generally. THOUSANDS OF FAMILIES HAVE LEARNED THE USE OF PERUNA and its value in the treatment of these ailments. They have learned to trust and believe in Dr. Hartman's judgment, and to rely on his remedy, Peruna.

STEAMSHIP ASHORE.

The Brussels Strikes Bottom at Harwich In Dense Fog.

London, April 11.—The Great Eastern railway's steamer Brussels went ashore in a dense fog at Harwich at 11 o'clock last night while outward bound for Antwerp. She remained fast all night long, with about sixty passengers on board, but was not considered to be in any danger, as she was resting on a soft bottom. It is expected that the vessel will be hauled off at high water today. This is the third of the company's steamers to be in trouble recently, including the Berlin, which was wrecked off the Hook of Holland Feb. 21 with the loss of over a hundred lives.

RUMOR THAT ROOSEVELT

Will Let Up on Corporations and Talk on History.

Chicago, April 11.—A Washington special to the Tribune says: President Roosevelt has reached the conclusion that the country has had about all the agitation that is good for it at the present time in regard to trusts, railroads, control of corporations and similar great economic subjects. He has, therefore, decided that he will not discuss any of these topics in the speech he is to deliver at the opening of the Jamestown exposition, April 26.

He had at first mentioned that at that time he would relieve his mind and relieve the anxiety of the public in regard to the general policy he had adopted, looking toward licensing or regulation of corpora-

WEST DULUTH

PLAN GAINS IN FAVOR

Building Question to be Discussed at Commercial Club.

Project Proposed by J. J. Frey May be Carried Out.

West Duluth people are manifesting considerable interest in the plan proposed by J. J. Frey at the last meeting of the West Duluth Commercial club, which has for its object the buying of a lot by the club, and the ultimate erection of a Commercial club home. The matter will be brought up at the meeting of the club tomorrow evening, and a large attendance of members is expected.

It is argued by those who are in favor of purchasing a lot that even though the club did not finally decide to erect a building, the money for the lot would have been well invested, as the lot would surely bring more within a few years than at the present time.

It is said that a lot favorably located on the shore of Lake Superior, which would probably increase in value at least 100 per cent within five years. The club now has a membership of 25, and it is expected that a rapid rate. Some action on the question will probably be taken at tomorrow evening's meeting.

BILL MAY BE POCKETED

Nothing Heard From Salary Bill of County Officials.

Present Conditions Said to Need Some Remedy Soon.

Quite a little inquiry is being made by some of the county officials and taxpayers as to what the county delegation in the legislature has done with the bill providing for the salaries of the county officials.

A bill fixing the salaries of the officers was introduced in the legislature a few weeks ago, but since that time nothing has been heard of it and there is some speculation as to whether the bill will be brought up again.

The county board at its January meeting discussed the matter to some extent and the county attorney was asked to draw up a bill that would fix on something as to the salaries of St. Louis county officials.

It is said that the bill would fix the salaries of the county officials at a rate of $1,000 per year, which is a considerable increase over the present salaries.

from Harvard in 1887, and soon entered his father's office, where he began at the bottom, both as to pay and nature of employment.

He worked successfully as loan clerk, bond clerk, corresponding clerk, and through other gradations. He became a junior partner in 1888. During the period of his early training he lived during the summers at New Rochelle. Although fond of yachting, it is related that he would seldom take a day off to enter a yacht race, and on one occasion asked the managers of a yacht club to postpone the race from Wednesday to Saturday afternoon, so that he could be present.

In 1891 the younger Morgan was sent to London, where he was connected for four years with the house of J. Spence & Co. Toward the latter part of his stay there, especially after the death of one of the older partners, he took entire charge of the London office. About two years ago he returned to this country and has since devoted his time to the business of the firm here. As yet he has become a director in but few of the important companies in which Morgan, Sr., is interested, but this is only a formality, and in time he is expected to fill two of the most important corporations in the Union, Metropolitan Trust Co. and the International Mercantile Marine company, and the Northern Pacific railway.

Young Morgan's New York home is at No. 22 Madison avenue, which practically adjoins the residence of his father at No. 219 Madison avenue. His clubs here are the Union, Metropolitan, University, Racquet, Century, Harvard and New York Yacht, while in London he belongs to White's, St. James', Devonshire, and Bath. In 1889 he was married to Jane North, daughter of Henry North.

Meanwhile Morgan, Sr., is spending his days in his beautiful library and art gallery on East Thirty-sixth street that is connected with his brownstone residence at the corner of Madison avenue. As has been said, his concerns nowadays are more with his artistic tastes than with the material things of Wall street. Here his partners are the future president of the city of his new library and the turning of it into such a gallery as the Tate in London.

RIVER TO LIGHT PARIS. A colossal scheme of power development is said to be on the point of realization in France. It is proposed to utilize the river Rhone for the development of electricity for the city of Paris. Light, heat and motive power are promised at the cheapest rate in the world, says the New York Sun.

The originator of the idea is an engineer named Mahi. His plans have the endorsement of the National School of Highways and Bridges, and of the Society of Electrotechnicians. The enterprise is so assured that contracts for the delivery of current in Paris at an early day are already being negotiated.

The water is to be drawn from the Rhone at Grez or Falls of Belgrade, where the river, already of great volume, draining as it does Lake Geneva, plunges for 300 yards or thereabouts through a caisson which it has scored for itself in the solid rock.

The water diverted through a sluiceway will be impounded to the amount of 2,000,000 cubic metres, or about 2,666,000 cubic yards, on the level of Colles and returned to the river through a double tunnel of 450 metres, or about 470 yards, with a fall of 5 metres. This will furnish a flow, it is calculated, equivalent to 10,000-horse power, or 300 miles have been studied in the preparation of the plans, and are quoted as showing that the enterprise is entirely possible.

It is calculated that the delivery of the net electric power from these works in Paris as compared with the development of the electric energy on the spot by coal consumption will effect a net annual economy of about 20,000,000 francs, or $3,000,000.

INQUIRIES FOR THAW VERDICT

Telephones at the Herald Were Kept Busy Today.

Interest in the Thaw case was at fever heat today in Duluth. Everybody from the office boy to the heads of the establishment in every business house and factory was interested in the case, and all day they eagerly awaited an announcement that a verdict had been reached. The Herald was forced to keep a man at the telephone desk to answer inquiries relative to the case, and a curious ones expressed great disappointment that the verdict had not been reached.

"JACK" MORGAN A WORKER

Son and Successor of Magnate is Young Man of Talent.

New York Press: The "Old Man," as J. P. Morgan is generally known, is in the "street" as to all intents and purposes gone into retirement, and in the home he is spending his time in America there reigns in his stead J. P. Morgan, Jr., or "Jack," as he is more frequently called and spoken of in the same direction. No one can cry more loudly for the "Old Man" than the head of the house is very much alive. Only he has handed over the actual administration of his banking concerns to his son, while in his magnificent new library on East Thirty-sixth street he is spending the evening of his days in the pleasures of the collector and his collections.

Like all of the things the older Morgan does, his collection of banking was accomplished with little flourish of trumpets. So quiet and gradual has been the process that until the last few weeks but little attention had been paid to the important change which has for several years been taking place in the Morgan family. John Pierpont Morgan, the first financier of the country, and perhaps of the world, has practically turned the reins of power over to his son "Jack." Of late Morgan, Sr., has not been in any too good health, and for more than a month has not been in the financial district at all. Every time the stock market tumbles disquieting reports are circulated from one end of Wall street to the other that the "Old Man" is seriously ill, and in spite of frequent denials from other members of the firm, including "Jack," the reports persist and come to the surface at every favorable opportunity.

His devotion to the British banking business seems to be nothing immediately alarming in Mr. Morgan's eyes. He is merely an old man, and is retiring from the multifarious duties of the position as America's greatest financier. As he has withdrawn from financial worries he has devoted more and more attention to art and charity.

The more time J. P. Morgan spends among his art treasures and the fewer his business cares, the more these are being taken up by his son "Jack." Morgan, Jr., in fact, the affairs of the great house of Morgan are now in the hands of the younger J. P. Morgan, Jr., George W. Perkins and Charles Drexler, who are the legal heirs, so that the heavy financial work, formerly the joy of "The Old Man's" life, is spection gave the visitors the first complete view of the Carnegie institute buildings, which were well worth the exclamations of surprise uttered by the guests. This modern temple dedicated to literature, art, music and science, rises a gleaming edifice of marble from the green sward of Schenley park, one of the most beautiful in the park system of the city. Located on Forbes street, near the Grant boulevard, which is the most beautiful drive in the county, the building faces to the south, and with its wings and extensions covers an area of four acres, while with the three floors there is a space for the various departments of sixteen acres, exclusive of two basements and the powerhouse. Some idea of the extent of the building may be gained by a comparison with the capitol at Washington which covers three and a half acres.

MAGNIFICENT CARNEGIE INSTITUTE REDEDICATED

The total cost of the institute is $6,000,000. Six thousand tons of marble have been used in its construction which alone costs $750,000. Twenty-five thousand electric lights are controlled by one of the largest switch-boards in the world. The heating and ventilating plant is one of the most elaborate and scientific and cost $650,000. In the library the new book stacks are eleven stories high and have a capacity of 800,000 volumes, while the entire capacity is 1,500,000 volumes. The art galleries cover 4,700 square feet and the museum 104,000 square feet.

More costly and rare marbles have been used than in any other building in the United States. Another of the features is the Alexander frescoes portraying in symbolic paintings the rise of Pittsburg.

These are but few of the wonders of the Carnegie institute, and it might be added one of its chief charms is that it is to be opened complete—there are no long stretches of rooms to be filled as collections are gathered for them; the trophies and the museum's famous orchestra and the library with its collection of 200,000 volumes—all are a finished product—a product of the succeeding ages that had their part in making Pittsburg.

A few minutes before noon the guests left the institute for the Hotel Schenley, nearby, where luncheon was served.

mony tending to show either deliberation or premeditation on the part of Thaw, or else they wanted to have the story of Thaw's actions the night of the tragedy rehearsed once more in order that they might judge of his rationality. The suggestion of the latter purpose seemed to be given weight by the fact that they insisted to examine the letters, the will and the codicil brought forward by the defense in support of their claim of insanity.

It was generally conceded that serious differences of opinion had developed among the jury members as to the evidence, and that a verdict of any sort was still remote. The examination of the Thaw letters and the other documents called for will require much time.

Thaw faced his judges today with every indication of confidence. He or all the members of his counsel and his family, is still hopeful of a favorable outcome. The best that his counsel expect is a disagreement of the jury.

The action of the jury today in calling for the testimony did not inspire the attorneys any new hope.

Following the testimony of Mr. Smith that of Officer John Barry, doorman of the Nineteenth precinct station, where Thaw was taken on the night of the killing, was read.

After being locked in their consultation room at 11 o'clock last night, with nothing but hard chairs and a table to rest upon, the jurors argued uneasily among themselves. The few ballots which were taken indicated, it is said, that there was a wide divergence of views. Their confinement continued until 7 o'clock this morning, when two by two the twelve men were marched to the Broadway Central hotel, for breakfast. They looked pale and worn as they filed out of the criminal courts building, but upon their return, two hours later, their drooping spirits had somewhat revived, and they exchanged smiles and words of sympathy with a number of newspaper men who have been in attendance upon the trial since Jan. 23.

The strain under which the jurors had labored since their retirement yesterday afternoon was plainly written upon their faces. Their eyes were red, their cheeks a chalky white, and the whole effect one of haggardness. It was evident that sleep had been a stranger to their consultation room last night.

Jurors Pink and Steele seemed especially to have suffered in the long vigilance. During the long time it required the court stenographer to read the testimony they desired, the jurymen lounged back in their chairs and appeared to keep awake only with the greatest effort.

New York, April 11.—Members of the Thaw family began to arrive at the criminal courts building shortly after 10 o'clock. In one automobile were Mrs. Thaw, the countess of Yarmouth, Mrs. George L. Carnegie and Edward Thaw. They went at once to the witness room, where the countess of Yarmouth, Mrs. Carnegie and Edward Thaw. They went at once to the witness room, where the countess of Yarmouth, Mrs. Carnegie and Edward Thaw.

When Justice Fitzgerald went to his chambers the court officers told him no word had come from the jury room.

Justice Fitzgerald made her appearance at the courthouse within fifteen minutes after the other members of the family had arrived. Through the heavy black veil she wore it could be plainly seen that she was unusually pale. She walked as though much fatigued.

At 10:30 the newspaper men were admitted to the court room through the Thaw family entrance, but the doors were not opened to the public. District Attorney Jerome and the lawyers for the defense were summoned to the room. A few minutes later the jury asked for some of the exhibits and the district attorney's messenger delivered to the officer in charge of the jury all the exhibits in the district attorney's possession, including the two large photographs of Evelyn Nesbit, which she identified as having been taken the day White outraged her.

The jury asked the judge to give them the exhibits in the case, including the plan of the roof garden.

After reading the newspapers and just before coming over to the court, Harry Thaw sent a note to the newspapermen, saying there were so many mistakes in the papers that he would like to give out a statement that would be of use.

"I am told that it is impossible to tell what any jury will do, so I am attending to my daily affairs, but preparing for the best, as it is simpler to unpack my things if necessary than it would be to return home for them if the verdict is favorable."

"I had a very cold bath. The bath room always is filled with fresh air in the early morning, with the same temperature as outdoors. Next I had a weak coffee and rolls as usual. These details must have interest plus as they are often mistold."

"HARRY K. THAW."

The Thaw jury asked Justice to examine the letters from Thaw to Attorney Longfellow; the Thaw will and codicil; the Comstock letter; Delmas's hypothetical question; Jerome's hypothetical question.

The jury also asked to have the testimony of Meyer Cohen, one of the witnesses of the people read.

Meyer Cohen is the witness whom Mr. Delmas quoted as having testified that Thaw threw his arms at in the figure of a cross, after killing Stanford White.

New York, April 11.—After what is believed to have been a fruitless night of discussion and balloting, the jury in the trial of Harry K. Thaw, which dropped at 5:15 yesterday afternoon, was liberated from its confinement at 7 o'clock this morning and taken out to breakfast. The night had been a hard one for many of the jurors and the strain of the long trial and the longer hours of deliberation upon a verdict plainly showed on their pale faces and reddened eyes.

A jury locked up to consider a case is given no comforts. The chairs in the jury room adjoining Part No. 1 of the trial term of the supreme court, in which Thaw had his hearing, are straight backed affairs in which even a few moments of sleep for a tired juror would be well nigh impossible.

The one long table in the center of the room has sometimes done duty as a bed for the man among them who is tired as to doze off in a lottery to decide its disposition.

The Thaw jurors have been a cheerful body of men, but today their countenances were the serious look of men at issue with one another. There was nothing to suggest that in the night they had reached any sort of decision.

Justice Fitzgerald's charge on yesterday gave the jury the choice of four verdicts, and it was said this morning that the disagreement of the jurors may have had to do with the degree of their verdict as much as with the broader question of guilt or innocence.

The court in laying down the law said it was within the province of the jury under the indictment to decide the verdict of murder in the first degree, wherein there had been design coupled with deliberation and premeditation, or in the second degree where there had been the design to kill but no premeditation; manslaughter in the first degree where there had been neither design nor premeditation, but homicide in the heat of passion; or, not guilty on the ground of insanity.

Justice Fitzgerald charged that the character of the crime was the determining factor in the case, and that the man being under equal protection with the good in the eyes of the law, he was to be treated as such, and that public or private wrongs have no place in the law of the state.

Justice Fitzgerald, in locking the jury up shortly after 11 o'clock last night, indicated that he would be out by 10:30 a. m. It was generally believed that if the jury had reached a verdict during the night, and he had dict during the night, he would have made an earlier trip down town. It was said he had received no summons this morning.

If the jury should come into court today and report their disagreement, there is little doubt but that Justice Fitzgerald will send them back to continue their deliberations.

The senate decided this morning that the state cannot afford to spend $5,000 on an exhibit at the Seattle fair in 1909, and killed a bill providing for an exhibit. Chairman Peterson of the finance committee stated that the state is up against an increased tax rate, and that if too much money is spent by the legislature in years. A minority report recommending the bill for indefinite postponement was adopted, 32 to 13.

Senator H. E. Hanson, from Jefferson's district, called up the resolution about ore freight rates in the senate this morning, and Senator Alderman moved that it be referred to the railroad committee. The motion was lost by a narrow vote, and Senator Durmont of St. Paul sent the resolution over to tomorrow on notice of debate.

Representative Austin introduced a bill empowering the state auditor to lease state land, near Hibbing, to the Hibbing Agricultural society for a county fair grounds.

Senator Wilson introduced a bill, making it a misdemeanor for village, town or county officers to fail to destroy weeds.

Representative Hugo last night had the bill, allowing payment of a commission on the $750,000 Duluth water and light extension bonds, passed under suspension of the rules, and it now goes to the governor.

The tri-county delegation recommended for passage the bill providing a pension for school teachers in the three large cities.

The banking committee of the house killed the bill imposing a state tax on bank deposits.

C. K. Johnson of Brainerd, last survivor of the great fiscal legislators, addressed the house briefly.

Governor Johnson appointed P. H. Stober of Harrisburg of the new judicial district, just created, including Minnabod, Chicago and Washington counties.

The house discussed the Ratche immigration bill, providing a fund of $25,000 a year to advertise the state's resources, but took no action. Representative Jefferson said the state should not try to put settlers in the out-lands of Northern Minnesota and that the clamor for draining and immigration activity comes only from lumbermen that own these lands and want to dispose of innocents.

Adams of Ferguson Falls could see no use in the bill, while Representative H. M. Hanson said the bill was a forceful talk for the bill.

The Rocks bill prohibiting the issuance of railroad stock and bonds without the consent of the railroad commission, and the Cummings bill to amend the law relating to the oil, are a special order for this afternoon.

MULE WRECKS TRAIN.

New Jersey Railroad Men Tried to Lynch Stubborn Brute.

Vineland, N. J., April 11.—Pennsylvania railroad men caught a train-wrecker here yesterday morning, and in their rage threw a halter around his neck and dragged him from a car. But instead of hanging him they only blacked his eyes.

The mule had caused a wreck which held up one freight train, three electric trains and one work train. The mule was loaded on a freight car at Camden. When it arrived here, neither force nor persuasion could induce the brute to leave the car, so the engineer started to back the mules car to a sidetrack. As the train backed, the mule's car and two others jumped on the track at the switch and obstructed two other tracks on which four trains stood waiting.

"THERE'S A REASON."

SUIT BEGUN BY GRANDE

He Asks Damages for Slander and False Imprisonment.

Denies Statements Made in Letter From California Sheriff.

Papers were served this morning on Chief Trower of the Duluth police department, by Joseph Grande of the Independent Fruit company, in a suit which has been begun by Mr. Grande to collect $5,000 for false imprisonment and slander.

The complaint, which was drawn by Attorney Walter S. Whitton alleges that on and prior to April 7, 1907, Grande had always been a good reputation and had never been convicted of any crime; that he was building up a prosperous fruit business at 130 West Michigan street; that on that date he was arrested without any warrant or sworn complaint; that later a warrant was sworn out charging him with a felony, while habeas corpus proceedings were in progress; and that in court the defendant stated that Mr. Grande was the worst crook he had ever dealt with, or words to that effect, which words, it is claimed, were slanderous and untrue.

Mr. Grande further claims that since his arrest his business and reputation have suffered. He claims he was arrested merely on suspicion and was guilty of no crime; that after the arrest the defendant maliciously telephoned E. P. Stacey & Sons of Minneapolis, knowing they were a creditor, and that they sent to Duluth and had the plaintiff's bank account garnished.

For these acts Mr. Grande asks damages in the sum of $5,000.

Mr. Grande states that the allegations made in the letter received by the chief of police from the sheriff in California, are absolutely without foundation in fact. The letter intimated that Grande had left California in disgrace and had skipped to Duluth, Wis., doubling back and hiding in Sacramento.

"There is nothing that they want me for out there," said Mr. Grande. "I never skipped out. I was doing business here under my own name and had my wife and family here, and they could have got me any time they wanted me, if they had any charge against me."

"I was blacklisted by the produce men here without any just cause, and my name placed as a delinquent on the papers said it was the grocers who did this, but it was the produce men. The grocers have stood by me and been my friends during this."

The answer to the complaint in the suit against the chief of police has not yet been filed, but it is understood that the claim will be that a warrant is not necessary in the case of a person charged with a felony.

The civil action begun by E. P. Stacey & Sons of Minneapolis against Mr. Grande in the district court, was dismissed yesterday afternoon by R. S. Powell, attorney for the defendant. The dismissal of the suit also releases the garnishment proceedings against Mr. Grande's bank account.

CONDUCTING EXPERIMENTS At Agricultural Depart- ment to Solve Prob- lem of Diet.

Washington, April 10.—There are entirely too many fat people and too many thin people in the United States, and the government, through the agricultural department, is conducting experiments to show the fat ones and the lean ones how to strike an average.

C. F. Langworthy, chief of the division of nutrition, is considering investigations which include dietary studies, digestive experiments and various other facts in connection with food.

Now to get thin and how to get fat are being experimented with in a course of dietary studies at the University of Maine, at Orono, under the supervision of Prof. Woods, and at the University of Tennessee at Prof. Waite. There are two preliminary studies to be made. One is to get thin or to get fat, the other is to get fat, who wants to reduce his condition, the government says to him:

"Eat little, sleep little and drink less."

To the thin man, who wants to get out of the human skeleton class, it says:

"Drink all you can, eat all you can and sleep as much as you can."

The course prescribed for the fat man, who wants to become thin, is especially trying for it excludes good things of life. He must not drink a drop of water or any other liquid one hour before eating, nor until an hour has elapsed after he has finished. If he can make it two hours so much the better. Then his breakfast must consist of eggs, toast and coffee or cocoa, without sugar. His luncheon must be confined to a simple piece of meat or a cup of consommé or some fruit. His dinner may consist of any kind of meat, in any quantity and no vegetables other than tomatoes, spinach or cucumbers. He must eat no bread or butter. He may drink a cup of tea, but it must contain no sugar.

IT'S THE SKIN, NOT THE BLOOD

Costly Error of Treatment of Skin Diseases by Internal Remedies When the Surface Alone Should Be Healed.

If you slash your finger do you drink liniment to cure it? No, you apply the lotion to the wound, yet people are treating skin diseases constantly by dosing the stomach with pills.

Even some doctors—and doctors of good reputation, too—still try this old-fashioned method of curing eczema, although science has shown conclusively that all such diseases are curable, provided the cause is removed. The cause of eczema, however, is the result from the actions of germs which feed on the cuticle and multiply where the resistance is weakest.

Until a few years ago many doctors thought that skin diseases originated with the blood. What gave color to this belief was the manner in which smallpox, measles and scarlet fever develop. Of course, the breaking out of these ailments is only a symptom of the disease and science has shown that the people who suffer with real skin diseases, like eczema, are not sick at all in other respects.

The application of the germ theory proves that skin diseases are caused by germs which lodge in the skin.

To cure the skin directly, through the skin, Dr. Decatur D. Dennis compounded oil of wintergreen and other remedial agents into a liquid called D. D. D. Prescription. He gave this to his patients and found that the eczema germs were eradicated while the healthy skin was not injured at all.

Later Dr. Dennis was prevailed upon to allow a private company in Chicago to put up this remedy in bottles.

While Dr. Dennis has no direct connection with the skin disease prescription, he endorsed the remedy and sanctioned the sale of D. D. D. through drug stores.

Great credit is due to physicians who recommend this remedy—and there are many such physicians—when they can make so much larger fees by writing out their own prescriptions.

We vouch for D. D. D. Prescription and D. D. D. soap and recommend these to all sufferers from skin diseases. Lyceum Pharmacy, Duluth, Minn. Trade supplied by L. W. Lethbridge Drug Co.

As to Station Agents.

To the Editor of Herald:

In reference to your editorial, and letter of Mr. Cunningham, regarding station agents, I have had years of experience and the views stated are grossly exaggerated, agents as a rule, being in now wise as pictured. Had agents there may be, a few out of hundreds; at the same time many of the public are very unreasonable and cannot be satisfied no matter what is done for them. Nothing short of breaking the rules day in and day out will suffice. Also, very often the agent is required to listen to the schemes and plans and troubles and even family matters of so many and preserve secrecy, as well as to give advice, sympathy and even financial assistance. Some think they own the agent and his family and that his residence should be as open to them as the waiting room.

So between the many kinds of work and the pressure of time, the agent has the vast number of railway men as well as the public, he ought many times to be encouraged and upheld instead of censured.

WELLMAN OFF FOR THE POLE

Sails for England and
Will Proceed to Trom-
soe, June 1.

New York, April 11.—Walter Wellman said farewell to his friends in America today, when the steamer Touraine sailed, and says when he greets them again he hopes they will hail him as the discoverer of the North pole. He expects to leave for Tromsø, Norway, about June 1, and before the middle of the month to be at his winter quarters in Spitzbergen.

It will not be possible, however, to begin the trials of his airship before the second of July and it is likely to be the last of July or early in August before a start can be made for the pole.

"If we once get sail under favorable conditions, I have the utmost confidence that we shall succeed," says Wellman. "But it is certain that we shall not take unnecessary chances."

"Until the last night I did not believe it possible to obtain enough fresh water to generate the supply of gas, and after that it will take ten days to adjust the great steel boat and the propelling apparatus. Then will follow a series of experiments and trials of the airship, and I do not expect that everything will be ready before the last of July."

"One thing is certain. We shall not start for the pole unless we have reason to believe we shall be successful. It may be that a start will be delayed until next year because of unforeseen difficulties, but as far as I can see now, I expect that the pole will be discovered next August."

WILL BOOM AS SUMMER RESORT

Fond du Lac Will be Very Popular This Summer.

Fond du Lac, the beautiful little summer resort on the St. Louis river, is due for a boom this summer.

Each year its advantages as a location for summer camps, as a destination for excursion trips, and as an outing place, have come to be more generally recognized, with the result that the numbers, who spend their vacations there, or who make occasional trips during the summer, has gradually increased to considerable proportions.

The beauty, accessibility, and country air of Fond du Lac appeal to those looking for a quiet spot in the country to spend a few days. It is far enough distant from the city to be free from the bustle, and heat, and noise, and still near enough to be convenient for travel. Accessible by train or boat, there being good service over both routes, the pleasure seeker can run out for the day, or can make the trip to stay a week or a month with equal ease. Its position on the river gives the summer residents the advantages of rowing and other water sports, while the lover of nature may find plenty in the surrounding woods to claim his attention.

The resident population of Fond du Lac is between 200 and 300 and each year this is increased by numerous parties who make their summer homes there. In recent years a number of summer cottages have been erected at the little village, but this year, more than ever, are preparing to have summer cottages constructed, in which their families

LANDS TURN OUT VALUABLE

Crookston Milliner Finds Her Land is Worth a Fortune.

Crookston, Minn., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. Ella Pierson, a milliner of this city, has received notice that she owns some valuable coal and oil lands in Illinois. Mrs. Pierson secured the lands in a tract of 160 acres and at that time purchased them for agricultural purposes. Later, however, she was notified that the lands were practically worthless for this purpose and she supposed that she was a loser by several thousand dollars. Recently she was notified that her lands were right alongside of some very valuable coal and iron lands and that there is no doubt but what she owns lands which are worth a fortune.

The lands near her's were recently sold for several hundred thousand dollars to a big corporation, and she has had several offers for them, but will hold them for the pole.

Mrs. David Johnston of this city, whose husband died last year, lost a large tract of land north of Crookston last December, having made a settlement with the company for $400. Her attorney in the case was E. O. Hagen of this city. Considerable of a sensation was caused in this city during the past few days through a story to the effect that David Johnston, aged 32, well-dressed and a native of this city, had died at the home of his widowed mother last Thursday, came to his death as a result of rough usage by other boys while being initiated into a cabin gang of tough youths. It was discovered, however, that the boy was suffering from Bright's disease at least a month before the alleged cause of death was supposed to have taken place, and died from that disease.

CONDUCTING EXPERIMENTS

At Agricultural Department to Solve Problem of Diet.

Washington, April 10.—There are entirely too many fat people and too many thin people in the United States, and the government, through the agricultural department, is conducting experiments to show the fat ones and the lean ones how to strike an average.

C. F. Langworthy, chief of the division of nutrition, is considering investigations which include dietary studies, digestive experiments and various other facts in connection with food.

Now to get thin and how to get fat are being experimented with in a course of dietary studies at the University of Maine, at Orono, under the supervision of Prof. Woods, and at the University of Tennessee at Prof. Waite. There are two preliminary studies to be made. One is to get thin or to get fat, the other is to get fat, who wants to reduce his condition, the government says to him:

"Eat little, sleep little and drink less."

To the thin man, who wants to get out of the human skeleton class, it says:

"Drink all you can, eat all you can and sleep as much as you can."

The course prescribed for the fat man, who wants to become thin, is especially trying for it excludes good things of life. He must not drink a drop of water or any other liquid one hour before eating, nor until an hour has elapsed after he has finished. If he can make it two hours so much the better. Then his breakfast must consist of eggs, toast and coffee or cocoa, without sugar. His luncheon must be confined to a simple piece of meat or a cup of consommé or some fruit. His dinner may consist of any kind of meat, in any quantity and no vegetables other than tomatoes, spinach or cucumbers. He must eat no bread or butter. He may drink a cup of tea, but it must contain no sugar.

WELLMAN OFF FOR THE POLE

Sails for England and
Will Proceed to Trom-
soe, June 1.

New York, April 11.—Walter Wellman said farewell to his friends in America today, when the steamer Touraine sailed, and says when he greets them again he hopes they will hail him as the discoverer of the North pole. He expects to leave for Tromsø, Norway, about June 1, and before the middle of the month to be at his winter quarters in Spitzbergen.

It will not be possible, however, to begin the trials of his airship before the second of July and it is likely to be the last of July or early in August before a start can be made for the pole.

"If we once get sail under favorable conditions, I have the utmost confidence that we shall succeed," says Wellman. "But it is certain that we shall not take unnecessary chances."

"Until the last night I did not believe it possible to obtain enough fresh water to generate the supply of gas, and after that it will take ten days to adjust the great steel boat and the propelling apparatus. Then will follow a series of experiments and trials of the airship, and I do not expect that everything will be ready before the last of July."

"One thing is certain. We shall not start for the pole unless we have reason to believe we shall be successful. It may be that a start will be delayed until next year because of unforeseen difficulties, but as far as I can see now, I expect that the pole will be discovered next August."

FAREWELL BANQUET.

Is Given at Ely in Honor of Clarence J. Mott.

Ely, Minn., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Ely club tendered a "stag" farewell smoker and banquet at their rooms Tuesday night to Clarence J. Mott, who for the past six years has held the position of chief chemist for the Olive company, here. Mr. Mott and family left for Colorado, where they will make their future home.

Mr. Mott still remains in the employ of the same company. While his hosts of friends in Ely regret the departure of such a thorough gentleman, all congratulate him on his promotion, and Colorado gets a good citizen. Those present were: Charles Grab-

WILL BOOM AS SUMMER RESORT

Fond du Lac Will be Very Popular This Summer.

Fond du Lac, the beautiful little summer resort on the St. Louis river, is due for a boom this summer.

Each year its advantages as a location for summer camps, as a destination for excursion trips, and as an outing place, have come to be more generally recognized, with the result that the numbers, who spend their vacations there, or who make occasional trips during the summer, has gradually increased to considerable proportions.

The beauty, accessibility, and country air of Fond du Lac appeal to those looking for a quiet spot in the country to spend a few days. It is far enough distant from the city to be free from the bustle, and heat, and noise, and still near enough to be convenient for travel. Accessible by train or boat, there being good service over both routes, the pleasure seeker can run out for the day, or can make the trip to stay a week or a month with equal ease. Its position on the river gives the summer residents the advantages of rowing and other water sports, while the lover of nature may find plenty in the surrounding woods to claim his attention.

The resident population of Fond du Lac is between 200 and 300 and each year this is increased by numerous parties who make their summer homes there. In recent years a number of summer cottages have been erected at the little village, but this year, more than ever, are preparing to have summer cottages constructed, in which their families

BACK GIVES OUT

Plenty of Duluth Readers
Have This Experience.

You tax the kidneys—overwork them—They can't keep up the continual strain. The back gives out—it aches and pains; Urinary troubles set in. Don't wait longer—take Doan's Kidney Pills. Duluth people tell you how they act.

Ernest Grotke of 926 Fourth avenue east, Duluth, Minn., says: "I speak from experience when I say Doan's Kidney Pills are a reliable remedy. I first heard of their merits from a friend who had received gratifying results in his own case. I was then suffering from severe dull pains in the small of my back and joints and had become so weak that I was almost compelled to give up work. I procured a supply of Doan's Kidney Pills and began using them. Although other remedies had failed to help me I soon noticed the benefit and kept on using Doan's Kidney Pills until the pain and all symptoms gradually but surely disappeared until I was entirely free from the trouble."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

BUILDING LINE CASE.

Action Started by Property Owners May Settle Old Question.

H. Y. Josephs and Max Zaik have filed notice with the city clerk to the effect that they will appeal from the findings of the appraisers in the matter of establishing a building line on East Superior street, between Twelfth and Fourteenth avenues east, in connection with their property, the north-east corner of Superior street and Twelfth avenue east. They claim that the benefits awarded by the appraisers are too great and the damages too little and that the city has violated both the constitution and the state statutes in its action. Davis, Hollister & Hicks are in charge of their case.

The case will be a decisive one in determining the city's rights as to building line easements, and will settle the question as to whether the benefits of the establishment of a building line are great enough to warrant its es-

SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

BOAT CLUB
VS. Y. M. C. A.

Series of Three Games
Will Begin Next Tuesday Night.

Rivalry is Intense and Good Games Are Promised.

Arrangements have been made for a series of three games between the basketball teams representing the Y. M. C. A. and the Duluth Boat Club. The first game will be played next Tuesday evening at the Y. M. C. A., the dates for the succeeding games to be decided upon later. The laurels will go to the team winning two of the three games.

The members of the boat club have been using the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium for training purposes during the winter season. Basketball is a good training medium for all forms of athletics and the boat club members have been playing the game considerably. They have come around to such form at it that they think they can win from the Y. M. C. A. in the three-game series, while on the association side of the fence, a similar belief in the superiority of the association team exists. The rivalry has reached such a stage that only by playing the series can the question be decided to the satisfaction of everybody.

Both teams have crowds of supporters, who will attend the games and urge their respective favorites on. The basketball season is fast drawing to a close and lovers of the game will find in the coming series a good deal to interest them, so good crowds are expected.

The team will line up as follows:
Boat Club. Position. Y. M. C. A.
Fenton. Forward. Anderson
Deighton. Forward. Smith
Haroldson. Center. Dinham
Skelton. Guard. Smith
Dennis. Guard. Downing

MUST ADHERE TO SALARY LIMIT

Limit Remains $1,000 and Must be Observed by Clubs.

Dr. P. R. Glass, president and secretary of the Northern Copper Country league denies the rumor, which has been current recently, that the league officials had raised the salary limit from $1,000 to $1,200. The rumor has been given credence all through the circuit, but Mr. Glass denies that it has any foundation, and says the salary limit will remain where it is, for this season at least.

He says the officials of the league will not countenance the exceeding of the salary limit by $1 this year. It is known that the league has paid every team in the league paid more money to players than the rules allowed for last season. But, as the $1,000 to $2,000, it being confidently believed on the circuit that Winnipeg paid this latter amount to keep its team going during the season. This year, the salary lists will be closely scrutinized, and every effort will be made to see that no more money is paid a player than he is allowed on the face of his contract. Provisions have been made for dealing severely with the club discovered exceeding the limit, and a heavy fine will be imposed for infractions of the rule.

O'Keefe Knocks Colored Man Out in Four Rounds.

After exchanging wallop with Mike O'Keefe for three rounds and a portion of the fourth before the Eagles of Ashland, Wis., last night, Grif Jones, the Duluth colored fighter, took a nap, enforced by O'Keefe's right landing on the colored boy's stomach. The bout was scheduled to go fifteen rounds. In the second Jones went down under a billy blow and claimed foul, but the referee refused to allow the claim. In the fourth, the men were going along nicely, when O'Keefe saw an opening, resulting in Grif taking the count.

The Jones-O'Keefe bout was the main event of a card of four. Jim Kelly of Butte, Col. Elmer, Young O'Keefe and Brownlee, all of Superior took part in the preliminaries.

CESSLER TO COLUMBUS.
Columbus, Ohio, April 10.—President Bryce of the Columbus American association announced last night that he had purchased the release of Harry Cessler, sub-boss and outfielder of the Chicago Nationals, and that he will appear this week.

No Non-Reserve Contracts.
One new rule of the National agreement which appeals to managers of ball teams and is looked upon unfavorably by certain players, is that which provides for a reserve clause in every contract signed by a player. Non-reserve contracts have been made in the past, but they have resulted in the disrupting of championship organizations. Star players, not wishing to tie themselves to one organization, sign non-reserve contracts and, being free lances at the close of the season, leave the team and management, which might otherwise have held them, is compelled to seek out new men and develop their abilities.

Now, when a baseball player once signs a contract, he becomes a chattel of organized baseball as long as he wishes to play the game with teams operating under the national agreement. He cannot call his baseball playing abilities, which may be his sole means of livelihood, his own, but must play anywhere those who hold his contract ordain, or he must retire from the game for good and all. The complete elimination of non-reserve contracts has its good points, but it will certainly drive a number of good ball players from the game.

Independent Ball League.
If the management of the baseball teams in the range towns is determined to see that the formation of a semi-professional league is for their best interests, the six-club league consisting of teams representing Hibbing, Eveleth, Virginia, Cloquet, Superior and the Kelley Hardware company of Duluth will undoubtedly become a reality. The league will be a good thing for the teams concerned and baseball in general, while it is gained by semi-professional teams playing wholly independent, with no schedule, playing here and there where the opportunity to arrange a game presents itself. The towns proposed for the new league support good semi-professional teams. The fans contribute liberally to the support of the teams, but they do not know what is coming from one week to another, for the most part. It would certainly be well for the managements of the teams to get together, reach an agreement on rules, draft a schedule and adhere to it for the season. The proposed circuit is well able to support a league of the kind proposed, playing Saturday and Sunday games. The Duluth team would have an opportunity of playing nearly half of their games at home in the regular week. They would undoubtedly draw encouragement and support from the fans, while not near as many as the Northern Copper Country league. It is to be hoped the managers will look at the move in the right light and the annual post-season squabbles over the championship will be done away with.

What's the Game?
As the fight fans, sporting writers and everybody interested in the battles between Joe Gans and Harry Lewis to fight at 135 pounds in a calm and critical manner, the opinion is generally expressed that there is something shady in the deal. Harry Lewis, a small, dark, wiry fellow, is 135 or 138 pounds. When he fought with Mike (Twin) Sullivan at Denver recently he weighed nearer 145 than 135 pounds. The mere fact that Lewis' manager signed the articles without a murmur on the weight question gives the deal a queer appearance, in itself.

Gans may be acting seriously, for Sullivan says Lewis all he could take care of and Gans bested the Twin twice, so the champion has nothing to fear from Lewis. But, as Lewis is looking for advertising or he is suffering from some form of mental aberration, when he signs to get down to 135 pounds. It is doubtful if he can do it, in the first place, and should he succeed in making the weight, he would be a weakling to such an extent that he would be a toy in the hands of the shifty colored boy. After the articles were signed, it was announced that both fighters "were off on a theatrical tour," so there is color to the advertising theory.

Lewis and Gans say they will not fight unless some club puts up a $20,000 purse. If they stick to that, they will never meet. Mike Riley is the only man who would put up that much money for the affair. But, as Riley so tangled that he is in a fair way not to pull off any more fights for some time to come, Gans and Lewis might draw a $10,000 house in San Francisco, but not a cent more, and there isn't another city in the country that would pay more money to see the fight than the City of the Golden Gate.

Friends of Tom McCune, the local fighter who trained Ben Tremble for his match with Mike Schreck, believe that McCune would stand a better chance with the Cincinnati Dutchman than Tremble. They are taking of going after a match between McCune and Schreck, to be fought at Duluth, probably in the next month. They think that McCune is a better man than Tremble and that he is able to stand up longer before Mike and possibly put him away.

On the face of things it looks as though Schreck fought at Hibbing, he was not in normal ring condition, whereas, he training strenuously for his bout with Willie and should he come up here next month, he would probably be 20 per cent better than when he went on with Tremble. If McCune should be matched with Schreck, it is doubtful if Tom could stay as long as Tremble did.

If you are selling enough goods—then your advertising in The Herald is sufficient.

KRICK WILL BE ON HAND

Is Slightly Ill, But Will be at Madison
Monday.

Four Candidates for First and Another May Come.

Scattered all over the Central states, the prospectus of White Sox for the season of 1907 are preparing to meet at Madison, Monday, to begin training for the regular league season. Treadway arrived in Duluth from Minneapolis last night and he will leave in a day or so for Madison to be on hand when "Smiley" Smith calls his forces together. Manager Kuehnow received a letter yesterday from White Sox, who is at home in South Bend, Ind. Krick says he is slightly under the weather at present, but will be on hand at Madison, Monday.

Yesterday Mr. Kuehnow received a signed contract from Harry Tracy, who is at Dixon, Ill. Transportation was sent the big fellow and he will be at Madison Monday. There will be no dearth of candidates for first base, from present indications. Four have already been named, who want to try out for the position. A man, who is trying out with the Dubuque team of the Three I league, wants to try out for the job on the Duluth team and if he secures his release from Dubuque, Manager Kuehnow expects to see him. His name has not been given out, but he batted 296 last year and his fielding percentage was .960. There are seven candidates for the first base position with Dubuque, and the Duluth team possibly thinks on that account, he will not land the place, the man who held down the sack last year having the preference.

If the number of applicants for positions on the Duluth team, which Manager Kuehnow has wanted to see in indication, the Northern-Copper Country league looks like a good field to a large number of ball players in the United States. Besides the twenty-five or so, who have signed contracts with Duluth, Mr. Kuehnow has letters from fully forty players, who are wanted out for positions on the Duluth nine. Most of them have good records and Mr. Kuehnow would have no trouble filling out a team from the held over applications alone. Each year the Northern-Copper Country league is more recognized as a stepping stone to fast company and promising ball players are not averse to playing on teams in the "grasshopper" circuit.

SPORTING NOTES

It is reported that Calumet has released Frank Kurke, the catcher, purchased by the Lincoln team. "The Rat" will play with an independent team in Minneapolis this season. Calumet is claiming Kurke, who is the Aristocrat of the circuit. He is the new playing manager of the team, is a catcher but it's a good man who can fill the shoes of the two stars reported lost.

Johnny Reid, manager of the new fight club at Port Washington, Wis., has offered $5,000 for the match. He says he is as good as having it where. He also offers $1,000 for a match between Rocky McFarland and Ed Smith. The fight will be at Chicago next Monday night.

This evening at the Lincoln park rink, the Nemadji roller polo team of Superior will play the rink team, which is claiming victory. They will play the Northern Hardware team for the Nemadji roller polo trophy. The Northern team has not yet been defeated and the defeat of the Nemadji is usual. Besides this, the hardware dealers have a clear claim to the title.

Frank Gotch has consented to meet Fred Beell, the wrestler, at a professional match, and the men will probably meet early in the month. Beell, from him, Gotch regained the championship and Beell is to secure it again. Beell and Jim Parr, the English wrestler, will meet at Chicago next Monday night.

Willie Fitzgerald, who showed good form recently in his bout with "Tink" Russell, a Philadelphian, is expected to be matched to meet Indian Joe Grege at Indianapolis April 24. The men are light welterweights and reaching for a fight. Fitzgerald probably has the better record, but Russell is a better fighter. Like a champion since he made his appearance in the East end he should make things interesting for the Brooklyn boy.

WIRE-TAPPING CHARGED

In the Suit Against the Superior Board of Trade.

Minneapolis, April 11.—Sensations crowded each other in the hearing of the suit of the chamber of commerce against the Superior board of trade yesterday.

Attorney Mercer's questions clearly indicated that the chamber has evidence of wire tapping, and Mr. Mercer went so far as to mention the name of the company occupying them and to locate the offices where it is alleged the wire tapping occurred.

During the hearing reference has often been made to a private telephone wire of the Tri-State Telephone company, running from the Superior board of trade to office 64, Endicott building, St. Paul. Many telephone company employees have testified as to its location and the date of its installation.

A chance to save some money on something you are compelled to buy is news—don't you think?

BIG LEAGUE SEASON ON

Outlook for Opening in East Today is Dubious.

A Banner Year for Baseball is Freely Predicted.

New York, April 11.—Weather permitting, the baseball season will open today. The snow and the rain of the past few days makes the outlook in the East somewhat dubious, but reports from the West make it reasonably certain that the schedules of both the National and American leagues will be carried out there.

Judging from the attendance at the preliminary and practice games, the interest in the National game is more widespread than ever this year. Predictions have been made that this will be baseball's banner year. More professional leagues will be seen in competition than ever before, the number of players is greater, and the attendance at the gates is expected to exceed that of former years.

According to the experts, who have made a close study of the clubs in both the National and American leagues, the race for the championship in the respective leagues will be close than it has been for several seasons past. Deals and other strengthening processes have been resorted to in such a manner that even some of the weaker clubs offer a chance for the pennants.

The National league's local season will open at the polo grounds, if there is any possibility of playing. The parade is scheduled to play New York. Senator Spooner Makes

Pays a Warm Tribute

New York, April 11.—Senator John C. Spooner of Wisconsin was the guest of the Wisconsin Society of New York last night and made the principal speech at the annual dinner of the society at the Waldorf Astoria.

After warmly thanking the Wisconsin society for its welcome to him Mr. Spooner said:

"I have lived in Wisconsin since my boyhood, all the years of my professional life have been spent within her borders, who has bestowed without stint her brightest honors upon me and the most valued associations of my life cluster about her. I love her, her people, her prairies and uplands, her forests, lakes and rivers. Her motto is 'Forward' and her people have lived up to her motto."

Referring to his services in the senate he said:

"As I am leaving it never to return to it, I may say without greatly subjecting myself to the charge of immodesty, as I said to the legislature from which I received a first election to that body, that I have never looked upon a seat in the senate as itself an honor, much to the contrary, except as an opportunity afforded by the partially of honor which is bestowed upon me by the people of the United States and of Wisconsin."

"I have had no interest but the interest of the people of the United States and subordinate to that of the people of Wisconsin. I have been a senator, I think no one will deny that it has been a laborious one."

New York, April 11.—Supreme Court Justice Thomas in Brooklyn, awarded to Ida Bollit $4 a week alimony, pending the trial of her suit for separation against Isaac Bollit, a furrier, on the grounds of cruel and inhuman treatment. They were married Oct. 6 last. Mrs. Bollit says that since that time her husband has allowed her just 25 cents a week.

She became sick and had to go to the hospital, and her husband, she avers, visited her there and gave her 10 cents. ON TRIAL FOR THIRD TIME

Puck Damage Case Again Before Jury in District Court.

Unable after two previous attempts, to collect damages of the street railway company for injuries claimed to have been received last summer in a collision with a street car, Claus Puck has started the third trial in the district court.

The jury was selected this morning and testimony was to have been taken this afternoon.

The Puck case, by reason of its several trials, is getting to be quite a familiar action to the public. Mr. Puck, it is claimed, ran out from the sidewalk on Superior street, between Second and Third avenues west, one day last summer to stop a hack team that was running down the street. It is alleged that in attempting to stop the team he came in contact with a double truck car that was going in the direction from that point to the street car crossing, and was thrown on or under the fender, sustaining severe injuries. Mr. Puck based his suit in the claim that the company was negligent in that the testimony of the motorman and several other witnesses tending to show that the car was running slow and had actually stopped when the team Mr. Puck was attempting to stop ran into it and he was thrown down and injured.

In the former two trials the juries were unable to agree and were discharged in each case after remaining out for some time.

Mr. Puck demands something over $2,000 for his alleged injuries.

BEDE GETS VERY BUSY

Hustles Around Departments in the Interest of Duluth.

Important Matter to Finn Homesteaders is Considered.

FROM THE HERALD WASHINGTON BUREAU.

Washington, April 11.—(Special to The Herald).—J. Adam Bede arrived in Washington today, having left Duluth about two weeks ago, making several days' stops at Chicago and other points en route. Mr. Bede at once got busy, working about the departments, his first call being at the war department to ascertain what has been done regarding harbor matters. He found that the board of engineers of high standing in the corps had been selected, but as yet no date has been set as time for the visit to Duluth. The board is composed of the following officers: Col. Henry D. Adams, Buffalo, chairman; Col. Chase L. B. Davis, Detroit; Maj. James G. Warren, Cincinnati; Maj. Harry Taylor, New London, Conn.; and Capt. Harry Baggess, Louisville, Ky.

Congressman Bede then called upon the assistant secretary of the navy, Mr. Newberry, regarding a new ship for the Minnesota naval reserves. Mr. Bede is of the opinion that Minnesota will get either the Dorothea, now at Chicago, or the Isidore, now at Duluth, one of the ships captured by Admiral Dewey in Manila bay, and now undergoing extensive repairs at the Pensacola navy yard.

At the treasury department Mr. Bede called upon the supervising architect in regard to the federal building. He was informed that the department will take the matter up in a few days and send a special agent to look over the ground.

Another matter of very considerable interest to some 200 Finnish settlers in Northern Minnesota, some residing in St. Cloud, some in Duluth, is the matter of the land office. It appears that a number of Finns, having taken up homesteads in the federal building, are now endeavoring to secure full title to their land. Mr. Bede says that this is a matter which will be taken up by the land office in a few days.

At the treasury department Mr. Bede called upon the supervising architect in regard to the federal building. He was informed that the department will take the matter up in a few days and send a special agent to look over the ground.

STOLE FROM COMPANIONS

Two Woodsmen Arrested on Forgery and Larceny Charges.

Both Prisoners Are Said to Have Robbed Their "Pals."

Two woodsmen were arrested in Duluth today charged with grand larceny and forgery, the victim in each case being a close friend of the prisoner.

In one case the victim is said to have given his companion his time check for safe keeping, only to have it endorsed by him, while in the second case the men had been hanging around together for a week and were sleeping after a night's carousal when the theft was committed.

Hemming Johnson was arrested on the complaint of his friend, who said that he had given him his time check for safe keeping and had not received it back. When arrested Hemming said that he had lost the check and was sleeping in a saloon and that he thought it stolen from him. He said that he would pay Hemming his $40 as soon as he had time to earn it. The police were inclined to believe his story at first, but an investigation proved that the check had been cashed at the Oak Hall clothing store and Hemming's name forged as an endorsement. The clerk who cashed the check identified Hemming Johnson as the man who signed the name and received money for it, and the apparently innocent woodsman was at once arraigned on a charge of forgery.

The clerk said that when Johnson offered to cash the check he was pushed back by a man named Alex Packewsky, who said "put your John Hancock on there." "Oh, no," Johnson is claimed to have said with a grin, "I sign Louis Hemmings here."

Johnson's examination is set for next Saturday morning at 10 o'clock. Joseph Robert is the name of the man arrested for larceny. He was charged with stealing a man named Alex Packewsky in Superior for the past week, according to Packewsky's complaint. Packewsky says, however, that Robert was not as badly drunk as he claimed to be when he stole the "dull-gray-dawn-of-the-morning" and feeling this morning he found Robert gone and his pocketbook, containing $35 in cash, also missing. He at once notified the police and had an officer with him on the watch, and when a Bowers saloon man telephoned in that a man wanted to cash a $40 check, Johnson was arrested.

THE THAW JURY DISAGREES!

THE APPOINTMENT OF ST. LOUIS COUNTY COURT-HOUSE COMMISSION VOID

According to Decision of Assistant County Attorney Stevenson.

Legislature Will Enact New Law to Correct Matter.

The Senate Passes the New Commodity Rate Bill.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)
St. Paul, April 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—In the judgment of Assistant County Attorney Stevenson, the decision of the supreme court on the Ramsey county board of control, that the power of appointment cannot be delegated to the district court, invalidates the St. Louis county courthouse commission and the board of poor commissioners. The full decision, handed down this morning, confirmed this judgment and Mr. Stevenson is preparing bills to be introduced and put through before the session ends, providing that these commissioners shall be appointed by the chairman of the county board, who will reappoint the existing boards.

A. J. ROCKNE, Whose Bill Regulating Issues of Stocks and Bonds by Railroads, Was Killed by the Senate.

ROCKNE BILL IS DEFEATED

Was to Regulate Railroad Stock and Bond Issues.

Rates Provided for in the New Commodity Rate Bill.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)
St. Paul, April 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The house yesterday afternoon killed the Rockne bill regulating the issuance of railroad stocks and bonds, there being 47 votes for it when 60 were needed, and 55 votes against it.

This measure has been fought about as hard as any bill that has come before the legislature at this session, and as the result of yesterday afternoon's vote, it was fought effectively. Those in favor of the bill took the stand that the state should regulate stock and bond issues of railroads, in order that the roads might not be tempted to charge too high freights in order to pay dividends on watered stock. They pointed out that laws almost the same as this have been on the statute books for many years, though one of them was recently declared unconstitutional by the supreme court. Admitting that under the decisions of the courts railroads may be confined to a fair return upon what it would cost to reproduce them regardless of their capitalization, the friends of the bill pointed out that the railroads attempt to return dividends upon their watered stock, and so far they have not been compelled to accept the limited returns.

THE ROYAL LEAGUE ELECTS OFFICERS

W. E. Hyde of Chicago Chosen as Supreme Archon.

Chicago, April 12.—W. E. Hyde of Chicago was re-elected supreme archon of the Royal League yesterday, in the final session of the league convention. Fifty-two delegates representing 31,000 members of the order, were present. One important change was made in the constitution whereby the convention of the supreme delegates will assemble but once in two years, instead of each year. The proposed change in the rates of membership was referred to the committee on the state of the order, with instructions to prepare a complete plan of readjustment. The officers elected were: Supreme archon, W. E. Hyde, Chicago; supreme vice archon, T. V. Dally, Milwaukee; supreme scribe, C. E. Piper, Chicago; supreme treasurer, H. H. Hogg, Chicago; supreme prelate, A. C. Brownlee, Denver; supreme guide, John Green, Cleveland; supreme warrier, John Weerts, St. Louis; supreme sentry, John B. Perry, Minneapolis.

St. Paul, April 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dr. G. Sinstad of Menomonie, Wis., committed suicide early today in the new sanitarium at Mounds Park, by hanging himself in a closet. He had taken the cord used to fasten his bathrobe and fastened one end around his neck and the other to a hook. He stood on a chair while fastening the cord to the hook, and then kicked it from under him and died from strangulation. Dr. Sinstad had been a patient at the sanitarium since Feb. 25. PERMANENT AGREEMENT

For Peace May Be Made by Central American Republics.

Washington, April 12.—That all of the Central American republics are looking to the present state of warfare between Nicaragua and Honduras to result in an agreement for permanent peace in Central America was developed today by a general discussion at the state department. With that end in view the negotiations looking to a cessation of hostilities will not go so far as to take up the subject of permanent peace, but will leave this broad question to a conference to be held in Washington or the City of Mexico, and in which all of the countries immediately interested may take part. The United States and Mexico, according to the embryonic plans, will occupy the important positions of umpires. The conflict between two of the Central American republics, which is now drawing to a close, has made it apparent to all that the present unsettled conditions there are hampering the development of the countries. The various republics not involved in difficulty, and commercial affairs in all of them were affected. With the (Continued on page 12, third column.)

DISCHARGED BY JUDGE

Jury Had Considered Case for Forty-Seven Hours.

Stood Seven for Murder and Five for Acquittal.

Justice Fitzgerald Adjourns Court Until April 29.

New York, April 12.—The Thaw jury at 4:30 p. m. came into court and reported a disagreement. The jury was thereupon discharged by Justice Fitzgerald.

The court was declared adjourned until April 29. Evelyn Thaw immediately went to the prisoner's cell and joined her husband. A vast crowd outside the courtroom awaited the announcement.

Shortly after the jury had been discharged, it was reported that the final vote showed a division of seven for murder in the first degree and five for acquittal.

The twelve men who sat through the many weeks of the trial apparently feel that their consciences compel them to do their utmost in making some definite disposition of the case. Great crowds gathered about the criminal courts building and the Tombs today, fully 5,000 people blocking the street by 12 o'clock. They came not only in the hope of securing quick news of a verdict but to catch a glimpse of Evelyn Thaw. Thaw, on some other member of Thaw's family, when Mrs. Thaw left the building to go to lunch, on she was again all but mobbed and several scores of policemen had to make a way for her through the curious throngs.

Mrs. William Thaw and her sons, Edward and Josiah, were at the courthouse early today and as soon as they were permitted visited the defendant in the prisoner's pen. They found him cheerful as usual, absolutely refusing to feel depressed over the outlook. A disagreement of the jury, however, would mean another long period of confinement for him. MERRY WAR IN CHURCH

Rector and Parishioners
Do Battle for the Collection.

Worshippers Take Sides
With Factions and Blows Struck.

Philadelphia, April 12.—That "money is the root of all evil" was proved last Sunday morning when a fight took place between warring factions of Emanuel Protestant Episcopal church, Girard avenue and Marlborough street. The difference developed into a fist fight in which the rector, Rev. Edward G. Knight, and about twenty members of the congregation took part.

The trouble has been on for weeks, starting between the rector and George Shegog, for many years acting warden. The breach widened until the rector finally put up a ticket at the election for vestrymen. He claims it was elected and Shegog was ousted. Shegog insisted on receiving the amount of the collection, and this precipitated the trouble Sunday morning. Just before the service began Mr. Knight sent a note to Mr. Shegog, which read as follows:

"I have appointed two of the choir boys to take up the collection, which is a privilege given me in the prayer book of the church."

Two surprised boys from the choir passed down the aisles and handed the collection baskets. Mr. Shegog dropped in his mite with the rest and the collectors took the baskets to the altar, where the collection was blessed. Communion was then solemnized and the services were over.

Immediately upon their conclusion, Mr. Knight and the vestrymen he declared had been elected retired to the vestry room and Mr. Shegog followed, together with several of his faction.

There were a few minutes of subdued excitement and quiet. Then loud voices were heard in the vestry room and Mr. Shegog was heard exclaiming:

"Mr. Knight, I'll take care of the collection, according to my rights."

"The money is safe with Mr. Watkins," Mr. Knight replied. "I will not let it go."

There was a sound of a rush, stamping of feet, the vestry room door opened and Mr. Shegog and J. M. Watkins, whom Mr. Knight had designated custodian of the funds, rolled out the door, wildly clutching and striking. The other, and turned into the Sunday school room. After then poured the rector and his friends, decidedly mixed with Mr. Shegog's adherents.

Everybody was hitting at everybody else and in an instant pandemonium had broken loose.

Women in the congregation who were too timid to take any side when real battle developed, screamed. One woman, whose sympathies were with somebody in the scrimmage, shouted, "Smash him, smash him!"

"Let me at him. I'll protect my father against that nasty man," screamed Miss Shegog and she made a rush that would have won her glory on the football field. Young Henry Shegog attempted to follow his sister's example, but another youth about his age tackled him low and the two were soon rolling over the door.

By this time most of the congregation had taken sides and was busy in battle. Women who only a week ago had worn their new Easter finery with pride, forgot all about it now. Men who had donned new suits rushed to the battle, clashing and striking. For several minutes it was "biff! slam! bang!" and then all quiet at once and looked heartily ashamed of themselves.

CHICAGO RULED BY BACHELORS

Windy City Entering on Its First "Unmarried Administration."

Chicago, April 12.—Chicago is entering upon its first sion-pure bachelor administration. With a bachelor mayor, Fred Busse, to initiate and control legislation by the city council, and with Edward J. Brundage, likewise a bachelor, to interpret the laws and ordinances, there is little likelihood of any laws being passed to make matrimony compulsory, or even to put a premium upon the wearing of the yoke. Even were such ordinances or laws passed, Chicago bachelors still would depend upon its representative in the corporation council's office to declare them invalid, or not susceptible of successful prosecution.

Never before, says the city's most eminent and experienced bachelors, has the state of single blessedness come so near to being sovereign to the great city of Chicago. Milton J. Foreman, the arch-bachelor of the city council, moves about on his daily round of public duties with a new radiance shining from his countenance.

Col. Foreman now feels that his long years of serving as a shining example of the efficiency of the bachelor in civic government have at last been vindicated. It is reported that the colonel will be asked to recruit a bachelors' bodyguard for Mayor Busse.

"Bachelor, Busse and Brundage, all begin with B. Business will be better," will be the motto of Col. Foreman's new squad.

Under the bright star of the new regime it is expected that such lights of bachelordom as George Ade will be persuaded to return and take up abode in Chicago.

WHITE HOUSE NOW SAFE.

Is Equipped With Fire Escapes for the First Time.

Washington, April 12.—The White House is now equipped with fire escapes for the first time. Two of them were fastened to the walls of the south front of the mansion, one on either side of the semi-circular portico, and experiments were conducted by the workmen to show that they operated smoothly and bore the requisite weight. The apparatus is not like any of those usually attached to office buildings and hotels, but each fire escape consists of a chain and pulley which does not seriously disfigure the house.

The fire escapes were not provided to conform to local ordinances, but because some of the White House servants, who sleep in the attic, are afraid of fire. The house is only two stories high above the basement.

After the escapes were placed in position, Archie Roosevelt, the president's third son, who has just recovered from diphtheria, insisted on "taking a ride" on the endless chain. He was allowed to do so, going all the way from the roof to the ground. Then the workmen, at his command, hoisted him back, and he descended through a door in the roof to the lower apartments.

LORD'S PRAYER STRIKE.

Girls Also Refuse to Repeat Invocation as Ordered.

East Liverpool, Ohio, April 12.—Because they would not repeat the Lord's prayer in school each morning, several members of the Chester high school have been indefinitely suspended by Superintendent Karr.

These boys are from the best known families of the town, and they are backed by their parents.

Mr. Karr declares he will not allow the boys to return to school until they all promise to do as he says in everything. The boys say they will not accede to the demands of the superintendent.

A fresh feature was added to the case today, when a number of girls belonging to the high school severed notice, that unless the nonpraying boys were reinstated, and at once, they would strike.

WOMAN CALMLY LED A QUEEN

Played Cards While Fire Raged Through Her Home.

Detroit, Mich., April 12.—Nero fiddled while Rome burned, but the old emperors' antics were "faded" by Mrs. Jane Thompson, 704 Fourth avenue, who just played cards while the flames leaped about her home.

The fire bells clanged their notes of alarm and the engines' whistles shrieked their shrill music. Smoke poured from the little cottage and flames curled skyward. Neighbors and

MRS. FARR LOSES APPEAL.

Divorced Husband Need Not Pay Her Alimony and Additional Sums.

Madison, Wis., April 12.—Mrs. Victoria Farr of Phillips, Wis., has lost her appeal to the state supreme court from a part of the decision in the famous Farr divorce suit. Her husband was Joseph H. Farr, general superintendent of logging on the Indian reservations of Northern Wisconsin. Mrs. Farr asked that he be compelled to pay her $100 a month alimony for the support of her two boys, who were given into her custody by the court, and $500 additional to the other sums asked, to cover expenses of preparing the case for appeal. Rubie A. Cole of Milwaukee was made a party to the suit. He was Mrs. Farr's lawyer and he refused to turn over the transcripts of the case to her until she settled for alleged indebtedness. Mrs. Farr says she had paid Cole in full, while he insists that she still owes him a large sum.

DON'T WAIT TOO LONG.

At the first sign of Backache or pain in the region of the Kidneys, or weakness and urinary trouble, the following simple prescription should be used:

Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Take a teaspoonful after each meal and at bedtime.

Any good prescription pharmacy will supply these three ingredients at small cost, which can easily be mixed by shaking well in a bottle. This is said to force the kidneys to filter the sour acids and poisons from the blood, overcoming the worst cases of Rheumatism.

WEATHER IS INCLEMENTEvents in Program of Rededication Are Somewhat Retarded.

Pittsburg, April 12.—Inclement weather somewhat retarded the events planned for the second day of the rededication of the Carnegie Institute. The proceedings began with an inspection by the American and foreign guests of the various departments of the Carnegie technical schools. The visitors were conducted through the schools by the board of trustees, and much interest was manifested in the work of the students, the schools being in full operation during the inspection.

Following the inspection of the schools, the distinguished guests went to the Hotel Schenley, where those entitled to wear academic dress prepared for the meeting of the universities, colleges and learned societies in Bologna, Canada, Cuba, France, Germany, England, Italy, Sweden, Switzerland and the United States which was held in the Music hall. Several important educational addresses were scheduled for delivery, but owing to the near approach of noon they were unanimously dispensed with until a later time. At noon all the guests boarded automobiles and were taken to the Allegheny County Country club, where luncheon was served.

COMPLAINTS ARE FILEDBy Minnesota Company Alleging Unjust Discrimination of Rates.

Washington, April 12.—Alleging unjust discrimination in the matter of rates on shipments of butter and eggs, in carload lots, as against competing houses, the Morse Produce company of Granite Falls, Minn., today filed a complaint with the interstate commerce commission against the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway company, the Great Northern Railway company, the Chicago & Northwestern Railway company, and the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railway company. The petition states that the rate according to the shipments of butter and eggs from Granite Falls to Chicago exceeds that of their competitors from Minneapolis, Minn., to Chicago, even though the latter haul is longer, the shorter haul being included in the long haul over the same line in the same direction. They ask for such redress as the premises are the law guarantees to them.

According to a complaint filed with the interstate commerce commission today against the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, Railroad company, the Chicago & Northwestern Railway company, and the Wisconsin Central Railway company, the Milwaukee-Waukesha Brewing company of Milwaukee, Wis., the defendant roads are charging unjust and unreasonable rates on shipments of beer, ale, porter, malt and mineral water from Waukesha to various points throughout the United States. The complainants request the commission to require the roads to answer the petition and to grant them such relief as they are entitled to under the law.

BONILLA HAS SURRENDEREDPresident of Honduras in the Hands of the Nicaraguans.

New Orleans, April 12.—According to a cablegram received by the officials of the Fruit Dispatch company here, shortly after 1 o'clock this morning, President Manuel Bonilla of Honduras has surrendered to the Nicaraguan forces. The cablegram came from Managua, Nicaragua, and was signed by President Jose S. Zevallos.

No details were given other than that Bonilla surrendered early yesterday. Other advice received here yesterday, however, were to the effect that Bonilla had been "bottled up" in the port of Amapala ever since he made his sensational flight from Choluteca.

SUICIDE OF VETERAN.—Andrew M. Culver, a Sibley veteran at the Soldiers' home, jumped from the second-story window of the hospital to the ground, thirty feet below, at 8 o'clock Wednesday night and fractured all the ribs of the left side, the ends of which punctured the lungs, and he died yesterday morning. Culver came to the home last December, suffering from cancer, involving the face and neck. He was 72 years old.

ROGERS IS OPTIMISTICIn Survey of the Business Conditions of the Country.*There Will be No Stagnation or Halt in Prosperity.

Baltimore, April 12.—Henry H. Rogers of New York, in a special interview in the Manufacturers' Record, gives a very optimistic survey of the business conditions for the country, and says:

"The country is all right. Conditions will adjust themselves, and there will be no stagnation or halt in prosperity on account of the presidential campaign next year."

"While we have had a serious disturbance in the security market, I believe that present conditions are bound to right themselves. I believe the country is all right, and that the confidence of the people generally will be speedily restored. The country has grown so tremendously, the population has increased so vastly, and the production of wealth has gone ahead so enormously over what it was a few years ago, that I cannot believe there will be any serious interference with the tide of prosperity. The whole nation has experienced for a number of years past. The earth is yielding wealth as never before. Not only have quantities of gold and other metals been taken from the ground in recent years, copper, iron, coal, etc., but diversification in agricultural products has had an important part in bringing a new and more permanent prosperity to the people. Take the case of the Red River country of the North. When wheat was so nearly the sole crop raised up there that it formed the major part of the freight hauled by the St. Paul road, a bad crop year meant ruin for the farmers and great loss to the railroad. Today the relation that wheat bears to the total freight traffic of this road is 50 per cent less than it was twenty years ago; ruinous crop failures do not occur along the line, and the road is uniformly prosperous. I understand the South has similarly learned the lesson of diversification, with the result that you never were so prosperous in that important section, and that the same conditions exist in the West."

"Everybody is living on a scale different from that of a few years ago. As a rule, everybody has more money than he had in former years, and we all require more comforts, conveniences and luxuries. We live in better homes, than our fathers did; we wear better clothes than the generation before us; our children go to better schools; we travel more, we have things to eat every day that we had only at certain seasons of the year a short time ago, and we have more money in our pockets than the people did a generation past. This means that the greatest production of everything is required; that people have more to do, and it takes more workers to accomplish what must be done."

"I am a great believer in Providence. Take, for instance, the history of the petroleum development of the world. It is full of providential happenings. New fields have been discovered as fast as needed, and from 2,000 barrels in 1859 the production has become so great that I can't carry the figures in my head. Petroleum, providing illumination that now changes darkness to daylight in homes all over the world, has been the greatest religious outside of the Christian religion, that knowledge has known, and its discovery and development in Pennsylvania and West Virginia, in Texas, in California, in Russia and everywhere it has been found, seem to have been made at just the time when needed and when the people were prepared for its use."

"I believe in providential happenings in all the affairs of men, and I believe that Providence is on the side of this country and that everything will work out all right. I don't believe the people are going to overlook the things that make for their well being. The whole country has had a taste of the blessings of prosperity, and in a providential sort of way I believe the people are going to eliminate the factors that would stand in the way of continued prosperity."

"Continued agitation, the people will see, unsettles conditions. You cannot move loads with a team that won't haul—quiesce horses or mules that will not pull together. The people must see that settled conditions are necessary for progress and development, and I believe that the sentiment of the country will have so crystallized within a few months that there will be a practically united demand for the strongest conservatism in the conduct of the government. We cannot have unsettled conditions, and I believe we will have them."

"While the recent panic is described as a flurry among the Wall street gamblers, its effects and significance are not to be so contemptuously dismissed. When investors from the outside can come up to Wall street and buy stocks or bonds that pay good dividends or yield a profit by an advance in price, Wall street is considered by them then as a very good place, but the money that is paid out in dividends or the profits secured from advances in the price of securities must come from somewhere. When the tide turns and securities are sacrificed in a falling market it does not dispose of the matter to call Wall street a den of thieves. Wall street is really a clearing house of the country. Here the great railroad and industrial enterprises of America are financed, and depression in Wall street necessarily to a greater or less extent affects the business interests of the whole country. But the important point is this: Conditions that lead to investment in securities is essential to the continuation of development. And settled conditions are necessary to maintain confidence. Every new enterprise requires money to carry it through. Wall street, it is but an elemental fact to state, affords the greatest market in the country for the securities of these enterprises. When there is no sale for securities of normal values enterprises are halted. We have already seen how various improvements contemplated by the railroads have been temporarily suspended. I would like to make this point: There is more wealth in the country today than ever before. The people throughout the country will seek to invest their surplus funds in bonds and other securities, and they will demand that conditions exist whereby these investments will not be

GOVERNOR RESIGNS.—New York, April 12.—Lut. Gen. Sir Robert Macgregor Stewart, K. C. B., has tendered to the British colonial office his resignation as governor and commander-in-chief of the colony of Bermuda, according to information received here today. It is understood that his private reasons are the cause of his withdrawal from the Bermudian governorship. The resignation takes effect next month.

BOY ACCIDENTALLY SHOT.—Mankato, Minn., April 12.—The 11-year-old son of Edward Linnehan of Wadena took a small gun out of the house to shoot some birds, and accidentally shot his playmate, the 10-year-old son of B. D. Mandershaide. His face and both eyes were filled with shot, and his father hurried him to St. Paul to see an eye specialist and see if the eyes cannot be saved.

FATAL EXPLOSION.—Appleton, Wis., April 12.—The explosion of a kerosene lamp at the home of Herman Robe, in Appleton Creek Wednesday night, caused the death of his 2-year-old son, the serious injury of himself and other members of the family, and for a time threatened the house with destruction.

SOLVED THE RIDDLE.—Boston Journal: Recently at the Boston office a letter was received addressed "Wood, Mass.," with a line drawn under the "Wood" and over the "Mass." The letter went out the same day it was received and reached Mark Underwood, Andover, Mass., for whom it was intended and the postal clerk who solved the riddle did not think he had done anything brilliant. It was all in his day's work.

Belfast Mesh

At Half Price

Those who ever had the courage (and the price) to switch from woolen underwear to pure linen are enthusiastic adherents of the linen-mesh theory relative to underwear and health. But it takes time, money and victims to propound new ideas or to revive old ones, for linen clothes next to the skin were worn in the time of Moses, who knew something about science and health, even before Mrs. Eddy wrote her book on the subject. The Belfast-Mesh people went bankrupt in their valiant attempt to popularize linen underclothes, and this store, which has sold their good underwear for seven years cannot get any more of it. Its reputation for wearing longer than any other brand of linen is well established. There is nothing left for us now to do but to take our loss, to close out what we have on hand and then look for another maker.

To-morrow

Belfast Linen Mesh will be sold at $1.50 each for shirt and drawer instead of the contract price of $3.00 each.

Union Suits will be $3 instead of $6.

WEST DULUTH

WILL GET NEW LIGHTS

Aldermen Want to Know Where They Are Needed.

West Duluth Representatives Want to Hear From Constituents.

As the disposition of a number of new lights will come up at the meeting of the city council next Monday evening West Duluth aldermen are making inquiries about their wards and trying to find out where additional lights are needed in this section of the city. The aldermen are very anxious to get any suggestion concerning this matter from their constituents.

The city has contracted with the gas company to use about 100 additional lights in various parts of the city and it is expected that West Duluth will get its share of these. At the meeting Monday the aldermen will hand in lists of the new lights needed for their respective districts and the water and light committee will pass upon them before the council finally decides.

It is likely that some changes will be made in the lighting system at West Duluth in order to place the gas lights along the main of the gas company. Probably some electric lights will be changed from one district to another and the gas lights put in their places.

Those who are interested in the lighting of West Duluth should interview the aldermen and make any suggestions they think best before the meeting Monday night.

FREE EXPRESS DELIVERY

Has Been Established as Result of Commercial Club's Aid.

As a result of the good work of the Commercial club and committee the Northern Express company has established free delivery of express at this end of the city. S. M. Sherman has been appointed deliveryman and all express addressed to business men and others residing within the business district will be included in the delivery. The West Duluth Commercial club took this matter up about two months ago at which time a committee composed of A. Freluth, A. R. Merritt and N. E. Gaudin was appointed to take the matter up with the company. After several conferences were held with the officials, the company decided to grant the request of the committee and the delivery service was begun this week.

The service will be of great benefit to West Duluth merchants and business men as express will reach them much quicker, and a considerable sum will be saved in drayage.

PLANNING FOR BANQUET.

Curlers Will Hold Annual Affair at Commercial Club.

At a meeting of the banquet committee of the Western Curling club, held last evening at the office of J. A. Scott, the date for the annual banquet was decided upon and preliminary arrangements were made. The banquet will be given at the Commercial club hall, the Western State bank, and the date decided upon is April 30.

It will be the second banquet given by the club, and will be made one of the big events of the year, if the plans of the committee are carried out. The affair will be open to members of the curling club, their wives and invited guests.

The committee is making arrangements for an excellent program of music and speeches. Members of the Duluth Curling club will be asked to attend, and some will probably be included on the list of speakers.

Was Perilous Trip.

Russell C. Richardson has just returned from Grand Marais for a few days' visit before leaving permanently there, where he will go into the sawmill business. As the Booth line steamers have not yet commenced running to Grand Marais, the trip from that point to Two Harbors was made by Mr. Richardson and others in a small 22-foot launch. Mr. Richardson says that it was a pretty rough trip, as there was a brisk wind blowing at the time.

The funeral will be held Sunday afternoon, at 2 o'clock, from the First Swedish Baptist church, at the West end.

SOCIETY GIRLS BALKED.

At Last Moment Refused to Face Audience in Abbreviated Skirts.

Cleveland, Ohio, April 12.—Their appearance in abbreviated skirts, as shown by a mirror, kept two star performers from appearing in a theatrical performance by a ladies' select school here. Two of the principal performers, who were to have taken part in the dance of the rainbow, were missing from the cast when the benefit vaudeville entertainment, given by the Mithras club, was presented at St. Agnes' hall. These two were the Misses Katherine Hoyt and Elizabeth Clark, both popular debutantes of the season and daughters of rich men.

Both had intended to take part in the dance, which necessitated the wearing of abbreviated skirts, and both had gone through the rehearsal. Among their girl friends in the privacy of the dressing room, where they were waiting, they could see nothing wrong in the costume they wore, but when they faced their mirrors and thought of appearing before a large audience they changed their minds and decided to withdraw.

The other debutantes, all members of the alumnae, were forced to carry the burden of the entertainment, and they did it creditably.

ALGEBRA FOUND THAT BELONGED TO NAPOLEON.

Berkeley, Cal., April 12.—Students browsing through the shelves of the university library a few days ago discovered an old work on algebra, on the flyleaf of which was written: "This book belonged to Napoleon Bonaparte." On the inside of the cover were the words: "This was one of the volumes that formed Bonaparte's library at St. Helena." On the next page were the words: "Bonaparte's library, Island of St. Helena." These notes are supposed to have been written by owners of the book, which was printed ninety-five years ago. The seal of Napoleon is found on one of its pages.

Andrew S. Hallide, in his lifetime a regent of the university, owned the book, which with many others from his library went to the university when he died several years ago.

HALF A CENTURY LIVED IN ONE ST. LOUIS FAMILY.

St. Louis, Mo., April 12.—Followed by members of the family she had served faithfully for more than a half century, the body of Miss Catherine Austin was taken to the St. Louis cemetery after the funeral which took place from the residence of the late William F. Cozzen, 311 St. Louis avenue. At the time of her death Miss Austin was more than 90 years of age, but just how much neither she nor the members of the Cozzen family knew. They did know that she came to them in the early 50s and was with them to the time of her death in the capacity of housekeeper and "second mother" to the children, as she was called yesterday.

Miss Austin came from New York city to enter the employ of the family of D. F. Hull, whose son, Leon Hull, lives near the Cozzen residence. After seven years of service in the Hull family, Miss Austin went to the Cozzen home and remained continually. She was one of the first members of Union Methodist church, and was until three or four years ago regular in her attendance here. About three or four years ago she became infirm and was unable to leave her home, and her sight and hearing were unimpaired, but otherwise she was feeble, and died from old age.

CYCLONIC COURTSHIP WON ACTRESS' HEART.

Philadelphia, April 12.—Another chapter of the stage has been won by a wealthy man in the marriage of Miss Augusta Glose and Charles S. Leeds. Mr. Leeds won Miss Glose's consent in this city last Sunday, and they were wed in Christ church on Tuesday by the Rev. R. Heber Barnes. They have been living in the Holland house, New York, since they were married, which became known the other day.

"I call Mr. Leeds my Missouri Cyclone," said the bride. "If he uses the same system in his business that he adopted in my marrying him—that is, not right away, but with a smile across the room to her husband, 'when he came on from Kansas City last Sunday, but he wouldn't take even 'not yet, but soon' for his answer."

"What was it that finally won the day for him?"

"No," corrected Mrs. Leeds, "it wasn't that. I think it was his granting permission for the minister to say 'love, honor, and do as thou pleasest.'"

Mr. Leeds came from Quaker stock, his forefathers having crossed the sea in the days of William Penn, but any prejudices against things theatrical which his ancestors held has not been carried down to him.

HIS PARLOR A FISH POND.

Pittsburg Man Angled in His Best Room in the Flood.

Pittsburg, Pa., April 12.—Charles E. Fite lives in Glenfield. The recent flood reached the second story of his residence, and when the waters were receding he saw a 3-pound fish swimming about the parlor. Fite got out his tackle and caught the fish. The family ate it for dinner.

IS BACK TO CHILDHOOD

Strange Effect Produced Upon New York Man by Surgery.

His Mind is Now Like That of an Infant.

New York, April 12.—Robust, bright-eyed, and in the full bloom of what might have been manhood had his brain retained its balance, Timothy Kane, 42 years old, has reverted to the stage where his knowledge of the world must be acquired again.

In fact, the man literally has lived two lives—one life ending three years ago, when he was struck on the head and a lesion of the brain developed; the other beginning the day the last of a series of delicate, astonishingly successful operations made him a sensate being once more.

To Drs. B. F. Curtis, L. B. Rogers, I. M. Vanderloft and Minus S. Gregory belongs the credit of restoring to some semblance of humanity what had deteriorated from a mere creature.

Dr. Gregory, the Bellevue alienist, aided his confreres with his expert services, while they attended to the surgical phases of the case.

Two weeks after Kane had been struck on the head he developed epilepsy. Paralysis followed. Then came motor aphasia, then loss of speech. The man was slowly becoming a mere animal, so far as intellect and perception were concerned.

Kane was taken to Bellevue. Two and a half inches of his skull were removed and the pressure relieved. He recovered from epilepsy, but his right side, controlled by the left lobe of the brain, was paralyzed. A few months later all his afflictions returned, and once more the surgeons tackled the almost hopeless task.

They removed certain portions of the brain, and once again Kane seemed well, only to relapse. He became speechless and lost the power of locomotion.

In February the surgeons conveyed to him the information that another operation might prove fatal.

"Go ahead," he wrote. "I'd rather die than be this way."

They "went ahead." The surgeons, after Dr. Gregory had found Kane to be sane; removed the top of the man's skull, performed during late a surgery, explored the cavities of the brain, and then waited. Three days later Kane could speak. Once he recovered, he lost the power of articulation, and the doctors continued their labors. Kane, who had been a pitifully abused skunk, gradually came to life—came out of the blankness, the lethargy, the pathetic mental numbness he had suffered, and now he is on the road to recovery.

It was one of the most unusual series of operations known to surgery. He knows what a book is, can recognize a telephone, can distinguish between fools, yet he cannot transmute his knowledge into words. The surgeons are now endeavoring to have their remarkable patient put through a course of training exactly similar to that employed in a kindergarten. Kane is a man-child, a child-man.

He is mild, kindly looking and amiable. In a few days, they expect, he will be able to relate to his home at No. 157 Third avenue, where he will be literally "schooling."

SAYS HUSBAND DRAGGED HER ABOUT BY HER HAIR.

Pittsburg, Pa., April 12.—During the trial of the divorce last before Judge Macfarlane in Court No. 1, the court room was ordered cleared while testimony was being given by the libellant in the case of Mrs. Louise Knox against her husband, Dr. George A. Knox. Dr. Knox was charged with cruel and barbarous treatment, but denied the charge and put up a fight when the case was called. Mrs. Knox testified that on account of her husband's brutal treatment she was obliged to leave him four times and have him arrested twice since they were married in January, 1888. Mrs. Knox stated that her husband had placed a dirty dog he had picked up on the street in the bed beside their child Louise. She also testified that the doctor made a practice every few weeks of pulling her out of bed by the hair, dragging her about the floor and beating and kicking her while she was prostrate. On numerous occasions she alleged he had locked her out of the house and she had to remain on the porch all night.

JUDGE BLAMES PARENTS

Who, in Rearing Children, Neglect Everything But Brains.

Chicago, April 12.—Men are more hysterical than women. The failure of a man to put on his hat and walk around the block when his wife has found things of which to complain often results in the couple seeking a separation in the divorce court. Judge Willard McEwen, of the superior court, who has established a "sunshine divorce court," talked thus on his specialty.

"No matter what cause is given as to grounds," he continued, "there is always behind that argument the character of the individuals themselves and their relations one to the other. Most separations can be traced to some peculiarity of one or both, and sometimes to the relation of the couple to each other. In the make-up of either."

"Cause divorce can often be said to begin with birth. Some infirmity, physical or mental, or some inherited trait that seems to run through generations, can be traced."

"We are neglecting everything that should be developed in the normal man, but the brains. Some few may pay attention to the stomach, but even they are continually seeking some new sensation to set the brain on fire."

"You ask for a remedy. It all develops upon parents. When we give the name to the child, we give to him a certain intellectual and spiritual example worthy of emulation we shall have faced about and commenced to march in the right direction."

"Legislation cannot cure the defects of mankind."

WILL NOW RAISE MULES.

Lexington, Ky., April 12.—Thomas Nelson Page, the famous Virginia novelist, has decided to embark in the breeding of mules on an extensive scale at his 1,000-acre plantation near Beaver Dam, Va. Mr. Page, who has been in the plantations since he was a boy, has been in Lexington a few days ago and made an announcement of the novel's new venture. Mr. Wickham came to Kentucky under instructions from Mr. Page to buy the best jack which could be obtained to be placed at the head of the mule-breeding establishment.

After looking at most of the available stock of this character in the Bluegrass, Mr. Wickham purchased from J. A. Cook of this county a magnificent 3-year-old Catalonian jack, which had recently been imported from Spain by Mr. Cook. Mr. Wickham stated that they would probably call the jack "Marse Chan," in honor of Mr. Page's famous story. The animal has been shipped to Beaver Dam. A number of mares, some of them thoroughbred, which will be bred to the jack with a view to rearing the highest and most marketable type of mules.

EX-PRIEST A CAFE SINGER.

For a Time French Abbe was a Street Car Conductor.

Paris, April 12.—Abbe Ozouf, who was suspended by his bishop for having founded an association for worship under the church separation law of France, has found himself thrown on the world. Being without means, he advertised for a position as a secretary, but failing to get such employment, he took a place as a car conductor.

Now he is using his fine, tenor voice, which delighted his congregation during his time as a priest, and the altar, and has signed to sing at a cafe concert.

AMERICAN PRINCESS.

Orloff of Russia to Wed Miss Stackleburg, a Lumberman's Daughter.

Paris, April 12.—Yet another American girl is to wed a prince and a Russian. Miss Stackleburg is betrothed to Prince Orloff, their intimate friends report. She is the daughter of a wealthy American lumber merchant. Prince Orloff is colonel in the czar's army, and is attached to the Russian embassy here as aide-de-camp.

Orloff has an ample fortune. He is related to Prince Sergius Belosselsky Elensky, who married Miss Whittier of Boston, Gen. Whittier's daughter.

CAR OF METAL FOR IDOLS.

"Tiff" From Missouri Will Be Made into Images for Korea.

Joplin, Mo., April 12.—J. Kavanaugh has traveled all the way from Korea to get a carload of "tiff," a mica-like formation, found in large quantities in the fields of Missouri and Kansas.

Kavanaugh intends to use the "tiff" in making idols for the Koreans. A few months ago he was employed by the emperor of Japan to manage a big coal mine in Korea. While thus employed he noticed that every Korean carried constantly a small, glittering idol to ward off disease and disaster of every kind. He determined to supply the demand.

The great requirements of the idol, within their, he says, are that it must be a pretty bauble, be fairly shaped and have wear resisting qualities. Because the Korean god is worked overtime, the Korean, he adds, is perfectly contented to replace a broken idol with another purchased at the shop counters, but those that are made of destructible materials are not in great demand.

Los Angeles, April 12.—Dr. Robert McIntyre, a well known divine and lecturer, and pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church has done an almost unprecedented thing, even for a clergyman. He declined, politely but firmly a substantial increase in salary offered by his congregation.

PASTOR DECLINES AN INCREASE IN SALARY.

Dr. McIntyre, who is widely recognized as one of the ablest men in Methodism, is said not to draw a salary commensurate with his high standing and great drawing powers, but he explains his position briefly, saying: "What I am receiving is sufficient for my needs." His congregation in perhaps the richest in Los Angeles. He attracts more people to every service than can be accommodated by the commodious edifice in which he preaches.

BENJAMIN MILLS AT THE LYCEUM

Will Speak Sunday on "The Divinity of Christ."

The interest in the lectures by Benjamin Mills the past week has been steadily increasing. The audiences have been growing larger daily, and in order to accommodate the crowds on Sunday the committee has engaged the Lyceum theater for Sunday morning and afternoon.

Mr. Mills' references to the Divinity of Christ the past week have convinced his hearers that he must hold a unique and interesting theory upon that widely-discussed topic. This will be his theme at 10:45 on Sunday morning. In response to numerous requests, he will speak at 3:30 p. m. on "Why I Changed My Religious Opinions," which announcement will doubtless pack the theater to the doors. In order that those interested may be sure of obtaining seats at these services, all the seats will be reserved for ticket holders until 10:35 and 3:20 o'clock, at which hour the doors will be opened to all comers. These reserved seats are entirely free, and as long as they last may be secured on application at Welman's, Fifteenth avenue east and Superior street; Lawrence's, Tenth avenue east and Second street; Kugler's, 108 West Superior street; and the Lyceum theater, Tenth and Superior streets; Lotgrin's, Twentieth avenue west and Superior street, and at Steinway hall, this afternoon and evening.

On April 21 Mr. Mills commences a series of lectures in the Studebaker theater and Willard hall, Chicago, on "Emerson," "Whitman" and the "Bhagavad Gita." Many Duluth citizens, learning of this, have persuaded him to give these same lectures here, which he will do next week, from Monday until Friday, of which information may be procured at Lundberg & Stone's.

This evening, at Steinway hall, Mr. Mills will deliver his last address on "Man Modern Men Practice the Sermon on the Mount," On the special topic, "The Final Judgment." All the seats are free this evening.

PERMANENT AGREEMENT

United States and Mexico urging the placing of the republics on a firm basis, so that they could be amicably together and enjoy an interchange of business, and with the lessons taught by the present war, there is every indication that a permanent agreement may be reached. The plan has been made for enough for the suggestion of a date for a conference, but it is assumed that it will not be held until the summer at the Hague, although the two would not be in conflict in any way. Ambassador Creel is said to be of the opinion that the United States and Mexico are ready to accept of all of the Central American republics, and the dependency they place in Secretary Root and the Mexican ambassador is believed by officials here to insure the success of such a gathering as that proposed.

THAW JURY.

The anxiety and strain of the long wait for a verdict is probably the most painful part of the trial. The jury is supposed to be hanging in the balance. The long delay of the trial has been a very hard upon counsel connected with the case, the court officers and those whose business calls them to the trial. At noon the crowd about the courthouse was so great that traffic was almost impossible. More than 5,000 people gathered about the building and when a rumor that any member of the Thaw family was about to leave the building, they surged from one corner to another, sweeping the few policemen who were trying to preserve order, almost off their feet. A call for reserves from several nearby precinct stations was responded to by half a hundred men, who were distributed on both sides of the streets on the four sides of the building. Inspector McCluskey issued orders that no crowd was to be permitted to congregate in front of the courthouse, and on the sidewalks, all of the curious being obliged to keep moving.

New York, April 12.—After being out thirty-eight hours, the twelve men who have in their hands the fate of Harry K. Thaw, went to breakfast shortly after 7 o'clock this morning. Throughout the night their discussions were continued, but no agreement was reached. In spite of their long confinement, the jurors showed little evidence of the strain they have been under. All of them seemed to be in good spirits when they returned to the court building at 9 o'clock and re-entered the jury room to resume their deliberations. Juror Pink, who was ill yesterday, seemed much improved this morning. The jurors spent a quiet night, according to the court officers who have them in charge, but continued their arguments and balloting until breakfast time. The feeling that a verdict will never be reached is growing stronger every hour that the jury remains out. Justice Fitzgerald announced when he went to his home at 11:40 o'clock last night that he would not return until 11:30 this morning unless he was sent for. The jurors early today gave no sign of wanting him.

Crowds began to assemble in the streets about the criminal courts building as early as 8:30 o'clock today. Several hundred persons gained an entrance and took up vantage points along the three tiers of balconies overlooking the interior court of the building structure, in the hope of catching a glimpse of Thaw or some member of his family. District Attorney Jerome said today that the longest period of confinement he had ever known a jury to endure in this jurisdiction was forty-eight hours. The court of appeals approved this course of the court for that instance, because there was no attempt to coerce the jury.

It was persistently rumored this morning that the members of the jury are divided nine to three. Some said nine were for conviction for murder, slaughter and three for acquittal, while others declared it was three for conviction and nine for acquittal, on the ground of insanity. This report was lent a certain degree of color by the statement of persons who had watched the jury room windows early this morning. They said the jury was arranged for discussion in three groups with one man in the center of each seemingly disagreeing with the others.

Justice Fitzgerald, it developed today, had a long conference last night with Messrs. McClure and Olney, who were members of the commission in lunacy which examined Thaw. It is said the judge probably wanted to consult with the commissioners as to their views as to whether they would consider it wise to release Thaw in the event of a verdict of acquittal on the ground of insanity.

By the time the court room was opened the crowd surrounding the building had increased in numbers and a large force of police was kept up the growing crops for food. Whole families have been found dead in their rooms, and corpses are seen lying by the roadside. Probably 5,000 persons are dying daily from starvation.

A few cases of rioting for food have occurred and cannibalism is beginning to be reported. Newly made graves have been riddled of the bodies and parents are exchanging their children to be eaten.

FOURNIER ON THE STAND

which were identified by relatives. Fournier's name, with that of James Wesley, has been inseparably connected with the Dahls' murder ever since the summer of 1904, and although he was once before arrested, he has never up to the present time been given an opportunity to testify on the witness stand.

Fournier was placed on the stand, late yesterday afternoon, and the large crowd which had gathered to hear his evidence was impatient until his name was called. While Fournier was being sworn there was a death-like stillness throughout the courtroom, and his firm answer to the oath sounded loud and distinct. When the accused, who is of less than medium height, took the stand, he was deliberate and calm. His face was somewhat paler than usual, but he gave no sign of weakening, and looked full in the faces of the members of the jury, who were intently watching his every movement. Mr. Martin, associate attorney for Fournier, had charge of the examination, and he asked questions pertaining to every bit of evidence which the state had presented. Fournier denied every statement which witnesses for the defense had made that was of a damaging character.

Fournier testified that he was 41 years old and a single man, his parents are dead, and he has four brothers and two sisters, all living. He has followed the occupation known as lumberjack for the past ten years, and four years ago took up a claim in the Quiring country. He knew N. O. Dahl, had met him three times and had seen Miss Dahl but once. He testified to knowing Eugene Caldwell and wife and other important witnesses for the state who had given damaging testimony against him. Fournier told of a row he had with William Krueger last fall and also of a "scrap" he had with Eugene Caldwell, in both of which he claimed the other parties were the aggressors. He claimed he had trouble with Charles Martindale, a material witness for the state, owing to Martindale wanting Fournier to cut timber on the Indian reservation which belonged to the government.

Witness denied that he ever displayed to Mrs. Caldwell in June, 1904, seven or eight $10 bills and said he had a few friends and some change. Fournier denied that he had colored when told by Caldwell that the murderer of the Dahls lay between Caldwell, Fournier and Wesley, and also said he had made arrangements to search for them, but that others had not kept their appointment. In fact, Fournier readily denied every bit of the evidence which could in any tangible manner connect him directly with the crime, and when his attorney asked him concerning his guilt, he set his jaw and answered firmly in the negative. Asked plainly if he would kill John Dahl, he said he would kill old man Dahl and take his daughter, the witness answered "no," very firmly and quietly.

Fournier admitted having been at his home on April 7, 1904, the day the state claims the Dahls were killed. He declared he was at his house most of the time but that he was with Wesley for a short time on the meadow and that they shot a rabbit and a partridge, corroborating the story told by Wesley at his trial last week. According to his version, Fournier and Wesley were at the former's cabin on the evening of April 7, and they never left the house.

This morning the courtroom was filled when County Attorney Funkley told Fournier in charge and gave him a rigid cross-examination, laying bare his past life. The attorney questioned Fournier as to being married, and wanted to know if, when he was at Pine River, he killed William Blakeley, who was shot through a window. The witness answered "No," and an objection to the testimony was sustained. An objection was also sustained to a question if his son had not threatened to tell who killed Blakeley, if not given money, and was not the next morning found with a knife in her side. The witness admitted there was a boy at Leech Lake he called his son, but did not know whether he was his son or not. Asked if he was Indian blood in the boy, Fournier was not permitted to answer. His memory was poor as to dates, and also as to how long he worked in various places. Fournier was still on the stand at recess. He was somewhat nervous while under the fire of cross-examination.

STANLEY'S WIDOW AGAIN A BRIDE

Dorothy Tennant That Was Wedded to Henry Curtis.

London, April 12.—Dorothy, Lady Stanley, widow of the African explorer, laid aside her mourning only when she put on her wedding gown. Rich, distinguished, beautiful, one of the most accomplished and talented women in London society, she has made a desperate love match with Henry Curtis, a Fellow of the Royal College of Surgeons, a man of ability and culture, but unknown to society, and with a big "X" on his forehead.

Everyone is congratulating her and there is universal pleasure that she will be seen about again. She is very much beloved among many classes, and her town house on Richmond terrace, Whitehall, was for many years crowded on Saturday and Sunday afternoons by statesmen, diplomats, journalists, musical and artistic people, as well as leaders of fashion. But since Sir Henry M. Stanley's death, three years ago, she has been practically a recluse at her country place in Surrey, Farnham Hill, which Stanley bought and laid out himself and where he is buried.

Stanley brought nearly $250,000 home with him from his American lecture tour under Maj. Pond, and he put most of it into Farnham Hill, which he reproduced there several bits of forest scenery copied from Africa, and he established also a lucrative farming industry. This last his widow has carried on with remarkable success, displaying rare business sagacity.

The second marriage has revived the old gossip that her marriage with Stanley was unhappy. Nothing could be further from the truth, however. They both regarded the gossip amusing.

One summer when they were in Switzerland for Stanley's health, a newspaper man sent a man all the way from New York to interview the explorer on the subject. The reporter announced his errand bluntly by inquiring if Lady Stanley was expecting to get a divorce. Stanley replied to the question by shouting to his wife, who was in the next room: "Dolly, come here!" She ran in, thinking he was in pain, and, in the most affectionate manner, asked him what was the matter and could she do anything. Stanley took her hand and kissed it; then turning to the reporter, said: "You have your answer, sir."

STANFORD WHITE'S PAINTINGS SOLD.

New York, April 12.—Stanford White's modern paintings were sold at auction last night by the American Art association and realized $30,000. A few well known names, such as Inness, Hissman and Curran, brought high prices, but the other paintings sold at low figures.

"Cornelia and Mollie," one of Gerome's gold medal pictures, which sold in the A. T. Stewart sale years ago for $300, went to Edmund Holbrook for $1,000. This was the record price of the painting's auction.

Serator W. A. Clark, purchased two pictures to add to his collection of Impressionists. "After the Bath" by Giuseppe Boldini for $1,000 and "Fete in the Garden" by Adolph Monticelli, for $2,000.

ART GALLERY IS OFFERED

Widener Tenders $10,000,000 Building to City of Philadelphia.

Site on Parkway Only Condition Attached to the Gift.

Philadelphia, April 12.—P. A. B. Widener has made application to Mayor Reyer for permission to donate to a $10,000,000 municipal art gallery on the Parkway, and, with other art lovers, to store it with private collections and copies of famous paintings.

This project has been under discussion for some time. According to Mayor Reyer, Mr. Widener has made the gift made to build a gallery at a cost of $10,000,000, which is the site of the gallery, and the city would be the most desirable location for the building.

The select paintings of the Gibson collection and all the pictures that have been collected by John G. Johnson, E. B. Rasmusen, and E. T. Stoenburg, according to Mayor Reyer, eventually will find their way into the gallery.

There is no reason why the Academy of the Fine Arts should not take a portion of the building and make the gallery the center of Philadelphia art. The Academy building is in the center of the city and a good place could be obtained for it.

MUSIC AND THE DRAMA

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS.

LYCEUM—Marie Hall, violinist. METROPOLITAN—Burlingame. BLOU—Vaudeville.

"FORTY-FIVE MINUTES FROM BROADWAY."

One of the most notable theatrical entertainments booked for the present season in this city is George M. Cohan's fascinating musical play, "Forty-five Minutes From Broadway," which comes to the Lyceum theater Saturday and Sunday, with Corinne as the star supported by a noteworthy company. The play has enjoyed unusual success since its first production over a year ago. It has run off twenty weeks in New York and thirty weeks in Chicago having proved immensely profitable to its managers.

In his selection of characters and in the originality of situations, Mr. Cohan has shown the same genius for getting together novel and surprising that was noticeable in his popular "Little Johnny Jones."

"THE VIRGINIAN."

That virile play of Western life, "The Virginian," with Dustin Farnum, and notable associate players, returns to the Lyceum theater Saturday and Sunday with a matinee on Wednesday. The most emphatic successes of any book dramatization of recent years, its success being due to the fact that it is a play that the stage adaptation has been universally conceded to be better even than the book, while the production and acting company are known to be up to the standard long ago established with all of the Kirtle LaShelle attractions.

WRESTLING GAND BUREAU.

The regular performance by the Fay Foster company will be given Friday evening will be followed by a wrestling match. These contests have been made an added feature of the Friday night bills at the "Met" and have proven very popular. The Foster company will give three more performances at the "Met," one this evening and two tomorrow, one in the afternoon and another in the evening.

POPULAR WITH THE CHILDREN.

The "Teddy Bears," in the moving pictures at the Bilton this week are making a bigger hit with the children than anything seen in Duluth in many months. Tomorrow's matinee will give the little ones an excellent chance to see them.

INDICATIONS OF A CONTINUANCE

Of Prosperity Even More Positive Than Last Week.

Cleveland, Ohio, April 12.—The Iron Trade Review and Indications of a continuance of prosperity for an indefinite period are even more positive than they were last week. The slight uneasiness, caused by the Wall street flurry has vanished and there is increasing confidence in the soundness of conditions. The determined stand taken some time ago and maintained for a number of weeks by large independent steel making concerns that they would not buy pig iron for the last half of the year at more than $20 per ton, has been abandoned. Sales aggregating 250,000 tons at $21 furnace have been made. It is understood that the independent interests had not entered the market, all available iron would have been taken by the United States Steel corporation. There has been an active demand for prompt Bessemer and Basic, but the supply is very limited. In foundry iron the week has been very quiet and improved deliveries from the South have furnished some relief. In the market is firm with little if any change in prices. Reports from abroad present some interesting features in the British market. In the Middlesboro district there has been an unprecendented demand for German and American, and stocks in warrant yards have been heavily reduced.

ROAD CHARGED WITH REBATING

Wisconsin Central on Trial Before Judge Page Morris.

Minneapolis, April 12.—The Wisconsin Central railroad indicted for giving rebates to the Spencer Grain company on trial in Judge Page Morris' court.

Burton Johnson, who was formerly general freight agent of the Wisconsin Central, and George F. Huey, assistant general freight agent and defendants, as well as the railroad, and the attorneys who appeared in the case for the defense are Walter D. Corrigan and Thomas H. Gill. Paul A. Ewert, assistant United States attorney, is appearing for the government.

Mr. Corrigan made a motion to quash the indictment on practically the same grounds on which the demurrer was argued. The court denied the motion. It is charged in the indictment that the Wisconsin Central engaged in interstate commerce between Minneapolis, Milwaukee and Chicago, received from the Spencer Grain company for shipment about July 28, 1905, certain car loads of barley, and that at the time the shipments were made the defendant company had on file with the interstate commerce commission a rate of 7 1/2 cents per 100 weight, and it is charged that after the freight had been paid according to the published tariff in October, 1905, the road paid back a portion namely, a rebate of 1/2 a cent a bushel on these shipments.

Mr. Dunn's presence was for the purpose of securing for a friend at Princeton, Lemuel S. Briggs, the vacant probate judgeship of Milne, LaSalle county, caused by the death of V. M. Van Alstein and he came away with the commission tucked away in his inside pocket. There was no hesitancy in complying with his request.

"I knew John would give me what I asked for," said "Bob" when he appeared later. "I told him I would have done the same thing for him had chance favored me instead of him. And he believed it, too. I know he did."

Not that Bob has not been a frequent visitor at the capitol since the memorable campaign of 1904, when he and John A. Johnson were pitted against each other for gubernatorial honors, but it was the first time that "Bob" had permitted his feet to wander into the executive offices, and it was this fact that excited comment. The two frequently met at gatherings, but there never were any effusive greetings as a result, and it was this that added to the gossip, resulting from Wednesday's visit.

Neither fell on the other's neck when they met. The reception on the part of Governor Johnson was cordial and "Bob" was just as responsive in the handshake which followed. "Bob" always does give a hearty handshake, and it is the same with friend or foe, though the latter may receive in addition some of that blunt talk for which the Princeton man is noted. There is no hypocrisy about "Bob."

Following the greetings, Governor Johnson and Mr. Dunn disappeared into the latter's private office, and there they were joined later by Frank Day, Harvey Grimmer and others of the executive department. All, even "Bob," came out smiling. The "bloody chasm" of two campaigns had been bridged. The hatchet had been buried.

A DOG LOVER. D. M. Dunn, the famous lawyer, at a dinner in New York, said of a legal topic he disliked.

"You see, I have had so much of it. It is like the case of the old Frenchman who called at a house that was overrun with dogs. As soon as the old man entered the house, the dogs enveloped him. They leaped on his lap, they licked his nose and lips, they nudged his white waistcoat. His manner

BURIED THE HATCHET.

Bob Dunn Asks and Receives Favor From Governor Johnson.

St. Paul, April 12.—The Dispatch says: R. C. Dunn of Princeton, former state auditor, once candidate for governor, and still a possibility, visited Governor John A. Johnson at the capitol Wednesday afternoon.

Seeing his excellency, whose quarters are in the marble pile on Capitol hill, is an every day occurrence, and excited no comment, but the presence of "Bob" Dunn closed with Governor Johnson in his private office, was too much for even the most calloused. Tongues were wagging all over the building.

Mr. Dunn's presence was for the purpose of securing for a friend at Princeton, Lemuel S. Briggs, the vacant probate judgeship of Milne, LaSalle county, caused by the death of V. M. Van Alstein and he came away with the commission tucked away in his inside pocket. There was no hesitancy in complying with his request.

showed that he was none too well pleased, and his hostess said reproachfully: "Ah, come, it is easy to see that you don't like dogs. Indeed, the count exclaimed: 'Why I am over forty of them during the siege of Paris.'"

UNPROFITABLE CALLERS. Admiral Sir John, in a recent after-dinner speech, said of the naval virtue of obedience: "Yet even obedience may be carried too far. A lawyer, short to go to court, said to his office boy: 'If any one calls, say I'll be back at 12.' Then he went to court. On his return he asked the boy: 'Any one called?'"

"Yes, sir," the lad answered. "Five beggars. They'll look in again at 12, sir."

MME. VALE ON BEAUTY

Gives an Entertaining Talk to Duluth Women at Lyceum.

She Illustrates Her Lecture in Gradually Vanishing Skirts.

Mme. Vale is a spry old lady. She won't mind that statement, for she admitted in the meeting yesterday afternoon at the Lyceum that she was 55. Rash admission—but when she can prance around a stage in childlike abandon, can hop, skip and jump and display a wrinkleless face and neck, and a mop of golden hair, where is the victory for age and where the sting in being 55? Mme. Vale looked 30.

She entered into the vision of the assembled beauty seekers, gowns in a green blue frock that shimmered and shone and fitted her as if she had been melted and poured in at the top. There was a transparent yoke topping of the costume and then a hat, that bore three-quarters of a yard of variegated plumage. Where it started at the front of the hat it was a deep purplish blue and where it ended coiled around the opposite side of her neck it was a modish gray. Her arms, plump and pink, were bare to above the elbow and in this fetching array she talked about beauty and told of the things which, taken inwardly or applied outwardly, would insure beauty untold. "But for real beauty," said Mme. Vale, "there must be plenty of soul. We must think lovely thoughts and do lovely things, and get our souls in tune with the beauty of face and body will be but the outward expression of inward loveliness. For beauty of soul takes daily doses of—that is—of—beautiful thoughts and deeds."

There was a second act, Mme. Vale walked on to the stage in pink silk. It was knee length and right low in the neck. Her arms were guileless of covering and she also wore pink stockings and pink shoes. In this habiliment she did gymnastics, to the sound of sweet music played by an interested orchestra. She gracefully and easily took bunches of atmosphere and tossed them carelessly to the right and left, and over her head. She took bending exercises and in general showed just how to be agile and beautiful forever, nearly.

There was a third act, Mme. Vale had a nice costume on this time, too. It was light blue with a trimmings of black. She wore blue slippers and a coquettish hat with a light blue feather. The one man in the audience, who, through some accident, had a back seat, leaned forward with intense interest. The orchestra played a waltz and Mme. Vale blithely and gladly walked around the stage according to the Yale method. She placed one foot in front of the other, exactly and balanced herself perfectly. And there was not the slightest difficulty in seeing the motions. Then she walked incorrectly in ways that are often seen and the audience laughed heartily. "You see, ladies," said Mme. Vale, "how ridiculous this costume becomes in any such manner of walking. It is vulgar and anything vulgar is no longer beautiful." It might as well be admitted right now that the light blue costume was what is commonly known as tight.

In the last act when the lovely lady talked on message and in a waltz was gown in a modish empire gown, soft and graceful, and of mauve shade. The large audience, who were interested to her advice on the search for beauty.

LATE DOINGS IN UPPER MICHIGAN

Heavy Fall of Snow in April Surprises Old Timers.

Calumet—The old residents of Calumet and other portions of the Copper country are discussing the heavy fall of snow which has taken place since Saturday afternoon. Few can recall when such a quantity of the beautiful dropped during the month of April. It was a surprise to all. All records are apparently broken, for there is probably on a level about 18 to 20 inches of snow. A man who has lived here for more than 40 years has had considerable difficulty in keeping anywhere near the schedules. The snow packed heavily and caused more than the usual amount of trouble for this season. Summer will be retarded by the fall of snow during the week. For a time this month it looked as though it would be possible to throw the winter wraps, but from present indications there are several more weeks of old-time winter weather to be expected.

The bids for the erection of the new Y. M. C. A. building in Calumet were opened by the board of directors at a special meeting. The bids were as follows: W. F. Milford, $62,235; L. P. Urain, $64,137; and C. A. Anderson, $62,390. It can be seen from these bids that when the extra costs which will have to be encountered by the Y. M. C. A. outside of this contract are met that the total cost of the building will range between $60,000 and $80,000. This makes it impossible for the Y. M. C. A. directors to proceed with the work of allowing this contract without definite consideration of the entire situation.

Lake Linden—At a meeting of the Lake Linden board of education, R. W. Riggs of Marine City, this state, was appointed to succeed C. G. White, resigned, as superintendent of the Lake Linden public schools. Mr. Riggs is highly recommended, and his application was accepted out of a score or more. He is a University of Michigan man, and at present superintendent of the schools at Marine City.

Rossmore—John S. Robinson, superintendent of the Rossmore schools has submitted his resignation to the board to take effect at the end of the school year.

Houghton—The board of directors of the Houghton County hospital, organized last at the Citizens bank building this week and been active preparing for the coming fair to be held. It was decided that the fair shall be held on September 24, 25, 26 and 28, on the Amphidrome grounds, and that the admission will be the same as it was last year.

ALBENBERG'S

TO THE PEOPLE OF DULUTH AND VICINITY:

This Grand Oriental Rug Sale will be no ordinary every-day offering—but will present the result of a year's untrusting labor, on the part of the famous rug collector, Abdul Ghaflar Kandohari, which we were extremely fortunate to secure for Duluth and the Northwest. The collection is composed of some rare Masripes.

Not only is this collection out of the ordinary, everyday run of Oriental Rugs, but, owing to the fact that they were bought direct from the collector, we thus save the commission men's profit, the importer's profit, and in some cases—were we small dealers—a jobber's profit. We bought from the fountain head and you can buy them from us cheaper than you have ever before seen Rugs of equal quality and merit sold anywhere.

We wish it distinctly understood that, though the Rugs are now on display and will be until Monday morning, not one of them will be laid aside or promised to anybody until the hour of sale, which will be Monday morning, April 15, at 8 o'clock sharp.

We have not picked out the best ones, asking an exorbitant price, but have separated the various kinds into lots and marked each lot at a price that will effect a quick and speedy sale.

We acknowledge to you that in some of the lots—say the lot at $32.50 there are some rugs worth only $45.00, but there are others worth $75.00—and the same proportion holds true in every lot. For this reason, it's up to you to be ready in order to get your choice of these gems.

We had some of the Rugs cleaned before they were shipped from New York—others still in the natural state in which the collector found them—whether they were cleaned or in their original state, they all reveal conclusively, as soon as seen, the superior quality, work and character of the pieces we are offering at the present time, and the prices we ask will be a revelation to all who are today posted on values of Oriental art.

SHOT HIMSELF IN THEATER BOX

Another Case of Pittsburg Paranoia Ends in Suicide.

Pittsburg, April 12.—Robert M. Crowe, a member of one of the most prominent and wealthy families of Pittsburg, made what is almost certain to prove a successful attempt at suicide in a box at the Grand opera house Wednesday afternoon during the performance, by shooting himself through the abdomen.

Crowe, who is only 22 years old, is now in the Homopublic hospital, and there is practically no hope of his recovery. With him are his wife and mother, and his uncle, H. C. McElwain, president of the Union Trust company, the H. C. Frick bank.

At the exact moment of the shooting Attorney W. C. McElwain, another uncle of the young man, was hurrying to police headquarters to enlist the aid of the police in placing Crowe under arrest as the result of a letter which the attorney had received just a few minutes before in which Crowe told of his intention to end his life. "It is just another case of Pittsburg Paranoia," declared H. C. and M. C. McElwain later. "Robert for some time has imagined he was a failure in life because he was not a fortune in the two years since he has been out of school. He seemed to think that he could become a Carnegie or a Frick in a day."

The trial also has a great deal to do with his mental derangement. At the beginning of the trial he began studying the different forms of insanity as they were mentioned at the trial, frequently sitting up all night reading books on the subject. He certainly was insane.

Crowe lived with his wife and widowed mother in a magnificent residence in the East end and did not have a real care or worry in the world. He worshipped his bride of a year and was a young man of almost perfect habits.

VETERAN WOULD MARRY CARRIE

But "Hatchet" Woman Gives Him the Marble Heart.

Washington, April 12.—Mrs. Carrie A. Nation has had an offer of marriage. It came from a Civil war veteran living in Virginia. Mrs. Nation has scorned this invitation to take a second trial in matrimony, and in the current issue of her paper, the Hatchet, she tells why she has refused. She says:

"Lonely and despondent at times because he hasn't a wife, Thomas Flanagan of Virginia wants to marry. And he sends his song of 'Can't you see I'm lonely' to me."

"Mrs. Carrie A. Nation. 'She received a letter of proposal from this ardent admirer on Friday, and he wants an early answer so he can arrange his affairs. But he will receive the marble heart. He will get the frigid mitt. Mrs. Nation says she is wedded to her work and that she can't wed."

"In his letter Flanagan says he is a government pensioner at $2 a month, has $75 in the bank, together with a house and some land. His wife died some time ago, and ever since he has been lonely and at times despondent. He winds up his letter by declaring it to be from an affectionate admirer, and says always will be hope."

"Mrs. Nation will reply to her admirer and gently decline his generous offer, telling at the same time her reasons for not wishing to marry. She wants to be so she can devote her whole time to what she believes to be her life work."

NEW JUDGE NAMED.
St. Paul, Minn., April 12.—P. H. Stober of Harris was yesterday appointed by Governor Johnson as judge of the Nineteenth district. The creation of a new judicial district by taking Washington, Pine, Chicago and Kanabec counties away from the old First district makes quite a change in time-honored traditions.

MRS. SIDNEY LOVE TO MARRY AGAIN

William H. Kemble of Philadelphia to be Fourth Husband.

Chicago, Ill., April 12.—Mrs. L. M. Cool, Fairbault, Minn., announces that her daughter, Mrs. Sidney C. Love, is to marry William H. Kemble, son of Clay Kemble of Philadelphia.

Mrs. Love's marital affairs form an interesting history. Her marriage to William Kemble will be her third domestic experience. She was first wedded to James Kitson, member of the Kitson family, prominent in St. Paul and Minneapolis, whom she later divorced. In 1890 she was married to Sidney Love and entered Chicago's most exclusive set to remain for less than four years as one of their leaders. Her expensive gowns, horses and entertainments figured largely in the society columns and she was for a time a much envied member of the Lake Forest colony.

In the fall of 1905, when Mr. and Mrs. Love were in New York, came the first intimation of the impending separation. Hugo R. Johnstone, a prominent New Yorker, was being sued by his wife, a daughter of Samuel W. Alberton, for divorce. Two women were named in the case, one of whom, Nina Farrington, actress, became known. It was rumored at the time that a packet of love letters from Mrs. Love addressed to Johnstone, had been found in the smoking-room of one of Fifth avenue's most select clubs. At that time Sidney Love provoked comment by summarily sending his wife back to her apartments in Chicago.

Later he returned alone. From that time on he and his wife failed to agree and the thing of her suit in the following summer was expected by friends of the family.

WEST END MISSIONARY SESSIONS

Rev. Sallstrom's Lecture

Opens Series at Swedish Mission Church.

Meetings Are to be Held

Every Evening Until

Monday.

The annual mission meetings of the congregation of the Swedish Mission church began last evening with an illustrated lecture on "Palestine" by Rev. J. Sallstrom of Ishpeming, Mich.

A number of clergymen from outside the city will be present during the three days of the meetings.

The church was crowded last evening, when Rev. Sallstrom gave his lecture. A traveler of wide experience and education, he is able to put into lecture an interest born of intimacy which holds the attention of his hearers all the time.

The mission meetings proper will begin this evening. Another will be held tomorrow evening and on Sunday, three meetings will be held. The first will begin at 10 o'clock and will be especially for the children of the Sunday school and the ladies of the congregation. The second will be held in the afternoon and the third will begin at 7:30 o'clock. Monday evening, Rev. Sallstrom will lecture again on "Palestine" at the present time.

At these meetings, the pastor of the Swedish Mission church, Rev. F. O. Kling, will preside and among those who will take part, besides Rev. Sallstrom, are Rev. August Skogberg and Rev. Gustaf Andersson, both of whom reside in Minneapolis.

FRED PABST

BADLY HURT

Struck by Street Car

While Riding in Automobile.

Chicago, April 12.—A dispatch to the Tribune from Milwaukee, Wis., says: Frederick Pabst, a millionaire brewer, and Mrs. Leon Barnickel, were in a well-known athletic instructor, were seriously hurt last night in an automobile accident. Both are at Trinity hospital, but will recover.

Mr. Pabst left home a short time before to meet the manager of one of his ranches. On his way down town he met Mrs. Barnickel, a friend of the family. She was on her way to the Army to meet her husband, with whom she was going to the dog show.

Mr. Pabst invited her into the automobile and started for the Army, when they were run down by a trolley car. Mrs. Barnickel was thrown to the pavement, while Mr. Pabst remained in his wrecked automobile and was dragged fifty feet over the muddy pavement. Both were picked up unconscious and carried to a drug store close by, and then removed to the Trinity hospital by the police. They are still unconscious, but will recover.

Mrs. Barnickel is the most seriously hurt. Her face is cut and bruised, and it is feared she will be disfigured for life. Mr. Pabst sustained injuries about the head.

AGREEMENT PROBABLE

Said Judge Windom, in Discussing Thaw Trial

This Morning.

Duluth Jurist Thinks Acquittal Likely But Predicts Bad Effect.

A group of attorneys and judges was discussing the probable outcome of the Thaw trial and the result of the jury's findings this morning in the municipal court. The talk waxed warm on one or two occasions and the partisans of disagreement were many and full of arguments. There were one or two dissenters, and Judge Windom of the municipal court was one of them. Judge Cutting agreed with him, and as these two had perhaps more experience with the uncertainty and the never-to-be-relied-upon action of a jury, the rest of the debaters were silent.

"When a jury has been out as long as this one has, they are not likely to disagree," said Judge Windom. "Of course there may be just one man hanging out and the other eleven are sticking in hopes of swinging him over and he may remain obstinate to the end, but this is unusual."

"I am rather of the opinion that they will agree upon an acquittal. That is all guess work of course, but I imagine that this will be the result. It would be rather regrettable too. The example which it will set to men all over the country will be terrible. Take for example the way the 'brain storm' defense has swept the country since Delmas brought the word into prominence. If Harry Thaw goes free, and I am afraid he will, there will be an increase of this class of crime."

gone abroad. The hillside and Lakeside residents have naturally been greatly interested in the progress of negotiations as upon the successful sale of the bonds depends whether or not the two big extensions will be made this year.

The other smaller extensions in West Duluth and other parts of the city will be carried out whether the bonds are sold or not but the big cost of the hillside and Lakeside extensions will necessitate the issue. It is expected, however, that unless the city decides to purchase a municipal lighting plant or attempts to build a new sewerage system, the department this will be the last issue of bonds for years.

The bid of Holmely's Walbridge & Co. demanded $1,500 commission, or, practically, that much discount from the next bidders were W. J. Hayes & Son of Cleveland, who offered $125,000.
The bond issue was originally $375,000, of which $200,000 was taken by the State
Metal company in payment for the slabs to cover for the city.

NO INSURANCE AGENTS

What might have proved a serious hitch in the negotiations for the sale of the water and light bonds which were to have supplied the funds for the hillside water and gas and the Lakeville gas plant this year, has been at last practically smoothed away by the strenuous efforts of City Attorney Fester, and the local members of the legislature, and now there is every prospect that the deal will be consummated through at nearly as advantageous terms to the city as at first.

It was developed when a slump in the money market made it desirable to postpone the sale of the bonds, which had contracted to take the bonds, to dodge the deal. Their attorneys had no right to pay commissions for the bonds, and the city had no right in their contract with the water and light board, and that in this manner the whole thing was blocked.

The commission was to have been paid by the city, and it was to have been the means of getting around the provision of the city charter which forbade that the city sell or buy below par. This arrangement proved proper, and the city has agreed with Walbridge & Co. until the slump in the market made it advisable to get out of the deal.

By dint of a good deal of strenuous work City Attorney Fester greatly succeeded in getting a bill through the legislature, known as the currency act, which sets aside the provision of the city charter as to selling bonds below par in connection with this one issue of bonds, and will permit the sale of the bonds before they are admitted to the market. The commission to the purchasers which was to have served the same purpose.

The object of the currency act was, however, released them from all positive obligation to take the bonds and negotiations will have to be opened again for their sale. Mr. Fester says this morning that he did not know whether Hodenpy, Walbridge & Co. would take the bonds under the new act, but that he thought they had noticed them and that the action of the legislature would be taken within a few days. It is also understood that the next highest bidder will be the same firm as his first bid and the bonds can be disposed of without any trouble after the curative act of the legislature is passed.

The water and light board has kept the proceedings in this matter very quiet since its occurrence and only a few persons are known to be interested.

Chicago, April 12.—The appellate court declared that public policy forbids the recovery of insurance on a person executed for murder. Suit was originally brought by Hugh Collins, executor of the will of Robert Kilpatrick, who was executed for murder in Pennsylvania. Kilpatrick murdered his housekeeper, Elizabeth Beck, more, at Chester, Pa., Feb. 14, 1902. He was convicted and hanged Aug. 25, 1902. Before the commission of the crime Kilpatrick insured his life, and following his death the executor sought Metropolitan Life Insurance company to make good the policy. The company refused to monies paid in Philadelphia decided against the plaintiff. Suit was subsequently brought in Chicago to recover the policy, and the court here reached the same policy.

GEN. MILES'S THOROUGHNESS.
Lippincott's. Some years ago Gen. Miles started to drive from East Lothe reckless driving of the man holding the lines made it seem rather odd, but the Indian fighter compressed his lips and clung to the seat without complaint. When near Cody, the General suddenly prodded the driver in the back with his walking stick and said curtly: "Driver, turn around."

"General," exclaimed the astonished driver.

"So as I tell you," commanded Miles. So now you turned the horses about and started back to Red Lodge."

"How funny," cried Miles, after they had driven a few yards. Convinced that this alleged assassin was mad, and suddenly lost his mind, the driver turned about once more and started for "There!" exclaimed Miles, in a tone of satisfaction. In the next moments struck a stone and he bounded into the air. He fell head first, and before he could get up he lay motionless. The driver went back to Red Lodge and told them there what had happened. They never missed a rock. You've hit them, every one."

A CURIOUS AD.
The late Ambrose G. Thomas, the advertising expert of Chicago, used to tell me that he had seen an advertisement that he valued highly was a Chinese advertisement of India ink.

This advertisement, as translated, is as follows:

"This shop Tse-shing (prosperous in the extreme), very good ink, fine, fine! Fine, fine, fine, fine, fine, fine, fine, fine, father, and self make this ink. Fine and hard. Very hard. Checked with care, selected with attention."

"I sell very good ink; prime cost; no loss. This is my ink. Choice ink. Gold. The eye of the dragon glitters and dazzles, so does this ink. No other ink like it. Others who make ink, make it for the sake of accumulating base coin. Others who make ink, make it on account of a name."

"A plenty of mandarins know my ink—my family never cheated—they have always known a good name."

"I make ink for the 'Son of Heaven' and all the mandarins in the empire. As the rocks of the tiger exist everywhere, place, so does the fame of the dragon's jewels. Ink of Tse-shing."

If you are selling enough goods—then your advertisement in Herald is sufficient.

New Tonnage Tax Bill
Will be Intro-

St. Paul, April 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Bills to legalize the St. Louis county courthouse commission and the board of poor commissioners, were introduced in the senate this morning and passed under suspension of the rules, on motion of Senator Laybourn. They provide that the chairman of the board of county commissioners shall make the appointments instead of the judges of the district court, the supreme court having held that this duty cannot be delegated to them. Representative Saari will have the bills passed in the house under suspension of the rules this afternoon or tomorrow.

The new tonnage tax bill, which Representative Jefferson and Bjorge have been considering, will probably not be introduced, owing to the short time left in which to consider it, and the evident impossibility of putting it through. Senator Laybourn had the house bill increasing the salaries of the St. Louis county commissioners to $1,200 a year passed under suspension of the rules this morning, and it now goes to the governor.

The senate re-passed the reciprocal demurrage bill, with corrections, and it (Continued on page 10, first column.)

Chicago, April 13.—Mrs. Mary Sladek, 22 years old, who was charged by the police with murdering her mother and attempting to poison her father and three brothers, was released last night after the police had examined her for two hours. The police confessed themselves baffled by the woman's composure and protestations of innocence. She is still under police surveillance and will be watched by detectives until the coroner's inquest, which has been postponed indefinitely. Mrs. Sladek's mother, Mrs. Mary Mette, 52 years old, died on April 6, from arsenical poisoning. The drug was mixed in the family flour barrel. Mrs. Mette's death was caused by eating some Bohemian fruit buns, which she made herself. The father and three brothers also were taken seriously ill from the effects of the arsenic. At the police station, Mrs. Sladek was confronted with the statement of Dr. J. E. Waggener, the first physician called in, that she was the person who had merely feigned the symptoms exhibited by the rest of the family. He based his reasoning on his observation that she had not vomited as the rest of the family had. In answer to a question concerning the police charges, Mrs. Sladek said: "Let them go ahead, they are awfully mistaken."

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, April 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The house yesterday afternoon, by an informal vote, went on record in favor of extending the primary election system to state officers, the voting being 66 in favor of extension and 19 against.

This does not mean by any means, that a law will be enacted at this session binding the state officers within the provisions of the primary election law, however. There are evidences of a very pretty fight between the city and the country in the matter of extending the primary election law, which will serve very handsomely to defeat the passage of any bill enlarging the functions of the primary election system.

In committee of the whole the house recommended for passage, with the privilege of amendment upon the calendar, the Suggested bill providing for same primaries and the extension of the system to state officers and United States senators. The discussion attending this action was not very elaborate, but it was extensive enough to develop the possi-

Kansas City, April 13.—An official announcement was received in this city today by a member of the local branch of the society of the nomination of Mrs. Annie Besant of India as world president of the Theosophical society to succeed the late Col. Henry Steele Olcott, the president-founder of the organization. Col. Olcott, who was an old New York newspaper man and a veteran of the Civil war, died recently following his return to India from Chicago, where he had attended the annual convention of the American section. The official announcement states that on his death bed he formally named Mrs. Besant, who had for years been his co-worker, to succeed him, a prerogative which he held. The nomination must be ratified by a two-thirds vote of the societies of the world. The vote is soon to be taken. Mrs. Besant is coming to America from India in June.

Orders have been issued by the Building Trades' council that no open shops shall exist. The master builders and many of the independent contractors seem willing to stand a strike, to settle the matter one way or the other. Their proposition is a sliding scale of 30 to 50 cents an hour. Business Agent Howley, of the trades' council says if a settlement is not soon forthcoming, a strike will be called among the twelve unions.

The jury in the Fournier case returned their verdict last evening, Wesley having been found guilty a week ago. The promptness with which the jury found their verdict last evening was a surprise to everyone, many having predicted a disagreement, and the sentence imposed this morning by Judge M. A. When the judge started his statement to Fournier, it looked as if he would impose the death penalty, but when the words, "life imprisonment," were used, there was a perceptible relief in the faces of both of the (Continued on page 10, sixth column.)

DIED UNDER THE PINES

Mystery of Young Woman
Suicide at Angora is Solved.

Virginia, Minn., April 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—"When I die, I want to die under these pines," was the remark made three years ago by a young school teacher from North Dakota, and she carried out her intention. The mystery of the young woman who committed suicide near Angora, about ten days ago, has been solved. The story of her death was read in The Herald by her brother-in-law, who resides in North Dakota. The young woman had made her home with him and her sister, and when she was missed from home, he promptly suspected that she was the young woman found near Angora. Three years ago when he and his wife visited Angora in company with the young woman, she was greatly impressed by the beauty of the pines near that village, and made the statement given above. This doubtless explains her reason for returning to Angora, and it is evident that she deliberately planned to come back and die under the pine trees. An effort is being made to suppress the name of the young woman, and the local undertakers refused to disclose her identity or that of her brother-in-law. They resided in one of the small towns of North Dakota. Thaw's young woman was 27 years of age, and unmarried. The letter which she left, saying that she had quarreled with her husband and signed by a fictitious name, was therefore a blind. On one former occasion she attempted suicide, taking laudanum, but medical assistance reached her in time to save her life. No reason is known for her act, beyond the fact that she was subject to spells of melancholia.

JAPANESE IMMIGRANTS

Held on Steamer at Frisco, Pending Department Advices.

San Francisco, April 13.—Two hundred and ninety-five Japanese laborers who came in yesterday on the Pacific Mail steamer Kurea are detained on the steamer pending advices from the department of immigration at Washington as to whether the local immigration authorities shall let them proceed by steamer to British Columbia. Their passports are for Honolulu, and Immigration Commissioner North is doubtful as to passing them on to their port of destination. The Kurea is the first steamer to land Japanese since the new law was passed, and Commissioner North and Commissioner J. S. Rodgers of Philadelphia and Harrison Nesbit, assistant solicitor of the department of commerce and labor, who are in this city on a mission of inquiry, the nature of which they refuse to divulge, went down the bay and boarded the Kurea. Besides the Japanese they found in the steamer's list 114 Chinese, ninety of whom were admitted to this country and others bound for British Columbia.

Thaw Bears Up Bravely
pointment.

New York, April 13.—Inaction, so far as any court proceedings is concerned, ensued in the Thaw case today, following the intense strain and feverish interest of the many weeks that the trial was under way. None of the lawyers in the proceedings was at his office during the early hours of the morning, all of them having been completely exhausted by the long wait for the jury to bring in its report. There was some confusion also, today, as to just what attorneys will do the talking for the Thaw side in the future. Harry Thaw spent a restless night in the Tombs, but according to the attendants, slept three or four hours in the course of the night. He was up early and after breakfast spent considerable time looking through the newspapers. The reporters were on hand early and sent up a note to him only to receive the reply that he had "nothing to say just at this time." To a question from one of the newspaper men asking what lawyer they should see to obtain information regarding a second trial, he replied that he did not care to say until he had consulted with his family. His mother and wife are expected at the Tombs during the day. The first question to be decided by the Thaw side is that of applying for the release of the defendant on bail. District Attorney Jerome has said that a second trial can hardly be reached before October or November, and it will be urged that it will be a great hardship to keep Thaw in prison during the months of waiting when his family stands ready to furnish surety in ample sum to insure his presence when the second trial is to be called. If this application is made, however, it will be strongly opposed by Mr. Jerome, who holds that the prisoner's wealth should make no difference in the treatment to be given to the defendant, and that he should remain in the Tombs just as any other person would be obliged to do. The district attorney feels that he would not be warranted, as a public officer, in taking any more lenient attitude in view of the fact that (Continued on page 10, third column.)

Angered Because Reproved
for Leaving Window
Open.

New York, April 13.—Angered because he had been reproved for leaving a window open near his bed last night, Frederick Mattheson today shot and probably fatally wounded his nephew, George Hoffman, with whom he lived, Mrs. Hoffman and Arthur Gouberman, a nephew of the Hoffmans. Mattheson had been ill for some time, and had been cared for at his nephew's home in the Bronx. He is now convalescent after a severe attack of pneumonia, and when Mrs. Hoffman entered his room today and found him lying in bed scantily clothed and with the damp air blowing in on him from an open window, she spoke sharply to him. Mattheson replied angrily that he was quite able to take care of himself. A few minutes later Mattheson came downstairs and entered the dining room. He had on his overcoat, and, as he stepped into the room he pulled a revolver from his pocket and fired at Mrs. Hoffman. The bullet struck her in the back. She ran screaming into the yard and fell senseless. Hoffman in the meantime had jumped up and grappled with Mattheson, but a second shot laid him low and the assailant turned to leave the house. Just at that moment Gouberman rushed downstairs and asked what was the matter. For an answer Mattheson turned and sent two bullets into the young man's abdomen. Then he fled. He was arrested soon after he left the house. He was later arraigned and held without Mattheson was 58 years old and was employed as a ticket agent by the Interborough Metropolitan Transit company. Hoffman is 45 years old and is a teamster for the Interborough company. Mrs. Hoffman is 40 years old and Gouberman 23.

DUN'S WEEKLY TRADE REVIEW

Erratic Weather Is Having Some Bearing on Spring Business.

New York, April 13.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says: Erratic weather makes trade reports irregular, retail sales of spring wearing apparel being retarded by storms and cold at many points, although some sections experience seasonable conditions. Temporary interruption to retail distribution has no ill effects upon jobbing and wholesale business, however, heavy transactions among the latter, while mercantile collections show further improvement. Several strikes have retarded work, notably in sawmills at Portland, Or., and in shipbuilding at Cleveland, but manufacturing returns are most satisfactory on the whole. Textile mills, machine shops, steel plants and footwear factories have little idle machinery, forward business appearing more rapidly than the rate of production in many cases. Most encouraging news comes from the iron and steel industry, large sales of pig iron being made for delivery up to the end of the year. Producers are at regular quotations, but some of the remote dates were sold at a dollar less or $1.50 advance. It is believed that the week's business in Bessemer pig iron alone aggregated 250,000 tons and covered all the surplus of the Bessemer pig iron association for this year.

Traffic conditions are better but the steel mills are still unable to make satisfactory deliveries, and new business comes forward in greater tonnage than production, especially for Western mining interests. Improvement is noted in the primary market for dry goods, producers regarding current purchases as of substantial character, because prices are now too high a level to encourage speculative demand. Although jobbers are less active than at times earlier in the season, more improvement is shown by converters and there is less talk of reselling at second hands below regular quotations. No improvement has appeared in the export division, nor is any expected at present prices. Activity in prints has provided a serious problem for the printer, as cloths cannot be secured and shipments from bleachers are falling further behind. A better demand for men's wear wools is due to the first returns from clothiers' salesmen, but no general duplicating business is expected until the retail clothing situation is better understood. In dress goods there is also delay until the jobbing trade reports on the fabrics already taken, no orders having yet appeared. Footwear producers report trade still rather quiet, but an increase is found in comparison with recent preceding weeks, especially good returns coming from the West on account of early spring weather in that section. New England shops still ship as freely as a year ago, but have fewer orders on hand, and some machinery was idle when the fall business began to broaden.

Among the cowboys. A lawyer was talking about the late Samuel C. T. Dodd, the Standard Oil lawyer, whose salary from the great corporation was $200,000 a year. "Mr. Dodd," said the lawyer, "had an excellent legal talent. He it was, you know, who organized the Standard Oil trust. What further endeared him to Mr. Rockefeller was his strict views on the observance of the Sabbath. They tell a story about Dodd when he was a struggling practitioner in Franklin. There was a Franklin minister who went gunning a good deal, and altogether was rather a sporting character. At a little church supper one night, the minister was boasting about his knowledge of horses and hunting, his marksmanship and so on, when Dodd interrupted him.

"You're a good sportsman, are you?" he said. "Well," said the minister, not suspecting any trap, "I am not a bad sportsman, if I do say it myself."

"Yet," said Dodd, "if I were a bird, I could hide where there'd be no danger of your getting me?" "Where would you hide?" asked the minister. "I'd hide," he answered, "in your study."

MONEY IN HANDFULS

Thrown Upon Stage During the Address of Editor Stead.

Speaker Announces Plan for a Pilgrimage to the Hague.

Pittsburg, April 13.—At the close of an address by W. T. Stead, editor of the "Review of Reviews," London, England, at the dedication ceremonies of the Carnegie institute of Pittsburg late yesterday, in which the speaker announced a plan to raise $100,000 to conduct a pilgrimage from all countries to The Hague conference, unbounded enthusiasm took possession of the large audience and money was thrown to the floor of the stage.

Mr. Stead, after explaining the purpose of the pilgrimage to the next Hague conference, estimated that it would take at least $100,000 to finance the proposition. To raise this sum he proposed that every boy and girl in colleges and universities throughout the United States donate 50 cents toward the fund needed. He said the lesson furnished to Europe by such a movement would be an influential factor in the quest of international peace.

The suggestion came at the end of his address and he sat down amid loud applause. For fully five minutes the handclapping and cheering were prolonged and the speaker again arose and said that probably the audience would like to contribute to the fund. Immediately a shower of silver money landed on the stage, coming from all parts of the music hall.

Among the guests who were seated upon the stage were many presidents of universities and colleges and at the close of the meeting the following institutions through their heads, decided to contribute to the fund: Knox college, Galesburg, Ill.; Allegheny college, Meadville, Pa.; Tuskegee normal and industrial institute, Tuskegee, Ala.; Geneva college, Beaver Falls, Pa.

The Pittsburg branch of the national peace society has taken up the matter and the Grand Army posts presented a resolution of thanks to Mr. Stead.

The banquet given by the board of trustees of the Carnegie institute in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Carnegie, was held last night at the Hotel Schenley. Mr. Carnegie made his appearance at this function after being absent all day, due, it was stated, by Senator Murphy, to the Thursday's ceremonies.

The banquet was the most brilliant ever held in the city. All the foreign and American guests attended. Three large chests of books were presented to the Carnegie library by peror William, through his personal representative, Lieut. Gen. Alfred L. Von Loewenfeld. The books were handsomely bound and treat of the German empire and army.

Many messages were received from all parts of the world, congratulating Mr. Carnegie and Pittsburg in possessing the great Carnegie library.

Among the speakers were Sir William Henry Preece, London; Ernest Von Hinner, Berlin; Lieut. Gen. Von Loewenfeld, Berlin; and Leonce Benidite, Paris.

It is a warm fight on the date for the primaries, a fight which is not at all unlike the bitter struggle which the enemies of extending the system to the country members want the primaries held in June instead of September, because in the latter month the farmers are too busy to go to the primaries, and that does not mean the farmers, time, and promise to get out and take a more active part than they have in the past.

To the city members, however, a June election is a bad thing, as it means some time in the early spring when the candidates declare their intention to run, and that does not mean the farmers, time, and promise to get out and take a more active part than they have in the past.

For extension—Alexander, Benidite, Bicknell, Bills, Borge, Bouck, Brady, Brown, Case, Christensen, Cummings, Davison, Denzer, Dwyer, Doyle, Emerson, Friedman, E. W. Gates, J. A. Gates, Grotzinger, Handlin, H. H. Hansen, Hansen, Henry, Hitzler, Holmberg, Holten, Horton, Jefferson, A. G. Johnson, C. E. Johnson, J. C. Johnson, Lewis, Libby, Lobock, McQueen, Melby, Nagel, O. E. Nobis, Nolin, W. O. Nolin, O'Brien, Opsahl, Peters, Putnam, Rache, Rines, Robertson, Rockne, Rowe, Saugstad, Sawyer, Schrotten, Spencer, Thompson, Thundale, Tighe, Walz, Webster, Weiler, White, Harrison, White, Winzer, Wood, Young—24.

Against extension—Adams, Allen, Carl, Carlton, Davidson, Hollister, Knutson, Lennan, McCoy, Andrew Miller, Swan, Nelson, Orme, Phillips, Stokes, Thayer, Wescott, Wood, Wright, Welch—13. Absent or not voting—Barnett, Conroy, Datzel, Dorsey, Effertz, Foreman, H. M. Hanson, Hicks, Higgins, Howard, Hugo, Johnson, Knutson, Johnson, Knox, Lommen, McNeil, McQuinn, Peterson, Randall, Rodenburg, Skarl, Spooner, Sullivan, Swendsen, Timmerlake, Volmer, Webb, Wells, Srenker—24.

All of the Democrats that were present and voting voted for extension. After the vote was taken the bill was advanced to the calendar.

Purity is Supreme

The materials we use are the best we can buy. And a partner in our business selects them.

The goodness of Schlitz is due largely to them.

But the supremacy of Schlitz as a home beer has been gained by the fact of its absolute purity.

Purity is not so conspicuous as some qualities in beer, yet it is very expensive. That is why it is rare.

But what does it matter how good a beer is if it is not a pure beer? If its use is unhealthy? If its result is biliousness?

the tax commission idea as a special order, but it did not get very far with it, because the house is not yet unanimously in favor of a tax commission.

The trouble was that there was a house bill by Representative Sullivan, and that neither was quite satisfactory to the commission more fully and more definitely decided to refer the matter to a special committee of five members, to be appointed by the speaker to revise the bill and report back to the house.

The senate bill, which had been amended by the senate to correspond very closely with the Murphy house bill, was set forth the powers and more definitely, but it also abolished the state board of equalization, and the country members were not prepared to agree to it.

The house, yesterday afternoon killed the Phillips bill, providing that all hangings shall take place in the state penitentiary, thus relieving the counties of the disagreeable publicity and annoyance of conducting them. It was voted down, Representative Zelch of Washburn moved an amendment appropriating $20,000, stating that it would be absolutely necessary to construct a building in which to have the execution, as there is no room for it in the old building, and the new one will not be completed for several years.

The Rache bill providing for a state board of immigration was recommended to pass by the house in committee of the whole. The appropriation of $25,000 was cut out, leaving it to the appropriation committee to do the best it could in the omnibus appropriation bill. The measure provided that the board shall gather all classes of information and statistics likely to help in attracting settlers to the state, and shall make efforts in other ways to bring people from other states and other lands to the North Star state.

Muzzling City Dogs. The pet measure of Capt. John R. Randall of Duluth was recommended for passage by the house in committee of the whole yesterday afternoon. It provided originally that during the hot months all dogs in the state should be muzzled, and that anybody could kill unmuzzled dogs wherever they were found.

In the discussion of the bill Representative Hollister said that the legislature might as well pass a law prohibiting the wind from blowing as to pass one providing that all dogs in the state should be muzzled. Representative Stokes of Minneapolis said it was evident to him that there were representatives that needed muzzling worse than the dogs, and that it was a harsh cruelty to dogs to keep them muzzled.

Senator Laybourn put through the bill increasing the salaries of the St. Louis county attorney and his assistant under suspension of the rules, and will take similar action with the bill increasing the salaries of the county commissioners. He is not enthusiastic about the bill increasing the salaries of county officers, and may fight it.

Women's suffrage received another blow in the legislature yesterday afternoon when the senate killed a bill providing for it. It was a harsh cruelty to dogs to keep them muzzled.

The senate in committee of the whole yesterday recommended for passage the bill by Senator Sullivan appropriating $100,000 to the finance Schlitz, but sent it to the finance committee, but sent it to the finance committee that it might see about finding the money needed for this work.

State Printing Plant. The senate declared for a state printing plant yesterday afternoon, and in committee of the whole recommended for passage the two bills by Senator Paul providing for it. One provides a state printing commission to have charge of it, and appropriates $50,000 to run the plant in 1908 and $100,000 in 1909, while the other provides for using the basement of the old state capitol to base the plant and appropriate $25,000 for its equipment.

In stating the need of a state plant, Senator Paul spoke of the famous Canfield bill, which the senate had printed when there was not the slightest likelihood that it could ever get out of the railroad committee. It cost $200 to print that bill, instead of $100 as stated at first, and Senator Paul said that he had received figures showing that the cost should have been only $30.00.

The house committee on public lands yesterday recommended for passage Representative Austin's bill allowing the state auditor to lease to the Hibbing Agricultural society some state land near that village for four groups. The society is to pay $20 a year, and the lease is to be for ten years. Representative Austin will have the bill put through under suspension of the rules at an early date.

Representatives Borge and Jefferson yesterday afternoon asked Governor Johnson for permission to introduce a new tonnage tax bill. Their new bill provides for a tax of 2 cents per ton, in the form of a license fee for doing a coining business, based on the amount of their output. Governor Johnson took the matter under advisement.

The new commodity rate bill, which the senate passed yesterday, is effective June 1. It was necessary to postpone it that long in order to give the railroads time to prepare their new schedules.

sheriff's force was called out last Sunday to locate if possible the missing dress suit case of Miss Daisy Allen, the pretty society favorite and daughter of former Sheriff and Mrs. Jorman O. Allen of Cottage street. Miss Allen was en route to an estate wedding in Michigan and had boarded a trolley for Buffalo. The suit case, containing all the special finery of the young lady for the very brilliant event, was left on the rear platform. At Hodgeville, seven miles west, someone picked up the case and left it in the car.

Miss Allen noticed the fact soon after and immediately became highly excited, confused and broken-hearted. Another suit case was left and opened. It contained only a pair of dirty overalls and other soiled clothing of some hard working man, hardly fit for presentation at a wedding of even status. Miss Allen's trip was consequently cut short and she returned to her home in Lockport.

Sheriff Eickensperger sent several deputies to the case and they searched the vicinity of Hodgeville for a radius of two miles on Sunday. They tramped from house to house for some time, or else and finally when hope had all but vanished they came upon the home of Edward McVay, a well known farmer, who had been to Lockport to see a son returning he had picked up a suit case from the car platform, thinking that it was his and that it was his own.

Throwing it in one corner on arriving home he did not even cast a glance at it again until the deputies came. Then he opened it to find that it contained all the special finery of the young lady. The joke of the farcical mixup, however, was not over yet. Miss Allen started out again next day, careful, however, to keep one eye on the suit case.

ITS ORIGIN UNKNOWN. New York Sun: What is the origin of the "cock and bull" story? It is the despair of all those who seek to explain this fine old crusted slang of long ago which has managed to persist into present speech, just as we may imagine our "23" will puzzle a later generation. Brewer, in his "Phrase and Fable," explains it as a corruption of a "concocted and bulky story." Evidently recognizing that his is scarcely satisfactory, he prosecuted his researches into bygone religions, dragged up Nergai from the Phoenicians in the representation of a rooster and from the Egyptians Osiris, typified by a bull. From all of which disquisitions it is as clear as may be that no one really knows anything about the story of a cock and a bull. The French have a precisely similar expression in coq-d'ane, an equality they do not know its origin.

THE GOLF CADDY. New Orleans Item: "The golf caddy," said a Southern journalist, as he chewed a sprig of mint, "is a new type. This lad is independent, witty, altogether without reverence."

"On John D. Rockefeller's visit to Bon Air, he tried a little golf one afternoon in the neighborhood of Augusta. On a rather difficult shot, Mr. Rockefeller struck too low with his iron, and as the dirt flew up he said to his caddy: 'What the hell is this?'

"The boy answered with a harsh laugh: 'Georgia, boss.'"

CONFESSION BY BROTHER

his statement, Howard Nesbit wrote: "I told him what Florence told me—or at least what she is supposed to have told me. I will put it more strongly, and say the never told me to hurt you in any way. I lied, thinking it would help the man I thought was to go."

As to his subsequent attitude toward his sister and Thaw, he wrote: "After Florence told her story on the stand, believe me, I was with her from that time on—heart and soul—never intended to say one word against her if put on the stand—I would have forgotten everything I knew—I would have perhaps myself out and out, if you wish to call it perjury."

"I am not, and was not, afraid of Jerome. Another thing I wish you to bear in mind, and that is that I was influenced by artful and designing persons, who urged me on to take the stand that I did."

"I love and cherish Florence, as any brother should, and it breaks my heart to think I cannot see her. I want to see her and tell her how sorry I am. She would listen to me, I am sure."

"I believe you were justified in doing what you did, and you are in my estimation more than a hero. I look on you now as a man fully sane and capable of holding your own in every crisis."

He declared that he wrote to Evelyn that he was sorry, and for her to send $100 to pay debts he had contracted in New York, but he added, "she seems to be somewhat bitter at me yet and will not see me. She answered that she did not have the money."

Perhaps he was wrong in coming to New York, but his parents were responsible for that, he wrote, adding that he is now true to Thaw's cause. He then appeals to Thaw for the money which Evelyn did not send to him, and declares that he would rather kill himself than go to certain persons in this city for help, that he will not write home for money, and at times has felt "like ending it all."

now goes to the governor for his signature.

Mistakes in the figures in the new commodity rate bill having been discovered, it was necessary for the senate to re-pass this morning as corrected, and the house will have to take similar action before it can go to the governor.

The senate passed Senator Works' bill, extending the Torrens law to all the counties of the state. It now applies only to the three large counties.

Representative Saari last night had his bill put under the state instead of the county, passed last night. The governor is to make the appointment, but the present inspector is to fill out his present term.

The house judiciary committee recommended for passage the Candler trust-busting bill, with amendments asked by the jobbing houses of Duluth and other parts of the state, to prevent it operating to their disadvantage. It makes all trades made in violation to the trust law invalid, and permits recovery of money paid upon them.

SOPHOMORE CLASS HOP

Banquet and Program of Speeches Followed by Dance.

The high school was the scene of much merry making last night, when the sophomore class of the high school gave its annual spread and dance. The halls were prettily decorated in the yellow and brown colors of the class and the tables, which were set in the lunch room, were brightened by small ferns and palms, artistically arranged.

About 150 of the students and faculty sat down to the dinner. The "feed" was voted the best ever. Dainty hand-painted menu cards were at each plate. The girls acted as waitresses and were always on hand when anything was wanted. The sandwiches, chocolate cake and ice cream were particularly popular and the girls were kept hustling to supply the wants of the boys.

Louis Denfeld, president of the sophomore class, acted as toastmaster and opened the speaking by complimenting his class. He said that he excelled in everything and there was no other in the school that could complement the girls upon their achievements along the lines of domestic science, and he closed with several humorous anecdotes.

Superintendent Denfeld was then called upon. He responded with many compliments to the class and he poked fun at some of the boys for not mixing better with the members of the feminine gender. He said that the sophomores had always impressed him as a cheerful class and he told of the time when he was in the class and inquired too deeply into conditions. He said, "Take things as they are. If you have less than you want, don't complain; if it won't do you any harm." He closed by urging the class to keep up the splendid record which it has thus far made.

Principal Smith when called on, spoke to the students in a humorous vein, telling them many stories which were witty and to the point. He characterized the sophomores as a mathematical class, and he said that he did not easily give up when they strike a hard problem, but work at it until they get it. Mr. Smith then turned the speaking of the great help which the class parties were in increasing the popularity of the school.

Elmer McDevitt, president of the senior class, spoke briefly to the sophomores and then he went home wherever there was anything good to eat and that therefore he had been feeling very much in the mood of the class upon their athletic spirit and the girls upon their elegant. The building itself represents an outlay of about $40,000 and with the grounds the church property is worth well over $50,000.

WISCONSIN MEN INVOLVED.

Rumored That Eau Claire Lumbermen Have Been Indicted.

Boise, Idaho, April 13.—It is persistently rumored that the federal grand jury, which has been here, has indicted United States Senator W. A. Borah for complicity in timber land frauds in this state. It is said also that true bills have been returned against James E. Barber, of Eau Claire, Wis., president of the Barber Lumber company. M. R. Carson, of the same place, L. G. Chapman, resident manager of the lumber company, and other persons are also named in the indictment.

The Barber Lumber company has immense holdings of timber in the southern part of Idaho, and has a million-dollar mill and plant on the Boise river, about six miles above this city. The company's timber holdings have been acquired since 1890, Senator Borah has been attorney for the company for four years.

Various rumors were in circulation last night and today that there was to be a new alignment of counsel for Thaw, and that there might be a re-engagement of Former Judge W. M. K. O'Leary, who was originally retained, and who withdrew rather than agree to submit a defense except that of insanity. Delphin M. Deimas, however, denied that he had withdrawn from the case, or had been superseded. He was the first caller Thaw had at the Tombs today.

"I want to say to the newspaper men," said he, "that I am still Harry K. Thaw's counsel. I am going to see him now, and I may have a statement to make. I have not yet seen him, but I am sure that Thaw had summoned him, or if he had come at the request of Mrs. William Thaw."

Further details of incidents which occurred during the long session of the jurors, continued to filter their way to the public today. One of the jurors is quoted as saying that when the jury

HIDDEN DANGERS.

Nature Gives Timely Warning, That No Little Hint Can Afford To Ignore.

DANGER SIGNAL NO. 1 comes from the kidney secretions. They will warn you when the kidneys are sick. Well kidneys excrete a clear, amber fluid. Sick kidneys send out a thin, pale and foamy, or a thick, red, ill-smelling urine, full of sediment and irregular of passage.

DANGER SIGNAL NO. 2 comes from the back. Back pains, dull and heavy, or sharp and acute, tell you of sick kidneys and warn you of the coming of dropsy, diabetes and Bright's disease. Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys and cure them permanently. Here's Duluth proof:

Moses Leckey, flagman on the Northern Pacific railroad, living at Seventy-first avenue west, West Duluth, Minn., says: "A friend did me a great kindness when he recommended Doan's Kidney Pills to me. He had used them with marked benefit, and on his recommendation I got a box. Essentially treating a case of backache and kidney disorder, which had troubled me severely all last winter, I was cured in my back and loins, and the irregularity of the kidney secretions was most annoying. It prevented sleep and made it impossible to get up in the morning. I used Doan's Ointment for itching hemorrhoids with marked benefit. I am an earnest endorser of both remedies."

was returning to the criminal court building after breakfast, Thursday, the policeman approached them and spoke to three of the jurors. "I thought I would let you know," said one of the jurors, "that the defendant's father was a member of a certain secret order."

The same juror is telling of the first open break among the twelve jurors. It occurred when the jury was deliberating on the case of the first juror, Harry K. Thaw, who was charged with the murder of John F. Paff. The juror said that he was the first to break the silence, and that he was the first to suggest that the jury should adjourn for the night.

"Indeed I do not," was the reply. "You abused me," said Steele. "I think you are very much mistaken. I abused nobody."

"Then don't let me hear you talk like that again, sir, but I shall repeat what I said as often as I choose. Neither you nor any other man can stop me."

"Well, let me tell you that if you do, I'll punch your ear head," said Steele. "I think you are very much mistaken. I abused nobody."

Mrs. Evelyn Thaw reached the Tombs at 10 o'clock, and she was there in consultation with her husband. The three talked together for some time, and then the jury adjourned for the night.

When the new trial would take place no one could express an opinion. District Attorney Jerome declared that there were many other persons accused of the murder, and that the jury should have to take his turn with the rest. As to a possible re-arrest of the juror, the district attorney and counsel for Thaw declared they would make no such move.

The case against Thaw's case in California, who conducted Thaw's case in court, and who, in making his summing up, declared that the jury should almost directly to the "unwritten law," or "dementia Americana," as he termed it, was not in a court when the jury made its report and was discharged.

Attorneys Daniel O'Reilly, Clifford W. Hartshorn, A. Russell Peabody and John B. Gleason acted for Thaw yesterday. It was said that Mr. O'Reilly would have the leading part in the future conduct of affairs.

The story of the proceedings in the jury room, as they were learned last night, is somewhat startling. In the brief court proceedings which brought the famous trial to a close, the juror declared that the jury had considered everything connected with the case except the "unwritten law."

Basing their judgment entirely upon the evidence, they voted either for or against the accused.

PELVIC DISORDERS EFFECTIVE CURE

Men afflicted with diseases of the pelvic regions—such troubles as Stricture, Varicocele, Blood Poison, skin diseases, Piles, Fistula, Hydrocele, Nervous Decline and Male Weakness—should lose no time in having their cases treated rightly by one who knows. VARICOCELE.

Our method of curing Varicocele is the most thorough and approved of modern science. The complications of this peculiar malady, which are often worse than the disease itself, are particularly watched by a trained eye and knowledge of the case. We never dismiss our patients until we have restored the organs affected to their natural strength, size and soundness, removing the nervous system, so that nervousness disappears; all vital drains stopped and functional strength revived. The result: A sound, healthy, robust condition of body and mind. Of the many patients we cure of Varicocele, there are none of them who do not tell me they feel like new men when I see them. Our treatment is careful, and effective and does away with painful surgical operations. You need not lose a day from your employment. We are here till 8 o'clock every evening to attend and look after your needs.

HYDROCELE.

Hydrocele is an accumulation of aqueous fluid in the scrotum, and deprives the organs of all vitality. It results frequently from injury, and is sometimes difficult to distinguish from Rupture or Varicocele. This condition is not uncommon, and it should be taken care of by one competent to handle such cases. Physicians who have treated the disease for years, in the treatment of this affliction sometimes make mistakes in deciding upon the exact nature of a case of this kind, and therefore it would be useless for me to try to make the experienced specialist should be familiar with the variety of diseases to which these organs are subjected, and the reader to distinguish nose correctly for himself. The discriminating eye and touch of the experienced specialist should be brought in such cases if the patient would avoid mistakes and the possibility of ultimate necessity of castration, growing out of neglect or mal-treatment. We thoroughly understand this disease, have treated and cured many cases and we guarantee a lasting cure or your money back.

IMPOTENCY.

In the treatment of Nervous Decline and Male Weakness we have been decidedly successful. We have never failed to rebuil and strength, and after we have cured a case of this kind, there will never again be a sign of the trouble, except brought on by imprudence.

Nervous Decline, Male Weakness, Falling Power, Lost Manhood and many other familiar terms are used to designate the one condition of the nervous system, which is the source of many of the troubles and ailments of men.

against murder in the first degree when they cast their first ballots. The first vote was 8 to 4 in favor of conviction. Then the jury tried to reach common ground upon a verdict of manslaughter in the first degree, the punishment for which ranges to a maximum of twenty years imprisonment. The men in favor of acquittal—largely on the ground of insanity it is said—would not change their ballots, and in the end won over to their side one of the eight who favored conviction. During the nearly forty-eight hours of deliberation, only eight ballots were cast. The jury spent the two nights dozing in their chairs. The early story of what transpired in the jury room from the time the twelve men retired at 5:17 o'clock on Wednesday, until they finally decided, yesterday afternoon, that the prospects of a verdict were too remote to warrant longer discussion of the facts, was told by one of the jurors, Henry C. Harny, No. 5, a manufacturer of pianos.

The final ballot—taken just before the jury reported its disagreement in court—was as follows:

For conviction of murder in the first degree: Messrs. Denning B. Smith, foreman; George Pfaff, No. 2; Charles H. Fleck, No. 3; Harry Harny, No. 4; Charles D. Newton, No. 6; Joseph B. Bolton, No. 11, and Bernard Gerstman, No. 12.

For acquittal on the ground of insanity: Messrs. Oscar A. Plink, No. 4; Henry C. Harny, No. 5; Malcolm S. Fraser, No. 7; Delphin M. Deimas, No. 8; and John S. Deane, No. 10.

WESLEY AND FOURNIER GIVEN LIFE SENTENCES

men, who have exhibited wonderful nerve all through their trials.

Before Fournier was sentenced, John M. Martin, associate counsel for the defendants, gave notice of a motion for a new trial in Fournier's case, and later also in Wesley's case, "to be taken up later."

The sentence imposed on the men is a popular one with the majority of the people here, and thereby affected the case was for the most part founded on circumstantial evidence.

The jury last evening at 5:45, A. M. the foreman announced that they had agreed on a verdict. The jury had agreed that the jury was soon being sent over the city, and in less than fifteen minutes the courtroom was crowded with an eager throng.

As the members of the jury filed into their seats Fournier, who scrutinized the twelve faces, but the jurors looked neither to the right or the left, it was impossible to judge what their finding was.

When Judge Spooner requested the jury to listen to the reading of their finding as it would be recorded, there was breathless silence.

As the jury gave the verdict, the defendant gully as charged in the indictment" rang out clear and distinct, and the courtroom was filled with every person in the room. The little man who has been cool, calm and collected through it all, never giving a sign of nervousness while his life was hanging in the balance, swallowed two or three times, but otherwise he set his teeth and was as quiet as ever.

His iron nerve never deserted him, although convicted of committing one of the most cold-blooded tragedies in the history of the state.

It was with difficulty that the crowd could be dispersed from the courtroom and immediately surrounding the prisoner, after the verdict was read, and Fournier was committed to jail to await sentence.

Wesley and Fournier were both seen in the county jail immediately after Fournier was taken back to his cell.

"I've got nothing to say to any damned newspapers; I think I have been advertised enough already. I've got nothing to fear; I can walk right up to the gallows without flinching."

Fournier was much different, and was courteous. He readily agreed to say something, and replied to the query for a brief statement as to how he felt at the verdict:

"I don't know what to say; it is so sudden. I didn't expect a verdict of guilty. I am innocent of that crime, but they thought me guilty. He was smoking a pipe, and was collected and not at all nervous."

Wesley is cranky and querulous, and uses the most vile language. He is the most obstreperous prisoner in the entire jail.

FIND MANY MISTAKES

Recount of Votes on Amendments Reveals Gross Errors.

Thus Far Tax Amendment Has Lost About 8,000 Votes.

The ballot inspectors appointed by the district court to recount the votes cast for and against the tax amendment at the last general election, have filed another report in the district court, covering the result of their investigations in Hennepin county and the recount at Stillwater in Washington county, and Hastings in Dakota county.

The report shows that on the recount the tax amendment has lost between 3,500 and 3,400 votes in its favor in Hennepin county, while it has lost about 245 votes in Stillwater and something less than 100 votes in Hastings.

The recount to date shows that the tax amendment has lost about 8,000 votes in St. Louis, Ramsey and Hennepin counties, and the two cities in Washington and Dakota counties.

The inspectors have also found that the good roads amendment has gained between 9,000 and 10,000 votes for the same voting precincts, where the recount has been made.

This larger proportionate gain for the good roads amendment is said to be due to the mistakes that were made in Hennepin and Ramsey counties, where some of the election judges ran their count of the votes on the good roads amendment over on a second sheet and then forgot to compute the count on the second sheet in their totals.

The inspectors found that the votes on the two amendments had been wrongly counted in eight out of the nine precincts in Stillwater, Minn.

"The recount is coming out just about as we figured it," said H. H. Phelps, attorney for the two taxpayers who have contested the findings of the state canvassing board that the tax amendment was carried and the good roads amendment was lost.

"We believed that in precincts where there were more votes in favor of the tax amendment than in favor of the good roads amendment, that there had been a mistake in counting the vote, and the result of the recount fully justifies our belief."

The inspectors were unable to find out anything about the vote in the first precinct of the Sixth ward in Minneapolis for the reason that a voting machine which had been used, was shipped away soon after the election. In some of the other precincts where both paper ballots and the voting machine were used, the inspectors could only get the vote by the paper ballots. They found one ballot box in Minneapolis with its seal broken.

A Woman Tells How to Relieve Rheumatic Pains.
I have been a very great sufferer from the dreadful rheumatic pain, for a number of years. I have tried many medicines but never got much relief from any of them. Two years ago, when I bought a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm, I found relief before I had used all of one bottle, but kept on applying it and soon felt like a different woman. Through my friends I learned that many friends have tried and can tell you how wonderfully it has worked. I am now free from the terrible pain. Chamberlain's Pain Balm is a liniment. The relief from pain which it affords is alone worth many times its cost. It makes rest and sleep possible. For sale by all druggists.

RAILROADS FREE FARES ARE CUT OFF

Railroads Will Keep Laborers in Middle West.

Plenty of Work Here
Without Sending Men
West.

Greatly to the satisfaction of local employment agents, the railroads lead-out of Duluth and the Twin Cities have announced that they have discontinued issuing free fare tickets to men for railroad work in the West. The practice has not been indulged in this year to as great an extent as formerly, but this is the first time in a number of years that free fares have been entirely cut off. Contractors in the Middle West are well satisfied with the arrangement, for it will mean less difficulty in securing a sufficient amount of help the coming summer.

Duluth employment agents have rather expected that the free fares out of Duluth to the extreme West would be cut off, but they hardly anticipated that St. Paul and Minneapolis would be treated the same way. They are therefore well pleased to learn that all three cities have been treated alike in the matter. There is plenty of railroad and other work in the territory tributary to Duluth and the Twin Cities to give employment to all the men who are now running loose on the labor market. Just as good wages are being paid here as in the West, so there really is no reason why men should leave this territory, except to satisfy a certain discontent. They seem to want a change of scene occasionally, and move aimlessly about with no other particular object in mind.

That the free fares have been cut off appears to indicate that the roads realize there is apt for a shortage of labor in the Middle West this year which is likely to handicap construction operations in the railroad line, unless steps are taken to remedy the situation. There are plenty of men to be had just now, but a little later in the season, when the spring work opens in earnest, the story will be a different one, and the chances are there will be a marked shortage in the labor market.

The spring is a late one in some of the states where railroad extensions are projected, and therefore the demand for labor is not nearly so heavy as it will be a little later in the season. For example, there is said to still be two and three feet of snow on the ground, greatly hindering construction work.

DIZZINESS

Relieved by Simple Change of Food.

A very common cause of dizziness is the poisonous material that results from imperfect digestion. When the stomach is unable to digest the food because of its being too rich, too greasy, or too indigestible sort, part of it lies in the stomach and ferments, producing gas and acid. These bacteria (microbes) then manufacture more or less poison which is absorbed into the blood and causes dizziness. The food is already digested, and the result is a bad headache, irritability, dullness of intellect and lack of energy.

Don't get into the habit of taking medicine for such a condition, or if you've formed the habit, quit it. Look to your food as a N. Y. man did. He says:

"For six years I suffered with acute attacks of indigestion and dyspepsia, which usually affected me directly after eating, or within an hour, I would become dizzy with a sensation of being about to faint."

"These attacks usually lasted two or three minutes, sometimes accompanied with vomiting. (The effects of poison produced by undigested food and bacteria). Between these acute attacks I suffered much pain from indigestion and bloating."

"I tried about every known remedy for my troubles, but got only temporary relief. Then I tried Grape-Nuts. This food certainly commended itself to a delicate appetite with a gentle persuasiveness that is peculiar to itself."

"Grape-Nuts food agreed with me from the first. I am now entirely cured, and I most heartily recommend it to all who suffer from stomach trouble."

"The nutritive value of Grape-Nuts is shown by the fact that, as an Electrical Machine, I eat nothing but Grape-Nuts and a piece of toast for breakfast, then keep on my feet all day without getting fatigued."

"I consider this food has more health in it. More strength-giving than any other cereal food I have eaten, and more every day health, than any other cereal food I have eaten. It gives me no constipation. Battle Creek, Mich. Read the little book, 'The Road to Wellville,' in pinks. 'There's a reason.'"

ROOSEVELT IS NOT INDORSED

Missouri State Legislature Condemns Policies of the Administration.

Jefferson City, Mo., April 13.—Through the anxiety of the Republican minority in the house to entree President Roosevelt and boost the third term idea, they overreached themselves, and the Democratic majority not only denounced the methods of Mr. Roosevelt and the Republican national committee in extorting money from territorial Standard Oil and other monopolies and trusts, but practically endorsed W. J. Bryan for the presidency.

The original resolution endorsing the president for his courageous war on corporate greed was so amended to call upon him to cause the money extorted from Harriman and the corporations for the benefit of the Republican campaign fund to be restored to them and then tabled by a vote of 39 to 18.

Following this a resolution was adopted by a viva voce vote declaring that the corporations had furnished the campaign funds to elect Mr. Roosevelt, as charged by Judge Alton B. Parker, and that in view of the Harriman episode the Missouri legislature has lost all confidence in the president and looks to W. J. Bryan as the man upon whom the people must depend to compel the corporations to treat the public fairly.

PRICES ARE STEADILY ADVANCING ON REALTY

Owners of Duluth Property Are Alert to the Future Possibilities and Buyers Must Adjust Themselves to the Conditions—J. T. Michaud Buys D. T. Adams' Homestead and Adjoining Residence Property for $20,000.

A strong demand for improved property has marked the week in real estate circles. With all the negotiations under way there have not been so very many sales closed but the transfers show that Duluth realty is changing hands right along and the brokers report a very satisfactory business. Buyers are looking for properties on their valuations of a year ago, and they are not meeting with a great deal of success. It requires but a little inquiry to establish beyond any doubt the fact that prices have stiffened and that so far as any bargain is concerned, there are practically none on the market. One prominent real estate man says that at the present time the buyers are attempting to adjust themselves to the higher scale of prices, that it will be necessary for them to do so and selling will be even more brisk when they shall have come to a full realization that Duluth property will no longer be offered at bargain prices. That there have been some bargain sales in the past is a matter of common knowledge, but those who are in close touch with the present conditions say that the time has passed when owners must make a sacrifice and prices are known where offers have been submitted on local property at the prices asked by the owners. Year ago, prices at which they would have been glad to have sold at that time, but the offers have been refused. The tendency toward stiffer prices seems to affect most those properties which have always commanded good prices by reason of location. One instance might be cited where an offer was submitted this week on a Duluth property which could have been purchased a year ago for $15,000, but for which the owner now asks $20,000 and is in no hurry to sell at that figure. The fact that there is so much inquiry, in spite of the tendency toward higher prices is claimed to argue well for the future real estate market of Duluth. Investors, and even people buying homes or lots for improvement, are always satisfied to buy on a rising market when there is a good demand, rather than to buy cheap when there is no demand. That the announcement of the site of the new steel plant will be followed by one of the liveliest realty markets that Duluth has experienced for some time is generally claimed by all those interested in the real estate business. They are not expecting a so-called "boom movement," but one that will be fully warranted by the conditions and which will continue. It will mean a new and greater era of home building and will probably be most marked in or near the locality where the steel plant is finally located. Every real estate agency that handles upriver lands is said to have received numerous inquiries, but thus far there have been no sales. It is stated on good authority that the local abstract companies have been fairly swamped with orders for abstracts on St. Louis river property and West Duluth property, within the past few weeks.

The transfer was recorded this week of Col. C. H. Graves' homestead at the northwest corner of Third street and First avenue west to L. E. Briggs who is said to represent a corporation that has taken over the property. The Graves property has been considered as one of the finest of its kind in Duluth and the new owners are said to have under contemplation a plan for a large brick flat building on a portion of the ground, while the residence now on the west side of the property will be turned around to face Third street. The location is generally conceded to be a favorable one for a flat building. The deeds show a consideration of $25,000 paid for the four Third street lots and $10,000 for the three lots on Fourth street.

One of the largest of the recent deals in East end residence property was closed this week when J. T. Michaud purchased from the Adams Security company, for $20,000, the Adams residence and the adjoining brick house on the upper side of First street between Seventh and Eighth avenues east. The property has been considered as some of the best in the East end. It comprises a frontage of 107 feet on First street. The description and considerations paid are as follows: Lots 6 and 7, Portland place, $5,000; lots 8 and 9 and part of 10, Portland place, $12,000. Additional interest is given this deal for the reason that all the property on the upper side of First street between Seventh and Eighth avenues east has changed hands within the past two years. The Adams flats were sold last year and St. Elmo flats in 1905.

Another of the principal sales of Duluth real estate that was recorded this week, and which has not been previously reported, was that of the brick residence property on the lower side of Third street, between Third and Fourth avenues west, to Martin Rosen, a local stock broker, for $10,500. The property was sold by Mrs. Ella Parker. The property is described as lot 68, West Third street. This is the third large purchase of Duluth realty that Mr. Rosen has made within the past few months and it is said to be an indication of his confidence in local real estate as a permanent investment.

Representing Eastern owners, Stryker, Manley & Blair have sold to M. Kerner of West Duluth, who is represented by J. J. Frey, the west half of the old Red Cross hospital property at the northeast corner of Fifty-third avenue west and Ramsey street. The consideration was $5,250. The property is described as lot 12, block 191, West Duluth, Seventh division. The same firm reports the sale of the residence property at 218 West Eighth street from Robert Kilgore to E. Nilson for $1,200; lot 7, block 34, Glen Avon, Second division, to the Glen Avon Presbyterian church society and two lots on Grand avenue, in Oneco, to local parties represented by W. E. Kern for $500 each.

R. P. Dowse of the William C. Sargent company, in the Providence building, reports a very active inquiry with a number of deals negotiating that are likely to be closed soon. Mr. Dowse says that the tendency toward stiffer prices has caused a beginning of negotiations anew in some cases, as the buyers will have to adapt themselves to the new condition of things.

The Alfred Merritt homestead on the hillside, in Oneco, was sold early this week for $10,000, to parties whose names have not been made public. It is rumored that the purchaser is a railroad company, but this cannot be confirmed. The property comprises the residence, built about thirteen years ago, and four acres of land.

Alfred Merritt has sold Nels Johnson a residence property on the upper side of Fifth street, between Fourth and Forty-first avenues west, for $1,500. The property is located in Chandler park.

Herman W. Toewe has purchased from Lars M. Johnson, for $1,800, a residence property on the east side of Twenty-fifth avenue west, between Fifth and Sixth streets. The property is located in block 148 Second division.

J. H. Sherwood has sold E. C. Gridley the southeast corner of Seventh street and Eleventh avenue east, for $7,025. The property has a frontage of 100 feet on Seventh street. It is described as lots 1 to 4, block 138, Portland.

John Skomars has sold Andrew Sundelin a residence property on the west side of Twenty-fifth avenue west, between Second and Third streets, for $2,500. The property is located in block 88, Second division.

Fred E. Kohagen is moving his frame store and flat building at the southwest corner of Seventh avenue east and Third street to the rear of the lots facing the avenue. It is understood that he will erect a large brick flat building on the corner.

The following were the transfers recorded during the week:

Duluth Home & Garden Co. to M. A. Lehnlein, lot 6, block 8, Chester Park, $300.

R. Gray et al. to Peter J. Duluth, lot 11, block 31, West Duluth, $200.

PROPERTY OF THE

SATURDAY, APRIL 13, 1907.

DEAL FOR THE COPPER BUTTE

Arizona Mine, in Which Many Lake Superior People Are Interested, May be Bought by the Lewisohn Syndicate.

Phoenix, Ariz., April 13.—J. Parke Channing, general manager of the Lewisohn syndicate, is negotiating for the purchase of the Copper Butte group of claims near Winkelman.

Channing last week went to the property with Capt. Roberts of Duluth, George W. Wallace of Detroit and Walter H. Reed of New York. Roberts and Wallace are interested in the Copper Butte mine.

Coming from Globe, where he arranged for the purchase of the Lewisohn Mining company's property for the Lewisohn syndicate at a price of $2,000,000 Channing left at once for the eastern end of Pinal county.

For several months the Lewisohns have had the purchase of the Copper Butte under consideration, and it is believed this trip of Channing will result in one of the biggest deals yet made in the district that surrounds Winkelman.

The Copper Butte group of claims is located not far from the Saddle Mountain and Dripping Spring properties, the latter having been sold recently to C. E. Finney and associates for $250,000. The Saddle Mountain is now producing two carloads of copper matter a week.

Channing and his party spent several days on the Copper Butte property. Upon this trip depends the result of the negotiations that have been under way some time with the Lewisohns and the owners of the claims.

Heavy investments are being made by the Lewisohns in the Copper Butte property, their purchase of the Inspiration company's claims near Globe for $5,000,000, being but one of a number of large deals in which they have been the buyers.

Channing represents in this transaction what is known as the Lewisohn Exploration & Mining company, of which he is general manager, and Martin H. Vogel chief counsel.

The company was organized Jan. 5, 1906, with a capital stock of $5,000,000 as it is planned to increase to $50,000,000 as properties are acquired.

The plan of promotion and finance is somewhat similar to that of the American Securities company. It is supposed this new company will become a holding corporation for the interests of the various Lewisohn properties.

Among the big mines that are now owned by the Lewisohns are the Tennessee Copper company, Nevada Consolidated and several others, including properties that are being bought for the Lewisohns, and has been in Arizona several times in their interests.

With the Guggenheims already interested near Winkelman, and the probability that the Lewisohns will shortly follow suit, that district promises to become one of the biggest producing in Arizona.

Channing returned East after visiting the Copper Butte, but will be in Arizona again in a few months, visiting both Globe and Phoenix on mining business. It is possible that if the deal for the Copper Butte is not closed at once it will be when he again comes to this section.

Mining men in Phoenix and throughout Pinal county are much interested in the visit of Channing, and believe that it means much to the mineral development of this section of the territory.

COEUR D'ALENE YIELD HEAVY

Seven Companies Have Produced $1,597,500 Since First of Year—Report That Success Will Distribute Another $20,000 Next Month.

Wallace, Idaho, April 13.—The big producing mines of the Coeur d'Alene since Jan. 1, 1907, have paid in dividends a total of $1,597,500. These figures are from the following seven companies, with the amount each has paid in dividends: Federal Mining & Smelting company, $510,000; Bunker Hill & Sullivan, $540,000; Hercules, $288,000; Snowstorm, $80,000; Hecla, $140,000; Success, $20,000; and Monitor, $15,000.

Of these the Snowstorm and Monitor are strictly copper mines, the Success is a producer of lead and zinc and the others are all lead-silver producing companies. There are other mines in the district to the effect that the Pittsburg Lead Mining company, which is operating the Black Cloud mine, is producing a little more than two miles north from Wallace, on Nine Mile creek, is about to enter into a lease with a class of mines in this district. The mill is running continuously, and rapidly making concentrates, and is producing a large amount of clean shipping ore is being marketed from the mine. Some say the company will earn not something like $100,000 this month, but these figures cannot be confirmed.

In all probability the first net earnings of the company, rather than the dividends, will be shared in improvements and expansion of its mill and mining facilities. It is a known fact that a great body of the richest lead-silver ore in this section of the country has been discovered in the California, and is being mined.

The Stewart, at Wardner, is another mine sure to develop fast.

Spokane, Wash., April 13.—"Another $20,000 dividend will be paid next month by the Success mine," said J. L. Buller of Oakesdale, Wash., who is one of the principal stockholders in this property and the Monitor. "Two dividends have been paid this year, $20,000 in each instance. One was paid in January and another in March, and the stockholders would have drawn another one in February had it not been for the car shortage, which prevented the concentrates of the mine being shipped."

"A fine body of ore has been opened up in the lower tunnel. The shoot here is about 100 feet wide and a half mile wide, and is especially rich in zinc. The ore assays 45 per cent zinc and 20 per cent lead. This is at a depth of about 600 feet. The mill is giving excellent satisfaction, and is producing about fifty tons of concentrates daily. Most of the zinc has been shipped to Joplin, Mo., for treatment."

"There may be a constant stream of ore from the other ones of the Coeur d'Alene in that it separates the zinc concentrates from the lead, and as a result to get rid of the zinc instead of attempting to save it."

H. H. Williams, of the Cobalt, who is an original owner in the Hercules mine at Burke, Idaho, is the principal stockholder in the Success.

NEW ONTARIO SILVER FIELD

District is About Twenty-Five Miles West of Cobalt and Extends Many Miles North Up the Montreal River.

Toronto, Ont., April 13.—A new silver field which promises to be a rival of Cobalt has been found in the New Ontario wilderness, according to Prof. W. G. Miller, provincial geologist, who has just returned from an exploration trip of some weeks' duration. This new district is about twenty-five miles to the west of Cobalt, and extends for many miles north up the Montreal river. Excellent discoveries of blende and smallite were examined by the professor. Already there is a small camp in the vicinity of Lady Evelyn lake, but the entire known area is being speedily overrun with prospectors. Another camp of growing importance is that of Elk lake, where some good native silver has been found. The discoveries so far are not of such sensational values as those first made at Cobalt, but the rock formation is just the same, and the indications show the same peculiarity of the older district. Prof. Miller believes the belief that the ore around the Montreal river is of a lower grade than the ore of Cobalt, but is of great value. Railway facilities can be quickly provided for the new region, for the government line is now within eighteen miles of Elk lake. Just as soon as the mining community gives proof that the extension is needed it will be built. A New York man, John Hammel, and a party spent almost the entire winter west of the Montreal river. They explored some sixty-five miles of a silver ridge and staked over thirty claims. These discoveries were

MINING IN THE BLACK HILLS

Crown Property in Horneblende District Sold to Eastern Property—Bullion Property, Under Option, Has Much Ore Blocked Out.

Hill City, S. D., April 13.—A number of deals have been made lately which will mean much to mining in this vicinity. James McKie has sold the Crown property, situated in the Horneblende district, to Eastern parties who have organized a stock company. Mr. McKie accepted stock in the new company as part payment. This is a free milling proposition, with a strong ledge, which shows excellent values, and is considered one of the best prospects in the central hills. The new management will do extensive development work, with a view to erecting a mill as soon as the supply of ore justifies it.

The Bullion property at Keystone is under bond to A. R. Roosevelt of New York, who is acting for Eastern parties, one of whom is said to be his cousin, President Roosevelt. This property adjoins the Holy Terror, which has cost, as has a tunnel averaging 100 feet in width, and consisting of quartz, talc, schist and spar, with a large percentage of iron pyrites. A tunnel has been run some 400 feet below the apex of the vein, following the wall for a distance of 500 feet and crosscut at intervals. Another tunnel below the apex 100 feet

THE BUTTE OUTPUT

Amounted to 30,576,095 Pounds of Copper—Butte Coalition Daily Production Raised to 1,500 Tons—North Butte and Anaconda Also Materially Increased Their Output.

Butte, Mont., April 13.—Montana produced in March about 31,700,000 pounds of copper, to which the Butte district contributed 30,576,095. The production during the last two weeks or ten days of the month the Butte mines yielded at a rate of about 31,000,000 pounds per month, some of the mines increasing their output of ore very materially after the fuel and transportation shortages had been relieved. The Butte Coalition company, for instance, raised its daily output of ore from 800 to 1,500 tons, at which latter figure the output by that company is to be maintained for some time and later increased. The North Butte and Anaconda companies also materially increased their ore output. At present the two Amalgamated smelters are receiving about 600 tons of ore daily. The yield of copper per ton of ore was slightly lower in March than in February and preceding months, due to the policy of the Amalgamated company to mine a lower grade of ore than formerly. It is gradually making it possible to mine at a profit ore that several years ago was considered as waste. The various companies contributed to the production in March as follows:

Company.	Tons Aver.	Total of yield lbs. of ore per ton Cop'r
Boston & Montana	111,600	24,828,400
Anaconda	117,800	25,481,000
Butte & Boston	14,725	3,971,800
Washoe	12,400	3,100,000
Parrot	12,000	3,024,000
Coalition	42,400	10,720,000
North Butte	37,200	9,320,000
Original	2,900	725,000
East Butte	2,900	725,000
Pittsburg & Montana	2,900	725,000
La France	1,750	443,750
Miscellaneous	4,875	1,218,750
Totals	414,470	105,576,095

A report from the property of the Amalgamated company is to the effect that a vein of red oxide of copper has been struck by lessers at a depth of six feet in the Canyon claim, one of the original group. Some samples of the ore assay as high as 80 per cent in the red oxide of copper. The vein is said to be about 50 per cent. The shaft on the Canyon is a short distance south-west of the shaft which the company is sinking. That section of the district is full of small veins of red oxide of copper, but the one found in the Canyon is wider than the entire lot combined. The ore is heavy in copper, and if the vein reaches the 400 feet rock in which it is sinking is soft, however, and the 400-foot work should be reached in a few days. May, as the company is prepared to conduct the work rapidly. Heavy shipments from the Thompson mine, northeast of the main shaft, continue the average being close to 100 tons a day. The ore body is holding out all right, and even with such an output an impression seems to have been made on it.

Operations in the main workings of the Union mine, north of Winkelman, have been suspended on account of the showing of phreatic in fair proportions was encountered. Just as soon as the frost is removed operations will be resumed.

RECORD DIVIDEND FIGURES

Announced by Copper Companies for First Quarter of Year—Twenty-Five Companies Distribute $21,097,354—The Dividends Paid to Date Amount to 97.4 Per Cent.

During the first quarter of the current year the record high prices for copper have resulted in the payment of $21,097,354 in dividends by twenty-five companies which are directly interested in mining of large shares in the United States. These twenty-five concerns, the Mining World says, have declared since their incorporation dividends amounting to the vast total of $24,739,135. Their issued capitalization, varying from $100,000 to $1,000,000, amounts to $38,988,500, indicating that the dividends paid so far are equivalent to 64 per cent.

Of immediate interest is what will be the dividend of $20 per share upon which the shareholders of the Success mine, Calumet & Hecla stock of $20 per share, will receive $400,000 in dividends. Since incorporation, in 1871, this company has declared dividends of $400,000, which is equivalent to 4.05 per cent on the capitalization of $2,400,000. Since 1871, the company has paid $1,400,000 in dividends, and earning $8 in dividends annually, yields about 8 per cent, or very nearly the same as Calumet & Hecla at its present market value.

Since the organization of the Success mine, which has declared dividends of $400,000, the large total of $24,739,135, which has been increased from $75,000,000 to $1,000,000,000.

There is some speculation as to the position of the copper market during the next few months. Many traders believe that the price of copper will be somewhat lower in the future. The heavy decline in the foreign market last week has been the result of a number of factors, including the metal contained in ore and matte, against $2.20 tons in London at 25.50 cents per pound the lowest point in some months. Subsequently, however, there was a recovery, and on March 25, the last trading day of the month, the quotation was 20.97 cents per pound. The average price of standard copper in London in March was 21.00 cents per pound, which compares with 22.10 cents per pound in February, and 22.60 cents per pound in January. The average for the three months is 21.39 cents per pound, against 21.21 cents per pound in the first quarter of 1906; showing an increase of 17.8 per cent.

For the quarter ending March 31, the monthly average prices were 21.40 cents per pound in February, against 21.20 cents in February last year, an increase of 1.9 per cent. For the quarter ending March 31, the monthly average prices were 21.40 cents per pound in February, against 21.20 cents in February last year, an increase of 1.9 per cent.

Export trade, principally to Holland, France, Great Britain and Italy, is somewhat less than last year. The exports for the first quarter, this year, are estimated at 410,000 long tons, as against 450,000 tons in 1906, showing a decrease of 9 per cent, or about 17 per cent. Imports, on the other hand, are increased, the quantity this year being 28,000 long tons in the first quarter, against 25,000 tons in 1906, an increase of 12 per cent. The bulk of these imports was from Mexico and Great Britain.

REPORTS OF RICH STRIKES

In Fairview and Wonder Cause Great Rush Across the Bleak Desert—No Person Can Guess at Extent of the Mineral Zone—Demand for Miners.

Reno, Nev., April 13.—Reno is a seething caldron of excitement over recent reports of rich silver and gold strikes in Fairview and Wonder. Embryo Mackays, Fairs, Brooks and O'Briens are crowding the trains for Fallon, forty miles east on the Southern Pacific, whence they form an almost continuous line over the bleak desert along the forty-two miles of old government road to Fairview.

There may be a constant stream of ore from the other ones of the Coeur d'Alene in that it separates the zinc concentrates from the lead, and as a result to get rid of the zinc instead of attempting to save it."

Fairview directly north, and is no doubt a part of the same mineral belt. Here the Nevada Wonder Mining company, which is controlled by the Fourth National bank people of Philadelphia, who also own the Thompson & Goldfield railway, have opened a vein eight feet wide, and after only six months' development, are producing 100 tons of ore a day. The mine is situated in the Black Hills, from which the Hearst estate derives no small part of its income. The Wonder district is already rated a mining giant. The names of such producing mines as the Jack Pot, Rich Gulch, Snider and Wasp, Vulture, Christmas and Queen are in everybody's mouth. They were only "prospects" a few weeks ago.

Fairview is situated in Churchill county, forty-two miles from the town of Fallon, and is a part of the same mineral belt of the Southern Pacific recently completed from Hazen, a station on the main, line sixteen miles north of Fallon.

LAKE SUPERIOR IRON MINES

Operations at Section 21 Mine at Ishpeming Are Suspended for the Season—Pickands, Mather & Co. to Make Improvements at the Baltic and Caspian Mines.

Ishpeming, Mich., April 13.—(Special to The Herald).—Except that the pumps will continue in commission, keeping the underground workings free of water, operations at the Steel corporation's Section 21 mine, at Ishpeming, are entirely suspended for the season. The order closing down the property came as a great surprise to the general public on the Marquette range, but it has developed that the decision of the company had been under consideration for some weeks, and that a similar curtailment is contemplated at other mines producing the same grade of ore. Indeed, 150 men already have been laid off indefinitely at the Steel corporation's Regent group at Negaunee. Those affected at Section 21 number 250. Over-production dictated the action taken in both instances.

Enormous piles of ore are in stock at Section 21. The tonnage is the largest in the history of the property. It fills all the available stockpile ground, and some of it has been mined for so many years that it is moss-covered. Section 21 mine's ores are not only high in phosphorus, but in moisture as well, and there is a limit to their use. All the Lake Superior ranges are productive in large degree of ore of this class. On the Mesabi the lower grade ores are not yet reached, the capacity of the Bessemer grades. In the big steam shovel properties all the ore is taken, as there can be no selection. Therefore, these mines produce a large amount of non-Bessemer, and the company's basic plants have not yet reached the capacity where all of this product can all be cared for.

At the Regent group, too, there is a very large accumulation of non-Bessemer ore, some of which was brought to the surface several seasons ago. With 150 men discharged, there is still a force of 225 at work, but it is by no means assured that there will not be a further material reduction. The shipments from the property last season were confined to the ore hoisted, only a few carloads having been shipped. Towards the close of the season a steam shovel was employed in making additional stockpile room. All of this space was filled with ore during the winter. Plans have been drawn for new buildings to be erected on the Regent range, and it was announced a short time ago that the contracts would soon be let, but there is possibility now that this work will be deferred. Considerable of the material to be used in the construction of these buildings has already arrived, and has been distributed to the several properties where improvements are to be made. It has been arranged, also, to erect a new boiler house, pumping station and "dry" at Section 21, but this

GLOBE DISTRICT BOOMING

Big Sulphide Ore Body on Fourteenth Level of Old Dominion Made the Globe Consolidated People Bullish.

Globe, Ariz., April 13.—A further substantial advance of mining operations was recorded during the past week in the Globe district, establishing more surely Globe's claim to being the most active and prosperous mining camp in the Southwest. Reports from every part of the district are very encouraging as to the prospects for the future. The first strike of ore in the Globe shaft of the Globe Consolidated is not far distant.

The discoveries in the Old Dominion tend to make the holders on Globe Consolidated very bullish on their property. They are pushing their shafts for depth and believe that the Old Dominion will find their best values there. The company has a good showing of the Globe & Boston property, but is pining its faith to the Globe shaft. Sinking of the Globe shaft has progressed at the rate of about 100 feet per month, and it is now down about 600 feet. A large shaft has been cut at the 600 level, where an auxiliary shaft has been sunk. Work has again been resumed at the mine and at the Great Eastern mine, which was begun, a delay being caused by a shortage of fuel oil.

Another strike of sulphide ore is reported from the Gibson mine, and the showing of phreatic in fair proportions was encountered. Just as soon as the frost is removed operations will be resumed.

Operations in the main workings of the Union mine, north of Winkelman, have been suspended on account of the showing of phreatic in fair proportions was encountered. Just as soon as the frost is removed operations will be resumed.

CANANEA MINES LOOK WELL

Discovery of Black Sulphides in the Cananea-Bisbee—Reduction of Ore Production Costs at the Greene-Cananea.

Cananea, Mex., April 13.—No week passes in the Cananea district without its encouraging features and its showing of headway made along all lines. The last week was one of particularly favorable character in this respect. Discovery of black sulphides in important extent in the drift of the Cananea-Bisbee on the 150 level and discoveries of ore of similar character in drifts of the Calumet & Sonora and South Cananea ten considerable aid to enthusiasm entertained regarding the extent of the mineral zone of the camp and its trend uniformly to the south. At the mines of the Greene-Cananea development has continued with attendance both in the Consolidated and the Central workings of more and more ore. Greene workings can be said to be in a new shape throughout. They are cutting strong and steady and it will not be long until they will make decided additions of rich ore from properties which have been opening up in the strongest kind of ground, notably the Vets 8 and 10.

Manager Cole of the Greene has returned from his trip to Hermosillo, and General Superintendent Ricketts of Greene-Cananea is expected soon from his visit to Duluth, where he had a conference with Thomas F. Cole the study he has made of the Greene-Cananea. This will have subsequently determined upon. The meeting is altogether likely to have been fruitful of highly important conclusions in regard to the needs of the company in Cananea. This will doubtless develop in activities directed by Dr. Ricketts following his return.

At the concentrator preparations are being made for the new process of working out the tailings of the plant which gives every promise of resulting in a

WARREN DISTRICT'S STRIKE

Not Expected to be of Long Duration—Copper Production at the Smelters in March Greatest on Record There.

Bisbee, Ariz., April 13.—Fully 60 per cent of the miners in the Warren district went on a strike Wednesday morning because the companies refused to recognize the Western Federation of Miners. The strike affects the Copper Queen, Calumet & Arizona, Superior & Pittsburg, Shattuck, Deerp, American-Saginaw, Warren and Volcanic & Arizona. While it is not believed the trouble will be of long duration, the chances of an immediate settlement are not bright and the strike may last a couple of weeks. It is believed that the bulk of the miners are willing to work and as the companies are paying higher wages than in almost any other mining camp in the country, the men will hardly hold out long for their demand that the union be recognized. On this point will be decided by new yield, according to the statements of the local officials.

The work of aligning the Spray shaft of the Copper Queen which has been in progress for the past ninety days is completed. All that remains before hoisting at this shaft is resumed is the lumbering of the engines which are in place on foundation beds and have been renovated and altered to suit the needs of the plant. The old cylinders were taken to the machine shops and the Douglas smelters and relined, making them practically new. Hoisting in a light way was resumed last week, and thus one of the business arteries of the Copper Queen company is again in commission. The output should be materially increased now that this shaft is again working.

The Spray, one of the older shafts of this company, became decidedly out of plumb and was considered unsafe by the engineers. Constant working of the ground adjacent to it caused numerous weak spots and consequent shifting of the ground, so much so that it became impracticable to run the cages below the 500-level.

Among other improvements at the Spray is a new steel gallow frame which replaces the old wooden frame that has been service since the sinking of the shaft.

It is very hard to wait the develop-

NORTH BUTTE COMPANY

Now Owns All Its Properties, Having Made Last Payments on Two Good Mines—Will Sink Berlin Shaft Soon.

Butte, Mont., April 13.—The North Butte Mining company has made its final payments on the John Emmett and Lynchburg claims, which finishes up the payments on all properties it had under lease and bond. The company now owns outright the Speculator, Adirondack, Copper Dream, Edith May, Miner's Union, Jessie, Ground Hog, Berlin, Snowball, Gustavus, the two Gems, Eva, Leaf, Marguerite and Hancock; a controlling interest in the Cyclopus and a minority interest in the Emily and Edith May, all of which are paid for in cash.

It is the intention of the company to begin sinking the shaft on the Berlin in a short time, preparations for the work having been finished. The property will be equipped with the engine that did duty on the Speculator, the main shaft of the company, prior to the installation of the new shaft. This engine is a good one, having been used for years in hoisting heavy loads and is good for 250 feet. The shaft is now cutting a large station at the 1,800-foot mark in its main shaft on the Speculator, and will resume sinking as soon as the work is finished. It will also cut out skip pockets on this level. The shaft is really close to the 1,900-foot mark, but that one of the main outlets for the ore of the properties. It will do double service, however. The crosscut which the company started from the 1,600-foot level of the Jessie some time ago is now advancing north, work in it having been resumed about the first of the month, and will eventually be connected with the Berlin shaft, which will afford an avenue of escape for the men in case of accident in the depths, and give the entire openings below an abundance of fresh air.

The face of this crosscut is not so far advanced as has been reported. In fact, it has not yet entered Berlin ground, notwithstanding the wild reports outside to the effect that an immense vein of ore has been intersected by the opening.

It is a well known fact that the Berlin group contains ore, and plenty of it, but its grade is not yet known. It is likely that it is just as good as that contained in the veins of the Jessie and Edith May, but this must be demonstrated. It is a fact that the north end of the Berlin shaft is used for skip stations in the 1,800-foot mark in its main shaft on the Speculator, and will resume sinking as soon as the work is finished. It will also cut out skip pockets on this level. The shaft is really close to the 1,900-foot mark, but that one of the main outlets for the ore of the properties. It will do double service, however. NEWS FROM THE NORMAL

Passage of Summer Term Bill Will Benefit Duluth School.

Seniors Are Preparing for Their Annual Class Play.

The students and friends of the normal were interested to hear that the bill providing for continuous sessions in the five normal schools passed successfully, Friday, April 5.

Eight years ago, Marquette, Winona and St. Cloud held continuous sessions but the legislature did not provide appropriations, and they were discontinued.

The purpose of the continuous sessions is for the benefit of those who teach during the regular school year and wish to study during the summer time. In this way many will be able to take sufficient work to gain first grade teaching certificates.

Until the recent passage of the bill, the summer school sessions were provided for out of the state summer school fund. The summer term will probably begin June 25, and will be twelve weeks in duration.

The sub-committees on normal schools in both houses of the state legislature were visitors at the Duluth normal Saturday, April 6. They arrived in the city Saturday morning and were met by the normal representatives, Dr. L. W. Kline and H. C. Strong, both of the normal faculty. Duluth citizens, who were interested in their visit, met the guests at the Commercial club, where they were entertained at lunch. In the afternoon they visited the normal and Washburn hall. This committee will visit the five normals of the state, determine their needs and make recommendations to the legislature. In addition to the regular annual appropriation of $30,000, the Duluth normal asks for $5,000, to be used in furnishing the attic of Washburn hall; $2,000 for fire-escape; $2,000 for finishing the grounds, grading and such; $1,500 for general repairs, and $750 for the benefit of the normal library. It also seeks to receive, for the year following, the same amount for the library. Representative N. F. Hugo of Duluth headed the party. He is chairman of the house committee on normal schools. The other members of the committee were Representatives J. T. Lewis, Lake Crystal, Minn.; Fred Burdett, Gibson, P. C. Carlton of Medford, Representing William L. McQuade of Mapleton accompanied the committee, although he is not a member of it.

Those who are in the east of the senior play are putting hard work on it, as there is comparatively little time left between now and the close of the spring term, June 12, when commencement takes place. The play selected is "The Rivals," the Sheridan comedy. The cast is as follows:

Sir Anthony Absolute, Nellie Flynn; Capt. Jack Absolute, son of Sir Anthony; Mildred Stanger, Sir Lucius O'Rigger, Kathleen Kelley; Fag, valet of Capt. Jack, Ella Hall; Mrs. Malaprop, Mrs. Malaprop; Lydia Langulish, niece of Mrs. Malaprop; Elrose Taylor; Lucy, maid of Lydia Langulish; Claire Sullivan.

The date has not been decided upon for the play, but it is thought that it will be given around the first of June. Miss Carey, Miss Ely and Miss Post of the faculty are training students who take part in the play.

Mr. Hubbard of the chemistry and physics department went to Virginia, Minn., Friday, April 5, to act as judge in a debate between Virginia and Ada. Mr. Hubbard went in Mr. Robinson's absence. The latter was called to Minneapolis to attend a meeting of the normal presidents.

The normal has had, during the past few weeks, many visitors on account of spring vacations. Former students of the school, who are teaching in and out of the city were among the visitors. Friday last, Miss Violet Robinson, one of last year's graduates, president of the class of '06, was a visitor. Miss Robinson is teaching in the second grade at Cloquet, Minn.

The freshmen held a meeting with their class councillor, Miss Post, on Thursday.

Monday, during chapel exercises, Mr. Bolanau spoke of the passage of the bill granting continuous sessions in the five normal schools. Wednesday the students made out lists of friends to whom circulars giving information of the summer school will be sent.

NEW RELIGION IS DUE.

Universal Faith is Predicted by Professor Schmidt of Cornell.

Ithaca, N. Y., April 12.—That a crisis is approaching in the religious belief of mankind and that a new faith is coming, is the opinion of Nathaniel Schmidt, professor of Oriental and Biblical history at Cornell. In the April number of the Cornell Era, he declares that it is in the spiritual life that great revolutions take place and that they are preceded by important changes in the physical environment, the social organization and the interpretation of the world.

"The remnants of primitive ideas and practices are disappearing," says Prof. Schmidt. "Less importance is attached to sacred days, sacred places and such things. Sacred books are not regarded as standards of our own faith and practice."

"The new faith will seek for that which is universal in man's belief, not rooting out or tearing down one form of creed, but in order to impose another. It will recognize that all religions are the same and will reverently accept of the best of each and turn them into a new aspect of the eternal truth."

It will honor the reason, while careful to keep its light trimmed by cultivation of the heart and will. It will recognize the sovereignty of ethics. It will be vital, touching life on every side, growing with the growth of man's mind, recognizing the increasing delicacy and power of his artistic sense and the deepening consciousness of the mystery of religion."

With the exception of the class of 1905 the present senior class of the high school will be the largest that has ever graduated from that institution. There are ninety-nine members in the class, most of whom will receive their diplomas this spring. If they succeed in passing their examinations.

The class entered the school in the fall of 1905, about 30 strong, but as is the case with every class many have quit school since then, either to work or to go to other institutions.

The class of '07 has always played a prominent part in athletics and other school affairs since the members made their debut as freshmen, and they have always been great favorites with their instructors.

Class spirit has never been lacking and the many social affairs of the class have invariably been great successes.

Most of the students have already laid plans for the future. A large proportion of them will go away to college, and many of the boys will work a year before going away to school.

Some of the girls will go to the normal school, where they will learn to be teachers, and others have different walks of life blocked out.

The following students are enrolled in the class: Ethel Adams, Hubert Alexander, Henry Anderson, Sidney Anderson, Frank Boerner, Lucile Bradley, William Burris, May Campbell, Kenneth Calk, Evelyn Cash, Cassie Clark, Verner Claypool, Devitt.

Alison Clifford, Ruth Coffin, Edward Cole, Marguerite Culkin, Don De Vey, Katherine Dillon, Millie Dinham, Fern Doremus, Gerald Eddy, Gertrude Ellison, Ralph Ely, Marie Ert, David Fieldman, Gertrude Guerin, Katherine Guthrie, Pearl Hansen, Siegel Harris, Pearl Heeter, William Hicklen, Richard Hodgson, Elizabeth Hogan, Alfred Hokanson, Gertrude Hoopes, Edith Hopkins, Raymond Hopkins, Annie Hugo, Jessie Johnson, Lydia Johnson, Laur Le Due, Elmer McCampbell, Kenneth Calk, Evelyn Cash, Cassie Clark, Verner Claypool, Devitt.

Very little enthusiasm was displayed in the proceedings of the meeting and the president referred to it, saying that it is better to hold no meeting at all than to have such a lifeless gathering as the class has been having lately.

The annual sacred concert of the high school musical society will be held April 21, at the Lyceum, under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. It will be in the nature of a windup for the lecture course which has just been concluded and is sure to draw a very large audience.

It has been customary in former years to hold a concert each spring at the high school and charge of these, will also manage the one this year. He has had a great deal of experience in drilling the students and always finds musical talent and brings it out from wherever it exists. The affair this year will be on a larger scale than usual and the members of the musical society have been practicing for it for some time. They will be assisted by the members of the St. Paul's choir.

Admission will be free, but by ticket only.

The date for the junior-senior debate has been set at April 26, and unless something prevents, the affair will be given then before the entire school.

The questions is, "Resolved, That the Policy of Substantially Increasing the United States Navy is Preferable to Maintaining it at Its Present Strength and Efficiency." The junior class will be represented by Oscar Helam, Carl Shapiro and Joseph Rich, while the seniors will uphold the seniors' side of the arguments are David Fieldman, Frank Boerner and Richard Hodgson.

The selection was made with the intention of securing the best debaters from each class and the debate is likely to be close and exciting.

The question has already been debated twice and most of the speakers have taken one side or the other, so they are well prepared on the subject.

Capt. Nelson of the baseball team spoke briefly. He said that he wanted the boys to get out for practice in a few weeks, but that it is still a little early to begin practicing on their own teams so they will be in good shape by the time the season begins. He also suggested that a committee be appointed to take care of the athletic supplies of the class as the football has been lost and the class would like to hold the rest of its property. Asher Taylor was elected to take charge of these things for the class.

There will be nine speaking parts and two maidens to act the part of statues.

The story is that of a Greek sculptor, Pigmallon, who falls in love with a statue which he has made, and prays that it may come to life. Pigmallon was a married man and had no license to fall in love, and many domestic complications ensue after his wife perceives that he is in love with the beautiful statue, which actually does come to life.

There is another story woven about the plot of the play and the piece is full of action and interesting situations. A chorus will be drilled by Prof. Custance for the play and many musical features will be introduced.

The freshmen class held its monthly meeting last Wednesday afternoon. The treasurer reported that he has collected $9.69 during the month and has paid out $2.45 for expenses. This leaves a balance in the treasury of $54.45.

The president announced that the annual spread will be held May 17. No definite plans have been made as to who shall have charge of the arrangements, but this will be put in the hands of a committee in plenty of time to make the affair a success. The class has a good deal of money in the treasury with which to pay expenses, but the president urged all those who have not yet paid up to do so, as soon as possible.

Sidney Morterua tendered his resignation from the position of captain of the track team, and Arthur Helmar was unanimously elected to fill this office. One of the sergeants-at-arms has left school, so a substitute was elected for this position. William Stevens received the largest number of votes and was elected.

The president announced that those who have ordered pins and have not yet received them will get them next week. The question has already been debated twice and most of the speakers have taken one side or the other, so they are well prepared on the subject.

Miss Della Smith made a thoroughly captivating and charming Priscilla with her Puritan dress and her quiet Puritan manner. Her acting was realistic.

The minor characters were all good, and David Duncan especially distinguished himself in the role of an Indian chief. The costumes and scenery, though not elaborate, were artistic and tasteful and the makeup of the players closely resembled that of the time represented.

The audience was entertained between acts by music which was furnished by high school girls. Margaret Pearson, Marjorie Harrison, Matilda Smith, Arline Peachey and Madeline Miller played, and all were vigorously applauded.

The success of the play was largely due to the efforts of Prof. Lambert, who has drilled the students continuously and put much work upon it, assisted by Miss Wells and Miss Rockwell. After the play, the members of the cast enjoyed a banquet.

The list of characters was as follows: Miles Standish.....Lewis Denfeld, John Alden.....William Burris, Priscilla.....Della Smith, Elder.....Richard Johnson, Indian.....David Duncan, Magistrate.....Philip Poirier, Messenger.....Max Pulford, First counselor.....Arthur Dudgeon, Second counselor.....Don Pudgeon, Flower girls, Catherine Denfeld and Frances Money.

Old ladies, Esther Coffin and Myrna Pressnell.

Young girls, Elizabeth Olcott, Marjorie Cunningham, Cordelia Goffe and Virginia Erick.

Stage manager, Herbert Pierce. Property manager, Michael Mickelson.

The scenes were as follows: Scene I, Miles Standish's house; Scene II, Priscilla's house; Scene III, Miles Standish's house; Scene IV, room in a Puritan house; the council; Scene V, Priscilla's house; Scene VI, Puritan house; the wedding of John Alden and Priscilla.

Play for Class Night.

Prof. Custance has selected the play which will be given by the seniors at their class night exercise. The title of the piece is "Pigmallon and Calisto," and it is a comedy written by W. S. Gilbert, who collaborated with Sullivan in the Gilbert and Sullivan operas.

The play was given at the Duluth high school about ten years ago and was a great success, and as it has been greatly enriched with extra scenes and a chorus it is sure to make a hit.

There will be nine speaking parts and two maidens to act the part of statues.

THE MOST TALKED ABOUT MEN IN THE COUNTRY

Just Now, When Accounts of Collisions, Derailments, Interstate Commerce Investigations and Hostile Legislation Fill the Public Eye, No Other Class is So Widely Discussed as the Rail Presidents--They May Roughly be Divided Into Well Defined Classes--Hill and Harriman, Each is Unique in a Class by Himself.

By DEXTER MARSHALL.

(Copyright 1907, by Dexter Marshall.)

In these days of investigations, congested lines, plans for legislative control and fatal accidents, the railroad presidents are the most talked-about men in the land.

They are of many types and diverse training, but they are all alike in some things. They are all thinking as much about the people just now as the people are thinking about them. They are all worried about the accidents. They are all more eager even than most of the rest of us to know what the future of the roads they preside over is going to be.

A through train from Chicago to St. Paul was standing blocked near and his bright, clear eyes are quick to see anything whatever that is amiss. He does the trips in his private car, of course, but the car isn't much like some famous railroad vehicles of its class. It is fitted up for business, and its cook has to be an early riser, 5 o'clock being the latest that he can allow himself to sleep. For Mr. Hughitt wants his coffee regularly at 6 o'clock, and the cook has to be astir an hour before then if he would not disappoint "the old man," who really may be termed the grand old man of practical railroad-riding in this country today.

In spite of his devotion to the road, Mr. Hughitt is as athletic as if he had been a college football player in his youth, which he wasn't. But he walks a good big stretch daily, whether in the city or the country, and he plays golf with great enthusiasm and some skill. You can see from his clear skin and other thirty-six hours, and when the task was accomplished Hughitt had been awake and constantly at work for seventy-two hours. There were no accidents, however. Hughitt went to the Chicago & Northwestern thirty-one years ago.

Presidents and Presidents. There are not many railroad presidents of exactly the Hughitt sort today. They form a distinct class, and there are several classes. Those making up one well known class have grown up in Wall street and now delegate the actual operation of their roads to general managers and other officials, themselves looking after the financial and stock exchange ends mainly.

Some, but not many now, have built a whole or part of their own lines, as J. J. Hill built the Great Northern. Hill, however, is a whole class by himself, also is Harriman, who got control of his roads by "consolidation." Hill says that there will be fewer men of the Hughitt type in the future than there were in the past, for a reason which he gave to the writer some years ago.

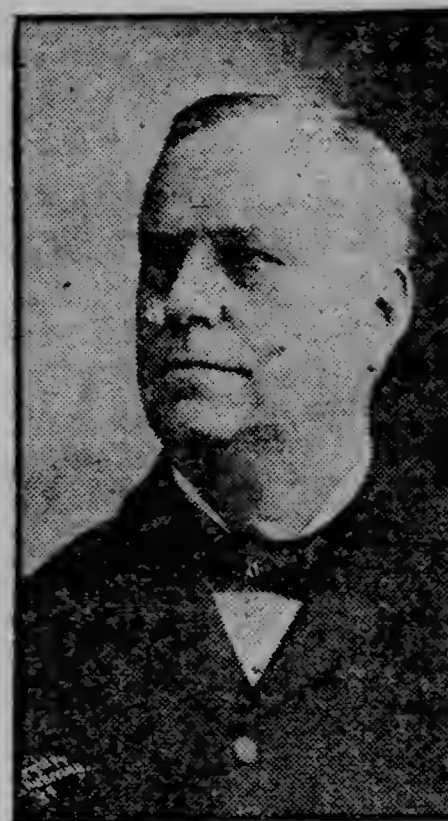

There is another class of railroad presidents--the class to which the late Cornelius Vanderbilt, the commodore's grandson, belonged--which now has only one conspicuous representative. He is George Gould, who inherited the presidency of the Missouri Pacific from his father along with his millions, as Cornelius and William K. inherited the New York Central and the Lake Shore presidencies along with their millions. Edwin Gould, brother of George, has been president of the St. Louis & Southwestern railroad for some years, but the two Goulds are the only sons of the great railroad presidents of the past now serving as railroad presidents themselves.

The Cornelius Vanderbilt of today would like to be in command of one or more of the family roads no doubt, but he isn't allowed to be. Willie K. Jr., won't work at railroad, the family business, but he works like a hired man at motor racing, both on land and water. Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt never ventures as to whether the trains on the family railroads make their time or not, but he frets himself almost into a fever when driving a four-hand coach lest he should be a minute behind schedule. He recently has extended his horse fancy in England by sending near a shipload of horses, coaches, hounds and groomers across the water and exhibiting in London. William K., Sr., may still be president of the New York & Harlem railroad, but the first line taken hold of by his grandfather. He is the biggest single person at power in the entire system, and he really is a thorough railroad man, but all the family's big lines are under the immediate direction of other men than Vanderbilt.

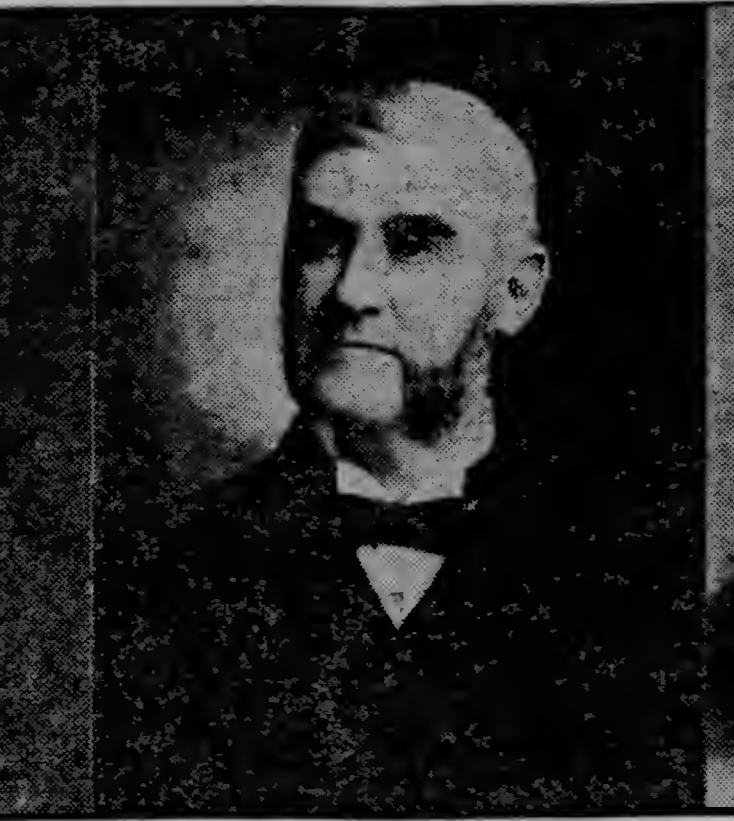

Louis W. Hill, son of James J. Hill, was recently elected president of the Great Northern in place of his father, who became chairman of the board. Such railroad presidents as Hill, Harriman and Gould are in supreme command upon their own lines; they name the officers and directors of their companies and things go as they say between terminals. Between terminals, indeed, their power is more nearly absolute than that of any other sort of man in this country, though the Roosevelt idea may have lessened their power somewhat.

The late President Cassatt of the Pennsylvania was, and McCrea, his successor, is, a representative of a class of railroad presidents who conduct great lines and exercise practically supreme power over them without holding more than a relatively slight proportion of the railroad stock. Each of these men was elected to the Pennsylvania headship solely upon the confidence in the man both as financier and practical railroadman, and, although Cassatt occasionally had to bow to his directors, men like Hill, Harriman and Gould do not have to do so, nor was power the Pennsylvania as he could have been had he held a gave out for years were carefully veiled.

He is credited generally with being almost inhuman in his lack of regard for his subordinates, but his friends say he isn't; his mind is filled up with the gigantic schemes he has imagined, and the best way to carry them out; he doesn't think much about his subordinates one way or another.

But they say the real Harriman is as human as anybody else, when he gives himself half a chance, and they sometimes tell how he showed his human side when the Ogden-Lusten outfit over part of the Great Salt Lake was under construction.

After millions of dollars had been expended on the structure, after the soft, feverish energy for two or three years at this huge task, often remaining on duty the greater part of the twenty-four hours. He was tired--"worn to a frazzle"--and it almost broke him down when he saw that much of the work had to be done over again if ever the out-of were to be a practical success. He had no reason to suspect such a thing, but it seemed to him that Harriman's confidence in him must be somewhat shaken. Some one dropped a discreet word in Harriman's ear, and he sought out the engineer.

"Look here," said Harriman, "what's the matter with you, anyway? You mustn't feel downhearted. You've done great work; you've done better than any other man I know could do, and majority of the stock. As a matter of fact, no man, no small group of men, even, holds or ever has held a majority of the Pennsylvania's stock, and this fact was published widely at the time of Mr. Cassatt's death. It is expected, of course, that McCrea will show himself as good an all round railroad man as Cassatt was, since, like Cassatt, McCrea filled many important places on the Pennsylvania lines before he was made president.

Charles S. Mellen of the New York, New Haven & Hartford is practically in the same class as Cassatt and McCrea, although he may not have the same wide control of his road and its policies that Cassatt enjoyed over the Pennsylvania.

Hired Railroad Presidents. There are two other great classes of railroad presidents--the "hired" presidents and those who are chosen by the financial powers interested in the roads as the late Samuel Spencer was appointed president of the Southern by J. P. Morgan, to pull it out of the mud.

Joseph Ramsey, Jr., long president of the Washash, was really a hired president, though he didn't seem to know it until he bucked up against George Gould as he had to take his discharge papers from Gould with the same finality as if the discharge had not to come as early. The three other presidents of the board of directors before whom he went for re-election.

At the present time George Gould himself is president of the "Mop," as he calls the Missouri Pacific, and most of the other family roads, but E. J. Jeffers is president of the Denver & Rio Grande. His training has been of the old-fashioned type, and he is one of the few English-born railroad presidents in this country--perhaps the only one. He is 64; he came to America when he was 7, went to work for the Illinois Central as "boy" at 13, and has been head of the D. & R. G. nearly sixteen years.

A few years ago there was quite a group of Vanderbilt hired presidents, but they are now few as the New York Central system, comprising 10,000 or 12,000 miles, then was operated as fifteen or sixteen different railroads, conducted by almost as many presidents. Today, however, there are only four; Newman being president of the New York Central and eleven other roads, which originally were twice or three times as many. The three other Vanderbilt presidents are Dr. W. Seward Webb, a Vanderbilt son-in-law, who presides over two little lines in the Adirondacks; W. H. Caniff, who presides over the "Nickel Plate" from Buffalo to Chicago, paralleling the Lake Shore; and John M. Beckley, president of the Toronto, Hamilton & Buffalo, a short piece of road in Canada. Beckley organized this road and Caniff was the Nickel Plate's president before the present Vanderbilt presidential policy was adopted.

It must not be thought that the hired president need be less of a good railroad man than one who is elected by the stockholders, however. In fact, he must be of the best possible grade to be able to handle such men as William K. Vanderbilt or George Gould. They are both railroaders themselves, and they are both men who see him, and neither would allow a man who didn't make good to remain in charge.

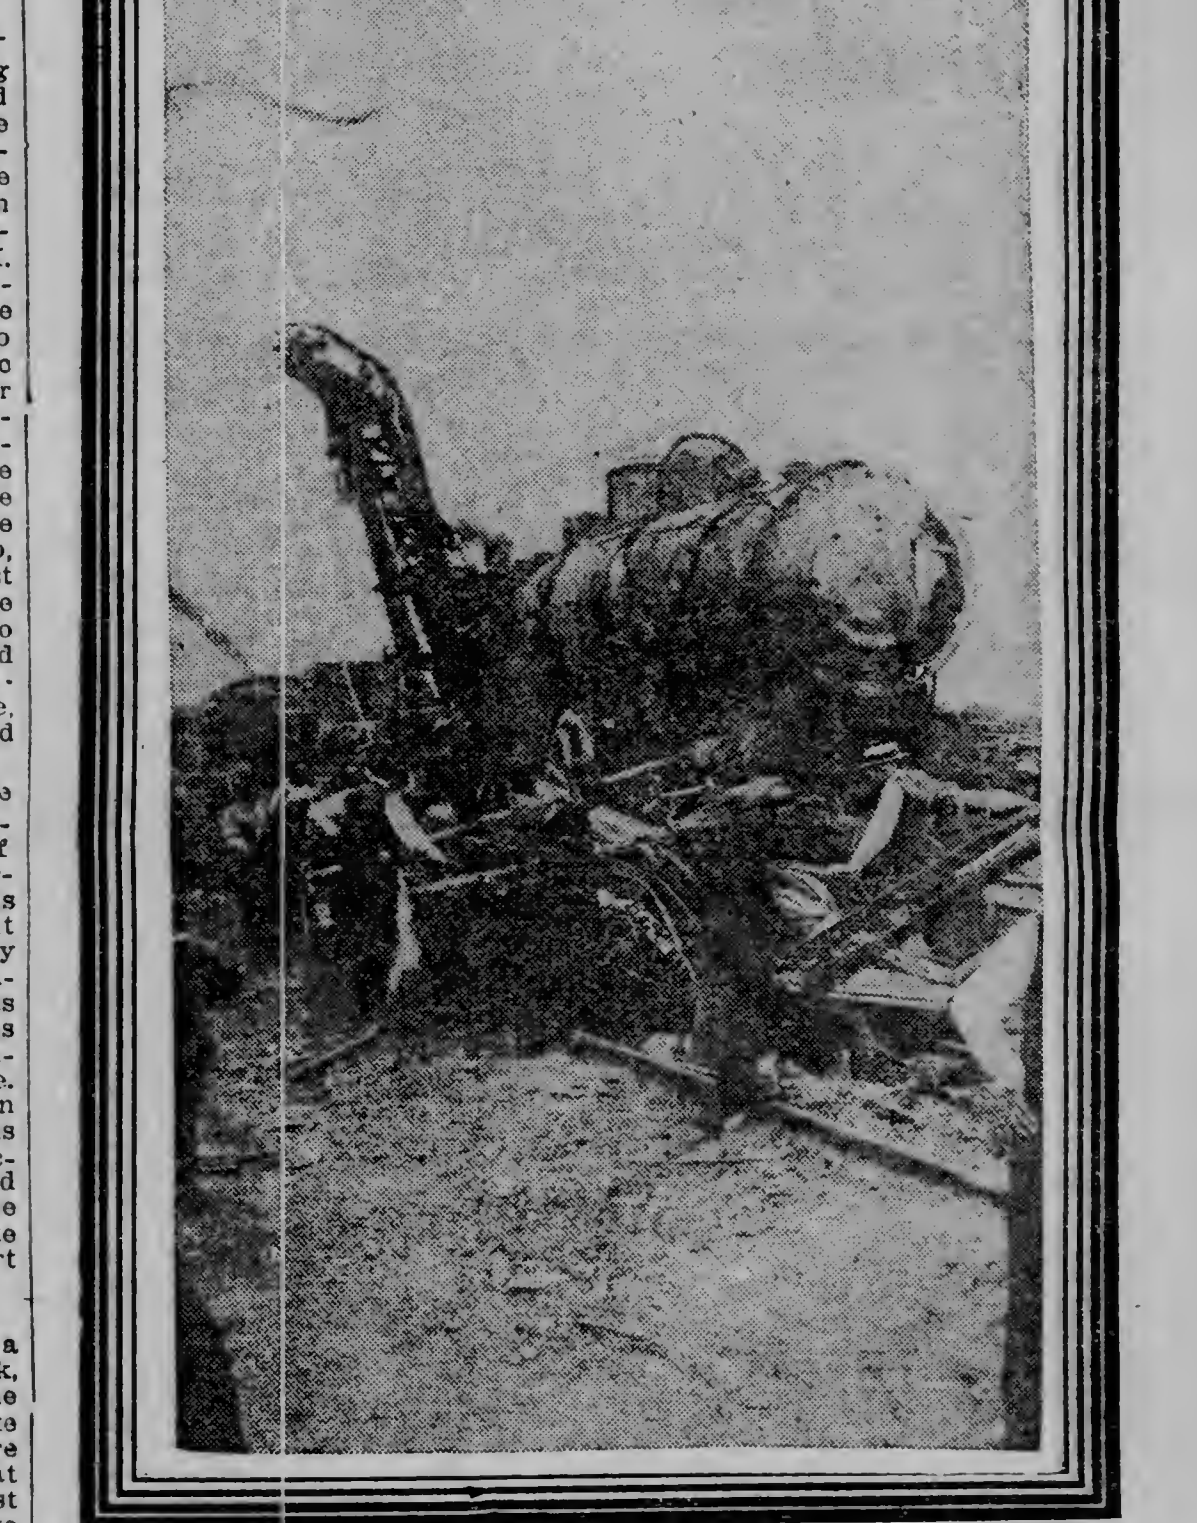

William H. Newman is much of the Marvin Hughitt type, old-fashioned as to training, but at the front rank in industry. He has been president of the New York Central for twenty years, and was advanced to that post of station agent at Shreveport, La., on the old Texas & Pacific line. He hadn't held that job down long when, one day, there pulled up at the station a passenger train, whose engineer and fireman were so drunk that the passengers were asked for their lives. Young Newman saw that it wouldn't do to let the drunken men go out with their train, so he ordered them both off the engine, he prepared to take the train to the next stop, thirty-five miles away himself, first wiring ahead for a sober crew to take charge on his arrival. He got the train through on time, and won the applause of the passengers. One of them was the wife of the road's general manager; she reported Newman's conduct to her husband, and the young station agent was recommended for promotion. He has been going up the railroad ladder ever since.

His route to the Vanderbilt presidency lay over Gould's Missouri Pacific, the Chicago & Northwestern and the Vanderbilt Lake Shore, which he reached as vice president twenty years after starting in at Shreveport. He became president of the Lake Shore in 1895; of the Central three years later.

In the days when there were ten or a dozen Vanderbilt presidents, both under Cornelius Vanderbilt's chairmanship and afterward, when Depew had been promoted from president to chairman, the Vanderbilt presidents used to meet in the Grand Central station at New York at certain intervals to discuss the general business of the related lines and receive instructions. On such occasions the big train shed used to contain a regular convention of presidents' cars, and the commuters who passed twice daily through the station came, in time, to know each car by sight.

Depew and Ingalls.

Depew himself was the first of the hired Vanderbilt presidents. He was engaged because he knew how to talk; how to put the facts about the New York Central in railroad people's understandings, properly before the courts, the legislature and the public, through the newspapers. Depew had treacherous bottom had repeatedly swallowed up the costly trestles, and the work seemed finished at last, a train was made ready to run over it. The trestle bore the train's weight for miles, but at one place sunk just before the train reached it.

This depressed William Hood, the engineer in charge, beyond description. He had done his best, working with you're all right. Go ahead and begin over again. I've always thought you the kind of man who never gives up no matter what happens, and it's up to you now to prove it."

This sort of talk braced the engineer up at once and he went ahead with his task, which, ultimately, he a small station rather early one morning not very long ago. Some of the passengers noticed a middle-aged, active man, who seemed past 60, but young-looking for his age--he is really 70--walking briskly along the right-of-way.

"You don't know who that man is?" queried the porter, a note of pride in his voice, showing that he knew very well. "Well, sir, that's Marvin Hughitt, the president of this here railroad, and he's making one of his regular trips over the line."

The porter spoke the truth. Marvin Hughitt, all-around railroad man, is today as closely observant of all departments of the Chicago & Northwestern railroad, of which he was made president twenty years ago, as he was in the early years of his incumbency, when railroad-riding was much simpler than now. He is an "old-fashioned railroad president" in many respects, despite the fact that would need to go far to find a more up-to-date chap of his or any other age, in dress, manners, amusements and the methods he adopts on his railroad.

Mr. Hughitt's trips over the line are a periodical feature of his work.

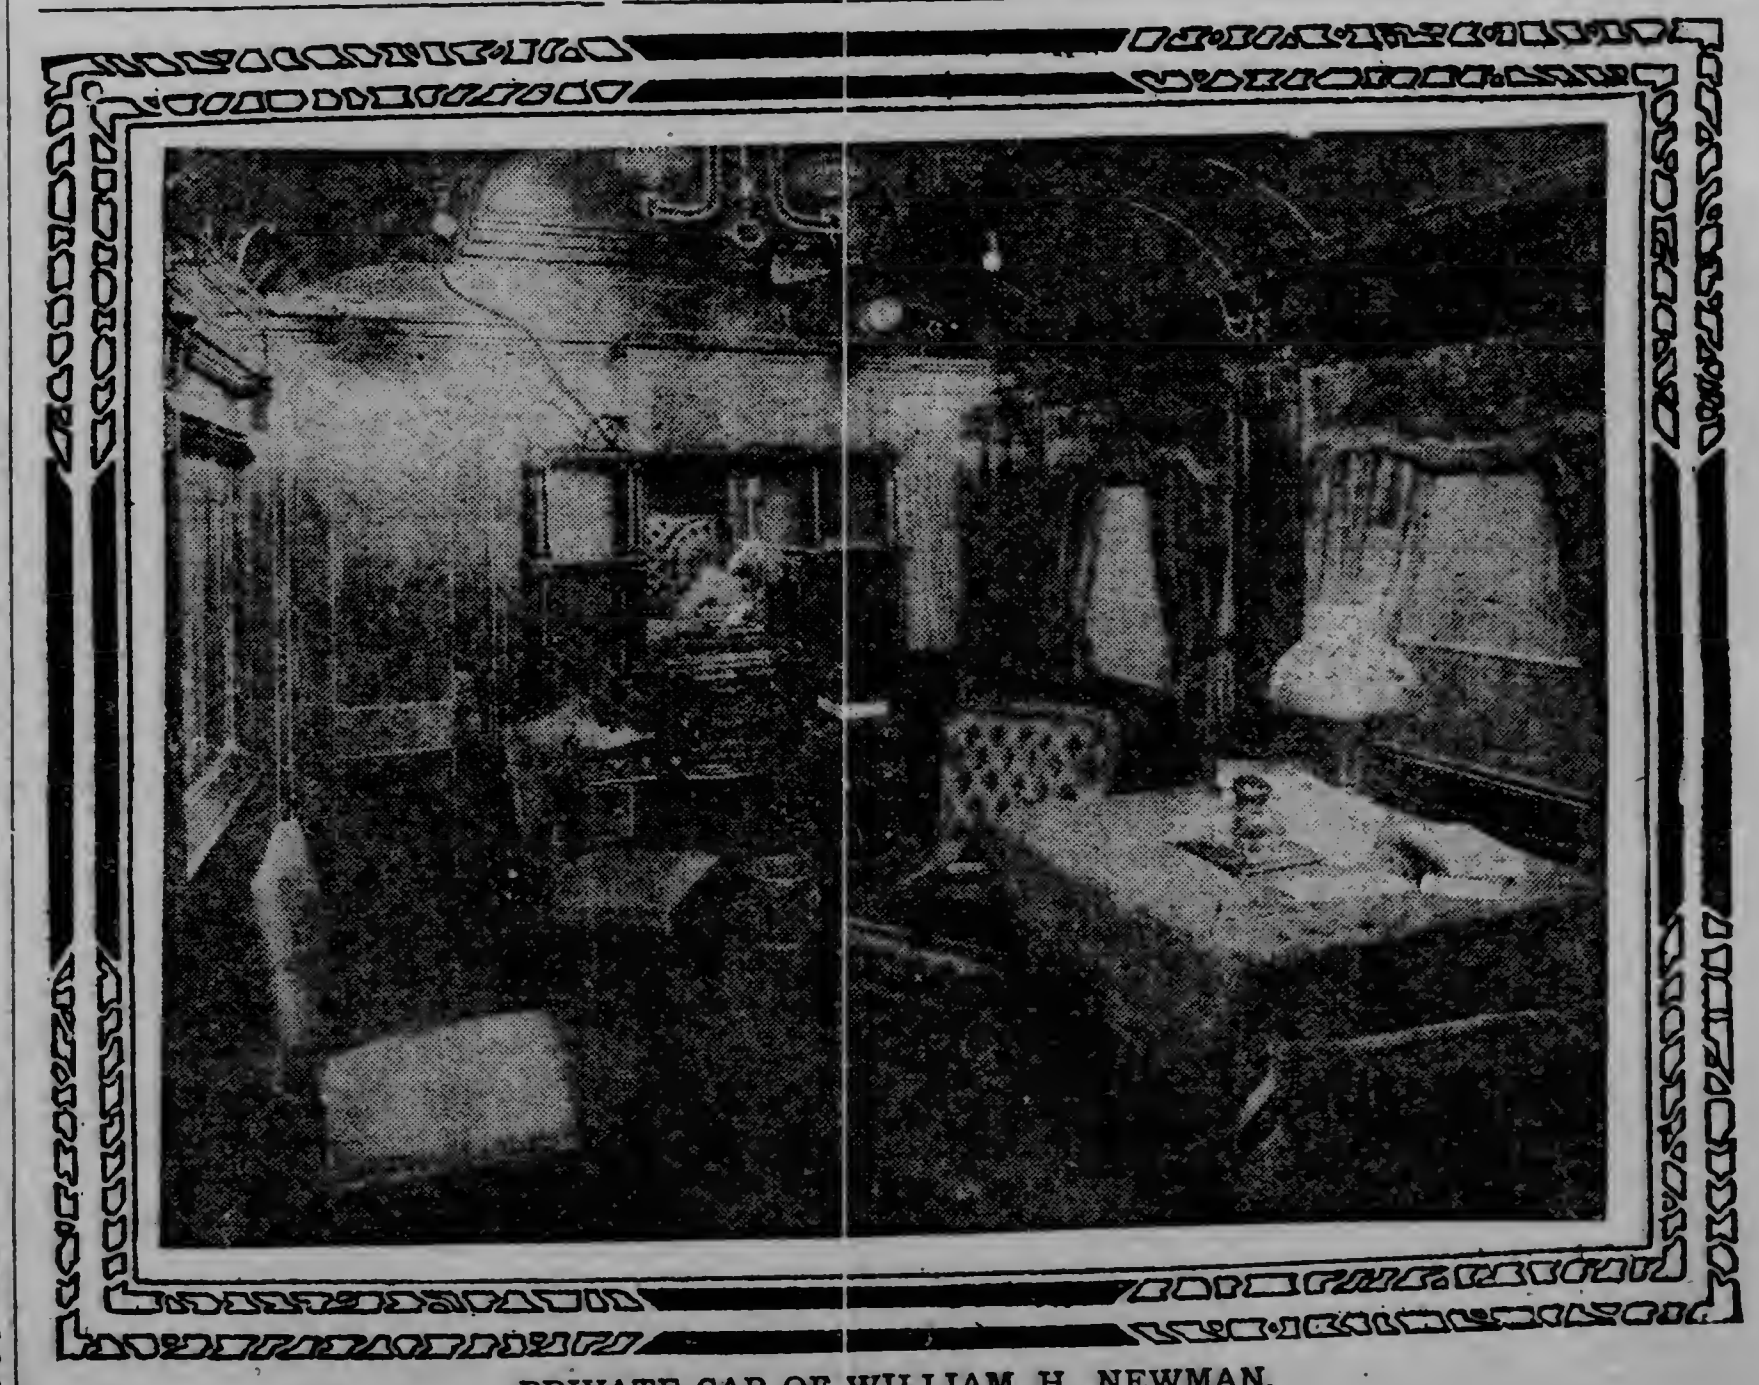

his alertness that he never has neglected physical exercise. He began active life when little more than a mere boy as a telegraph operator at Utica, N. Y. Telegraph lines as well as railroads have changed since then, and the young man's first duty, every morning, was to wire to the main office a statement showing how much money had been taken in for commercial telegrams the day before.

When he first went West he got a job with the Illinois & Mississippi Telegraph company, long before the Western Union had secured its sway. Then he took charge of the old Chicago & St. Louis railroad's telegraph system, and his duties included that of trainmaster. The road is now the Chicago & Alton, with which Harriman and his friends had a lot of fun some time ago. From the Chicago & Alton Hughitt went to the Illinois Central. Located at Cairo while the Civil war was on, he once had to look after the transportation of an entire army corps over the line. It took thirty-six hours, during which time he slept not a wink.

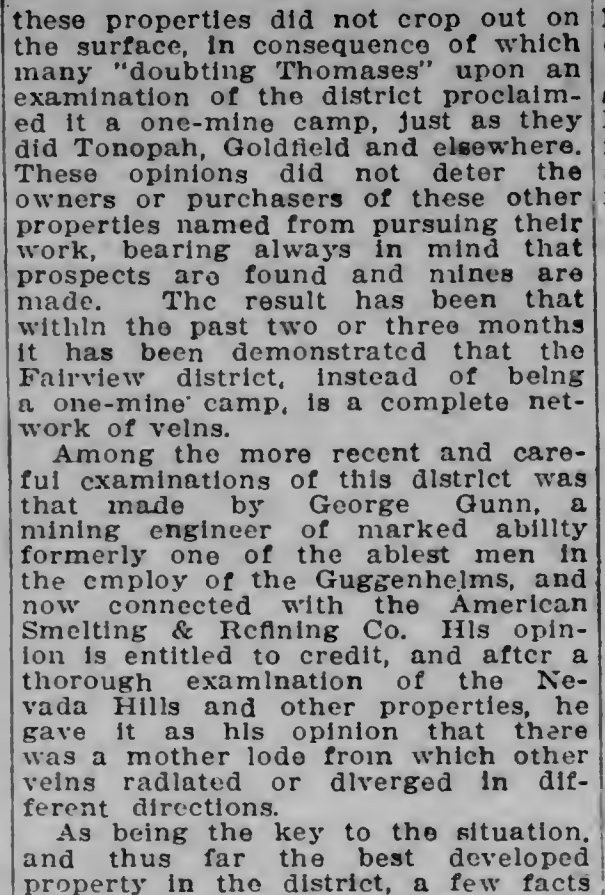

Then the military plans were changed, and the same corps had to be moved in another direction. That took an

In every instance good showings have been encountered, and despite the short period elapsing between acquisition of the property and the completion of organization, a vast majority of these concerns have prosecuted considerable work, and in many instances where workings have demonstrated primarily the possibilities of producing large quantities.

To date no effort has been made towards production; in fact, with the exception of the Alaska, it is not possible on any extended scale, as in a majority of instances the workings are situated in such a manner that the dimensions of ore shoots and ledges, and give some idea of their extent, and the nature of the deposits. New and rich strikes come in from every quarter of the district, yet the production of the property is not increased by the lack of smelting facilities, each company or individual is forced to dispose of its ore or its property on a production basis.

Goldfield, Nev., April 13.—Two of the largest stock deals of the week in Nevada were made last week. They aggregate about $800,000. Tom G. The balance of the purchase price is to be paid in three quarterly installments. Mr. Erickson was vice president and Mr. Smith was secretary of the Nevada Consolidated Copper Co. The property consists of seventeen acres in the heart of the Nevada Consolidated Copper Co. price of St. Ives is about $1.60.

The second deal of magnitude was the sale of 110,000 shares of the capital stock of the Florence Mining company, at $4.75 a share. The sale was made by J. P. Hennessy of Tonopah. Clarence Oddie represented the purchasers. A large cash payment was made, the balance to be in bank in thirty days.

The Florence was located by Tom Lockhart, who located the Tonopah Extension, which he sold to C. M. Schwab. It has always been one of the great mines of Goldfield, and contains more ore in sight, both high and milling grade, than any other mine of the district. A contract has

MEET WITH SUPERIOR

High School Teams Will Contest With Wisconsin Schools.

Twenty-Two Candidates In Field for Baseball Team.

At the meeting of the High School Athletic association that was held last Thursday, several important matters were decided. The club determined to enter an athletic meet with the Blaine and Nelson Dowsy high schools of Superior to be held some time this spring. The Superior teams sent the challenge to the Duluth high school and the association, after considerable discussion, decided to accept it.

President McDewitt said that he thought it would be an excellent thing for the athletic spirit of the school as there has been very little doing in this line for some time, and something is needed to stir things up. The men will be practicing for the inter-class meet anyway and ought to be in good shape for the inter-school contest. The date for this will be set soon and the candidates for positions will begin to work out in a few weeks.

Capt. Cole of the baseball team said that practice will be begun as soon as all the snow has melted from the campus and the ground is in fit condition to play ball.

Last year's cup was put up by the Northern Hardware company, to be competed for by the teams at the head of the class. The championship was not decided and the cup did not go to any team. This spring a series of games with the Superior high schools to play for the possession of the cup.

It has been the custom to engrave the name of the team which wins the relay race on the silver cup, which is on exhibition in the hall, but owing to some oversight the name of the class of '07, which won the race last year, was not put on the cup. It was decided at the meeting to see that the class gets what it is entitled to and has its name engraved on the cup.

The treasurer reported $26.26 in the treasury, which is the same amount as last month. After the meeting the candidates for the baseball team handed in their names to Capt. Cole. Principal Smith wishes to look up the records of all the men to see whether they are eligible for the team. The following men reported for the different positions: Outfield, Magle, Johnson, Wombaker, Morris, Nelson, Kennedy, Ryan, Pinkerton, Ostergren, Olson, Anderson and Forsell; infield, Shelin, Meldahl and Phillips; first base, McKinley and Peterson; second base, Cole; pitchers, Cummings; catcher, McDewitt and Neubauer; short stop, Harold Bowen.

THINK M'CUNE STANDS SHOW
Friends Think That He is as Good as Schreck.

Tom McCune, the local fighter, whose friends are talking him for a match with Mike Schreck, waxed exceedingly wrathful over the statements made in the sporting columns of The Herald Thursday evening. He called on the sporting editor yesterday and took exception in no uncertain terms to the statement that Schreck was too dangerous a man for him to exchange wallop with, and asserted his belief that he would stand a good show in the ring with the Cincinnati man. He pointed to his record, which shows that he has won over some of the best middleweights, and emphasized the fact that he made things exceedingly interesting for Philadelphia Jack O'Brien for twelve rounds.

One of McCune's friends said yesterday: "I believe that Tom could put up a good fight with Mike Schreck. McCune is a better man than Tremble right now and Schreck had no easy time of it putting Ben away. There are few points in the game McCune doesn't

A CORNER IN SPORTS

Monday night the Schreck-Wille bout will be pulled off at Tonopah, Nev., and Duluth fight fans are taking the name of the interest in the fight than they ordinarily do in matches between second-rate heavies. But they have seen Schreck perform, and they like the big fellow. Although the result, they hope Schreck wins, for it will mean much for the Cincinnati man.

If Schreck wins from Wille he will be right in line for matches with some of the top-notchers in the heavyweight class today. Mike has been unfortunate in the fighting business. He has been a long time coming into his own, and it is now up to him to win from Wille or take a long step down the pugilist's ladder. Wille is a big clumsy fellow, but it takes a man with fighting ability to put him away, and the amount of money being wagered on both sides proves that there is some doubt of Schreck's having that ability.

Attention has been drawn to Schreck by the statements recently given out by James J. Corbett. The former champion knows a fighter when he sees one. He says that Schreck is the most promising heavy of the day, for he has a wallop in both hands, and can take punishment. If Schreck wins from Wille, Corbett will take him in hand, and if Jim can teach some of his remarkable ring science to the German, Mike will look like a much more promising candidate for heavyweight honors than he does now.

Monday the fishing season opens in Minnesota, and five days later Wisconsin may legally be invaded. With the thermometer hovering far below freezing, and snow falling every other day, anglers are none too enthusiastic over the opening of the season. If any do take advantage of the lax and go out Monday, they are safe to say that their efforts will be attended by little success. The wiser ones will wait until a little warmer weather comes, and the streams come down to a normal flow, when they may fish more comfortably, and undoubtedly with better success.

Tom O'Rourke has a new heavyweight of whom he is expecting wonders. The youngster's name is Joe Rodgers, and O'Rourke has nicknamed him "The Modern Adonis." Rodgers weighs 250 pounds in condition, and stands six feet two. He learned boxing before he attained his present ponderous size, and O'Rourke says he will make them all back up, including Jeffries. O'Rourke has been handling fighters for twenty years, and he should know what he is talking about, but the fighting world will suspend judgment until Rodgers is trotted out.

GLASS HOLDS UNIQUE POSITION IN BASEBALL

Head of League in Which He Has No Residence.

Is a Thirty-Third Degree Fan and Baseball Lover.

The Northern Copper Country Baseball league presents to other baseball organizations throughout the country a unique investment of the offices of president and secretary in one man and that man living in a town outside of the circuit. The honor of election to such a position is one of which any man might be proud, and it is a tribute to the ability and reputation for faithful performance of duty, which have marked Dr. Percy C. Glass' administration of the office of secretary of the league.

Dr. Glass, thirty-third degree fan and lover of fair, well played, wholesome baseball, broke into the magazine class about 1903, when Joe Gansel and his full team were imported from Ionia, Mich., to represent Lake Linden in the Copper Country league. Dr. Glass was elected secretary of the league and since then he has been secretary and treasurer of the Copper Country league, Copper Country-Soo league, and Northern-Copper Country league circuit this year and thus Dr. Glass' residence was placed without the circuit. Despite this fact, the annual meeting of the league elected the genial doctor president and secretary.

Although there are but four teams in the league this year, they are so scattered that the administration of the affairs of the league, which is all that the president and secretary will be by no means an easy task. Dr. Glass' administration in past years has been such that managers and fans alike look upon his election to the dual office with satisfaction and feel certain that he will pilot the league through a successful season, if it is possible to do so.

Yesterday with $3,000, enough money to guarantee the financing of the venture, "Win or lose" on the coming show, Abe Brown and W. S. Johnson will be satisfied with making good for the town of Tonopah. To win will mean simply the return of the money they advanced, while if they lose the entire sum they will feel satisfied of having pulled off an advertised show which under the conditions which existed was to be called off meaning a black eye for the town of Tonopah.

Now that everything is settled nothing will prevent the successful holding of the fight Monday night. Considerable betting is being done here, wagers of from $1,000 to $2,500 being placed. The odds shift from Schreck to Wille, according to the amount of either man's money in sight, and both men seem to have about an equal number of friends. As the fight is to a finish, thousands of dollars will change hands.

AFRAID TO RISK IT.
Willard French in Lippincott's: When the Hon. Bevery Tucker, minister to the court of St. James, was presented to Queen Victoria she indicated that he be seated by that slight motion of her plump hand which all England obeyed. Tucker was portly and heavy, and the only available chair was fragile and small. He appeared not to notice the invitation. A moment later it was repeated, for even at that first interview Tucker, who ripened into such an intimate friendship as his Majesty. Still, the weakness of things terrestrial was the potent that her Majesty, and Tucker again ignored the command. Then the queen put it in words, when Tucker, with a profound bow, replied:

"Your Majesty, I never sit in the presence of royalty." "And now you have repudiated the crown," and now you must accept comfort at mine." Tucker, "Why should break both my back and Your Majesty's chair if I attempted to sit in it?"

TO GIVE OUT NAMES SOON

Manager Taylor of Giants Said to Have Surprises.

Copper Country Will Have Semi-Prof Ball Also.

Houghton, Mich., April 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Manager M. O. "Kid" Taylor of the Houghton Giants, in the "Grasshopper" league, will announce the list of men who have accepted terms with the team within the next few days. It is expected that all the other teams have announced their players, but the Houghton team has been slow in getting the names to contracts. Taylor says he has a surprise for the rest of the league managers and for the fans.

It certainly looks good with Mutter behind the bat for a starter, anyhow, and with Sobras at first, Taylor at Short, Brand at second and Sundheim at third. And this is all that is known by the fans or the sportswriters about the Houghton team, excepting that Ed Smith, who played the last two or three games of the year last season, will likely be back. This is good news to the fans, however, as Smith has a habit of getting into the field, batting out one of the home runs. Smith made at Ripley field last year. Smith—that is the name he went by last season—was said to be one of the best American recruits last year, and this was never denied. But whether he was or not the fans know he has the goods with him.

Absolutely nothing is known concerning the pitching staff or the rest of the outfield. The infield, as given above, is practically settled upon, but the "mystifiers" are hidden behind a cloud. It is said, however, that Roy Beecher, one of the team's mainstays in the box last season, will be back again, although he is now owned by the Minneapolis team.

A Houghton correspondent recently sent a story broadcast to the effect that Ira Hastings, the Rock Island pitcher, who was with the Giants last year, and who will be managing the Green Bay team in Wisconsin this season, had obtained his release for $500, "a good sale for the Houghton management." As a matter of fact Hastings came here a few weeks ago and bought his release from the Houghton management for $50, not $500.

Jack Dolan, better known as "Biddy," big, tall, fast, clumsy and a blitzer, as well as the star first baseman of the league last year, who started with Fargo and finished with Calumet, will play with the Chicago Spauldings. It is said, this season, Calumet loses an excellent man, Calumet has had a bunch of bad luck losing good men. Kurke, late of Lake Linden, goes to St. Paul, according to the latest, instead of to Calumet.

Kohy Mackin, who played with the Soo in the old Copper Country-Soo league, and later with Dollar Bay in the same circuit, has signed with Jack Morrison's Leithbridge team, in Western Canada league. He looks like about the weakest man on the team, a team of strong men, and high-priced ones, but Mackin was formidable in his day, with an excellent wing. He is a valuable little short stop, and a good acquisition to Morrison's team, if his arm has come back.

Semi-Professional Ball.
The Copper country will have no lack of good baseball during the coming season, although not so many of the professional games will be seen on the local diamond this year as last. It is perhaps a good thing, from a financial point of view, that the majority of the games of the Copper country teams are to be played in the Western towns where the fans turn out in larger numbers and where professional ball has had a longer run and consequently pays much better than it does in the Michigan end of the circuit.

While the Eastern teams are in the West, however, semi-professional ball will be the whole thing on the Copper country diamonds. It is expected that a meeting of the managers of the various teams now being formed will be called in the near future and that a league will be perfected and a schedule arranged. Hancock is the first team to get into line and to announce the men who will play during the coming summer. A good bunch of players, most of whom formerly played with the Franklin team of the Houghton County league, will turn out with the "Only City" team.

Lake Linden is getting men into the field also and will have a formidable looking bunch. Vallerie, who pitched some very good games last season for the Lake Linden team of the "Grasshopper" league, will be one of the twirlers, and Parks, another good man, will be another candidate for the box. Hurontown will also get in line, and the boys are being collected together. This team will play under the name of the Isle Royale team this year, as most of the players are employed at the Isle Royale mine. Bill Smith, who worked out with Houghton's Giants last season, will pitch, as will Wagner, another good man. Tamarack and Tamarack Mills will both have good teams as well.

Plans are being laid also for the formation of a league in Keweenaw county, just being reorganized after being practically closed since shortly after the Civil war, all the big producing copper mines shutting down. Gray, Phoenix, Allouez and Ahmeek count on having teams.

BASEBALL IN DAKOTA

New Eight Club Circuit Looks Good to the Fans.

Railroad Jumps Will be Short and Expenses Low.

Crookston, Minn., April 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The new league of towns in Red River valley and neighboring portions of North Dakota for the maintenance of a high class baseball schedule is an absolute certainty.

The newly elected secretary of the Crookston team, Joseph B. Pierson, was perhaps the most active factor in the formation of this league as originally conceived. The measure has been scouted for a number of years, but active endeavor toward formation has in the past been futile on account of lack of persistent and organized effort.

President Price of the old Northern league of Fargo and some of the sports in Grand Forks have added greatly to the strength of the league and William Lyman of Crookston and his brother, F. S. Lyman, of Bemidji today give the project great impetus.

In the new league it is aimed to avoid some of the abuses that crept in the old Northern league. The salary limit will be fixed at $400 a month and arrangements made that this will not be exceeded by the larger towns to the ultimate detriment and exclusion of the smaller towns of the league. Also the long jumps that made the Northern league schedules composed of the lakes and the valley cities so expensive and wasteful, will be entirely eliminated.

The teams will be semi-professional with local players in each of the towns being a large proportion of the playing force. This is a demand of the public. It will mean the rehabilitation of baseball which has long been so demoralized throughout the valley.

The first meeting was held in Crookston early in March and addressed to different cities of the valley for co-operation. The city was canvassed and sentiment discovered of a very optimistic nature. The first meeting was held in Crookston, which was followed by one in Grand Forks to which were invited delegates from all the interested cities. The first meeting was apparently a failure, but the sports urged another meeting, which was held in Grand Forks on Wednesday last and was widely attended, all the cities being present or represented by proxy.

An eight-team league was definitely decided upon to consist of Crookston, Grand Forks, Bemidji, Fargo, Bismarck, Wahpeton and Bemidji. Minot and Jamestown, N. D., are preparing to join. The league is composed of Price of Fargo, Lyman of Crookston, and Dinnie of Grand Forks was appointed to arrange a schedule and report in ten days at a meeting to be called by Mr. Price. At this meeting the officers of the entire league will be elected.

Besides a salary limit of $600 the meeting decided on a guarantee of $25 to the visiting team, and $25 in case of rain. Each team entering the league will be required to deposit $200. In the case of Grand Forks it is agreed that East Grand Forks will join with the North Dakota city in organizing a team, and Sunday games will be played on the Minnesota side. This was the more conveniently arranged as the people of Grand Forks had objected somewhat to the Sunday game.

There had been some discussion as to the advisability of including Devils Lake, Jamestown and Minot at first, as they are somewhat separated from the valley and transportation might have been a problem, but this feature has been eliminated by careful adjustment. Teams can make the circuit with economy of time and money. The schedule will probably be arranged for three months from the middle of May until the middle of August. All-week schedules will not be played at first, but three games being considered.

As every favorable condition is arising, the Crookston sports look to the realization of their dream of years in the coming season. The local players here will be taken out of the Commercial league, which has been active for the last two years, and has been quite a success. In Grand Forks the Fargo Athletics will pick and incorporate the few professionals required to complete the representative Fargo team.

BOSTON WINS FIRST GAME
Other Games in Both Big Leagues Are Postponed.

NATIONAL LEAGUE.
Boston, April 13.—Boston won the postponed opening game from Brooklyn yesterday by a score of 1 to 0 in a pitchers' battle between Young and Stricklett. The fine playing of both starters constituted the fielding features of the game. A base on balls shutting down a hit by Howard in the first inning yielded the only run of the game.

OTHER GAMES POSTPONED.
All other games in both the National and American leagues were postponed on account of storms and rain.

Receives Decision Over "Cyclone" Thompson at Los Angeles.

OUR FOLKS

The Mishaps of "Indian Pawaw."

BY WILLIAM WALLACE, JR.

Billy Betts was an only child. That is quite enough to let the reader know that Billy Betts was a boy to be pitied. First, on account of his being an only child, who petted and spoiled him, and, secondly, on account of his having no sisters nor brothers with whom to play and share the spoils of his mother and father. So Billy Betts was often obliged to pass long hours playing alone, for his foolishly fond mother had an idea that her son was just a trifle better than the sons of her neighbors and refused to permit him to go to play with them.

"At school you have quite enough of those rough boys," declared Ma'am Betts, speaking to Billy one Saturday when he begged permission to join some of the schoolmates in play. "You have your dog, your toys, your swing in the barn and a big yard all to yourself. What more can you ask for?"

So Billy, pointing, turned away without making any reply to his mother, who knew very little—perhaps had she been the mother of several children she might have known more of the needs and desires of them, perhaps, for she was so continually looking after Billy and his wants that she made him peevish and cross at times with her over-attention. There was nothing in the house too good or sacred for Billy to have to play with. He was master of the home and ruled at times with a high hand. But all the time neither Billy nor his mother understood each other. While she petted and spoiled him in some respects, she was severe and unrelenting with him in others.

It was the last week of school and Billy was deeply regretting it, not that he was a very studious boy, but he had the pleasure of companionship and comradeship there that he was denied at home. During the summer his parents went to their pretty country place, where Billy was more alone than when in town. So he looked forward to the summer with anxiety with a sort of dread.

The week before school was out for the summer Billy confided his troubles to his dearest school friend, Paul Grey. That young fellow, as full of wisdom as his mamma, began to make plans for the summer, in which Billy and himself were the principal participants. Billy Paul was an only child, and they were drawn together through common sympathy.

"I'll tell you what we'll do this summer," said Paul, confidentially, "we'll run away."

Billy almost jumped out of his clothes at such a daring proposition. Run away from his mamma and papa? He shuddered to think what they would do with him should he dare to do such a terrible thing. He shook his head emphatically, saying:

"Oh, we couldn't do that, Paul! We couldn't run away!"

"And why not?" asked he of glorious name. "Neither you nor I are allowed out of our mamma's sight all summer. Now I want to go fishing, hunting, swimming and a lot of other things that all the other boys do. But the only way I get to fish is in company with papa. When I go to papa's I go with mamma and have to stay dressed up all day. I don't like it. I want to be like an Indian."

"Oh, that would be great!" cried Billy, the name Indian making a deep impression on him. "I'm half in the notion to go with you to an Indian all summer. Where would we run away to?"

"Oh, we'll find plenty of places to run away to," explained Paul. "The main thing is to get the nerve to do it. And if you can get that I can, for I'm born BRAWL, I am!"

Paul felt his own courage in this confession, and stood up as tall as he could and looked defiant. Not that anything threatened him, but he liked to feel that he was a hero.

Although Billy had never played at being a hero, he did not relish the idea. Paul having more courage of purpose than he himself possessed. So, summoning up all his courage, he said: "Well, I won't run so cowardly, neither. I can run away as fast as anyone when it comes to nerve. I'm willing to be an Indian for the summer, if you are."

It must be confessed that Paul felt slight misgivings when Billy so readily acquiesced to his wild scheme. But when he had done the planning, it would never do to go back on it, although he had been—really he was sure—that Billy would turn pale at the first suggestion of running away, and that he would then have an excuse to plant something more in keeping with their usual mode of living.

"I'll take a butcher knife and my air-gun," said Billy, becoming quite enthusiastic. "What weapons will you have?"

"Oh, I'll have two knives—long and sharp—and my bow and arrows," said Paul. "But we'll have to dress in some thing besides these clothes." And Paul looked down at his natty Norfolk suit of gray wool.

The following week was a busy one with Paul and Billy. Billy's mother was surprised that her little son kept so close to his room in the evenings and on Saturdays. She did not bother herself to inquire what he was about, but she felt that he was going to be a real "home boy" and take the place of a daughter to her. But could she have seen the strange apparition Billy was getting together—and which he kept in a drawer under lock and key—she would have felt that something unusual was in her son's mind. Billy had gone through the storehouse and found an old redannel shirt that his father had used when on a mountain hunting trip. This Billy appropriated and proceeded to trim with chicken feathers that he got from

LITTLE MAGGIE'S PARTY.

Dear little Mag a party gave
To a very strange company—
Of animals that were wild enough
To fill a menagerie.

A roaring lion with tawny mane
Was sitting on a chair;
A cunning fox with gleaming eyes
Sat beside a big black bear.

A tiger slim and a kangaroo
Occupied one end of the table;
And zebras, with gun many stripes,
Were eating all he was able.

An alligator, with grinning jaws,
Had his eyes on a berry pie;
An elephant, with his ivory tusks,
Sat on his trunk nearby.

'Twas a goodly company to see;
And they stayed till after dark—
Then home they went so merrily,
For they belonged to a Noble Ark.

the cook. At last, the day before vacation began, Billy was duly equipped for the role of Indian. Billy was duly equipped for the role of Indian.

The next morning bright and early—before his mother was out of bed—Billy, with his weapons and a huge bundle in his arms, crept from the house by way of the back door. It had been arranged that he should meet Paul down by the river in a wild spot, where only occasional fishermen came to angle with hook and line. The runways had chosen this rendezvous because of an adjacent cave, where in stress of weather they might find shelter. And as it was a due place for fishing they would not want for food. Paul was to bring fishing tackle and worms would serve for bait.

Billy reached the place appointed for meeting about half an hour after sun up. He expected to find Paul there waiting for him, but in this he was disappointed. The woods were dark and lonely, the water of the river deep and darkling.

But Billy dared not be a coward, so he quickly disrobed himself and donned the Indian garb he had brought in the bundle. Then he set to digging bait, thus gathering courage every moment. Work was better than thinking.

Twenty minutes later Paul appeared, peeping through the bushes. "Gee!" he exclaimed, "you look like a warrior!"

Soon Pawaw was on shore again, struggling and coughing, his ears and eyes dripping as well as his body. He was a sorry-looking brute, and a cold one.

"Now, if we'd only thought to bring a blanket along you could wrap up till your clothes dried," said Mohawk.

"But you'd have to go into your white clothes again for awhile."

"If we had some matches we'd have a fire," shivered the wet Pawaw, getting out of his Indian garb as fast as he could.

"Gee whiz!" said Mohawk. "We didn't bring any matches, did we? Well, how on earth can we cook our fish and birds? Gee, we're big fools for Indians!"

Then, Pawaw in the garb he was born in, carrying his dripping red shirt and fringed leggings (the fancy headpiece was lost in the river) they proceeded to the spot where they had left their clothes. But to their amazement and horror, somebody had evidently been there and stolen their things, for their nice spring suits were nowhere to be found. They had left them hanging on a tree limb within arm's reach.

Papa Sparrow's Lesson.

BY ANNIE JAMES.

All during the spring Mr. and Mrs. Little Sparrow had been busy. First, there was the building of their nest, and second, there was the quiet sitting on the little eggs by Mrs. Little Sparrow, while Mr. Little Sparrow went every morning and several times during the day, in quest of food for her, as well as for himself. And occasionally Mrs. Little Sparrow would leave her nest to drink from the pretty creek some hundred feet distant from the tree in which she lived. At these times Mr. Little Sparrow sat on the three tiny eggs and kept them warm while the little wife was absent.

Then had come a day—the proudest one of his life—when Mr. Little Sparrow was able to care for his three tiny birds ever hatched. Of course, Mrs. Little Sparrow was proud, too, but she was—mother-like—less demonstrative than was her exultant husband, who chattered about like a very young bird himself, hopping from limb to limb in his rejoicing and at last flying away to tell all the neighbors of the increase in his family. But the neighbors had joys enough of their own, for in almost every Sparrow household there were little fledglings just hatched out or in the act of hatching. So Mr. Little Sparrow was the only proud parent in that woods in the merry springtime.

Many were the parties held in the early mornings. Many of the human birds came to call on Mr. and Mrs. Little Sparrow and to take a peep into the nest of the happy three. Then all would join in chatter and laughter and sing in their own funny little way, for sparrows do not warble and trill like so many other kinds of birds, but sing in a sort of chirp, chirp, chirp. But it's music, all the same, though a great many people who hear it do not understand it to be so.

One fine morning, soon after the little birds had hatched, Mrs. Little Sparrow, who felt the need of getting away from the nest for some exercise, asked her husband to venture with her to the creek to see should return. Mr. Little Sparrow consented most willingly, perching himself on a lough nest to the west where he might keep an eye on his brood and at the same time see what was going on among his neighbors.

Now, before going farther with this story it must be told that Mr. Little Sparrow had never yet fed his children. He would bring in worms, fat and prime, for their meals, but these he always gave them the bill of the mother, who, in turn, fed them in bits to her little ones. Mr. Little Sparrow, instead of remaining to take lessons from his wife in the matter of feeding the young, would, after depositing the worm in her mouth, again fly away to search for more fat worms or to sit on a topmost bough and sun his feathers while the meal was being taken of in the nest. Thus it will be understood that Mr. Little Sparrow knew nothing as yet of the habits of his own little birds.

So he sat perched on the high limb, chattering and pecking about, first at one of the tender nestlings and then on some neighbor sparrow. After a little while a jolly sparrow came to pass the time of day with him and to inquire after his family.

"Ah, my dear friend," said Mr. Little Sparrow, "
